Johnson Considering Vast Cut Back On Foreign Aid

Wants Effects Checked On Nation Basis

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson is expected to recommend soon that foreign aid be cut back in scope and that its effectiveness be checked on a country by country basis.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said Saturday he has received personal assurance from the President of his decision to create a number of committees to make on-the-spot checks of how American money is being spent abroad and how effective it is as a cold war weapon.

COOPER IDEA

Cooper long has advocated such an examination, arguing it is essential to save the program from elimination by Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the assistant Democratic leader from Minnesota, said in a separate interview that he, too, has been told the President has accepted the Cooper idea in principle.

Humphrey added that the President will incorporate this and other ideas for changes in a message to Congress, probably this week, asking authorization for a $3.4 billion program for the year starting next July 1.

The message, Humphrey said, will call also for cutting the number of countries which have been receiving foreign aid and reducing the assistance that goes to others.

"The President plans to eliminate some countries entirely and eliminate separate foreign aid missions in others and make a substantial reduction in foreign aid personnel," Humphrey said.

He added that Johnson is trying to tailor the program as much as possible to meet major criticisms voiced in the Senate and House last year when Congress cut the administration's foreign aid request from $4.5

CIVIL RIGHTS BATTLE

Senate To Work Filibuster Halt, Ellender Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Southern Democrat, Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, conceded Saturday that the Senate may clamp a limit on debate in the forthcoming battle over civil rights.

Ellender, while pledging to join his Dixie colleagues in an all out battle of words against the administration backed measure, said:

"It is possible, however, that should Southerners talk at length on a motion to take up the bill, a cloture motion may be successful."

Cloture is a limitation on debate, designed to shut off filibusters and reach a vote on an issue before the Senate. It has not been invoked on a civil rights bill in this century.

CLOTURE POSSIBLE

If, as Ellender speculated, cloture should be invoked on a motion to take up the bill, this would not prevent a new talkfest from breaking out as soon as the bill is formally before the Senate.

Imposition of cloture requires the affirmative votes of two-thirds of the senators voting, or 67 if all 100 are on hand.

Advocates of the civil rights bill have said they cannot invoke cloture without substantial support from the Republicans, whose floor leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, objects to one of the measure's major provisions.

This would ban racial discrimination in places of public accommodation.

Senate leaders have said they expect the battle over the bill, which the house passed 290-130 on Feb. 10, to go on for months. Short of cloture, the only way to bring a determined filibuster to an end is to wear out the opponents physically through around-the-clock sessions.

This is difficult in the case of civil rights, since only a handful of the 19 or so Southern opponents need be on hand, while the bill's backers must have 50 or more in the Senate or nearby to assure a quorum.

FRANK WORTMAN
. . . Seriously Wounded

Gang Lord Suffering Gun Wound

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)— Frank (Buster) Wortman, southern Illinois' gang boss, suffered a serious gunshot wound Saturday. Sheriff's deputies from two counties promptly moved into his palatial, moat-surrounded home at nearby Collinsville.

Two unidentified men brought Wortman, clutching his abdomen in agony, into St. Mary's Hospital here about 8 a.m. They left him in a wheelchair and walked out.

RESTING WELL

Physicians and nurses rushed him into the emergency room and operated immediately. Later, hospital spokesmen said Wortman was "resting well" but remained in serious condition.

Russell Beebe, East St. Louis police commissioner, said Wortman had been shot in the abdomen with a small caliber bullet.

Wortman told East St. Louis detectives that the shooting was an accident. He told officers the shooting did not take place either in an East St. Louis tavern he operates or at his home.

Wortman's mansion has only one lonely road leading to it in a rural area three miles southeast of Collinsville, a town of 14,300, near St. Louis, Mo.

Wortman, the man who had been rackets boss of the East St. Louis area since about 1947, would make no further statements.

Man, 70, Dies As Fire Razes Cheniere Home

A fire of undetermined origin swept through a frame house in the Cheniere area Saturday, resulting in the death of 70-year-old H. M. Prescott, of Route 1, Box 158, West Monroe.

The house was destroyed by the blaze, first noticed about 11:45 a.m. by state police working in the area. Police notified the Monroe Fire Department and the parish fire truck was dispatched.

According to the fire department, they were unable to check the blaze. Firemen put out a grass fire that had resulted from the burning house.

Sheriff's department officials said an unidentified housekeeper in the home barely managed to escape before flames enveloped the structure.

The body of the victim was removed by firemen.

Ouachita Parish Coroner, Dr. John P. Burton, ruled the death accidental.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Prescott are incomplete, but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville. He was a native of Tennessee, but had resided on Route 1, West Monroe, since 1944. He was a retired railroad employee.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Carolyn Prescott, Norco, La.; one daughter, Mrs. James C. Dunn, Rayville; two sons, H. M. Prescott Jr., Norco, and Dr. Lionel Prescott, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; one sister, Mrs. W. H. Champier, Memphis, Tenn.; and 11 grandchildren.

Belli Protests Jury Selection

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)— The defense charged Saturday that a murder jury to try Jack Ruby is being forced down their throats, although only two panel members have been selected in the first week of his trial.

"We are not picking a jury anymore," chief defense attorney Melvin Belli told Judge Joe B. Brown. "We're having a jury forced down our throats."

Belli's complaint came during the examination of jury candidate Albert C. Phillips, a building materials employe. He admitted a fixed opinion on Ruby's Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

2 Presidents End Meeting With Pledges

Borders, Drugs Among Problems Given Emphasis

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The presidents of the United States and Mexico pledged themselves Saturday to build stronger bonds of peace and friendship between their nations and in the world.

They even agreed to a plan for heading off additional border disputes such as those which have plagued the two countries through the years — and there may be some changes along the Rio Grande.

END TALKS

President Johnson and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos wound up two days of conferences and issued a long, formal communique that emphasized the strengthening of peace, friendship, the Alliance for Progress, the Organization of American States, trade and control of illegal traffic in drugs.

There was no mention of American troubles with Cuba and Panama. American informants said these played a minor role in the conferences.

But Lopez Mateos tossed off a surprise suggestion at a news conference that, "It is to the United Nations to which the United States should turn to find a solution of its problems with Cuba."

He said Cuba has been ousted from the OAS.

The United States position is that only the Castro regime, and not the Cuban states, is out of the OAS.

There was no indication that Johnson and his administration intend to turn to the United Nations at this point when the OAS already is wrestling with the Cuban situation.

HOPE FOR SPENDING

Tax Cut Advocates Rely On Consumer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is counting on the American consumer to be true to his spending habits when Congress stamps final approval this week on the big tax cut bill.

The House plans to act on the $11.5 billion compromise tax reduction measure Tuesday, with the Senate clearing it by Wednesday. Passage by a substantial margin in both chambers was virtually assured.

After putting the U.S. consumer through their data processors, administration economists size him up as a person who will spend 97 cents of every $1 he gets in tax cuts.

There even is some suspicion in electronic computer circles that a good many consumers are spending the tax cuts before they get them.

It all fits into administration plans. President Johnson hopes that in addition to the economic stimulus of increased consumer spending, businessmen will be encouraged to invest more in new facilities and provide more jobs.

The compromise bill worked out by House and Senate negotiators Wednesday provides that two-thirds of the biggest tax cut in history go into effect his election year, and the remainder on Jan. 1, 1965.

Taxpayers in all income brackets will get tax cuts, and an estimated 1.5 million low-income persons will be removed from the tax rolls altogether. A married couple with two children and an income of $3,000 a year now pays $60 in taxes. Under the new rates, the couple will pay no taxes.

On the average, those with incomes in the $3,000 to $5,000 range will have their tax bills cut by about 27 per cent when the program is fully effective.

Those with incomes in the $5,000 to $10,000 range will enjoy an average tax cut of about 21 per cent; those with incomes of more than $10,000 about 15 per cent cut.

U.S. Seeks To Curtail Cuba Trade

Spain, Morocco Threatened With Foreign Aid Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. diplomats sought behind the scenes Saturday to persuade a reluctant Spain and Morocco to curtail their commerce with Communist Cuba rather than face possible loss of U.S aid.

The State Department's Cuban affairs coordinator, John H. Crimmins, has been summoned by the House Latin-American Affairs subcommittee to testify Monday on the Cuban situation generally. Chairman Armistead I. Selden, D-Ala., said Crimmins can expect to be asked about the amount of trade with Cuba, who is engaged in such trade and what steps are being taken to reduce it.

NEW AID LAW

The State Department announced Tuesday that, pursuant to Congress' new foreign aid law, U.S. assistance to Britain, France and Yugoslavia is being terminated because of their continuing traffic to Cuba.

The total amount of U.S. assistance involved, all military, was said to have amounted to less than $50,000 for these three nations.

Far more — reportedly more than $50 million — is involved with Spain and Morocco.

Selden, in an interview, said the State Department's action so far has been "only a token step" intended to show that Washington is serious about its program to weaken the Havana government through economic isolation.

2 Envoys Captured With Dope

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities said Saturday a trap laid by Canadian police led to the arrest here of the Mexican ambassador to Bolivia and two other men and seizure of millions of dollars worth of smuggled heroin.

Estimates of the retail value of the contraband ranged from $13.5 million to $25 million at United States prices and to $52 million in Canada, where narcotics are scarce.

A federal narcotics official said the smuggling ring had a "definite link with the Cosa Nostra," the name applied to the organized underworld. But he declined to elaborate.

The heroin was smuggled into Canada and the Unites States from the Middle East via France. The haul was one of the largest ever of its type — more than 134 pounds.

Canadian police found the heroin in four suitcases in lockers in a Montreal railway station but, instead of arresting the one who checked them, worked out this stratagem: They switched all but two pounds of the narcotics with flour, leaving the two pounds as additional evidence if the trail led to associates of the man.

They said the man took the suitcases to New York, where they were found in Pennsylvania Station lockers, still with the two pounds of heroin. Tracing of his contacts here led to his arrest and that of the two other men.

The arrested men, charged with conspiring to violate United States narcotics laws, appeared in federal court and were ordered held in $100,000 bail each pending a hearing.

State Bottlers Elect Monroyan

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana Bottlers Association Saturday elected Henry A. Biedenharn Jr. of Monroe as president.

Other officers named at the close of the annual meeting included Clyde C. Caillouet of Lockport vice president and J. B. Tanner of Shreveport secretary-treasurer.

Goldwater Ends Tour For Primary

NEW HAMPSHIRE (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater referred to "simpletons in Washington" and "crackpot economists" in an attack Saturday on the Johnson administration.

Addressing an overflow crowd 800 by ticket count in Nashua high school, the Arizona Republican called President Johnson's war on poverty program "half baked."

NEW DISCOVERY

"Poverty is a 30 year problem the Democrats have just recognized," Goldwater declared. "The creation of jobs is a simple thing but the simpletons in Washington just can't understand.

"I want the opportunity, as my first action when elected, to send these crackpot economists back to wherever they came from. Let's get this administration back to Texas, or back to Harvard, so we can get the job done."

Goldwater's comments were interpolated into a prepared speech in which he criticized the administration for refusal "to give our own industries and our own working people an even break in the competitive world market."

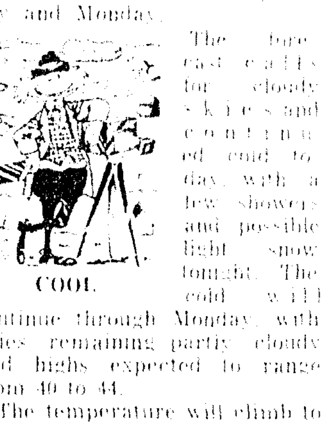
He said Saturday — the final day of his current four-day drive — was the "most enthusiastic" since he started the New Hampshire campaign.

The campaigning senator, accompanied by his wife, Peggy, and two of his children, Margaret, 19, and Michael, 23, made a series of stops between Portsmouth and Nashua, seeking support in the March 10 presidential preference primary.

During a stop at the University of New Hampshire, he recorded a radio broadcast on the student operated station.

Clouds, Cold Stay In Area

The cold snap that moved into the Twin Cities area the past week will continue through today and Monday.



COOL

The forecast calls for cloudy skies and continued cold today with a few showers and possible light snow tonight. The cold will continue through Monday, with skies remaining partly cloudy and highs expected to range from 40 to 44.

The temperature will climb to highs today of 48 to 52, but drop to 30 to 34 tonight. The low recorded Saturday was 25 and the high 48. Winds will blow 8 to 16 mph, becoming northerly 10 to 20 mph tonight.

ON FOREIGN POLICY

GOP Considers LBJ's Weakness

WASHINGTON (AP)— Republicans of all factions appeared to be uniting Saturday in the belief that the way to beat President Johnson in November is to assail his handling of foreign policy.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a spokesman for GOP liberals, joined other Republican critics by calling Johnson vulnerable in the field of international affairs.

WAVERING STATE

Case said on a taped television program that New Jersey, likely to be one of the key states in the presidential election, now is "a teeter-totter state" perhaps with a slight bent toward Democrats.

Describing Johnson as "a very able man in politics," Case added:

"There are concerns being expressed, however, as to whether in the field of international affairs he's going to do as good a job as needs to be done, whether this may not be a very vulnerable situation. If it turns out that this is so then I think any Republican would have a good chance of carrying New Jersey."

Case said he doesn't want to choose among New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon as potential Republican presidential nominee.

He said the field is not that limited, mentioning Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Henry Cabot Lodge, currently ambassador to South Viet Nam, as possible contestants.

Heart Sunday Volunteers To Canvass Today

More than 500 volunteers will conduct a house-to-house canvass in the Twin Cities today on Heart Sunday, seeking donations from residents for the Louisiana Heart Association fund.

The drive is being conducted by the Ouachita Parish Heart Council in an effort to meet its goal of $10,000 to be used in carrying on research, education and community heart services of the state Heart Association.

Volunteers canvassing their own home neighborhoods are presenting individual envelopes for contributions. The envelope may be sealed before being returned to the collector, and the amount of the gift need not be revealed. A special leaflet which tells how to reduce the risks of heart disease will also be left. When a canvasser encounters a house where the residents aren't home, a pre-addressed envelope will be left so that the contributions can be mailed to the Heart Fund headquarters.

Heart Sunday is a nation-wide endeavor. More than one and a half million volunteers in more than 10,000 cities and towns all across the nation will be conducting similar marches.

Trouble In Paradise Brings On Hearings

PARADISE, Calif. (AP) — There's trouble in Paradise.

And the trouble, says a state legislator, is this: The folks in this Northern California town are quick to gossip about a school teacher, but they haven't the courage to repeat what they say in the open.

That was the summup Friday by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, South San Francisco, of a two-day hearing by an assembly committee. The committee came to determine if California needs stronger laws to protect the academic freedom of its teachers.

Virginia Franklin, a teacher at Paradise High School, has been under attack by various organizations for her teaching methods and the content of her courses.

She filed a defamation of character suit for $850,000 against the Paradise American Legion Post and 13 individuals, some of whom testified at the hearing.

Ryan said Mrs. Franklin's [illegible] failed to [illegible] their [illegible] [illegible] people to [illegible].

"I [illegible] the staff of the assembly Education Committee to study the transcript closely for perjury, and I find there is a marked difference between the statements made here and the previous statements made during the controversy over the charges," Ryan said.

Witnesses who are defendants in Mrs. Franklin's suit were cautioned by their lawyers not to answer all questions of the subcommittee pending the trial [illegible].

"We have heard it charged that the teacher is engaged in religious indoctrination in sex and immorality and 'obscene' in deliberate distortions of historical material to teach un-American concepts," Ryan told the 200 people crammed into the Paradise recreation district center.

Delhi Pageant Won By Beauty From Monterey

DELHI (Special) — Miss Stock Show for 1964 is Miss Beverly Jane Burrill, 17, of Monterey.

Miss Burrill defeated 12 other beauties here Saturday night to take top honors in the ninth annual stock show beauty pageant. She was sponsored by the Ferriday Dixie Youth Baseball, Inc.

The talented miss, who gave a reading on the South for her talent competition, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Burrill of Monterey. She is the current state F.F.A. sweetheart, was Miss Junior Concordia Parish of 1962, and was runner-up in the State Soy Bean Beauty Pageant. She is a senior at Monterey High School and editor of the school paper.

Runners-up were Miss Winifred Willey, sponsored by Delhi Ladies Club; Miss Betty Mooney, sponsored by Bastrop Civitan club; Miss Susan Snipes, also of Bastrop, and Miss Karen Keith, sponsored by Monroe Jaycees. Miss Mooney was also voted Miss Congeniality.

Judges for the pageant were Russell Burget, Houston, Tex.; Mrs. T. C. Connell, Alexandria; Sidney Gres, Baton Rouge; Mr. C. G. Holgood, Ruston; and Paul Razovitch of Jackson, Miss.

Bob Carter of Baton Rouge was emcee.

A federal narcotics official said the smuggling ring had a "definite link with the Cosa Nostra," the name applied to the organized underworld. But he declined to elaborate.

The heroin was smuggled into Canada and the Unites States from the Middle East via France. The haul was one of the largest ever of its type — more than 134 pounds.

Canadian police found the heroin in four suitcases in lockers in a Montreal railway station but, instead of arresting the one who checked them, worked out this stratagem: They switched all but two pounds of the narcotics with flour, leaving the two pounds as additional evidence if the trail led to associates of the man.

They said the man took the suitcases to New York, where they were found in Pennsylvania Station lockers, still with the two pounds of heroin. Tracing of his contacts here led to his arrest and that of the two other men.

The arrested men, charged with conspiring to violate United States narcotics laws, appeared in federal court and were ordered held in $100,000 bail each pending a hearing.

State Bottlers Elect Monroyan

NEW ORLEANS (AP) The Louisiana Bottlers Association Saturday elected Henry A. Biedenharn Jr. of Monroe as president.

Other officers named at the close of the annual meeting included Clyde C. Caillouet of Lockport vice president and J. B. Tanner of Shreveport secretary-treasurer.

Goldwater Ends Tour For Primary

NEW HAMPSHIRE (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater referred to "simpletons in Washington" and "crackpot economists" in an attack Saturday on the Johnson administration.

Addressing an overflow crowd, 800 by ticket count in Nashua high school, the Arizona Republican called President Johnson's war on poverty program "half-baked."

NEW DISCOVERY

"Poverty is a 30-year problem the Democrats have just recognized," Goldwater declared. "The creation of jobs is a simple thing but the simpletons in Washington just can't understand.

"I want the opportunity, as my first action when elected, to send these crackpot economists back to wherever they came from. Let's get this administration back to Texas, or back to Harvard, so we can get the job done."

Goldwater's comments were interpolated into a prepared speech in which he criticized the administration for refusal "to give our own industries and our own working people an even break in the competitive world market."

He said Saturday — the final day of his current four-day drive — was the "most enthusiastic" since he started the New Hampshire campaign.

The campaigning senator, accompanied by his wife, Peggy, and two of his children, Margaret, 19, and Michael, 23, made a series of stops between Portsmouth and Nashua, seeking support in the March 10 presidential preference primary.

During a stop at the University of New Hampshire, he recorded a radio broadcast on the student-operated station.

Clouds, Cold Stay In Area

The cold snap that moved into the Twin Cities area the past week will continue through today and Monday.

COOL

The forecast calls for cloudy skies and continued cold today, with a few showers and possible light snow tonight. The cold will continue through Monday, with skies remaining partly cloudy and highs expected to range from 40 to 44.

The temperature will climb to highs today of 48 to 52, but drop to 30 to 34 tonight. The low recorded Saturday was 25 and the high 48. Winds will blow 8 to 16 mph, becoming northerly 10 to 20 mph tonight.

ON FOREIGN POLICY

GOP Considers LBJ's Weakness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans of all factions appeared to be uniting Saturday in the belief that the way to beat President Johnson in November is to assail his handling of foreign policy.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a spokesman for GOP liberals, joined other Republican critics by calling Johnson vulnerable in the field of international affairs.

WAVERING STATE

Case said on a taped television program that New Jersey, likely to be one of the key states in the presidential election, now is "a teeter-totter state"—perhaps with a slight bent toward Democrats.

Describing Johnson as "a very able man in politics," Case added:

"There are concerns being expressed, however, as to whether in the field of international affairs he's going to do as good a job as needs to be done, whether this may not be a very vulnerable situation. If it turns out that this is so, then I think any Republican would have a good chance of carrying New Jersey."

Case said he doesn't want to choose among New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon as potential Republican presidential nominees.

He said the field isn't that limited, mentioning Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Henry Cabot Lodge, currently ambassador to South Viet Nam, as possible contestants.

Heart Sunday Volunteers To Canvass Today

More than 500 volunteers will conduct a house-to-house canvass in the Twin Cities today on Heart Sunday, seeking donations from residents for the Louisiana Heart Association fund.

The drive is being conducted by the Ouachita Parish Heart Council in an effort to meet its goal of $10,000 to be used in carrying on research, education and community heart services of the state Heart Association.

Volunteers canvassing their own home neighborhoods are presenting individual envelopes for contributions. The envolope may be sealed before being returned to the collector, and the amount of the gift need not be revealed. A special leaflet which tells how to reduce the risks of heart disease will also be left. When a canvasser encounters a house where the residents aren't home, a pre-addressed envelope will be left so that the contributions can be mailed to the Heart Fund headquarters.

Heart Sunday is a nationwide endeavor. More than one and a half million volunteers in more than 10,000 cities and towns all across the nation will be conducting similar marches.

TATTLE-TALES SILENT

Trouble In Paradise Brings On Hearings

PARADISE, Calif. (AP) — There's trouble in Paradise.

And the trouble, says a state legislator, is this: The folks in this Northern California town are quick to gossip about a school teacher; but they haven't the courage to repeat what they say in the open.

That was the sumup Friday by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, South San Francisco, of a two-day hearing by an assembly committee. The committee came to determine if California needs stronger laws to protect the academic freedom of its teachers.

Virginia Franklin, a teacher at Paradise High School, had been under attack by various organizations for her teaching methods and the content of her courses.

She filed a defamation of character suit for $850,000 against the Paradise American Legion Post and 13 individuals, some of whom testified at the hearing.

Ryan said Mrs. Franklin's critics failed to back up their previous charges with specific testimony.

"I will ask the staff of the assembly Education Committee to study the transcript closely for perjury, since I find there is a marked difference between the statements made here and th previous statements made during the controversy over the schools," Ryan said.

Witnesses who are defendants in Mrs. Franklin's suit were cautioned by their lawyers not to answer all questions of the subcommittee pending the trial, if it is held.

"We have heard it implied that the teacher is engaged in religious indoctrination, in sexual immorality and looseness, in deliberate distortions of factual material to teach un-American concepts," Ryan told the 200 people crammed into the Paradise recreation district center.

Wants Effects Checked On Nation Basis

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson is expected to recommend soon that foreign aid be cut back in scope and that its effectiveness be checked on a country by country basis.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said Saturday he has received personal assurance from the President of his decision to create a number of committees to make on-the-spot checks of how American money is being spent abroad and how effective it is as a cold war weapon.

COOPER IDEA

Cooper long has advocated such an examination, arguing it is essential to save the program from elimination by Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the assistant Democratic leader from Minnesota, said in a separate interview that he, too, has been told the President has accepted the Cooper idea in principle.

Humphrey added that the President will incorporate this and other ideas for changes in a message to Congress, probably this week, asking authorization for a $3.4-billion program for the year starting next July 1.

The message, Humphrey said, will call also for cutting the number of countries which have been receiving foreign aid and reducing the assistance that goes to others.

"The President plans to eliminate some countries entirely and eliminate separate foreign aid missions in others and make a substantial reduction in foreign aid personnel," Humphrey said.

He added that Johnson is trying to tailor the program as much as possible to meet major criticisms voiced in the Senate and House last year when Congress cut the administration's foreign aid request from $4.5

Two out-of-town entries, a "Mercury" entered by Otto Klick of Route 3, Bastrop, and Donckelari, grown by Mrs. W. E. Lee of Forest Hill, took the top honors at the first annual Camellia Show this weekend in the Central Savings Bank and Turst Co., 300 DeSiard St. Judging of the more than 2,000 blooms was held Saturday.

The show which was open Saturday evening, will also be open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. today.

Klick's winning entry, Mercury, was the winner in the grown under glass division. Mrs. Lee's bloom, a solid red, took the honors for out-of-doors bloom.

J. S. Akin of Sibley took the sweepstakes award in the blooms grown indoors with 39 blue ribbons. Mrs. A. K. Ammen of Pineville was second place with 24 first place blooms. Lee Hodges, 2305 Hawthorne St., Monroe, took 22 first place ribbons in this division.

In the category, blooms grown outside, Gus Traham of Lafayette won the sweepstakes with 63 blue ribbons, followed by Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn, 200 Gilbert St., Monroe, with 22.

Winner in the division, Collection of three, grown outside, was the entry by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Montgomery Sr., 1804 Island Drive, Monroe. In second and third place in this category were Mrs. Harry Lemert, 1408 Island Drive, Monroe, and Mrs. Lee of Pineville.

In the collection of 10, grown outside, winners were Gus Trahan, Mrs. H. L. Stahlman Jr., and Mrs. Hathorn.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Stringfellow, Shreveport, won the collection of three, grown inside, while Mrs. Ammen and Hodges placed first and second in the group, collection of 10, grown inside.

In the arrangement divisions, the following took first place:

Class 1-A, "Magic With Camellias," Mrs. Phillip F. Bernhardt, Monroe.

Class 1-B, "The Vikings," Mrs. W. W. Stevens and Mrs. H. F. Shepard, both of Monroe.

Class 2-A, "Mardi Gras", Mrs. E. M. Baber, Monroe.

Class 2-B, "The Royal Princess," Mrs. Charles Gray Jr., Bastrop.

Class 3-A, "Wooden Wonderland, Mrs. John Tolar, Monroe.

Class 3-B, "The World Outside," Mrs. Tolar.

Class 4-A, "Charm of the Orient", Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Monroe.

Class 4-B, "Secrets of Oriental Art", Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson won the trophy for the best arrangement in the show with the "Charm of the Orient" theme.

Perhaps the youngest competitor, nine-year-old Miss Lou Lemert, daughter of Mrs. Harry Lemert, 1408 Island Drive, Monroe, took four honors, including a blue ribbon for a Leucantha, semi-double white, grown outside. Her other ribbons included one red and two yellows, all in the category of outside blooms.

Lyons Winner In Straw Vote Among Students

PINEVILLE (Special) — If the results of a mock election, sponsored by the staff of The Wildcat Advance, Louisiana College student newspaper, is any indication, Louisiana will have its first Republican governor since Reconstruction Days following the general election March 3.

In The Wildcat Advance's Friday edition results of the straw vote were announced as follows: Charlton Lyons, Republican candidate, 344; John J. McKeithen, Democratic candidate, 129.

The L. C. student body was right in another straw vote conducted by The Wildcat Advance prior to the second Democratic primary.

Wanda Redd, senior from Oakdale, is editor of the Louisiana College publication.

A straw vote taken at LSU recently showed Lyons the winner by 8-1.

State Baptist YWA Meet To End Here Today

Approximately 1200 delegates will attend the closing sessions this morning of the state-wide Baptist Young Women's Auxiliary conference at the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

Miss Mary Allen, spokesman for the conference, said the meeting will end today about 10:30 a. m. following an address to the group by Dr. Clifton Tennison, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Those in attendance at the convention range in age from 16 to 24, Miss Allen said. She added that one of the highlights of Saturday's sessions included addresses by Mrs. Wilfred C. Tyler, a teacher at Blue Mountain College, Miss., who spoke on Christian personalities and charm.

A special social session for the young girls and women attending the conference Saturday included a "World's Fair" theme where the girls came costumed in portrayal of other nations.

Two Monroyans To Attend Meet

Two Monroe men will be among those attending the annaul B'nai B'rith state association convention in Alexandria next weekend.

Slated to go from here are Isadore Liebreich, Lodge No. 208, and Meyer Glazer, past B'nai B'rith Louisiana State Association president who will serve as a member of the State executive Committee.

The two-day meet gets underway Saturday at the Bentley Hotel in Alexandria and closes with a banquet Sunday afternoon at which new officers will be installed.

Special highlights of the meeting include presentation of the B'nai B'rith Louisiana State "Man of the Year" ward. Guest speaker Saturday night will be Lable A. Katz, internatioal B'Nai B'rith president.

Teaching Session

Members of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church, Calhoun, will conduct a teaching session on the Mission Book, "Apogee," Tuesday from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. The event will take place in the church parsonage. Women attending will bring a covered dish for the noon lunch, it was announced by Mrs. Joan Walters, publicity chairman.

SMILING WINNER CHERIE MARTIN is presented by Northeast State president, Dr. George T. NEW 'MISS CHACAHOULA'

Brunette Is Winner Of Northeast Title

Cherie Martin, a captivating brunette from Pineville, won the "Miss Chacahoula" title when she competed Friday night in a field of twenty-seven nominees for the top Northeast State yearbook honor.

The winner was announced at a tea, sponsored annually by the Chacahoula staff. She was rated highest place by six off-campus judges, and was presented by Northeast Louisiana State College president, Dr. George T. Walker.

Miss Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Martin, has won national and well as college recognition. She has served as Miss Majorette of America, and she recently returned from Washington, D.C., where she was a member of the Louisiana Mardi Gras ball court. Cherie also is a feature twirler with the Northeast State band, and holds membership in Phi Mu Sorority and the college chapter of Student Louisiana Teachers Association.

The sophomore elementary education major was entered in the contest by the college chapter of Delta Demeter, national honorary agricultural fraternity.

Eight other beauties whose photograph will appear in the yearbook as a result of the judges' rating are Julia Ann Wilhite of West Monroe; Carol Aplin of Harrisonburg; Jan Reagan and Jan Hallmark, both of Monroe; Monte Sue Ballard and Sharon Coldron, both of Shreveport; Laney Ware of Bastrop, and Pat Twiner of Sunshine.

Runners-up include Margaret Pettyjohn and barbara Borgkvist, both of Monroe; Bobbie Faye Ervin of West Monroe; Diane Roberson of Tallulah, Judy Couch of Bastrop; and Billie Sue Dixon of Monroe.

Judging entrants on the basis of beauty, personality and poise were Mrs. Howard Carroll, Mrs. Roy Johns, Mrs. Hillman Madison Jr., Bennie Andrews, Irving Leibowitz, and Jim Williams.

Revival Underway

A series of meetings described as "an old time apostolic revival" is in progress at Selman Field Pentecostal Church, 104 Virginia, with the Rev. C. W. Shoe of Fort Worth as featured evangelist. The meetings start at 7:30 p.m. daily. The Rev. L. J. Yeates is pastor of the church.

Library Acting Director Named

PINEVILLE (Special) — James A. Allen, Alexandria native and Louisiana State University graduate, has been appointed acting director of Louisiana College's Richard W. Norton Memorial Library.

For the past 16 months, he has served as assistant librarian at Louisiana College.

Dr. Edward L. McMillian, dean, announced that Allen has tentatively assumed the duties relinquished recently by David B. Howell, who held the post of L. C. library director for four years.

ABOVE ARE A number of the beautiful Ante-Bellum homes which can be seen during the annual Natchez Pilgrimage, which opens for 30 days beginning March 7. It is a period of the recreation of the Southland of magnolias and crinoline and of fond memories. On the top at left is Monmouth where General John A. Quitman of Mexican War fame lived. The top second house from the left is Linden, once the home of Thomas B. Reed, first U.S. Senator from Mississippi. Third from left in top row is Longwood which was under construction at the beginning of the Civil War. With the exception of the first floor, it was never completed by its builder, Dr. Haller Nutt. At right top row is D'Evereux, a fine example of Southern Colonial architecture, pure Greek Revival. Henry Clay, close friend of the original owners was entertained here. On botton row left is The Elms which was built during the Spanish era and which contained many interesting architectural features. Next to it is Cherokee, which antedates nearly all the larger Natchez houses. Third from left on bottom row is Twin Oaks which was built on Spanish land grant and occupied by federal troops during the Civil War. It is shaded by ancient live oaks. The picture at right on bottom row is Hawthorne, the typical home of the Southern planter. One of the outstanding features of the pilgrimage in addition to the tours of the homes is The Confederate Pageant, commemorating the Civil War centennial, which is presented on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays at the City Auditorium during the 30-day event.

AT NATCHEZ

Annual Pilgrimage Opens On March 7

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special) — The Southland of magnolias and crinolines will be recreated in Natchez, Miss. from March 7 through April 5, 1964, the period of the annual Natchez Pilgrimage, a 30-day display of fine houses and fond memories.

Visitors come to this charming little city on the Mississippi every day of the year, but when spring spreads its first colorful panolpy it is a sure sign that Pilgrimage-time is here again.

Natchez has played a prominent role in American history. LaSalle came first in 1682. The French established a trading post and military post in 1700. From 1763 to 1779 the British flag flew over this territory. Natchez became a trading center of great importance under the Spanish. In 1798 the territory became a part of the United States, with Natchez as its first capital.

The cultivation of cotton gave it its greatest wealth and it was during this period, before the boll weevil took its toll, that many of the large and very handsome houses were built. However, the 30 antebellum houses to be seen on the Natchez Pilgrimage tours were built during the period of the late 1700's through 1855, with the first mansion, "Gloucester", dating from 1803, and the most handsome house, "Stanton Hall", completed in 1851.

Three days are required to see all of the houses, as there are two five house tours each day.

Tableaux, which comprise the famous Confederate Pageant, are presented every Monday, Wednesay, Friday and Saturday night. On remaining nights there are Negro Spirituals.

New Principal At Winnsboro School Named

WINNSBORO (Special) Roy N. Stapp, 40 - year - old Winnsboro seventh grade teacher has been employed as principal of Winnsboro Junior High Seool.

The announcement was made Saturday morning by M. D. Peel, superintendent of Franklin Parish Schools. The superintendent said that the Winnsboro High School wil pen in a new building on the Fort Necessity Road at the beginning of the fall session in September.

The Elementary and Junior High School will remain on the original premises. Previous to the new move the high school principal had served as principal of the junior high school.

Stapp is a graduate of Winnsboro High School, received a B. A. degree from Louisiana Tech and a masters degree at Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss. He has taught the 7th grade here for the past 11 years.

McKeithen Says He Still Remains 'Uncontrolled'

NAPOLEONVILLE (Special) — Democratic gubernatorial nominee John McKeithen said Saturday that he "remains uncommitted and uncontrolled" as he was when he began seeking the office of governor a year ago.

McKeithen said "I have remained unfettered because I knew that a good governor must be answerable only to the people of Louisiana and certainly not to a handful of men in control of a political machine like the Louisiana Republican Party no matter what its proponents call it."

McKeithen continued "my opponent has said that I am a machine candidate and I wonder where he has been for the past year. Had he been in Louisiana he would have known that no man has less machine organization and newspaper support than John McKeithen. He would have known that we were supported only by the people and it is to the people of this state to whom we shall dedicate the next four years of our life."

McKeithen concluded, "The Republican plan is an obvious one. They are banking their whole campaign that we Louisiana Democrats, feeling that we have already elected a governor, might not go out and vote. I urge yoa to preserve government dedicated to all Lousiana citizens by voting for Louisiana Democrats on March 3."

Flying Wedge Breaks Negro Mixers' Ranks

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (UPI) —A flying wedge of state troopers using two snarling police dogs charged Saturday into a crowd of 300 Negro students blocking the entrance to a restaurant accused of discrimination.

One Negro student was bitten on the leg and a state police captain was slugged on the head during the brief melee.

Police disarmed a white man who tried to join in the fray with a knife. Four of the Negro demonstrators were arrested.

The chanting, singing, sign-carrying Negro students from Maryland State College demonstrated in this Eastern Shore community to protest segregation at several Princess Anne restaurants.

But they singled out one restaurant on Somerset Avenue, the main street in town, because it was the scene of a disturbance last night in which a Negro student was struck.

Soviet Receives Satellite Signals

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet reception station near Gorky, northeast of Moscow, got fully satisfactory signals from Jodrell Bank as bounced off the American communications satellite Echo 2, the deputy director of the installation said Saturday.

Gherman Getmantsev, deputy chief of the Radio Physical Scientific Research Institute at Gorky University, told a Tass Soviet news agency, correspondent the signals were simple, but that a beginning had been made on something that could lead much further.

"One can already hope that a dependable radio communication service via outer space will be arranged in the near future by means of relaying satellites for the sake of all mankind," he added.

Long To Back McKeithen As 'Natural Right'

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said Saturday Democratic nominee John J. McKeithen has a right to expect his support in Louisiana's March 3 general election for governor.

The son of the late Huey P. Long had backed a distant cousin, U. S. Rep. Gillis Long, in the 10-man Democratic first primary Dec. 7.

Gillis Long and seven others were eliminated in the first Democratic showdown, when McKeithen campaigned with support of many top followers of the late Gov. Earl K. Long.

"The man I supported in the Democratic primaries lost," Sen. Long said in an Associated Press interview. "If Gillis Long had won, I would have regarded it as the duty of the unsuccessful candidate to vote for the Democratic nominee in the general elections.

"Mr. McKeithen," Sen. Long said, "has a right to expect that of us."

McKeithen has been forced into a general election campaign because of the growing threat of strong support at the polls for the Republican nominee, Charlton H. Lyons Sr., Shreveport.

Man Made Snow Saves Festival

WASECA, Minn. (AP)—Waseca's 13th annual sleigh and cutter festival went on as scheduled Saturday — thanks to a snow-making machine.

There wasn't enough snow in town until the machine was obtained from the Buck Hills ski area near Savage, Minn.

Phone Service At Larto Lake Set This Year

LARTO (Special) — Telephone service for approximately 60 new subscribers in the Larto Lake area in Catahoula parish will be ready around the middle of the year, according to S. L. Waters, local manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company.

"The extension of telephone service into the Larto area is part of the company's program of expanding its facilities and services throughout the state," Waters said.

The provision of telephone service at Larto will cost $91,000. This construction money comes straight from a budget which exceeds $40 million for growth and the expansion of new facilities in the State of Louisiana during 1964, Waters stated.

"Larto will be served from the Jonesville exchange," Waters said.

The project for the Larto area phone service was encouraged by the Jonesville Lions club.

Wants Effects Checked On Nation Basis

billion to $3 billion.

"Needless to say I am happy over the President's assurances that the aim of my amendment, which the Senate adopted by a 79-1 vote, will be put into effect by the administration," Cooper said.

The amendment called for the creation of three- to five-member committes to review the effectiveness of economic aid programs in specific areas of the world, such as Latin America, the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Africa. It would call for a detailed review of the programs in the 15 to 20 countries receiving half of the total economic assistance.

Subsequently, Cooper, calling at the White House at Johnson's invitation, suggested the President appoint a 14- or 15-member foreign aid advisory committee, the majority of whose members, like last year's group headed by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, would be drawn from the general public.

This advisory committee would, in turn, set up the smaller public-dominated committees to "evaluate the program in specific areas and countries."

Cooper told the President he does not believe the foreign aid program will win public support "unless specific information is furnished Congress."

He suggested the "little Clay committees" determine whether:

1. The program in each country is designed to achieve economic development.

2. The recipient country is employing maximum self-help.

3. Each country receiving aid is undertaking economic reforms necessary for development and to assure that benefits of the programs reach the people.

Humphrey said the administration had dropped consideration of plans to break up the foreign aid program and separate military assistance from the foreign aid package authorization.

And he said emphasis will be shifted to more multilateral aid with other countries sharing a greater part of the burden of providing assistance to underdeveloped nations.

Hard To Lose

There are some things that a person just can't get rid of, according to Harold Jones of the West Monroe fire department.

Harold had kept his coon dog, "Ole Spot," for about three years before he decided recently to give him to a friend in Monroe.

"Ole Spot" stayed at his new home on the lower end of South Grand street for three days, then broke loose late one night, swam the river and was back on Harold's doorstep at 903 Evergreen early the next morning.

Harold's comment on the situation was, "That's just another example proving that a dog is man's best friend — no woman would ever do that."

Phone Service At Larto Lake Set This Year

LARTO (Special) — Telephone service for approximately 60 new subscribers in the Larto Lake area in Catahoula parish will be ready around the middle of the year, according to S. L. Waters, local manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company.

"The extension of telephone service into the Larto area is part of the company's program of expanding its facilities and services throughout the state," Waters said.

The provision of telephone service at Larto will cost $91,000. This construction money comes straight from a budget which exceeds $40 million for growth and the expansion of new facilities in the State of Louisiana during 1964, Waters stated.

"Larto will be served from the Jonesville exchange," Waters said.

The project for the Larto area phone service was encouraged by the Jonesville Lions club.

Wants Effects Checked On Nation Basis

billion to $3 billion.

"Needless to say I am happy over the President's assurances that the aim of my amendment, which the Senate adopted by a 79-1 vote, will be put into effect by the administration," Cooper said.

The amendment called for the creation of three- to five-member committes to review the effectiveness of economic aid programs in specific areas of the world, such as Latin America, the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Africa. It would call for a detailed review of the programs in the 15 to 20 countries receiving half of the total economic assistance.

Subsequently, Cooper, calling at the White House at Johnson's invitation, suggested the President appoint a 14- or 15-member foreign aid advisory committee, the majority of whose members, like last year's group headed by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, would be drawn from the general public.

This advisory committee would, in turn, set up the smaller public-dominated committees to "evaluate the program in specific areas and countries."

Cooper told the President he does not believe the foreign aid program will win public support "unless specific information is furnished Congress."

He suggested the "little Clay committes" determine whether:

1. The program in each country is designed to achieve economic development,

2. The recipient country is employing maximum self-help.

3. Each country receiving aid is undertaking economic reforms necessary for development and to assure that benefits of the programs reach the people.

Humphrey said the administration had dropped consideration of plans to break up the foreign aid program and separate military assistance from the foreign aid package authorization.

And he said emphasis will be shifted to more multilateral aid with other countries sharing a greater part of the burden of providing assistance to under-developed nations.

Hard To Lose

There are some things that a person just can't get rid of, according to Harold Jones of the West Monroe fire department.

Harold had kept his coon dog, "Ole Spot," for about three years before he decided recently to give him to a friend in Monroe.

"Ole Spot" stayed at his new home on the lower end of South Grand street for three days, then broke loose late one night, swam the river and was back on Harold's doorstep at 903 Evergreen early the next morning.

Harold's comment on the situation was, "That's just another example proving that a dog is man's best friend — no woman would ever do that."

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such cause, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

U.S., Russians Sign New Pact For Exchanges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia signed an agreement Saturday for expanded cultural and scientific exchanges including swapping information on peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The agreement, signed in Moscow, renews for the next two years exchange programs which the two countries have had for six years. Officials said it provides for a possible 15 per cent expansion of actual exchanges.

In a memorandum attached to the agreement, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and Russia's Committee for the utilization of atomic energy laid the groundwork for exchange visits of research scientists and exchanges of unclassified documents, doctoral dissertations and scientific instruments in the field of peaceful nuclear science —including controlled thermonuclear fistion.

The atomic exchange agreement said actual exchanges could take place "on an agreed reciprocal basis" to be worked out later.

The over-all agreement called for exchange visits of technicians in fields such as oceanography, petroleum geophysics, metallurgy, aluminum, machine tools, industrial standards, plastics, chemical fertilizers, reinforced concrete, urban planning, textiles, fisheries, central heating, foods, production management, accounting, labor and pharmaceuticals.

Firemen Save Seven Persons From Elevators

NEW YORK (AP)—Firemen broke open two smoke-filled elevators and rescued seven persons Saturday when the lifts became stalled during an office building fire.

Both elevators stopped operating on the fourth floor where the fire broke out in the building at 20 E. 46th St.

One woman rescued was unconscious and had to be carried to safety. The other six persons were led down a stairway.

The blaze, confined to the fourth floor, was quickly brought under control. Except for the one woman, no one was injured.

The Rev. John S. Jenkins, rector of All Saints' Episcopal School at Vicksburg, Miss., will be guest speaker for Religious Emphasis Week at Northeast Louisiana State College here Feb. 25-27.

He will deliver morning convocation addresses Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at a special campuswide assembly hour, 9:40 to 10:20, in Brown Auditorium.

Theme of the annual REW observance is "Freedom — Mind, Body, Spirit." The visiting speaker will open the convocation series with an address on "Freedom: Mind — To Search." His Wednesday topic will be "Freedom: Body — To Love." He concludes with "Freedom: Spirit — To Live."

The Rev. Mr. Jenkins will also conduct informal faculty and student seminars on Tuesday and Wednesday. He meets with faculty members at 4 p. m. and with students at 7 p. m. These sessions will be held in the College Union auditorium.

Father Jenkins, a native of Shreveport, received his B. A. degree at Louisiana State University and the M. A. degree in history at the University of Chicago. He was graduated with honors from Seabury - Western Theological Seminary in 1951. While there he received the preaching award and was the Henry Benjamin Whipple Scholar.

He was ordained a priest in 1952 at Yonkers, N. Y. He has done further study in theology and Biblical literature at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary in New York.

A veteran of World War II, he served 23 combat missions and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster.

He is married to the former Miss Mary Alice Jones of Waldo, Ark. They have two children.

INDIA'S PRESIDENT

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, 75, resumed his duties Saturday after a 17-day period of rest to recuperate from an eye operation. Vice President Zakir Hussain had acted for him in that period.

Firemen Save Seven Persons From Elevators

NEW YORK (AP)—Firemen broke open two smoke-filled elevators and rescued seven persons Saturday when the lifts became stalled during an office building fire.

Both elevators stopped operating on the fourth floor where the fire broke out in the building at 20 E. 46th St.

One woman rescued was unconscious and had to be carried to safety. The other six persons were led down a stairway.

The blaze, confined to the fourth floor, was quickly brought under control. Except for the one woman, no one was injured.

"Beatle! Beatle! Which one's the Beatle?" All of them, of course, but it's up to you to decide which one's who?

Now that we thing of it—it might be a wise idea to mark your teenagers, since the Beatle craze has hit town with almost as much ferocity as it did in London and the uncombed, long locks of Beatle wigs are sweeping the city like a plague, with youngsters all looking alike in the floppy mops.

The downtown stores received their first shipments of Beatle wigs this past week, and are already almost sold out. Beatle records have been stocked by all the stores, and are going like "hotcakes." However, more wigs and records are on order to meet the growing demand for the English inspired requests.

The shaggy-haired boys shown here represent a cross section of prominent men-about-town and they include bankers, merchants, industrialists and businessmen.

If you give up on being able to identify the "yeah, yeah, yeah" boys, here's the list from left to right:

Charlie Penn, Penn Resort Hotel; Percy Johnson, Studebaker Car Dealers; Fred Beckett, Penney's Department Store; Bert Root, Monroe Glass Co.; John Rudisill, Central Savings Bank and Trust Co.; and James McBeth, manager, Bayou DeSiard Country Club and well known archer. (Staff photos by Ben Bradford).

Despot Predicts Lyons Will Win In March 3 Vote

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Poll results claimed by John McKeithen in a recent press conference at Baton Rouge was questioned here Saturday by George Despot, manager of the Lyons For Governor campaign who said "the only poll in the state showing that Mr. McKeithen will win must be the poll he made of his own family ... and that is wishful thinking."

In a sharply worded statement issued from Lyons campaign headquarters here, Despot said "on the basis of a careful and comprehensive person-by person survey entailing thousands of calls in every area of the state, it is safe to predict that Charlton Lyons will be the next Governor of Louisiana."

Despot conceded that it would probably be a close race, with a margin of 25,000 to 30,000 votes for Charlton Lyons, but he added, "in some areas of the state, our results show a margin of 2 to 1, or better, for the Lyons Crusade for better government."

Noting that McKeithen's press conference disclosed neither the nature of the poll he was citing nor statistical data regard its results, Despot commented that McKeithen was "probably quoting a one-man survey he made while Wilson Braham was driving him to the Governor's mansion in a limousine to make a moonlight deal with governor Davis and the Baker Bank and Sunshine Bridge crowd."

Despot added that "Clear proof of the fact that the machine politicians at Baton Rouge are getting the same poll results that we are can be found in the whispering campaign smear attack they have launched against Charlton Lyons."

Scouts In Action

Cub Scouts, in honor of the 54th anniversary of scouting, are celebrating with Blue and Gold Banquets. Pack 125, newly organized in Mangham, held its first Blue and Gold banquet in the school cafeteria.

The banquet opened with an invocation given by the Rev. J. D. Strozier, followed by a welcome extended by Cubmaster Fred Rushing Jr. The boys of Den 3, led by Den Mother Mrs. Jean Noble and Assistant Den Mother, Mrs. Helen Austin, presented a birthday ceremony. Den 2 led the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of "America" and a Club Scout song, directed by Den Mother Mrs. Helen Butler and Mrs. Betty Brunson, assistant.

Awards were given to the following boys: Bob Cat pins to Den 1: Garry Lynn Nobles, Craig Gilley, John Daniel Archibald, and Johnny Strozier; Den 2, Larry Harwell, Gary Coats McDonald, Charles McDonald, Grover Burgeses, Fred Rushing, Michael Kent Butler and Joey Zito with Ted Brunson receiving a gold and silver arrow on his Bear Badge; Den 3, Charles Noble, Larry Austin, Clinton Wayne Smael, Ronnie Smith, Bob Ragland and Jerry Wayne Gandy; Den 4, Earl Hill and Clint Haddock; Den 5, Prentis Gandy, Glen Boies, Tony Thompson, Bruce Thompson and Michael Fife.

Mat. Pat Thompson, den mother and Mrs. Margie Harwell, of Den 5 aided the Cubs in the Cub Scout Promise with Den 4 Mother Mrs. Ada Haddock and Assistant Mrs. Eva Lee Hill leading the boys in the Law of the Pack. Den 1 closed with a Living Circle followed by the Benediction by the Rev. H. B. Crammer.

Training awards were presented to Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Strozier, Mrs. Pat Thompson, Mrs. Jean Noble and Mrs. Margie Harwell.

The Blue and Gold Banquet of Pack 132, Monroe, was held at the Benoit Recreation Department Thursday, February 20. Robert Blackstock presided over the 84 Cubs and parents present.

The Packs Charter was presented to Mrs. Freeman Shaw by Mr. James Smith, Neighborhood Scout Committeeman. Officers of the Pack recognized were: Harold Chambliss, institutional representative, Robert Blackstock, Cub Master, Mr. Dino Kokinos, committee chairman, Q. H. Hudnall, secretary, and Marti Swami, treasurer.

Den Mothers Mrs. J. E. Abrahms, Mrs. Harold Chambliss and Mrs. Robert Blackstock served the food. Tables were decorated with roses made by the Cubs.

A Court of Honor was held recently by Boy Scout Troop 234, sponsored by the First Methodist Church of Monroe. Vernon Mears, scout master, conducted a Tenderfoot Ceremony with the following boys receiving awards: Wally Spencer, David Agnew, Charles Dowman, and Danny Hill.

Other Scouts present were Jim Mears, Dennis Pumphrey, Billy Wilson and Marshall Munholland. Parents present were Mrs. D. L. Agnew, Assistant Scout Master and Mrs. Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Pumphrey, Dr. and Mrs. N. R. Spenser, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. Vernon Mears and Mr. Potter, committeeman.

The Den Mothers's Workshop was held at the First National Bank of West Monroe Thursday, February 20. The theme, "Mardi Gras" for March Cubbing was depicted in crafts by Mrs. Virginia Perry's paper mache lion as well as other forms of masks.

A skit was led by Mrs. Jackie Szold. Jack Panky, scout executive, announced a Den Chief training program will be held at Covenant Presbyterian Church on Saturday, March 7, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Cub masters of the area were urged to avail themselves of this training with their Den Chiefs. Cub Packs are also urged to hold their Pinewood Derbies in March or early in April so that winners will be able to race in the district races sometime in April and the Grand Council Pinewood Derby May 4 at the Annual Scout Exposition.

Den Mothers present at the workshop were Mrs. W. K. Harris, Mrs. Jackie Szold, Mrs. Mercedes Mullis and Mrs. J. Patterson of Pack 29; Mrs. Christine Frandsen of Pack 30; Mrs. Kay White and Mrs. L. A. Hunnicutt, Pack 31; Mrs. Virginia Perry Pack 37, West Monroe; Mrs. Ellen M. Fant, also of West Monroe, Pack 174; Mrs. Helen Butler, Mrs. Pat Thompson, Mrs. Elaine Strozier, Mrs. Ada Haddock and Mrs. Faye Wilkerson of Pack 125, Mangham and Mrs. Roberta Parker, Pack 124, Start, Louisiana.

Next Workshop will be Thursday, March 19 at Julia Wossman Recreation Center, 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Monroe Police Pistol Team To Fire In Match

Four sharpshooters have been chosen to represent the Monroe Police Department at the Municipal Peace Officers conference statewide pistol match in Shreveport Monday.

Major George Whitlow will accompany the team and serve as MPD's delegate to the conference, which runs Feb. 23-26.

Major Whitlow, who currently holds the post of second vice president of the MPOA, will be a pistol team alternate.

Team members are Sgt. E. D. Otwell, Pat. E. N. London, Pat. J. B. Roden and Pat. H. H. Petty.

Dance Planned At Area School

FERRIDAY (Special) — Ferriday High School Student Council President Butch Snyder has announced that a dance will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Ferriday High School gymnasium.

OF BRAND NEW FLOOR SAMPLES

WE'RE MODERNIZING OUR DISPLAYS . . . 25% OF OUR PRESENT FLOOR SAMPLES MUST BE SACRIFICED! WE NEED THE ROOM . . .

We've been trying constantly to display far more samples than can be shown properly in our stores. They're all much too crowded! We're convinced that fewer samples displayed in home-like settings properly color co-ordinated with pictures, mirrors and accessories will make shopping and deciding on purchases for your home so easy you wouldn't dream of buying without shopping at Hemenway's.

To modernize our displays, we must have room. To get this space quickly we are sacrificing a large percentage of our floor samples. To move these surplus samples fast (we expect them to be gone within 3 selling days), will take very drastic price cuts, so we've slashed prices to insure quick buyer response. You can save 25 to 50% on all this fine new furniture – if you act now! Be here early for best selection.

OF BRAND NEW FLOOR SAMPLES

WE'RE MODERNIZING OUR DISPLAYS . . . 25% OF OUR PRESENT FLOOR SAMPLES MUST BE SACRIFICED! WE NEED THE ROOM . . .

We've been trying constantly to display far more samples than can be shown properly in our stores. They're all much too crowded! We're convinced that fewer samples displayed in home-like settings properly color co-ordinated with pictures, mirrors and accessories will make shopping and deciding on purchases for your home so easy you wouldn't dream of buying without shopping at Hemenway's.

To modernize our displays, we must have room. To get this space quickly we are sacrificing a large percentage of our floor samples. To move these surplus samples fast (we expect them to be gone within 3 selling days), will take very drastic price cuts, so we've slashed prices to insure quick buyer response. You can save 25 to 50% on all this fine new furniture – if you act now! Be here early for best selection.

THIS ELEGANT little ranch contains two bedrooms, a full bath, and all the other essentials for a small family or elderly couple. The exterior, with portico, box planters, stone front and redwood gables, will be popular for years to come.

THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Ranch Offers Large-Size Comfort To Small Families

In its headlong rush to shelter today's [illegible] family, the housing industry seems to have turned its back on almost everyone who might not NEED three bedrooms, a [illegible], or a "rumpus" size recreation room or storage space for its treasures.

Architect Samuel Paul set out to remedy this oversight when he designed today's House of the Week.

It is an elegant little ranch tailored to the needs of a couple with one child for example, or an elderly couple with no children at home or even — because Paul paid particular attention to resale value — a young couple who want to start with a small home they can afford and graduate later to a larger one.

This house, design H-17 in the weekly series, contains a basic living area of only 1,043 square feet in over-all dimensions of 53'6" wide by 33'3" deep, which means it would fit comfortably on a 70 by 85' lot.

Yet it is so efficiently designed that for all its snug dimensions it has the charm and liveability of a much larger house — features such as an entrance foyer, screened porch, front portico, attached garage and workshop.

By eliminating expensive and space consuming excesses which small families neither need nor want, architect Paul was able to devote as much space to the essentials as you likely would find only in a much larger home.

Living room, dining room, kitchen and master bedroom all are handsomely proportioned, and there is a 10 by 10' room large enough to use as a second bedroom if needed or as a study, sewing room or what have you.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The gracious exterior of the house has a covered portico, box planters, stone front and redwood gables — features of long standing popularity which protect future resale value.

The interior floor plan, too, is straightforward and without gimmicks, thus certain to remain desirable for years to come.

A fully study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H 17.

It revolves around a central entrance foyer which reduces to a minimum the number of steps to every part of the house. The foyer leads directly into the attractive rear living room with its handsome fireplace and large bay window overlooking the rear patio. From the living room there is direct access both to the screened porch and the dining room.

The dining room, however, is purposely more closely related to the kitchen than the living room; more closely related, that is, to informal living than formal, but adaptable to both. A large glass sliding door leads to the screened porch and, of course, may be left open during warm weather.

One of the most outstanding features of the home is the kitchen, located within a few steps of both the main and service entrances.

It is designed as a sit-down kitchen with low wall cabinets, convenient drawer space and other features which are a luxury to any housewife, but almost a necessity to the elderly housewife.

The entire kitchen is 17 feet long with cabinets lining two walls. At the front wall is a counter top more than 11 feet long with knee space underneath so that all dish washing, cooking and food preparation can be done either sitting or standing.

A further innovation is the extended window bay, providing a ledge for plants and knick knacks without encroaching on the work surface. Sliding-door cabinets are located between the counter top and the window ledge, and an attractive desk top adorns the opposite corner.

The house has no basement, but storage and hobby areas have not been neglected. There are two extra-wide, extra-deep storage bins alongside the garage, a storage closet convenient to the porch for outdoor furniture, and plenty of roomy closets within the house itself.

H-17 STATISTICS

A one-story home with no basement. Contains living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, bath, foyer, screened porch, front portico, one-car garage, workshop. Basic area is 1043 square feet; screened porch adds 93 square feet, portico 156 square feet, garage with work shop and storage bins 301 square feet. Overall dimensions 53'6" by 33'3". Minimum lot recommended: 70' by 85'.

Building Permits Total $100,675 Here Past Week

Building permits totaling $100,675 were issued by the City of Monroe's Inspection Department during the past week, according to Dale Martha, co-ordinator for the department.

He pointed out that $75,000 of this total were issued for the construction of six new homes in Monroe, while $25,675 were issued for additions or alterations to existing structures. Five moving permits were issued and one for the demolishment of a structure.

One permit, for $10,400, was issued to the Peter Rock Baptist Church for the addition of a frame educational building at 709 S. 14th St. Two permits for additions were issued to commercial businesses. A $1,200 permit was written to Obers Laundry for the alteration of a brick laundry at 2403 S. Grand St., and a $1,500 permit was issued to Harbor Oil Co., to add a metal shelter to cover pumps at a service station at 2412 Louisville Ave.

Other addition or alteration permits were issued to Doyle Mazie, add a frame den to residence at 1206 S. 1st St., $500; M. L. Travis Sr., add a carport to residence at 315 Egan St., $500; William Haddad, alter a frame residence at 1508 Adams St., $1,200; A. B. Spence, alter a frame carport on residence at 1502 Cole Ave., $175; J. Lee Stringer, add to frame house at 3524 Lee Ave., $500; J. J. David add to frame residence at 3205 Gordon Ave., $700; E. L. Thompson, add bedroom to frame residence at 903 McGuire, $500; Lloydelle W. Herring, add to frame residence at 3109 Fort Miro, $1,500; T. W. Houghton, add storage room to brick house at 211 Country Club Rd., $1,000; and A. E. Montgomery Jr., add to frame residence at 1804 Island Dr., $3,000.

Permits for construction of the new residences were issued to Thames & Hartness, brick veneer residence at 2017 Spencer Ave., $17,000; community Homes, brick residence at 3900 Curry St., $12,000; Walter Watson, frame residence at 4206 Owl St., $8,000; Mid-South Homes Inc., brick residence at 2012 Park Ave., $10,500; Paul H. White, brick residence at 4109 Forrest St., $14,500 and Ouachita Construction Co., brick residence at 807 Erin St., $13,000.

A demolishing permit was written to Julius Gates, for a frame house at 305 Ninth St., while moving permits were issued to Haywood Scholars, move frame house from 900 Calypso to 3807 Dunlop St.; George Conley, move frame residence from West Monroe to 2810 Oak St.; George Conley, move frame house from West Monroe to outside Monroe; Belle Worley, move frame house from 914 Calypso to outside Monroe; and another to Belle Worley to move a frame house from 910 Calypso to outside the city.

Smart Adventure On 1861 Riverboat

RUN ME A RIVER. By Janice Holt Giles. Houghton Mifflin. $4.95.

What is there about the old riverboat days that makes them so romantic and exciting? They seem to embody the spirit of adventure.

Mrs. Giles' novel is not about Twain's Mississippi, but Kentucky's Green River, from the head of navigation near Bowling Green, northward to the Ohio River near Evansville, Ind.

The "Rambler" was a little 90-ton stern-wheeler that young Bo Cartwright had managed to acquire on mortgage. With the help of his crusty friend Foss, the engineer who nursed its clanking engine, Cartwright made freight runs on the Green, hauling merchandise and livestock. His ambition was to earn enough to get a big steamboat. But there was a war on.

The time was September of 1861 and the "Rambler" was upriver when word came that Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, C.S.A., had occupied Bowling Green. Downriver, there were reports of federal gunboats on their way.

So this is a narrative of five wild days in which Bo and his little steamboat make the run to Evansville, loading more and more cargo from frightened shippers, jumping a dam, picking up a standed old tent showman and his pretty granddaughter—there's the love interest — skirmishing with the Confederates at a lock that was about to be blown up, dodging the federal gunboats.

Even the weather was a hazard, for you never could tell when a mizzle might turn into a real goose-drownder.

There's homely river talk, pioneer self-reliance and rugged courage in this good old wholesome thriller; horse - pistol adventures, knuckle - down escapes and real carrying on.

Bo is a dashing steamboatman all right, the girl Phoebe is mighty valiant, Foss and the zany old actor show they can be real hardy folks when they aren't being comical.

Seems like a lot of folks should get themselves a copy of this book, shuck their shoes, scrooch up their backs toward the old wood-burning stove and settle down for a right good yarn.

Fanciful Plot Goes Along Like Slapstick

HONEY FOR THE BEARS. By Anthony Burgess. Norton. $3.95.

Monkey business in the Russian bear's city of Leningrad is the theme of this English comic novel.

Burgess is in the fashionable current of modern writing, in the sense that he does grotesque satires that are somewhat incoherent and are redolent of the Chekovian - type formula of eccentric debauchery.

His story is about a small entrepreneur in Sussex named Paul Hussey, who sails for Leningrad with a batch of synthetic - fiber dresses which he plans to sell in the Russian black market.

He takes with him his wife Belinda, of American origin, and the first fly in the narrative vodka occurs when she becomes ill during the outward voyage. She lands in a Russian hospital, to be snatched up by a female physician who finally spirits her away.

This is only one of Hussey's troubles. His black market contact has disappeared; he winds up in the clutches of an ex - American who spouts hip talk, all the whole being shadowed by a comic pair of Russian bureaucrats.

Poor Hussey, exposed to some nasty complications involving his questioned sexuality, whip - sawed by money troubles and dazed by his wife's defection, at last is maneuvered into a farcical attempt to get out of Russia alone, by smuggling forth an absurd creature.

Burgess' fanciful plot — we used to call it slapstick — gives him an opportunity to display a wide range of gaucheries on themes poking bitter fun at English, Russian and American weaknesses. His technique is to utilize nightmarish orgies contrasted with the supposed light of reality. His writing style is modern-cryptic.

Very smart stuff, this is, if you go for the current literary sauce.

Child's View Of Adult

HURRAY FOR ME. By S. J. Wilson. Crown. $4.50.

When is the childish world of innocence, trust and security first shaken by the tremors of harsh human reality? Often at the kindergarten age of 5, as in the case of little Bobby Hirshman, in this compassionate novel.

Bobby's world consists of a dingy city street, in an era of stress and unemployment — the Great Depression of the 1930s. Soon, along with a neighbor brat named Libby, he is thrust into the confusing chaos of the classroom. But an even greater trial lies ahead of him.

This is a family story, as we grow acquainted with Bobby's parents, his disdainful elder brother Peter and his mercurial sister Martha. It also is a neighborhood story, encompassing the friendly old Mrs. Greneker, the little shopkeepers and the poverty-pinched occupants of the nearby tenements. But especially it is the story of Bobby and his wise mother. There is a lot of warmth, humor and heart in this story.

But Bobby can't understand what is happening when his mother virtually deserts her household to care for a neighbor woman, whose forlorn little boy, Johnny, has become Bobby's best friend.

Of course 5-year-olds are always baffled by the mystery of adult actions and conversations. Their literal, trustful minds misunderstand and misapprehend the puzzling concepts of adulthood, often with humorous results. And sometimes with pathetic feeling.

Wilson's touch of pathos, like his humor, is gentle, genuine and tender. With amazing skill, he leads you into those anxious vacillations between panic and triumph which stir the minds and emotions of the little people.

THIS ELEGANT little ranch contains two bedrooms, a full bath, and all the other essentials for a small family or elderly couple. The exterior, with portico, box planters, stone front and redwood gables, will be popular for years to come.

THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Ranch Offers Large-Size Comfort To Small Families

In its headlong rush to shelter today's "average family," the housing industry seems to have turned its back on almost everyone who simply doesn't NEED three bedrooms plus expansion, or a stadium-size rumpus room, or storage space for six tricycles.

Architect Samuel Paul set out to remedy this oversight when he designed today's House of the Week.

It is an elegant little ranch tailored to the needs of a couple with one child, for example, or an elderly couple with no children at home, or even — because Paul paid particular attention to resale value — a young couple who want to start with a small home they can afford and graduate later to a larger one.

This house, design H-17 in the weekly series, contains a basic living area of only 1,043 square feet in over-all dimensions of 53'6" wide by 33'3" deep, which means it would fit comfortably on a 70' by 85' lot.

Yet it is so efficiently designed that for all its snug dimensions it has the charm and liveability of a much larger house — features such as an entrance foyer, screened porch, front portico, attached garage and workshop.

By eliminating expensive and space consuming excesses which small families neither need nor want, architect Paul was able to devote as much space to the essentials as you likely would find only in a much larger home.

Living room, dining room, kitchen and master bedroom all are handsomely proportioned, and there is a 10' by 10' room large enough to use as a second bedroom if needed, or as a study, sewing room or what have you.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The gracious exterior of the house has a covered portico, box planters, stone front and redwood gables — features of long standing popularity which protect future resale value.

The interior floor plan, too, is straightforward and without gimmicks, thus certain to remain desirable for years to come.

It revolves around a central entrance foyer which reduces to a minimum the number of steps to every part of the house. The foyer leads directly into the attractive rear living room with its handsome fireplace and large bay window overlooking the rear patio. From the living room there is direct access both to the screened porch and the dining room.

The dining room, however, is purposely more closely related to the kitchen than the living room; more closely related, that is, to informal living than formal, but adaptable to both. A large glass sliding door leads to the screened porch and, of course, may be left open during warm weather.

One of the most outstanding features of the home is the kitchen, located within a few steps of both the main and service entrances.

It is designed as a sit-down kitchen with low wall cabinets, convenient drawer space and other features which are a luxury to any housewife, but almost a necessity to the older housewife.

The entire kitchen is 17 feet long with cabinets lining two walls. At the front wall is a counter top more than 11 feet long with knee space underneath so that all dish washing, cooking and food prepartion can be done either sitting or standing.

A further innovation is the extended window bay, providing a ledge for plants and knickknacks without encroaching on the work surface. Sliding doors cabinets are located between the counter top and the window ledge, and an attractive desk top adorns the opposite corner.

The house has no basement, but storage and hobby areas have not been neglected. There are two extra-wide, extra-deep storage bins alongside the garage, a storage closet convenient to the porch for outdoor furniture, and plenty of roomy closets within the house itself.

A fully study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-17.

H-17 STATISTICS

A one story home with no basement. Contains living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, bath, foyer, screened porch, front portico, one-car garage, workshop. Basic area is 1043 square feet; screened porch adds 93 square feet, portico 150 square feet, garage with work shop and storage bins 401 square feet. Overall dimensions 53'6" by 33'3". Minimum lot recommended: 70' by 85'.

Building Permits Total $100,675 Here Past Week

Building permits totaling $100,675 were issued by the City of Monroe's Inspection Department during the past week, according to Dale Martha, co-ordinator for the department.

He pointed out that $75,000 of this total were issued for the construction of six new homes in Monroe, while $25,675 were issued for additions or alterations to existing structures. Five moving permits were issued and one for the demolishment of a structure.

Smart Adventure On 1861 Riverboat

RUN ME A RIVER. By Janice Holt Giles. Houghton Mifflin. $4.95.

What is there about the old riverboat days that makes them so romantic and exciting? They seem to embody the spirit of adventure.

Mrs. Giles' novel is not about Twain's Mississippi, but Kentucky's Green River, from the head of navigation near Bowling Green, northward to the Ohio River near Evansville, Ind

The "Rambler" was a little 90-ton stern-wheeler that young Bo Cartwright had managed to acquire on mortgage. With the help of his crusty friend Foss, the engineer who nursed its clanking engine, Cartwright made freight runs on the Green, hauling merchandise and livestock. His ambition was to earn enough to get a big steamboat. But there was a war on.

The time was September of 1861 and the "Rambler" was upriver when word came that Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, C.S.A., had occupied Bowling Green. Downriver, there were reports of federal gunboats on their way.

So this is a narrative of five wild days in which Bo and his little steamboat make the run to Evansville, loading more and more cargo from frightened shippers, jumping a dam, picking up a standed old tent showman and his pretty granddaughter—there's the love interest — skirmishing with the Confederates at a lock that was about to be blown up, dodging the federal gunboats.

Even the weather was a hazard, for you never could tell when a mizzle might turn into a real goose-drownder.

There's homely river talk, pioneer self-reliance and rugged courage in this good old wholesome thriller; horse-pistol adventures, knuckle-down escapes and real carrying on.

Bo is a dashing steamboatman all right, the girl Phoebe is mighty valiant, Foss and the zany old actor show they can be real hardy folks when they aren't being comical.

Seems like a lot of folks should get themselves a copy of this book, shuck their shoes, scrooch up their backs toward the old wood-burning stove and settle down for a right good yarn.

Fanciful Plot Goes Along Like Slapstick

HONEY FOR THE BEARS. By Anthony Burgess. Norton. $3.95.

Monkey business in the Russian bear's city of Leningrad is the theme of this English comic novel.

Burgess is in the fashionable current of modern writing, in the sense that he does grotesque satires that are somewhat incoherent and are redolent of the Chekovian-type formula of eccentric debauchery.

His story is about a small entrepreneur in Sussex named Paul Hussey, who sails for Leningrad with a batch of synthetic-fiber dresses which he plans to sell in the Russian black market.

He takes with him his wife Belinda, of American origin, and the first fly in the narrative vodka occurs when she becomes ill during the outward voyage. She lands in a Russian hospital, to be snatched up by a female physician who finally spirits her away.

This is only one of Hussey's troubles. His black market contact has disappered; he winds up in the clutches of an ex-American who spouts hip talk, all the whole being shadowed by a comic pair of Russian bureaucrats.

Poor Hussey, exposed to some nasty complications involving his questioned sexuality, whip-sawed by money troubles and dazed by his wife's defection, at last is maneuvered into a farcical attempt to get out of Russia alone, by smuggling forth an absurd creature.

Burgess' fanciful plot—we used to call it slapstick — gives him an opportunity to display a wide range of gaucheries on themes poking bitter fun at English, Russian and American weaknesses. His technique is to utilize nightmarish orgies contrasted with the supposed light of reality. His writing style is modern-cryptic.

Very smart stuff, this is, if you go for the current literary sauce.

Child's View Of Adult

HURRA Y FOR ME. By S. J. Wilson. Crown. $4.50.

When is the childish world of innocence, trust and security first shaken by the tremors of harsh human reality? Often at the kindergarten age of 5, as in the case of little Bobby Hirshman, in this compassionate novel.

Bobby's world consists of a dingy city street, in an era of stress and unemployment — the Great Depression of the 1930s. Soon, along with a neighbor brat named Libby, he is thrust into the confusing chaos of the classroom. But an even greater trial lies ahead of him.

This is a family story, as we grow acquainted with Bobby's parents, his disdainful elder brother Peter and his mercurial sister Martha. It also is a neighborhood story, encompassing the friendly old Mrs. Greneker, the little shopkeepers and the poverty-pinched occupants of the nearby tenements. But especially it is the story of Bobby and his wise mother. There is a lot of warmth, humor and heart in this story.

But Bobby can't understand what is happening when his mother virtually deserts her household to care for a neighbor woman, whose forlorn little boy, Johnny, has become Bobby's best friend.

Of course 5-year-olds are always baffled by the mystery of adult actions and conversations. Their literal, trustful minds misunderstand and misapprehend the puzzling concepts of adulthood, often with humorous results. And sometimes with pathetic feeling.

Wilson's touch of pathos, like his humor, is gentle, genuine and tender. With amazing skill, he leads you into those anxious vacillations between panic and triumph which stir the minds and emotions of the little people.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

1 Book For Each Person In Parish

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This year as we approach our goal of one book per capita for the population of Ouachita Parish, we are going back and filling in the best books of recent years, which we were not able to purchase at the time they appeared, because of shortage of funds. It is most satisfying to see these lovely books which fill in gaps in the library collection. Books added during the past week are especially interesting. Lester Cohen is the author of "The New York Graphic" which was a most unusual newspaper which started a new style of journalism in the twenties. "Meditation: The Inward Art" is the title of the book by William Bradford Smith, which can be heartily recommended for Lenten reading. Many people are interested in Zen Buddhism and the book, "The Essentials of Zen Buddhism" by Daisetz T. Suzuki gives much new information on this subject.

We hear much today about conservatives and liberals in political views and a new book by Clinton Rossiter explains just what it means to be a conservative. Dudley Sears has written a book which we should all read called "Cuba, the Economic and Social Revolution." It explains much about that troubled country. "Of Time, Work and Leisure" by Sebastian De Grazia is a very interesting book in the field of economics as is "Managing Your Money" by Jacob Kay Lasser. Much is being discussed today about the new mathematics, but there are not many books available on the subject. We are happy to have a new one by Constance Reid called "A Long Way From Euclid." Two new science books are "The Mysterious Sky" by Lester del Rey and "Life and Energy" by Isaac Asimov.

Books on health, nutrition and the preparation of food are always in demand and there are several new ones on this subject. "Your Food and Your Health" by Richard Carter is a book of startling scientific discoveries about diet and how it affects you. "The Best of Near Eastern Cookery" by Ann Seranne is an interesting addition to the cookbook collection. "The Unharried Hostess" by Rebecca Reis is a book which everyone who entertains without the help of a servant could use and enjoy. "Guide to Successful Entertaining" by Virginia Stanton is another useful book in the field of entertaining. "The Art of Carving" published by the House and Garden magazine is a book which men, who are not satisfied with their carving ability, should certainly want to see. Are you looking for a job? Allan Rood has written a very interesting book called "Job Strategy," which should be most helpful.

Our public is particularly interested in books in the fine arts field and we have a number of new ones for them this week. "Ways with Art; 50 Techniques for Teaching Children" was written by Harold Stevens and should be most useful to teachers. "Art Before Columbus" by Andre Emmerich is a very fine book dealing with the art of ancient Mexico. "The Mexican House" by Verna Cook Shipway is perfectly lovely book dealing with Mexican domestic architecture. Both of these books were memorials for one of our departed patrons who enjoyed visiting Mexico. Coin collecting is a hobby which many people enjoy. The latest book on this subject is "Coin Collecting in a Nutshell," by Ted C. Wear. "A Fortune in the Junk Pile" by Dorothy H. Jenkins is a book which tells which antiques are valuable and which are not. Another book in the antique field is "The New Antiques" by George Grotz, which deals with the knowing and buying of Victorian furniture. "Decorating Is Fun" is the new edition of the work by Dorothy Draper, which has been so popular over the years.

The many people in this community who play contract bridge will be interested in the new book by John B. Duncan, called "New Dimensions in Bidding in Contract Bridge." Frederic Remington's "Own Outdoors" is a very lovely book depicting the scenes which this great artist of the west painted. A new book in the field of sports is "The Fireside Book of Horse Racing" edited by David F. Woods.

Critical works dealing with the literary work of authors is increasingly in demand and we are happy to have several new titles in this field this week. They are "Walter de la Mare" by Leonard Clark; Lewis Carroll" by Roger Green; "Eleanor Farjeon" by Eileen Colwell, "Beatrix Potter" by Marcus Crouch, "J. M. Barrie" by Roge L. Green and "Rudyard Kipling" by Rosemary Sutcliff. These books will be especially valuable to students of children's literature, a course which many people take at Northeast Louisiana College. Two books which will be valuable to the student of literature is "Petrarch and his World" written by Morris Bishop and "A New History of Spanish Literature" by Richard E. Chandler.

Books of travel are always in demand and there are several new titles this week. "West With the Sun" by Stuart Cloete is a well-written account of a trip around the world. "Bed Breakfast and Bottled Water" by Kenneth R. Morgan is a humorous, although valid travel guide to Europe. "One Foot in Washington" by Ellen Proxmire is an account of the adventures of a Senator's wife. "An Introduction to Brazil" by Charles Wagley contains much up-to-date information. There are three new biographies this week: "Edison" by Rex Beasley, "Tom Horn: Man of the West" by Lauran Paine and "Hong-Kong Surgeon" by Li Shu Fan. A lovely and interesting reference book is "Civil War Collector's Encyclopedia" which contains information on arms, uniforms and equipment used in this struggle. The author is Francis A. Lord.

WINTER WHITE

The trick to wearing winter whites with minimum worry and expense is to become a hangtag reader — selecting only garments labeled as washable whites. Then launder them often in warm soap or detergent suds and rinses.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

If you take advantage of the I-20 route to culture as well as the local outlets and inroads, you might say this is North Louisiana's music festival week. Major attractions are booked or opening for extended runs on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Louisiana Tech Concert Association gets things going Wednesday with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra — two performances, 2:45 and 8 p.m. at Howard Auditorium.

The Northeast State series will feature one of the season's top attractions on Thursday in the form of the Chicago Opera Ballet. Curtain time is 8:15 at Neville Auditorium.

Little Theatre of Monroe will commence a 10-performance run of the musical, "Once Upon A Mattress," at Strauss Playhouse Friday at 8:15 p.m.

SHELL GAME

This puts the writer in the position of a shell game player in trying to choose which of the events to write about first. If he picks any of the three, boosters of the separate organizations backing the above events are ready with the accusing finger of "partiality."

But there is more to be said than a mere "what's coming" followed by the date. So what'll we do?

One escape route would be to dodge the future entirely and go over some of the finer points of last week's highly successful "Follies" production by the Monroe Junior Charity League.

But that would only delay the frying pan as the grease grows hotter. Mention of the "shell game" has already pointed toward Little Theatre's event because it's built around the old pea-under-the-mattress test for a real princess. Just a step away from the pea-under-the shell game!

So the writer is prejudiced; there's the proof.

Then the afternoon Tech program features Brahm's second symphony and the writer's brother went to Tech. Brahms and brotherhood, just like that, and the writing is slanted again.

This brings us around to the Northeast series and the Chicago Opera Ballet. Ruth Page, overall director of the troupe, brought a top grade performance here several seasons ago. From all forecasts, it looks as though Thursday evening's bill will offer a similar measure of excellent ballet. Simon Sadoff will conduct the pit orchestra (it was quite adequate before) and stars will be Kirsten Simone and Henning Kronstam.

On the program are scheduled "Carmen," the Pas de Deux from "The Sleeping Beauty," by Tchaikowsky, the "Die Fledermaus," by Johann Strauss. Even if you don't like ballet, the Strauss tunes in the post-intermission portion are worth the evening.

MUSICAL

Mention of Strauss brings us back to the playhouse of that name on Lamy Lane in this "deep analysis" study by way of next week's calendar. Murray Burfford will play the part of the sure enough princess in "Once Upon at Mattress," and Ronn Robinson will pay opposite her as Prince Dauntless. Dick Steff and his orchestra will be in the pit supported by Velma Willy, who has served as pianist during rehearsals. Director Richard Clark says the score to the musical is subtle and catchy and expressed appreciation to the accompanist for bringin gout the finer musical points to the cast.

SYMPHONY

We've pretty well covered the afternoon performance of the Minneapolis Symphony on the Tech bill. In addition to the Brahms selection, there's also the "Roman Carnival Overture," by Berlioz for the curtain raiser. In the evening, there's the Beethoven second symphony and the "Romeo and Juliet Suite No. 2," by Prokofieff. Associate Director Frederick Fennell will direct the afternoon performance and Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, the orchestra's permanent conductor, will be in charge for the evening concert.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

1 Book For Each Person In Parish

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This year as we approach our goal of one book per capita for the population of Ouachita Parish, we are going back and filling in the best books of recent years, which we were not able to purchase at the time they appeared, because of shortage of funds. It is most satisfying to see these lovely books which fill in gaps in the library collection. Books added during the past week are especially interesting. Lester Cohen is the author of "The New York Graphic" which was a most unusual newspaper which started a new style of journalism in the twenties. "Meditation; The Inward Art" is the title of the book by William Bradford Smith, which can be heartily recommended for Lenten reading. Many people are interested in Zen Buddhism and the book, "The Essentials of Zen Buddhism" by Daisetz T. Suzuki gives much new information on this subject.

We hear much today about conservatives and liberals in political views and a new book by Clinton Rossiter explains just what it means to be a conservative. Dudley Sears has written a book which we should all read called "Cuba, the Economic and Social Revolution." It explains much about that troubled country. "Of Time, Work and Leisure" by Sebastian De Grazia is a very interesting book in the field of economics as is "Managing Your Money" by Jacob Kay Lasser. Much is being discussed today about the new mathematics, but there are not many books available on the subject. We are happy to have a new one by Constance Reid called "A Long Way From Euclid." Two new science books are "The Mysterious Sky" by Lester del Rey and "Life and Energy" by Isaac Asimov.

Books on health, nutrition and the preparation of food are always in demand and there are several new ones on this subject. "Your Food and Your Health" by Richard Carter is a book of startling scientific discoveries about diet and how it affects you. "The Best of Near Eastern Cookery" by Ann Seranne is an interesting addition to the cookbook collection. "The Unharried Hostess" by Rebecca Reis is a book which everyone who entertains without the help of a servant could use and enjoy. "Guide to Successful Entertaining" by Virginia Stanton is another useful book in the field of entertaining. "The Art of Carving" published by the House and Garden magazine is a book which men, who are not satisfied with their carving ability, should certainly want to see. Are you looking for a job? Allan Rood has written a very interesting book called "Job Strategy," which should be most helpful.

Our public is particularly interested in books in the fine arts field and we have a number of new ones for them this week. "Ways with Art; 50 Techniques for Teaching Children" was written by Harold Stevens and should be most useful to teachers. "Art Before Columbus" by Andre Emerich is a very fine book dealing with the art of ancient Mexico. "The Mexican House" by Verna Cook Shipway is perfectly lovely book dealing with Mexican domestic architecture. Both of these books were memorials for one of our departed patrons who enjoyed visiting Mexico. Coin collecting is a hobby which many people enjoy. The latest book on this subject is "Coin Collecting in a Nutshell," by Ted C. Wear. "A Fortune in the Junk Pile" by Dorothy H. Jenkins is a book which tells which antiques are valuable and which are not. Another book in the antique field is "The New Antiques" by George Grotz, which deals with the knowing and buying of Victorian furniture. "Decorating Is Fun" is the new edition of the work by Dorothy Draper, which has been so popular over the years.

The many people in this community who play contract bridge will be interested in the new book by John B. Duncan, called "New Dimensions in Bidding in Contract Bridge." Frederic Remington's "Own Outdoors" is a very lovely book depicting the scenes which this great artist of the west painted. A new book in the field of sports is "The Fireside Book of Horse Racing" edited by David F. Woods.

Critical works dealing with the literary work of authors is increasingly in demand and we are happy to have several new titles in this field this week. They are "Walter de la Mare" by Leonard Clark; Lewis Carroll" by Roger Green; "Eleanor Farjeon" by Eileen Colwell, "Beatrix Potter" by Marcus Crouch, "J. M. Barrie" by Roge L. Green and "Rudyard Kipling" by Rosemary Sutcliff. These books will be especially valuable to students of children's literature, a course which many people take at Northeast Louisiana College. Two books which will be valuable to the student of literature is "Petrarch and his World" written by Morris Bishop and "A New History of Spanish Literature" by Richard E. Chandler.

Books of travel are always in demand and there are several new titles this week. "West With the Sun" by Stuart Cloete is a well-written account of a trip around the world. "Bed Breakfast and Bottled Water" by Kenneth R. Morgan is a humorous, although valid travel guide to Europe. "One Foot in Washington" by Ellen Proxmire is an account of the adventures of a Senator's wife. "An Introduction to Brazil" by Charles Wagley contains much up-to-date information. There are three new biographies this week: "Edison" by Rex Beasley, "Tom Horn; Man of the West" by Lauran Paine and "Hong-Kong Surgeon" by Li Shu Fan. A lovely and interesting reference book is "Civil War Collector's Encyclopedia" which contains information on arms, uniforms and equipment used in this struggle. The author is Francis A. Lord.

WINTER WHITE

The trick to wearing winter whites with minimum worry and expense is to become a hangtag reader — selecting only garments labeled as washable whites. Then launder them often in warm soap or detergent suds and rinses.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

If you take advantage of the I-20 route to culture as well as the local outlets and inroads, you might say this is North Louisiana's music festival week. Major attractions are booked or opening for extended runs on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Louisiana Tech Concert Association gets things going Wednesday with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra — two performances, 2:45 and 8 p.m. at Howard Auditorium.

The Northeast State series will feature one of the season's top attractions on Thursday in the form of the Chicago Opera Ballet. Curtain time is 8:15 at Neville Auditorium.

Little Theatre of Monroe will commence a 10-performance run of the musical, "Once Upon A Mattress," at Strauss Playhouse Friday at 8:15 p.m.

SHELL GAME

This puts the writer in the position of a shell game player in trying to choose which of the events to write about first. If he picks any of the three, boosters of the separate organizations backing the above events are ready with the accusing finger of "partiality."

But there is more to be said than a mere "what's coming" followed by the date. So what'll we do?

One escape route would be to dodge the future entirely and go over some of the finer points of last week's highly successful "Follies" production by the Monroe Junior Charity League.

But that would only delay the frying pan as the grease grows hotter. Mention of the "shell game" has already pointed toward Little Theatre's event because it's built around the old pea-under-the-mattress test for a real princess. Just a step away from the pea-under-the shell game!

So the writer is prejudiced; there's the proof.

Then the afternoon Tech program features Brahm's second symphony and the writer's brother went to Tech. Brahms and brotherhood, just like that, and the writing is slanted again.

This brings us around to the Northeast series and the Chicago Opera Ballet. Ruth Page, overall director of the troupe, brought a top grade performance here several seasons ago. From all forecasts, it looks as though Thursday evening's bill will offer a similar measure of excellent ballet. Simon Sadoff will conduct the pit orchestra (it was quite adequate before) and stars will be Kirsten Simone and Henning Kronstam.

On the program are scheduled "Carmen," the Pas de Deux from "The Sleeping Beauty," by Tchaikowsky, the "Die Fledermaus," by Johann Strauss. Even if you don't like ballet, the Strauss tunes in the post-intermission portion are worth the evening.

MUSICAL

Mention of Strauss brings us back to the playhouse of that name on Lamy Lane in this "deep analysis" study by way of next week's calendar. Murray Burfford will play the part of the sure enough princess in "Once Upon at Mattress," and Ronn Robinson will pay opposite her as Prince Dauntless. Dick Steff and his orchestra will be in the pit supported by Velma Willy, who has served as pianist during rehearsals. Director Richard Clark says the score to the musical is subtle and catchy and expressed appreciation to the accompanist for bringin gout the finer musical points to the cast.

SYMPHONY

We've pretty well covered the afternoon performance of the Minneapolis Symphony on the Tech bill. In addition to the Brahms selection, there's also the "Roman Carnival Overture," by Berlioz for the curtain raiser. In the evening, there's the Beethoven second symphony and the "Romeo and Juliet Suite No. 2," by Prokofieff. Associate Director Frederick Fennell will direct the afternoon performance and Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, the orchestra's permanent conductor, will be in charge for the evening concert.

Pakistan Shifting From U.S. To Red Chinese

NEWS ANALYSIS

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP) — Smiling affably, President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan has spelled out charges that U.S. diplomats have been dreading to hear.

It is clear, Ayub said, that Communist China has only peaceful intentions in Asia but that new tensions are being created by U.S. foreign policy in India and massive U.S. and Indian military preparations.

Coming between long sessions of secret talks with the visiting Premier Chou En-lai of Red China, Ayub's statements appeared to put the official stamp of approval on Pakistan's gradual swing away from a strongly pro-American stand to a middle road diplomacy with a definite leaning toward Peking.

Heavily larded with a warning that neighboring India threatens Pakistan, Ayub's statements also seemed to doom Washington's diplomatic goal of linking Pakistan's 100 million persons with India's 450 million in a joint anti-Communist defense of the Indian Subcontinent.

Ayub sounded like a neutral observer eager to mediate differences between the United States and Red China. He offered his "good offices."

Commenting on Chou's nine-day visit to Pakistan, Ayub said Communist China's "intentions are peaceful. The Chinese are prepared to be reasonable with anyone who is prepared to be reasonable with them."

Complaining that U. S. military aid to India will be used "against smaller neighbors," Ayub told newsmen:

"During the last couple of years, the United States has been doing certain things in India which we think are against our security. Serving global interests is all very well, but if it is done at the cost of your friends' security it's not all that good a thing."

This was a reference to the U. S. argument that it's $60 million military aid program to India also is helping Pakistan because it protects the subcontinent from the Communist Chinese.

India's army, Ayub said, is more than strong enough to cope with any threat from its northern borders with China and India is going to use its increased strength "to try and intimidate people."

"The U. S. effort," he said, "only is creating more problems."

At no time during the week he squired Chou around did Ayub refer to the U. S. program that has given Pakistan $3 billion worth of food, clothing and industrial equipment and more than a billion dollars in military hardware since 1951.

MENDED HEARTS OFFER NEW HOPE

Monroe Morning World
SUNDAY FEATURES
Editorials, Spotlight, Sports
Monroe, La., February 23, 1964 1-B

A committee composed of persons who have undergone heart surgery, is helping bring new hope to others who need corrective surgery for ailing hearts. Here is a report on how the organization works.

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

A West Monroe woman, disabled by heart disease, now has two children and the promise of a full, happy life. A student at Northeast State College, once unable to walk two blocks, now goes on five mile hunting trips.

Both are members of the newly organized Mended Hearts Committee, composed of 10 local residents who have had major heart surgery.

Each is now available to counsel others who face the "unknown" of heart surgery procedures.

'FIRST' IN AREA

The committee, a "first" in this area, was organized by Mrs. George Forman, a member of the Board of Directors of the Louisiana Heart Association, and Pat Mitchell, of Monroe, field director for the northern region of the Louisiana Heart Association.

Local physicians recommended 10 persons for membership in the committee, patterned after an organization in Houston, Tex.

The members are available to relate their heart surgery experiences to those slated to undergo similar surgery.

Contact is made through the Louisiana Heart Association's local office at 124 N. Grand St.

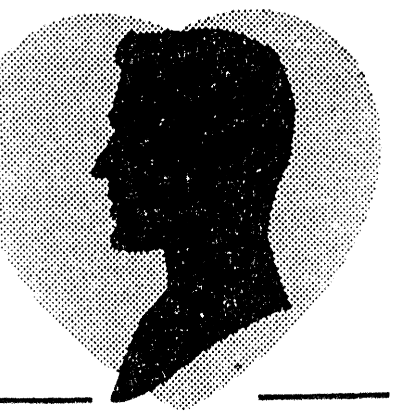
"We have found that when people are scheduled for heart surgery or treatment," explains Mrs. Forman, "they want to ask someone who knows about the experience, what they can expect, how often their family can come to visit and where their family can stay.

"We thought it would have a lot of value in the community," she added.

"We're trying to promote the hope which is involved here," comments Mitchell.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Committee members are Mrs. Lena Wallace, Randy Dew, Mrs. Johnnie Malloy, George P. Adams III, Mrs. R. L. Smith, Mrs. Minnie Hazel, Mrs. C. E. Wadley, Mrs. O. L. Blazier, Mrs. C. E. Burns and Mrs. Lavelle Diffey.



Mrs. Wallace has had both open heart surgery and vascular surgery in which dacron tubing was placed in the aorta (major blood vessel leading from the heart) and extending down into her left leg.

"In the past I have talked to any number of people and given them some encouragement," reveals Mrs. Wallace. "I have told them what I have been through and how wonderful it is that such a thing can be done to prolong your life."

Diptheria at the age of eight years produced a rheumatic condition of her heart, and caused a valve to narrow.

"From 1955 to 1958 I became progressively worse," she recalls. "The blood wasn't circulating properly. If I became the least big tired or had any little excitement, I would have heart failure.

"I had heart failures any number of times. When this happens, you can't breathe — no oxygen gets into your system, and without immediate help, you die.

"Each time, I was rushed to the hospital, and with medical help I came out of it.

Her physician warned that her condition would not improve without heart surgery.

OPENED VALVE

Dr. Benton Cooley successfully opened the valve, during heart surgery at Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex. in January of 1958.

Two weeks after surgery she was able to return home — but then developed pneumonia.

After recovering, she was ready for her daughter to take here home when she was suddenly paralyzed from the waist down.

"The aorta had blocked," Mrs. Wallace stated. "I had surgery here. Then, exactly one year later, I was sitting in my home and had the same thing happen again.

"They put me on a plane and sent me back to Methodist hospital and Dr. Cooley.

"I had vascular surgery — there was a dacron tubing placed in the aorta from the level of my kidney down to my lower abdomen, forming a Y, and then going down my leg a short distance."

LEADS NORMAL LIFE

Unable to work before the heart surgery, Mrs. Wallace now leads a normal life.

Mrs. L. A. Malloy resides in the piney hill section of the White's Ferry Road with her husband and two young daughetrs.

Until five years ago, she had no hope of a happy family life, because heart condition prevented her from having children.

Heart disease had brought her tragedy more than once. When she was in her early 20's, her first husband died of a heart attack.

She developed a rheumatic heart as a child, but she was 21 before "real, serious trouble" occurred.

"When I was 21 and working at the paper mill in Bastrop," she recalls, "they gave me less than six months to live."

When she was 26 she remarried, and longed for children.

Five years ago, her heart condition became so bad that, "I couldn't walk a block, or make a bed. I couldn't have lived long."

Her weight dropped to 100 pounds, as the mitral valve in her heart continued to narrow, almost to the closing point.

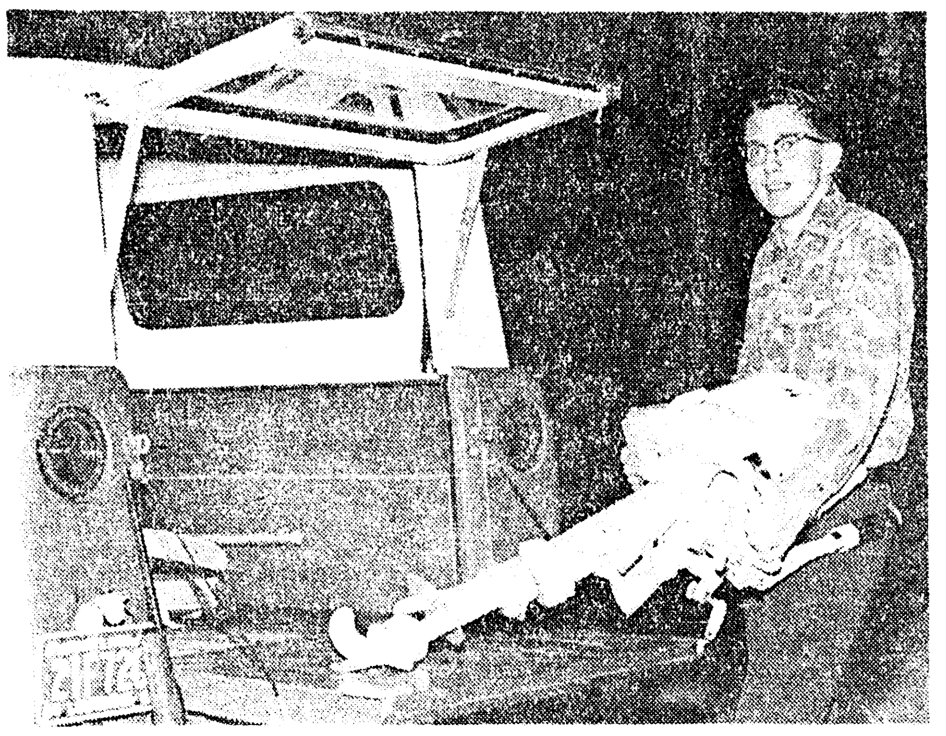
SURGERY ESSENTIAL

"I couldn't have lived without surgery," she admits. "My whole system wa straving for blood. I could't retain food."

The Malloys had spent their life savings on medical needs, including doctors and hospital care.

"I just didn't want to go to Charity Hospital in New Orleans — I wasn't a charity case, but I couldn't have had any better treatment anywhere," she relates. "I was admitted through the LSU medical school five years ago."

Through surgery, physicians opened the mitral valve, and Mrs. Malloy's most recent electrocardiogram was "the best I've ever had."



RANDY DEW, 18, loads heavy outboard motor into back of vehicle — easy enough to do now, but dangerous before he underwent open heart surgery which included placing a nylon patch in the center of his heart and supplying an artificial blood vessel. An avid hunter and fisherman, Randy treks five miles with ease . . . but once couldn't walk more than three blocks. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)

OPEN HEART SURGERY five years ago made it possible for Mrs. (L. A.) Johnnie Malloy to be well enough to have the family she long had dreamed of—Wanda, left, almost four-year-old, and Pam, two. Mrs. Malloy holds a reminder of the days immediately after surgery, when she crocheted this spread to prevent her left arm from becoming stiff. (Staff photo by B en Bradford)

Now, she is able to work enough around the house so that she has to "take pills to keep fluid from forming. My doctor says I overwork and that's what causes the fluids to form."

While recuperating from the surgery, physicians warned her to use her left arm and leg so they wouldn't become stiff.

"I crocheted a bedspread," she smiles. The spread now is a memento of that time.

Mrs. Malloy credits a combination of the power of prayer with the skill of the physicians as the life saving factor in her life.

"The Rev. Don Weininger, who was our pastor then, went down to the hospital with us, and many people were praying for me.

"During the operation, a rumble which I had had in my chest disappeared. The doctors don't know why — I just feel like prayer did it."

In the past five years, the family has grown with the addition of two little girls, Wanda, almost four, and Pam, two.

"I'll tell you, it sure made a change in our lives. Both of us are getting kind of old," says Mrs. Malloy, who admits to being 39.

The Malloy's mailman told Mrs. W. E. Burns about Mrs. Malloy's recovery.

Mrs. Burns, who was suffering from a heart condition, then contacted Mrs. Malloy.

"She says that I helped her," says Mrs. Malloy. "I tried to talk to her the best I knew how.

"I remembered how it had been before surgery. I had very despondent spells. I've talked with other heart patients and found that it affects the nervous system, too. I really felt sorry for myself.

"I think life began for me after I had the operation. Before that, I felt I just existed. I'd spent months bed-ridden."

Mrs. Burns, an Arkansas Road resident, also underwent surgery to have a mitral valve opened, and an aorta transplant.

"She has had heart surgery one time before and they couldn't help her," recalls Mrs. Malloy. "She was so worried. We never did meet in person until we attended the Mended Hearts meeting."

KNOWS THE VALUE

Eighteen-year-old Randy Dew of West Monroe underwent heart surgery twice, and knows the value of talking with another heart patient before surgery.

"I'm glad to get a chance to say something and possibly help somebody else. I guess the heart surgery available now is about the greatest thing that has happened in a long time. I know for me it is."

A freshman studying business administration at Northeast Louisiana State College, Randy had surgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore when he was two years old, and again when he was 14.

The first operation before "open heart surgery" was discovered, "gave him time" but did not completely correct his heart condition.

"Without it, there wasn't any chance. They took an artery from my right arm and re-routed it to connect to my heart." This corrected a situation caused by an enlarged valve cover which was preventing blood from entering the heart properly.

In 1959 Randy had open heart surgery. A hole ("about the size of a quarter in the center wall of my heart"), was closed with a nylon patch.

A constricted vessel was replaced by an artificial vein going into the heart. An enlarged valve also was corrected.

"I was pretty lucky," he says. "The one who had surgery right before me and right after me died."

"Without the surgery, I could have died at any time. More than likely, another 15 years would have been all I could have expected.

"Before the surgery, anytime anyone caught a cold, I would catch it. My blood did not receive enough oxygen and wasn't purified enough for me to be able to combat disease."

He pulled through a brain abcess during this period . . . caused by a virus.

For Randy having a normal heart now is "just like having a new eye. You don't know you miss so much until you can do it.

"I can do anything I want to do; the only limitation they put on me was, 'don't play competitive football.'

"Before surgery, I couldn't walk two blocks. Now I go out and hunt and walk four or five miles at a time and never think anything about it."

A Monroe youngster, George P. Adams III, had the same four things wrong with his heart — a hole in the middle wall, enlargement of the heart, a bad pulmonary artery and closed valve.

Now 11, he underwent surgery, also at John Hopkins, two years ago. Earlier surgery, at the age of four, had given him a lease on life but his activities were strictly limited.

George's attitude immediately after surgery was, "It's over, now let's forget it."

But the Neville High freshman has experienced a complete reversal in his outlook on the situation.

Now he is intensely interested in helping others know what faces them in heart surgery and the "new life" afterwards.

Tiny, Potent Electronic Circuits Added To Arsenal

By JOHN WOODFIELD

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Tiny electronic circuits, barely visible to the naked eye, are the latest addition in America's arsenal for space.

Known as molecular electronic circuits, the technique squeezes into tiny wafers the functions ordinarily performed by an entire assembly of electronic components.

The wafers contain as many as 50 separate electronic components with no moving parts and few connections. The wafers are smaller than the head of a match and thinner than a match book cover.

Already, 300 of the tiny circuits replace conventional circuits 1,000 times their size in every Minuteman ballistics missile. Others are used in the Apollo missile program, the mobile medium-range ballistics missile, the Titan III, the TFX aircraft and several top-secret space programs.

TINY TV CAMERAS

Their development has made possible television cameras 7½ inches long and weighing only 27 ounces; computers weighing 10 ounces, and a radio receiver weighing less than 8 ounces.

Molecular electronics, also known as integrated circuitry, originated in 1948. Until last year, however, development had been slow. Now, it is meteoric.

Laboratory workers start with a silicon wafer the size of a quarter, and .005 of an inch thick. Eventually, this wafer will house from 20 to 1,000 separate circuits each with up to 50 components.

The surface of the wafer is first highly polished. Then each side is masked by a layer of oxide. Transistors, diodes and other electronic components are formed on the wafer's surface by opening tiny windows in the oxide and driving selected impurities into the wafer through the openings. Masks of different designs are placed on the face of the wafer to achieve the different patterns that make up the circuit just as a stencil is used to print an address on a box.

The silicon wafer is untouched by hand from start to finish. Instead, it is handled by tweezers or vacuum pencils and always in a laboratory environment. When the wafer is cut into the individual circuits, the units are so small they can be handled only through use of microscopes.

C. Harry Knowles, general manager of the Westinghouse Molecular Electronics Division, predicts that $70 million worth of molecular circuits will be produced in 1965, $100 million in 1966 and several hundred million dollars worth by 1970.

Westinghouse, one of the pioneers in the field, has just started an entire new complex near Baltimore which solely produces molecular electronic circuits.

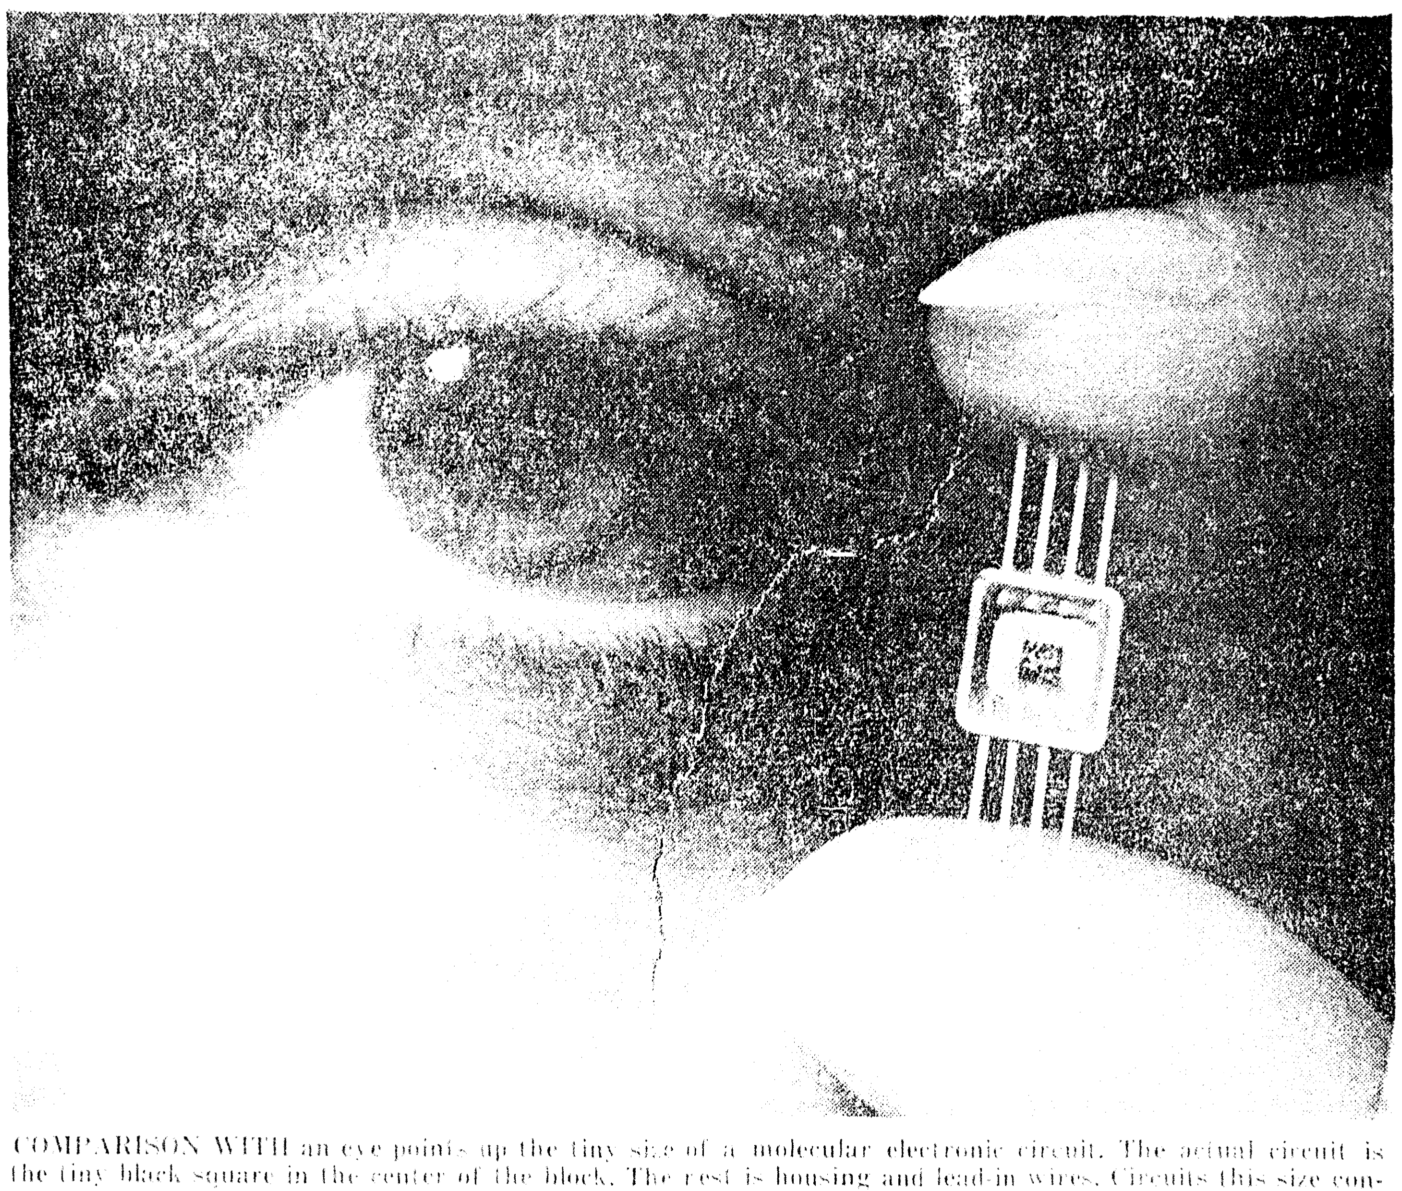
Knowles says that one day soon, perhaps in 1966, car radios will use molecular electronic circuitry and two-way radios no bigger than a wrist watch will be in mass production.

Westinghouse already is supplying the components for tiny radio transmitter-receivers that will be built into the helmets of combat troops.

Knowles says that by 1970 there will be hearing aids so tiny the entire unit, including battery, can fit inside the ear.

Even smaller units are foreseen.

These would be true molecular electronics involving silicon wafers only one molecule thick. Circuits would be made by changing the molecular structure of the wafer — thus the name "molecular electronics."



COMPARISON WITH an eye points up the tiny size of a molecular electronic circuit. The actual circuit is the tiny black square in the center of the block. The rest is housing and lead-in wires. Circuits this size contain as many as 50 separate electronic components. The tiny circuits, in use in Minutemen ballistics missiles, are expected to have a big future in space and other developments. MENDED HEARTS OFFER NEW HOPE

A committee composed of persons who have undergone heart surgery, is helping bring new hope to others who need corrective surgery for ailing hearts. Here is a report on how the organization works.

A West Monroe woman, disabled by heart disease, now has two children and the promise of a full, happy life. A student at Northeast State College, once unable to walk two blocks, now goes on five mile hunting trips.

Both are members of the newly organized Mended Hearts Committee, composed of 10 local residents who have had major heart surgery.

Each is now available to counsel others who face the "unknown" of heart surgery procedures.

'FIRST' IN AREA

The committee, a "first" in this area, was organized by Mrs. George Forman, a member of the Board of Directors of the Louisiana Heart Association, and Pat Mitchell, of Monroe, field director for the northern region of the Louisiana Heart Association.

Local physicians recommended 10 persons for membership in the committee, patterned after an organization in Houston, Tex.

The members are available to relate their heart surgery experiences to those slated to undergo similar surgery.

Contact is made through the Louisiana Heart Association's local office at 124 N. Grand St.

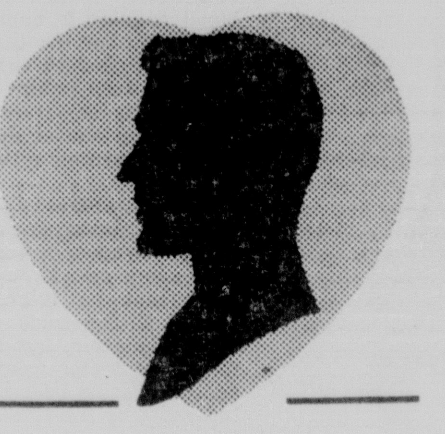
"We have found that when people are scheduled for heart surgery or treatment," explains Mrs. Forman, "they want to ask someone who knows about the experience, what they can expect, how often their family can come to visit and where their family can stay.

"We thought it would have a lot of value in the community," she added.

"We're trying to promote the hope which is involved here," comments Mitchell.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Committee members are Mrs. Lena Wallace, Randy Dew, Mrs. Johnnie Malloy, George P. Adams III, Mrs. R. L. Smith, Mrs. Minnie Hazel, Mrs. C. E. Wadley, Mrs. O. L. Blazier, Mrs. C. E. Burns and Mrs. Lavelle Diffey.



Mrs. Wallace has had both open heart surgery and vascular surgery in which dacron tubing was placed in the aorta (major blood vessel leading from the heart) and extending down into her left leg.

"In the past I have talked to any number of people and given them some encouragement," reveals Mrs. Wallace. "I have told them what I have been through and how wonderful it is that such a thing can be done to prolong your life."

Diptheria at the age of eight years produced a rheumatic condition of her heart, and caused a valve to narrow.

"From 1955 to 1958 I became progressively worse," she recalls. "The blood wasn't circulating properly. If I became the least big tired or had any little excitement, I would have heart failure.

"I had heart failures any number of times. When this happens, you can't breathe — no oxygen gets into your system, and without immediate help, you die.

"Each time, I was rushed to the hospital, and with medical help I came out of it.

Her physician warned that her condition would not improve without heart surgery.

OPENED VALVE

Dr. Benton Cooley successfully opened the valve, during heart surgery at Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex. in January of 1958.

Two weeks after surgery she was able to return home — but then developed pneumonia.

After recovering, she was ready for her daughter to take here home when she was suddenly paralyzed from the waist down.

"The aorta had blocked," Mrs. Wallace stated. "I had surgery here. Then, exactly one year later, I was sitting in my home and had the same thing happen again.

"They put me on a plane and sent me back to Methodist hospital and Dr. Cooley.

"I had vascular surgery — there was a dacron tubing placed in the aorta from the level of my kidney down to my lower abdomen, forming a Y, and then going down my leg a short distance."

LEADS NORMAL LIFE

Unable to work before the heart surgery, Mrs. Wallace now leads a normal life.

Mrs. L. A. Malloy resides in the piney hill section of the White's Ferry Road with her husband and two young daughetrs.

Until five years ago, she had no hope of a happy family life, because heart condition prevented her from having children.

Heart disease had brought her tragedy more than once. When she was in her early 20's, her first husband died of a heart attack.

She developed a rheumatic heart as a child, but she was 21 before "real, serious trouble" occurred.

"When I was 21 and working at the paper mill in Bastrop," she recalls, "they gave me less than six months to live."

When she was 26 she remarried, and longed for children.

Five years ago, her heart condition became so bad that, "I couldn't walk a block, or make a bed. I couldn't have lived long."

Her weight dropped to 100 pounds, as the mitral valve in her heart continued to narrow, almost to the closing point.

SURGERY ESSENTIAL

"I couldn't have lived without surgery," she admits. "My whole system wa straving for blood. I could't retain food."

The Malloys had spent their life savings on medical needs, including doctors and hospital care.

"I just didn't want to go to Charity Hospital in New Orleans — I wasn't a charity case, but I couldn't have had any better treatment anywhere," she relates. "I was admitted through the LSU medical school five years ago."

Through surgery, physicians opened the mitral valve, and Mrs. Malloy's most recent electrocardiogram was "the best I've ever had."

RANDY DEW, 18, loads heavy outboard motor into back of vehicle — easy enough to do now, but dangerous before he underwent open heart surgery which included placing a nylon patch in the center of his heart and supplying an artificial blood vessel. An avid hunter and fisherman, Randy treks five miles with ease . . . but once couldn't walk more than three blocks. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)

OPEN HEART SURGERY five years ago made it possible for Mrs. (L. A.) Johnnie Malloy to be well enough to have the family she long had dreamed of—Wanda, left, almost four-year-old, and Pam, two. Mrs. Malloy holds a reminder of the days immediately after surgery, when she crocheted this spread to prevent her left arm from becoming stiff. (Staff photo by B en Bradford)

Now, she is able to work enough around the house so that she has to "take pills to keep fluid from forming. My doctor says I overwork and that's what causes the fluids to form."

While recuperating from the surgery, physicians warned her to use her left arm and leg so they wouldn't become stiff.

"I crocheted a bedspread," she smiles. The spread now is a memento of that time.

Mrs. Malloy credits a combination of the power of prayer with the skill of the physicians as the life-saving factor in her life.

"The Rev. Don Weininger, who was our pastor then, went down to the hospital with us, and many people were praying for me.

"During the operation, a rumble which I had had in my chest disappeared. The doctors don't know why — I just feel like prayer did it."

In the past five years, the family has grown with the addition of two little girls, Wanda, almost four, and Pam, two.

"I'll tell you, it sure made a change in our lives. Both of us are getting kind of old," says Mrs. Malloy, who admits to being 39.

The Malloy's mailman told Mrs. W. E. Burns about Mrs. Malloy's recovery.

Mrs. Burns, who was suffering from a heart condition, then contacted Mrs. Malloy.

"She says that I helped her," says Mrs. Malloy. "I tried to talk to her the best I knew how.

"I remembered how it had been, before surgery. I had very despondent spells. I've talked with other heart patients and found that it affects the nervous system, too. I really felt sorry for myself.

"I think life began for me after I had the operation. Before that, I felt I just existed. I'd spent months bed-ridden."

Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers

One thing is certain about the general election campaign for Governor:

The Republican candidacy of Charlton Lyons and his supposed "carpetbaggers" is giving the people of Louisiana a full scale education in the mechanics and philosophies of the American system of government in a few weeks that has not been available in nearly a century of Democratic one-party rule.

"Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers" are two sound conservative Democrats — one from Alabama and one from California — who tired of their own Party's Welfare State Socialism and became Republicans, as did Mr. Lyons. The two "carpetbaggers" sobriquet was pinned on them by Mr. Lyons' opposition.

Background

To hear some of the talk about these "carpetbaggers" one might imagine that at least a mechanized division of them had crossed the borders. Actually, there have been just two non-Louisiana speakers who have played a prominent part for Mr. Lyons; and, having heard both propound good, sound, American conservatism, the thought occurs that all of us could benefit if about a million of them came visiting. Here are thumbnail sketches of Mr. Lyons' "Carpetbaggers."

CHIEF CARPETBAGGER: Jim Martin of Alabama, born and reared a Democrat and a straight Democratic ticket voter until he got sick of his Party's Welfare State Socialism and decided to do something about it by running for Senator as a Republican against Democratic Senator Lister Hill, who has served in either the House or the Senate at Washington since shortly after World War I. Mr. Martin, running as a Republican conservative against the entrenched Democratic Senator Hill, polled 49.7 per cent of the total vote and could have been elected by the mere switch of one vote a precinct. He was booked for two speeches for Mr. Lyons, one for Shreveport and one for New Orleans.

DEPUTY CHIEF CARPETBAGGER: Ronald Reagan, also born and reared a Democrat but who sickened of his Party's socialistic leanings some years ago. Since then he has spent part of his time on lecture tours preaching conservatism of a type that is exactly what seems to appeal best to most of our North Louisiana people. He was the speaker at the annual Shreveport Chamber of Commerce banquet a couple of years ago and has appeared as speaker at such functions in many parts of the nation.

Live Speech

Mr. Reagan also happens to be a movie star, but he does not happen to be part of either the movie segment known as "Hollywood Trash" or of the notorious "Hollywood Rat Pack" which gained nationwide notoriety as Democratic Party campaigners in 1960 and as organizers of the huge entertainment segment of the Democratic presidential inauguration at Washington in 1961.

Mr. Reagan made one "live" speech for Mr. Lyons at Lafayette. It is being presented now in other Louisiana cities through a recording. The staunchest conservative in North Louisiana couldn't surpass Mr. Reagan's sound, solid, conservative Americanism as set forth in this speech.

It is perhaps too bad that Republican National Chairman Bill Miller of Buffalo, New York (not New York City, as some have said), could not come to Louisiana. He has decided to retire from politics after the GOP convention and has his hands full until then with being a member of the House as well as Party Chairman.

Mr. Miller's preachments on American conservative government would have been music to the ears of people in this part of Louisiana. He is one of the most conservative members of the House of Representatives, being given a rating of 91 per cent consistency in conservative voting by AMERICANS FOR CONSERVATIVE ACTION, the recognized rating agency for conservative voting in Congress.

This is just under the rating given by the same organization to Congressman Joe Waggonner Jr. of the Fourth Louisiana District and well above the high rating given Congressman Otto Passman of the Fifth Congressional District. Thus, Mr. Miller rates as conservative. Of course he would have been called "One of Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers" had he made the trip.

Anyone who has heard the speeches of Mr. Reagan or Mr. Martin will understand what we mean when we say that Louisiana — and not only other Southern states but the whole nation — could benefit through a real influx of such "carpetbagger" conservatives — Democrats. They are men who did not desert their Party's principles, but were deserted by the Party itself when it turned in socialistic directions.

Two-Party System

"Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers" also are illustrative of the value of the two-party system — the fact that they had somewhere to go when their own party went "wrong," somewhere where their voices would not only be heard but could become effective. One-party factions are in no way a substitute for two major parties. Without two functioning and active parties, the United States would become a one-party nation in the manner of Russia. Everybody in Russia is free to vote in every election, but they have only one party on the ballot and thus only one candidate as a FINAL choice.

The overwhelming portion of Mr. Lyons' vote a week from Tuesday certainly will come from registered Louisiana Democrats.

Probably some sizable portion of those Louisiana Democrats voted for Mr. Lyons' opponent in the second Democratic Party primary, and perhaps in the first primary as well. NOW they have the privilege of making a final choice between the candidate of their own party and Mr. Lyons as the GOP candidate. Having made that choice a week from Tuesday THEY STILL WILL BE REGISTERED LOUISIANA DEMOCRATS.

The two-party system means just this:

FIRST, the citizen votes for the person he looks upon as the best man running in his own Party's primary.

SECOND, he then has the opportunity to vote for his own Party's primary nominee or to vote for the nominee of another Party—in other words, he has a final choice and is not in any way bound by the action of his own Party alone.

Two-Way Street

And all of this is a two-way street; a Republican one-party system would possess exactly the same evils that a Democratic one-party system automatically possesses.

Any one-party system—Democratic or Republican—means that the final decision of the voter must be according to party label; that he must, after his Party's primary, reach out and affectionately accept his Party's candidate as "the best man" simply because of a label he wears and not because of the candidate. That is no more sensible than assuming that a rattlesnake is nice and friendly because it wags its tail.

Win or lose "Mr. Lyons and His Carpetbaggers" are doing a fine job for Louisiana. They deserve whole-hearted support of registered Democrats—for it is registered Democrats who will elect him if he wins.

Views Of Our Readers

Raps Abe Lincoln

Ruston, La.

To the Editor:

In your Monday, February 17, edition your editorial entitled "Abe Lincoln's Views" was a rebuff to people like me because you disappoint me in your article.

Let me say here and now that I have never looked back on "The War Between the States" or the so-called carpetbag days which followed, with relish but I do here and now challenge you to a public debate on the statement, "Abe Lincoln may be credited with working for freedom of one class but he can never be accused of trying to destroy the freedom of the majority."

It happens that he was so accused while he was alive and I believe some of the charges brought against him and I contend his accusers could not have been 100 per cent liars and Justice Douglas did have basis for most of his charges.

I can draw no other honest opinion after reading all the histories I can find on the subject. However, were I to read the so-called histories by his friends and admirers I would feel as you do, but after reading a balanced history, I can never respect the man called Abe Lincoln, who was not proud to be a member of any church and who caused his wife to live in fear and dread of him.

A careful reading will show how inconsistent he was and it will explain why he nearly had a rebellion against him after he started the full - scale war or movement to bring the rebels and law breakers back to the Union, which he said no state could even leave after having joined.

You took the letter to Horace Greeley to prove your point, taking his statement out of context, just as you accused people like me of doing to prove a point. I have been no more guilty than you.

In Mr. Lincoln's speech at Chicago on Saturday evening, July 10, 1858, he brought charges against Judge Douglas at that time of being against slavery in the north but in favor of it in the south. He stated.

"I did not say that I desired that slavery should be put in the course of ultimate extinction. I do say so now, however, so there need be no longer any difficulty about that. It may be written down in the great speech.

"I have always hated slavery as much as any abolitionist. I have been an old-line whig I have always hated it but I have always been quiet about it until this new era of the introduction of the Nebraska bill began . . ."

A careful study could show Mr. Lincoln as on the side his bread was buttered on. Often in rebuttal against some one, especially Judge Douglas, he would quote a decision by the court and say, "That question is settled by the highest court, from which there is no appeal." When the court gave its opinion on the Dred Scott case and the compromise he said it was not the law and must be overturned and some of the riots referred to in your article were caused, no doubt, as a result of Mr. Lincoln himself.

Had he lived we would already be under a stronger law than the present civil rights bill before the senate. No carpetbaggers, just men with guns and daggers. He wanted to save the union, oh, yes, but it had to be as he wanted it to be.

Mr. Editor, if this world stands another 40 to 100 years, the only way the people will learn the truth about President Kennedy will be to read the unpopular writings by men such as yourself — dig out old papers, etc. For the histories being written now by his friends and those who desire to make him a hero will not be true history and you know it. The case of Mr. Lincoln is the same.

I believe it is cheating to teach unfounded things, things in order to make a former president a hero.

You have your views and I have mine but be careful about expressing your opinion. Hope to hear from you.

REV. CECIL H. VENABLE

Congratulation Given

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I would like to extend congratulations to Union parish and Bernice for getting the factory located in their parish and town, employing about 500 at full capacity.

This factory will mean progress for Union parish and much of the area around the parish. It will help the Twin City area.

Young businessmen like Kenneth Kilpatrick of Farmerville and Van Salley of Bernice, with many others assisting in securing this factory, are to be commended for their efforts and fine work.

I was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Bernice from 1935 to 1940. Some of us in the parish had ideas of new industry and progress at that time but we were ahead of time.

It is to be expected the parish of Union will vote the tax to provide this new industry with almost a unanimous vote.

Again, congratulations, Union parish and the town of Bernice.

A. T. "TOM" MITCHELL

Writes To Lyons

Bonita, La.

To the Editor:

Please print the following letter:

Mr. Charlton H. Lyons, Sr.

Sir:

Are you for the Monroe doctrine or are you against it? If you are for it, are you prepared to see that it is implemented so that communism as directed from Moscow and Peiping shall be driven from the western hemisphere?

The time has come when we must know what the man we vote for stands for and believes in, and not to just think we know.

If your enemies are going to try to bury us, we certainly don't want to discover after it is too late that the men we elected to office are helping them (our enemies) do the burying.

Respectfully yours,

MRS. ARTHUR CHAPPELL

Johnson Speech Hit

New Orleans, La.

To the Editor:

President Johnson's offhand talk at the White House on the 11th gave us little cause to rejoice. It was more in the vein of castigation.

Obviously feeling the pinch of criticism, much of it warranted, and for which he apparently has an aversion, he took a few verbal punches at those who have been most instrumental, thus far, in having kept this tottering nation on some semblance of an even keel. The recipients, in this instance, being the many dedicated American patriots who have inherited the finer qualities of our founding fathers.

He referred to this segment of our citizenry in a rather scornful and vindictive manner. Incidentally, these are also disdainfully referred to, by certain elements, as "right-wing extremists."

I wonder what these patriots are expected to do? Lie down and play dead? While boot-heeled communist butchers, in the guise of a UN police force, trample their bodies into the dust?

The labels "alarmists" and "bellyachers" were applied by him to those who are critical of our wishy-washy foreign policy, and to others who are averse to some of his own enigmatic convictions and to this rather insipid visions of a utopian brotherhood of man.

"Alarmed?" Indeed we are! Justifiable reasons are the many monstrous defections and deficiencies in the conduct of our government processes, particularly when dealing with hostile threats of unscrupulous communism, internal as well as external. And as for bellyachers? We have been fed enough political tripe in recent years to give even a cast-iron monkey a bellyache.

Now, the conception that we are beloved, respected and appreciated throughout the world is the biggest laugh of the century. Indeed we are fully aware that we are thought of as much as a case of the small pox.

The President's remark, that students in the Canal Zone made a mistake in raising the Stars and Stripes at their school, was paradoxical. It was not their mistake. Instead, they stood ten feet tall in their courageous display of inherent patriotism, a trait apparently held in low esteem by some.

Conversely, this so - called mistake, for which they were unjustly admonished, was made long ago, and deliberately, as were many others, by the foreign policy manipulators in our government. Mistakes of this sort were conceived in the FDR regime. The modus operandi, it appears, has been adopted as standard procedure, by all succeeding administrations and has been relayed onto the present inner sanctum in Washington.

In the interim, each of the chief executives, in turn, and their vacillating state departments, have contributed to the multiplicity of these so-called mistakes. The undeniable result is its dreadful product of behind - the - scenes subversion. This has permitted and fostered the stealthy inoculation of our hallowed soil with the germs of alien ideologies. These are now being nurtured by the chicanery and hanky-panky of political charlatans, communist-controlled blackmailers and others indoctrinated with left - wing dementia.

We are now in the twilight of our freedom, far down the road to national oblivion. Most assuredly, the pig-faced Russian "Mighty Mouth" intends to honor his one big promise of all time -- "TO BURY US".

To the Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to thank you and your staff for the wonderful publicity that you have given to the Boy Scout program throughout the year and particularly at this time.

Your fine spirit of cooperation in running the pictures of the recent recipients of the Catholic Church awards as well as the photographs of the scouting program in general is certainly appreciated by the scouts themselves as well as the officials of Ouachita Valley Council and of the diocese of Alexandria.

It is this spirit of cooperation showing the good that is in our youth today that will encourage others to continue on the path of rightousness and good citizenship as taught and practiced by the Boy Scout program.

Again, thanks to you and your staff and if at any time the scouting program can assist your organization in any manner, please do not hesitate to call upon us.

Shocked By Demos

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I have just finished reading an article in the Monroe Morning World entitled, "Demos organize to fight GOP Meeting Here," and have been shocked into a realization of what might be happening. Let me hasten to say that I am a registered democrat, but I have a fighting spirit and much prefer to beat my opponent through fair competition rather than legislate him out of existence. Doesn't the Republican party have a right to offer a candidate?

One statement made by Senator Jamar Adcock alarmed me. He said, "The Republicans are doing the people a disservice by having candidates in the general election when the Democrats have alredy been through an expensive campaign." Well, just because my competitor puts on a big advertising program, does that mean I can no longer sell merchandise. I hope not. To me this is exactly the kind of socialistic philosophy we are fighting so hard abroad now! Are the people to be refused a choice of candidates just because the Democrats spent millions tearing each other down in the primaries?

Also, just because the Democrats have been in power so long, does that make us perfect? Or is it possible that we might have gotten somewhat rotten because of lack of competition? Considering the apparent disorder of our state with its national image, mounting budget, deadheads, loss of industry and educational rating, I am inclined to think we might be very rotten.

Senator Adcock also commented that the Democratic nominee John J. McKeithen is a "young, fine, qualified man," while Lyons (Republican nominee) is a multi-millionaire pushing 70. Hardly a comparison, or is it?

McKeithen certainly is young in comparison, but I've heard said that the mileage is more important than the age. I've also been taught to respect gray hair, and I do.

"Fine" is a word hard to define in respect to character, but if it means what a man believes and how he conducts his life and what he stands for, then we certainly owe ourselves and our children the responsibility to compare the two carefully.

The next was qualified. Does qualified mean standing at the public trough for a number of years? Is this a qualification? Or does it mean growing and gaining financially and in statue through the sweat of your own business life. Is the latter not proven ability?

And how about a return to three-branch systems of government whereby the Legislature makes the laws, the courts judge, and the Executive branch (Governor) administrates. One candidate has promised that.

I want a return to constitutional government. I am tired of being counted in advance by national politicians. Do we really walk in the shadow of Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson as Democrats, or have we changed?

I do not want a continuation of a party whose heads ride horses up the solemn steps of my state's capitol or waste badly needed funds on memorials to themselves. Why should I think it will be different now?

As I have absolutely nothing personally to gain by such a letter, why write it? My answer comes from a man named Wilson, who said, "if you feel you are too busy to take an interest in government . . that getting mixed up in politics is beneath your dignity or bad for business. . . then at least take time to teach your children to count in rubles, they'll need this with the inheritance you're leaving them."

Thank you for letting me express my opinion. I couldn't have done that in a dictatorship such as some people advocate.

Nixon Nomination Chances Improve

THE POSSIBILITY that Richard M. Nixon may be the Republican presidential candidate is growing. The polls indicate it, and even important Republicans who shook their heads after his defeat for Governor of California in 1962 concede that he might be selected for a re-run, comparable to that of Thomas E. Dewey against President Truman in 1948.

They recall that Nixon lost to John F. Kennedy by only 110,000 popular votes, that he carried 1851 counties in the nation to 1182 for Kennedy, and 228 congressional districts to Kennedy's 206. Kennedy's only substantial margin was in electoral votes, 303 to Nixon's 219.

Just now the Gallup poll shows him leading other Republican candidates, though their combined support is approximately twice his, but the thought that the San Francisco GOP convention may turn to him to avert a deadlock is apparent both on Capitol Hill and at the Republican National Committee.

SO THE INEVITABLE question is, "How would he run against Lyndon B. Johnson?" A reasonable answer would seem to be that he might have a chance if Johnson's popularity takes a big dip, but an equally important factor would be Nixon's ability to hold the 34,108,546 votes he received in 1960. Then he won 26 States to Kennedy's 23, but Kennedy carried the biggest cities and that was it.

Nixon's nomination would not be according to pattern, for he will make no campaign, enter no primaries, though he may be put on the primary ballot in Oregon, where the secretary of state makes the decision.

Seasoned politicians are saying that Nixon has been smarter politically than most pundits surmised. His move to New York from California has brought him into contact with the Eastern party leaders. Though his party popularity may have been strained, particularly in his native state of California, his friends think he can bid for New York on even terms against Johnson. That goes for Pennsylvania and Illinois, both onetime GOP states which Kennedy carried by narrow margins.

THE TELEVISION debate between the presidential candidates on Sept. 26, 1960 is expected to be repeated this fall, chiefly because of popular demand. It is doubtful that President Johnson looks forward to it, and it is quite certain that former Vice President Nixon would not, as the campaign post mortems scored those exchanges as an advantage for Kennedy, largely because he was a new and fresh figure to most of the electorate.

Nixon has told his friends that if he were in another debate, his technique against President Johnson would be quite different than last time against the then Senator Kennedy. He would reject the question and answer pattern, and demand that the debates be a confrontation of the candidates. That, White House sources have intimated, would also be the President's desire.

SINCE NIXON carried 15 States west of the Mississippi River, which was almost two-thirds his total, he might be hoping to hang on to most of those and make gains in the East and possibly the South. Republicans became aware of this possible strategy recently when, in a speech at Cincinnati, he criticized forced integration in northern big city schools, by transfer of pupils over considerable distances and spoke of demonstrations and boycotts as engendering hate and distrust which could make "a new civil rights law a law in name only."

That was construed by some observers as an attitude which would not be looked on with disfavor by the many voters, both North and South, who question the civil rights law as it passed the House, where it had almost unanimous Northern Republican support. On the other hand, it would gain him the opposition of Negro leaders, whom he is said to view as overreaching themselves in the current racial disturbances.

The most that can be said of Nixon's chances for the nomination at present, however, is that he is the man in reserve, on whom the Republicans may call if active candidates wind up in a stalemate. Whether he could beat President Johnson is, at the moment, regarded as doubtful by the GOP leaders here.

Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers

One thing is certain about the general election campaign for Governor:

The Republican candidacy of Charlton Lyons and his supposed "carpetbaggers" is giving the people of Louisiana a full scale education in the mechanics and philosophies of the American system of government in a few weeks that has not been available in nearly a century of Democratic one-partyism.

"Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers" are two sound conservative ex-Democrats — one from Alabama and one from California — who sickened of their own Party's Welfare State Socialism and became Republicans, as did Mr. Lyons. The tag "carpetbaggers" senselessly was pinned on them by Mr. Lyons' opposition.

Background

To hear some of the talk about these "carpetbaggers" one might imagine that at least a military division of them had crossed the borders. Actually, there have been just two non-Louisiana speakers who have played a prominent part for Mr. Lyons; and, having heard both propound good, sound, American conservatism, the thought occurs that all of us could benefit if about a million of them came visiting. Here are thumbnail sketches of Mr. Lyons' "Carpetbaggers."

CHIEF CARPETBAGGER: Jim Martin of Alabama, born and reared a Democrat and a straight Democratic ticket voter until he got sick of his Party's Welfare State Socialism and decided to do something about it by running for Senator as a Republican against Democratic Senator Lister Hill, who has served in either the House or the Senate at Washington since shortly after World War I. Mr. Martin, running as a Republican conservative against the entrenched Democratic Senator Hill, polled 49.7 per cent of the total vote and could have been elected by the mere switch of one vote a precinct. He was booked for two speeches for Mr. Lyons, one for Shreveport and one for New Orleans.

DEPUTY CHIEF CARPETBAGGER: Ronald Reagan, also born and reared a Democrat but who sickened of his Party's socialistic leanings some years ago. Since then he has spent part of his time on lecture tours preaching conservatism of a type that is exactly what seems to appeal best to most of our North Louisiana people. He was the speaker at the annual Shreveport Chamber of Commerce banquet a couple of years ago and has appeared as speaker at such functions in many parts of the nation.

Live Speech

Mr. Reagan also happens to be a movie star, but he does not happen to be part of either the movie segment known as "Hollywood Trash" or of the notorious "Hollywood Rat Pack" which gained nationwide notoriety as Democratic Party campaigners in 1960 and as organizers of the huge entertainment segment of the Democratic presidential inauguration at Washington in 1961.

Mr. Reagan made one "live" speech for Mr. Lyons at Lafayette. It is being presented now in other Louisiana cities through a recording. The staunchest conservative in North Louisiana couldn't surpass Mr. Reagan's sound, solid, conservative Americanism as set forth in this speech.

It is perhaps too bad that Republican National Chairman Bill Miller of Buffalo, New York (not New York City, as some have said), could not come to Louisiana. He has decided to retire from politics after the GOP convention and has his hands full until then with being a member of the House as well as Party Chairman.

Mr. Miller's preachments on American conservative government would have been music to the ears of people in this part of Louisiana. He is one of the most conservative members of the House of Representatives, being given a rating of 94 per cent consistency in conservative voting by AMERICANS FOR CONSERVATIVE ACTION, the recognized rating agency for conservative voting in Congress.

This is just under the rating given by the same organization to Congressman Joe Waggonner Jr. of the Fourth Louisiana District and just above the high rating given Congressman Otto Passman of the Fifth Congressional District. Thus, Mr. Miller rates in conservatism. Of course he would have been called "One of Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers" had he made the trip.

Anyone who has heard the speeches of Mr. Reagan or Mr. Martin will understand what we mean when we say that Louisiana — and not only other Southern states but the whole nation—could benefit through a real influx of such "carpetbagger" conservatives - ex - Democrats. They are men who did not desert their Party's principles, but were deserted by the Party itself when it turned in socialistic directions.

Two-Party System

"Mr. Lyons' Carpetbaggers" also are illustrative of the value of the two-party system — the fact that they had somewhere to go when their own party went "wrong," — somewhere where their voices would not only be heard but could become effective. One-party factions are in no way a substitute for two major parties. Without two functioning and active parties, the United States would become a one-party nation in the manner of Russia. Everybody in Russia is free to vote in every election, but they have only one party on the ballot and thus only one candidate as a FINAL choice.

The overwhelming portion of Mr. Lyons' vote a week from Tuesday certainly will come from registered Louisiana Democrats.

Probably some sizable portion of those Louisiana Democrats voted for Mr. Lyons' opponent in the second Democratic Party primary, and perhaps in the first primary as well. NOW they have the privilege of making a final choice between the candidate of their own party and Mr. Lyons as the GOP candidate. Having made that choice a week from Tuesday THEY STILL WILL BE REGISTERED LOUISIANA DEMOCRATS.

The two-party system means just this:

FIRST, the citizen votes for the person he looks upon as the best man running in his own Party's primary.

SECOND, he then has the opportunity to vote for his own Party's primary nominee or to vote for the nominee of another Party—in other words, he has a final choice and is not in any way bound by the action of his own Party alone.

Two-Way Street

And all of this is a two-way street; a Republican one-party system would possess exactly the same evils that a Democratic one-party system automatically possesses.

Any one-party system—Democratic or Republican—means that the final decision of the voter must be according to party label; that he must, after his Party's primary, reach out and affectionately accept his Party's candidate as "the best man" simply because of a label he wears and not because of the candidate. That is no more sensible than assuming that a rattlesnake is nice and friendly because it wags its tail.

Win or lose "Mr. Lyons and His Carpetbaggers" are doing a fine job for Louisiana. They deserve whole-hearted support of registered Democrats—for it is registered Democrats who will elect him if he wins.

Views Of Our Readers

Raps Abe Lincoln

Ruston, La.

To the Editor:

In your Monday, February 17, edition your editorial entitled "Abe Lincoln's Views" was a rebuff to people like me because you disappoint me in your article.

Let me say here and now that I have never looked back on "The War Between the States" or the so-called carpetbag days which followed, with relish but I do here and now challenge you to a public debate on the statement, "Abe Lincoln may be credited with working for freedom of one class but he can never be accused of trying to destroy the freedom of the majority."

It happens that he was so accused while he was alive and I believe some of the charges brought against him and I contend his accusers could not have been 100 per cent liars and Justice Douglas did have basis for most of his charges.

I can draw no other honest opinion after reading all the histories I can find on the subject. However, were I to read the so-called histories by his friends and admirers I would feel as you do, but after reading a balanced history, I can never respect the man called Abe Lincoln, who was not proud to be a member of any church and who caused his wife to live in fear and dread of him.

A careful reading will show how inconsistent he was and it will explain why he nearly had a rebellion against him after he started the full - scale war or movement to bring the rebels and law breakers back to the Union, which he said no state could even leave after having joined.

You took the letter to Horace Greeley to prove your point, taking his statement out of context, just as you accused people like me of doing to prove a point. I have been no more guilty than you.

In Mr. Lincoln's speech at Chicago on Saturday evening, July 10, 1858, he brought charges against Judge Douglas at that time of being against slavery in the north but in favor of it in the south. He stated:

"I did not say that I desired that slavery should be put in the course of ultimate extinction. I do say so now, however, so there need be no longer any difficulty about that. It may be written down in the great speech.

"I have always hated slavery as much as any abolitionist. I have been an old-line whig I have always hated it but I have always been quiet about it until this new era of the introduction of the Nebraska bill began . . ."

A careful study could show Mr. Lincoln as on the side his bread was buttered on. Often in rebuttal against some one, especially Judge Douglas, he would quote a decision by the court and say, "That question is settled by the highest court, from which there is no appeal." When the court gave its opinion on the Dred Scott case and the compromise he said it was not the law and must be overturned and some of the riots referred to in your article were caused, no doubt, as a result of Mr. Lincoln himself.

Had he lived we would already be under a stronger law than the present civil rights bill before the senate. No carpetbaggers, just men with guns and daggers. He wanted to save the union, oh, yes, but it had to be as he wanted it to be.

Mr. Editor, if this world stands another 40 to 100 years, the only way the people will learn the truth about President Kennedy will be to read the unpopular writings by men such as yourself — dig out old papers, etc. For the histories being written now by his friends and those who desire to make him a hero will not be true history and you know it. The case of Mr. Lincoln is the same.

I believe it is cheating to teach unfounded things, things in order to make a former president a hero.

You have your views and I have mine but be careful about expressing your opinion. Hope to hear from you.

Congratulation Given

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I would like to extend congratulations to Union parish and Bernice for getting the factory located in their parish and town, employing about 500 at full capacity.

This factory will mean progress for Union parish and much of the area around the parish. It will help the Twin City area.

Young businessmen like Kenneth Kilpatrick of Farmerville and Van Salley of Bernice, with many others assisting in securing this factory, are to be commended for their efforts and fine work.

I was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Bernice from 1935 to 1940. Some of us in the parish had ideas of new industry and progress at that time but we were ahead of time.

It is to be expected the parish of Union will vote the tax to provide this new industry with almost a unanimous vote.

Again, congratulations, Union parish and the town of Bernice.

Writes To Lyons

Bonita, La.

To the Editor:

Please print the following letter:

Mr. Charlton H. Lyons, Sr.

Sir:

Are you for the Monroe doctrine or are you against it? If you are for it, are you prepared to see that it is implemented so that communism as directed from Moscow and Peiping shall be driven from the western hemisphere?

The time has come when we must know what the man we vote for stands for and believes in, and not to just think we know.

If your enemies are going to try to bury us, we certainly don't want to discover after it is too late that the men we elected to office are helping them (our enemies) do the burying.

Respectfully yours,

MRS. ARTHUR CHAPPELL

Johnson Speech Hit

New Orleans, La.

To the Editor:

President Johnson's offhand talk at the White House on the 11th gave us little cause to rejoice. It was more in the vein of castigation.

Obviously feeling the pinch of criticism, much of it warranted, and for which he apparently has an aversion, he took a few verbal punches at those who have been most instrumental, thus far, in having kept this tottering nation on some semblance of an even keel. The recipients, in this instance, being the many dedicated American patriots who have inherited the finer qualities of our founding fathers.

He referred to this segment of our citizenry in a rather scornful and vindictive manner. Incidentally, these are also disdainfully referred to, by certain elements, as "right-wing extremists."

I wonder what these patriots are expected to do? Lie down and play dead? While boot-heeled communist butchers, in the guise of a UN police force, trample their bodies into the dust?

The labels "alarmists" and "bellyachers" were applied by him to those who are critical of our wishy-washy foreign policy, and to others who are averse to some of his own enigmatic convictions and to this rather insipid visions of a utopian brotherhood of man.

He would reject the question and answer pattern, and demand that the debates be a confrontation of the candidates. That, White House sources have intimated, would also be the President's desire.

SINCE NIXON carried 15 States west of the Mississippi River, which was almost two-thirds his total, he might be hoping to hang on to most of those and make gains in the East and possibly the South. Republicans became aware of this possible strategy recently when, in a speech at Cincinnati, he criticized forced integration in northern big city schools, by transfer of pupils over considerable distances and spoke of demonstrations and boycotts as engendering hate and distrust which could make "a new civil rights law a law in name only."

That was construed by some observers as an attitude which would not be looked on with disfavor by the many voters, both North and South, who question the civil rights law as it passed the House, where it had almost unanimous Northern Republican support. On the other hand, it would gain him the opposition of Negro leaders, whom he is said to view as overreaching themselves in the current racial disturbances.

The most that can be said of Nixon's chances for the nomination at present, however, is that he is the man in reserve, on whom the Republicans may call if active candidates wind up in a stalemate. Whether he could beat President Johnson is, at the moment, regarded as doubtful by the GOP leaders here.

The Week In Focus

From The Inside

FRESH FUEL is expected on the church-state controversy when the public gets wind of a Senate move now under heavy wraps. The Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on constitutional rights is said to be quietly preparing the groundwork for an investigation of the extent to which Federal grants and loans have gone to religious groups and institutions. The subcommittee, headed by Senator Ervin of North Carolina, is now collating replies to a questionnaire sent to all federal agencies. Several religious and PTA groups have been pushing for official clarification. They feel that the government has given considerable aid to church-related activities and that the spirit, if not the letter, of the First Amendment has been broken . . .

WHAT PRICE FREE SPEECH — French rightist deputy Pierre Poujade has just been fined $200 for "offensive language" employed against the chief of the French State. This makes the fiftieth time Poujade has been convicted of this offense, and runs his total cost of insulting President de Gaulle to nearly $10,000 . . .

FOR BETTER OR WORSE: Dr. John F. Cuber says he expects to watch . . . when a sociological study of successful marriage is published later this year. The Ohio State University sociologist has just completed a three-year study of 437 normal, successful, upper-middle-class men and women, according to Insider's Newsletter. The subjects interviewed were between 35 and 55, had been married for at least 10 years and thought of their marriages as "successful." According to Cuber, his findings will probably upset a lot of people. The report divides marriage into roughly five categories: (1) Conflict-tension rather than compatibility holds couple together. (2) Apathy — Habit and lack of initiative keep many marriages from breaking up. (3) Passivity — In the absence of a truly personal relationship, husband and wife sidestep the important issues of their marriage. (4) Vitality — sharing a vital life interest such as children, hobbies or sex makes both partners feel indispensable to each other and to their marriage. (5) The total marriage — a really satisfactory man-woman relationship on all levels makes it possible for partners to fully share an exciting and rewarding existence. Dr. Cuber found that a surprising number of satisfying man-woman relationships existed extramaritally and that, contrary to widely - accepted belief, such a relationship did not create tremendous guilt . . . .

THE WIG CRAZE is going to the dogs — at least in Beverly Hills, Calif., where hair stylist Richard Alcala makes miniature wigs for poodles fashioned in the same style as their mistresses. The wigs cost from $100 to $250, are made of human hair and come in colors to either match the poodle or the hair color of its mistress. . . . . .

A READING EXPERT — Morton Botel — says 10 to 15 million school children are so seriously retarded in reading that they can't understand their textbooks — and this is a dangerous situation. Botel told a convention session of the American Association of School Administrators the past week that 20 to 30 per cent of the children in a typical classroom are hesitant, stumbling readers who can't understand what the books say, and who learn to hate school . . . . . .

Washington Whitewigs

ROBERT MURPHY — a top diplomat under three presidents — says the United States has made a costly series of blunders in dealing with the Soviet Union. In a book released on Friday, he suggested the U. S. should develop a sterner policy line. Recalling that in its early days, America preferred fighting pirates rather than bribing them, Murphy described such a policy as preferrable to the recent easy procedure of our government in buying off Cubans and Russians. Among other things Murphy suggested that the U. S. is periodically misled by Soviet drives for peaceful coexistence, adding "even today there are those in places of influence who have convinced themselves that a cooperative understanding with Moscow and Peking can be arranged." . . . .

THE HOUSE the past week unanimously passed its largest authorization, bill in history—the $16.9 billion for defense procurement, research and development. The bill includes a provision of $92 million for research on a manned bomber and a manned interceptor plane. This provision, incidentally, aroused a debate in the House because Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara did not ask for it. An attempt to knock out this provision was defeated handily by forces led by Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. On the bombers and interceptors, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis LeMay disagreed with McNamara. In secret testimony before the committee, the differences between the two were disclosed. The disagreement could have political repercussions. Senator Barry Goldwater, candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, has raised the question of missile reliability during his campaign. . . .

LEMAY

IT IS NEVER SURPRISING what decision the Supreme Court hands down. So the one Monday failed to raise much more than passing interest — although it could affect congressional districts in 37 of the 50 states. The court, ruled in effect, that congressional districts had to be as nearly as practicable equal in population. Specifically, it said those in Georgia were not and ordered a three-judge court in Atlanta to take steps to bring them in balance. It was the court's first decision directly affecting the makeup of congressional district, but generally House members who might be affected took a wait and see attitude . . . . .

A NEW THEORY was advanced by Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service. He suggested that thousands of young men rejected for military service should be inducted and given rehabilitation treatment and training under military control. His theory was made even as a new program was being inaugurated with the aim of channeling draft rejectees into employment and training opportunities through referral to employment offices. Hershey pointed out that at present only two out of 10 of young men between 18-26 have been or are now in the armed forces. . . . .

WE STILL sit quiet while small communist nations dictate what course we are to follow. North Korea, it seems, has promised lenient treatment of two American helicopter pilots captured last May, provided the U. N. command admits "grave criminal acts." U. S. authorities did not disclose what criminal acts we are supposed to have committed. The announcement said the U. S. had no comment on reports that the two fliers, Capt. Ben W. Stutts, 30, and Capt. Charleton W. Voltz, 26, had signed confessions that they were on a spy mission when their helicopter was forced down last year. .

IN ANOTHER obvious compromise, the U. S. on Thursday swapped four convicted Cuban government fish poachers for a hijacked American flier. However, no U. S. official would admit it was a formal trade. But it seemed more than coincidence that at the exact moment Richard Wright showed up about noon over Key West Airport, the four Cuban fishing boat captains and their crews suddenly roared out of Key West Harbor in their boats. Wright was forced earlier in the week at gunpoint to fly to Havana by two Cuban exile passengers who had chartered his plane for a flight to Key West. The Cuban fishermen ended 18 days of U. S. captivity that started when the Coast Guard seized them and their boats for violating U. S. territorial waters . . . .

IRONIES CONTINUE in the foreign aid program. The U. S., acting under a congressional mandate, announced the past week it is halting or withholding aid funds to Britain, France, Yugoslavia, Spain and Morocco because of their persistent trade with Communist Cuba. However, we continue to send aid to nations that lean toward the Communists, plus other full-fledged Communist nations. . . . .

MOST TAXPAYERS were assured by Congressional action the past week of more take-home pay starting early next month. The reduction, expected to climb to $11.5 billion a year, will ease the treasury's bite on businesses as well as individuals. However, there will be some tightening of present regulations which will mean higher taxes in some areas. Both final House and Senate action is expected early this week and President Johnson is expected to sign it by March 1. Overall, it is doubtful if the average taxpayer will realize a cut. . . . .

MEANWHILE, a Congressional agency — The General Accounting Office — has charged that the Army wasted $300 million on a missile that never did its job. The Army disagreed with the report which was sent to the White House and the Pentagon. It claimed that while the missile had some deficiencies, it was an effective weapon system. The GOA said that the missile was an unsatisfactory weapon because it has unreliable accuracy. The missile was not named.

THE NEXT major fight in the Senate will be the Civil Rights proposal which already has been approved by the House. Senator Richard B. Russell, of Georgia threw down the Southern gauntlet Wednesday by saying "we intend to fight this bill with all the vigor at our command." Many observers pointed out, however, if that vigor was no more than was shown by House members from the South, the opposition will be fairly mild. Russell, in his announcement, said the 19 Senators in his group are prepared to debate the legislation 24 hours a day if necessary to prevent passage. Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he expects months of debate in the Senate on the bill. The bill is the strongest such act ever proposed in this country, and in effect, gives government the right to dictate to business on the policy of hiring and firing.

MEANWHILE, prospects for immediate Senate action on the administration's controversial farm bill were clouded by the impending civil rights bill debate. Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen says the Senate may act on the farm bill before tacking the civil rights issue. Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, says he understands an effort will be made Monday to begin debate on the measure that includes cotton and wheat programs for the 1964 crops. The White House has endorsed Senate action now, but only if debate does not become so long that it delays the civil rights measure . . .

World's Danger Spots

Cyprus and Saigon, South Viet Nam, cities and nations once linked with romance, were anything but romantic the past week.

The American-backed war against the Communists in South Viet Nam is not only dragging badly but Red assassins are trying to terrorize Americans, including women and children, far behind the lines. In fact, it was building to an anguished dilemma for President Johnson in this election year when he wants to look good in foreign affairs. In Saigon, assassins bombs have killed and wounded Americans in bars and a baseball stadium. American homes have been attacked with grenades. Last Sunday night, terrorists reached a peak. Outside a movie theater filled with about 500 servicemen and their families a U. S. military policeman was shot to death. Then came the bomb blast. Two more servicemen were killed. 51 Americans were wounded or injured, including women and children, and outside the theater a number of Vietnamese were killed or wounded.

Security measures have been doubled, but still the attacks go on. In the fighting areas, the war goes badly also. In one incident, Vietnamese armored vehicles fought their way through heavy Communist ground fire on Wednesday to recover the bodies of an American pilot and his Vietnamese copilot. The two fliers were strafing guerrillas when groundfire hit their single engine fighter bomber, killing them.

In Washington, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says the war "can only be won by the Vietnamese themselves" and that the U. S. will pull out most troops by 1965 even if the Anti-Communist drive falters there. He added that the Johnson administration has no intention of seeing another Korea — with hundreds of thousands of U. S. troops pouring into Viet Nam.

In Los Angeles on Friday, Johnson, shaking a finger at Red China, said that outsiders supporting Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam are playing a deeply dangerous game. Johnson is holding two days of talks with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos at Palm Springs.

He said the war in Vietnam must be won by our forces.

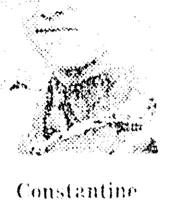
One thing was apparent, however, despite the brave words: Johnson will soon be forced to face the unhappy choice of either sending more U. S., troops into Vietnam or agreeing to neutraliaztion of the entire area, the latter course would in effect, be giving that area to Red China. Either choice is fraught with unpleasant political consequences.

Across the world in Cyprus, attacks continued between Greek and Turkish Cypriots as Britain rushed in additional troops. In the U.N., the question of what to do about Cyprus was still being debated. Meanwhile, President Makarios declared that if Turkey intervened in the Cyprus crisis "we would resist" and would accept aid from any quarter, presumably meaning Russia. The U. S. has wanted NATO forces, including American troops, sent to Cyprus, but Makarios has been cool toward the plan, calling instead for U.N. forces including Russians.

Meanwhile, most authorities fear an actual war between Greece and Turkey, both NATO members, over the situation. Both nations have soldiers on Cyprus and a shooting involving the two groups could easily touch off a possible war between the two.

Around The World

In Greece itself, there was trouble. Moderate George Papandreou won a landslide victory the past week and King Paul then summoned him to form a new government. There were reports Papandreou might seek a meeting with Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu over the Cyprus crisis. Then at weekend, King Paul underwent an operation for stomach ulcers and his condition was described as critical. Shortly before the operation, the King signed a decree naming Constantine, his son, and crown prince, as regent. As such Constantine will perform all the royal duties, at least until the monarch has recovered.



Constantine

IN NEARBY TURKEY, Premier Inonu escaped an attempt on his life in Ankara on Friday. Ankara security officers said a 38-year-old power station foreman fired three shots at the 79-year-old premier as he left his office in the Turkish capital. Inonu was not wounded . . .

Waste Chasers For U.S.

The Some Who Care

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—No one knows how much money the federal government wastes, but taxpayers are wrong if they think nobody cares.

Riding herd on billions of federal spending the General Accounting Office — GCO — reports success in cutting down on waste—and it has impressive figures to prove it.

The savings it claims amount to hundreds of millions a year.

The head of the GAO is Joseph Campbell, 63, a lean, leathery man of Scots ancestry who likes his job of saving money for the taxpayers—whether it be millions of dollars in defense contracts or a cent or so on a half pint of milk in a government hospital.

Comptroller

He is comptroller general of the United States.

Campbell talked about the work of his little army of waste battlers in an interview in which he said there was a possibility of improving on the record sum of $247,547,000 accounted as saved in fiscal 1963.

That sum was made up of "refunds, collections, measurable savings and other financial benefits resulting from the work of the GAO" in examining how correctly — or incorrectly —federal agencies spent the money appropriated by Congress.

Actual refunds and collections made by or through the GAO in fiscal 1963 amounted to more than $29,167,000.

The figures are fractional when compared with the $100 billion or so the government spends in a year. But, says the GAO, the savings are considerable and very worthwhile.

"How much waste is there in the government?" Campbell said. "I wish I could tell you. No one really knows.

"With our relatively limited staff we can come upon some of it, and look into it, concentrating as we do on the areas of greater potential savings."

Campbell did say it was quite possible that in fiscal 1964, which ends next June 30, the GAO savings total might reach $275 million to $300 million. That is based on the experience of the last several years, and the motum of annual government spending.

President Johnson has called on all government agencies to exercise the "utmost thrift and frugality." Campbell was among those Johnson consulted.

Being a practical man, Campbell doesn't hope for the impossible—a complete end to waste.

"I doubt we can reach a state of improvement that would prevent all waste, or duplicating, or inaccurate spending, which we have been finding right along," he says.

The General Accounting Office is an agent of Congress. The office of comptroller general is a presidential appointment. He serves for 15 years and is responsible only to Congress and can be removed only by Congress.

Campbell was appointed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1954. He was treasurer of Columbia University when Eisenhower was Columbia's president.

Campbell insists an investigator from the GAO doesn't have to be an ultimate expert in a particular field to know when something has gone wrong there.

"You don't have to be a hen to tell a rotten egg," he says.

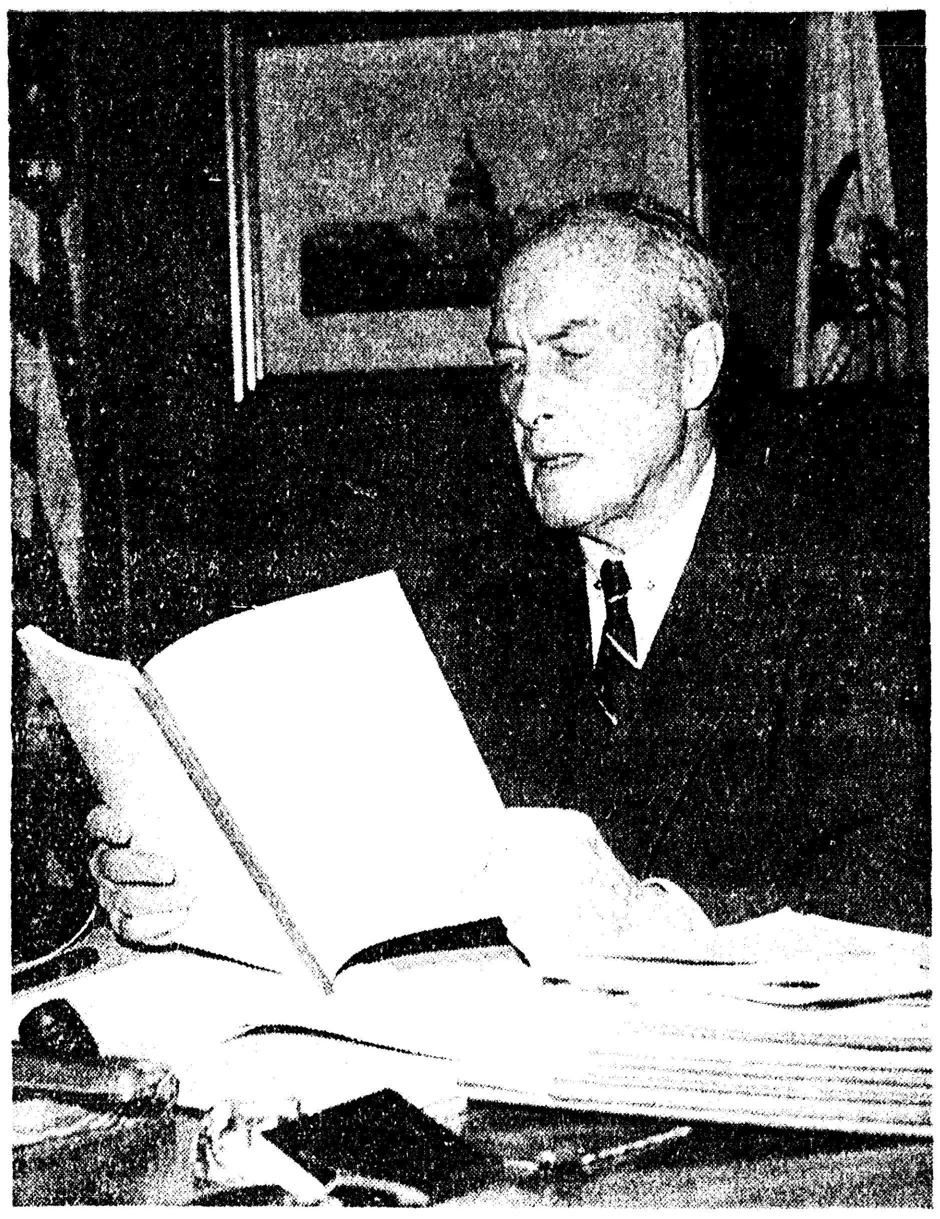
What does all the investigation uncover? Plenty.

Here's a rundown on some of the things — big and small — the GAO has reported in recent months:

Competitive buying — The government saved $55,106,000 last year by reducing reliance on sole-source suppliers, largely in military goods, and switching to competitive buying, as GAO had urged.

Unnecessary buying — A savings of $38,946,000 resulted from cancellation — suggested by the GAO — of plans to buy materials for which there was no pressing need.

Proficiency flying — A $32,600,000 savings was rung up in aircraft operating and maintenance expense last year, resulting from a GAO proposal that certain officers be excused from taking to the air so often.



REDUCING UNCLE SAM'S waste is the job of Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, at work in his Washington office. He heads the General Accounting Office, which figures it saved a record of $247,547,000 in fiscal 1963. The comptroller is appointed by the President but is responsible only to Congress. Spare Parts

Spare parts — "The government has incurred unnecessary costs estimated at $18,700,000 during the years 1959 through 1961 because the Air Force procured spare parts, costing about $50,800,000, under contracts for related equipment although the parts could have been procured generally from other suppliers, for about $32,100,000. Subsequent to our review the Air Force took actions designed to improve its performance in this area."

Milk half pints — "The Veterans Administration central office recognized, as early as 1958, the economies which could be realized by purchasing milk in bulk quantities, usually in five-gallon containers.

We estimate that the lack of aggressive action since fiscal year 1959, the year in which we first reported this matter to the VA, through fiscal year 1963, has resulted in excess costs of about $1,800,000."

Renting computers — "Very substantial amounts of money could be saved if the federal government purchased more of its data processing equipment needs. The detailed cost comparisons indicate potential savings of about $148 million over a five-year period. These significant possible savings apply to only 523 of approximately 1,500 electronic data processing systems."

Government funds in banks — "It seems evident that the government is not being adequately compensated in all cases for the use of its funds on deposit in tax and loan accounts." A review indicated that in one year the largest banks earned $7.6 million in excess of the expenses they incurred in carrying the accounts.

Moon item — "Less than adequate" management in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and in private industry has cost the taxpayer more than $100 million, and has delayed the lunar exploration program two years.

Foreign shipments — "We noted that commodities with an estimated export market value of approximately $100 million had been shipped to Colombia, Turkey and Viet Nam under Title I — of a law providing for sending surplus commodities to friendly nations — during calendar year 1962 but had not been accounted for by required reports on the arrival and disposition of commodities."

Navy shoes — After six years of pressure, the Navy agreed to stop issuing brown shoes and, like the other services, stick to black ones. The GAO estimated the savings at $158,000 a year.

Electric loans—some loans by the Rural Electrication Administration need not have been made, and some others should have been for shorter periods. The GAO said one case cost the taxpayers $3.6 million unnecessarily, and another, $5.4 million.

Pentagon furniture — The Air Force bought $323,000 worth of furniture for Pentagon offices largely because it had that much unspent money on hand.

Nuts and bolts—The Defense Department could save $50 million a year if it bought its minor hardware items from local retail stores instead of stocking them in huge quantities.

Extra Money

Temporary duty—Extra money totalling $203,000 was paid to 40 Navy and Marine Corps military inspectors in Japan for "Temporary duty" whereas some had been there more than four years.

Pharmacy costs — The Veterans Administration wasted $1.6 million last year by letting private pharmacies, rather than VA pharmacies, fill a large number of prescriptions.

High cost of mowing—Lawns on Detroit properties managed by the Veterans Administration through default on home loans were mowed on an average of three times a month, at a cost of $5 per mowing.

Post offices — A study of 91 small leased post offices showed that leasing costs over a 20-year period would be $4.9 million more than the cost of ownership. The government now leases about 9,000 post offices for $51.5 million a year.

Taxi drivers — Four government agencies in the District of Columbia were found to have [illegible] employees who held licenses to drive taxis, and some of them were doing just that while supposedly on the job or on sick leave.

As Campbell sees it, bigness is a primary reason for waste.

World's Danger Spots

Cyprus and Saigon, South Viet Nam, cities and nations once linked with romance, were anything but romantic the past week.

The American-backed war against the Communists in South Viet Nam is not only dragging badly but Red assassins are trying to terrorize Americans, including women and children, far behind the lines. In fact, it was building to an anguished dilemma for President Johnson in this election year when he wants to look good in foreign affairs. In Saigon, assassins bombs have killed and wounded Americans in bars and a baseball stadium. American homes have been attacked with grenades. Last Sunday night, terrorists reached a peak. Outside a movie theater filled with about 500 servicemen and their families a U. S. military policeman was shot to death. Then came the bomb blast. Two more servicemen were killed, 51 Americans were wounded or injured, including women and children, and outside the theater a number of Vietnamese were killed or wounded.

Security measures have been doubled, but still the attacks go on. In the fighting areas, the war goes badly also. In one incident, Vietnamese armored vehicles fought their way through heavy Communist ground fire on Wednesday to recover the bodies of an American pilot and his Vietnamese copilot. The two fliers were strafing guerrillas when groundfire hit their single engine fighter bomber, killing them.

In Washington, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says the war "can only be won by the Vietnamese themselves" and that the U. S. will pull out most troops by 1965 even if the Anti-Communist drive falters there. He added that the Johnson administration has no intention of seeing another Korea — with hundreds of thousands of U. S. troops pouring into Viet Nam.

In Los Angeles on Friday, Johnson, shaking a finger at Red China, said that outsiders supporting Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam are playing a deeply dangerous game. Johnson is holding two days of talks with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos at Palm Springs.

He said the war in Vietnam must be won by our forces.

One thing was apparent, however, despite the brave words: Johnson will soon be forced to face the unhappy choice of either sending more U. S., troops into Vietnam or agreeing to neutraliaztion of the entire area, the latter course would in effect, be giving that area to Red China. Either choice is fraught with unpleasant political consequences.

Across the world in Cyprus, attacks continued between Greek and Turkish Cypriots as Britain rushed in additional troops. In the U.N., the question of what to do about Cyprus was still being debated. Meanwhile, President Makarios declared that if Turkey intervened in the Cyprus crisis "we would resist" and would accept aid from any quarter, presumably meaning Russia. The U. S. has wanted NATO forces, including American troops, sent to Cyprus, but Makarios has been cool toward the plan, calling instead for U.N. forces including Russians.

Meanwhile, most authorities fear an actual war between Greece and Turkey, both NATO members, over the situation. Both nations have soldiers on Cyprus and a shooting involving the two groups could easily touch off a possible war between the two.

Around The World

In Greece itself, there was trouble. Moderate George Papandreou won a landslide victory the past week and King Paul then summoned him to form a new government. There were reports Papandreou might seek a meeting with Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu over the Cyprus crisis. Then at weekend, King Paul underwent an operation for stomach ulcers and his condition was described as critical. Shortly before the operation, the King signed a decree naming Constantine, his son, and crown prince, as regent. As such Constantine will perform all the royal duties, at least until the monarch has recovered.

Constantine

IN NEARBY TURKEY, Premier Inonu escaped an attempt on his life in Ankara on Friday. Ankara security officers said a 38-year-old power station foreman fired three shots at the 79-year-old premier as he left his office in the Turkish capital. Inonu was not wounded . . .

Waste Chasers For U.S.

The Some Who Care

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—No one knows how much money the federal government wastes, but taxpayers are wrong if they think nobody cares.

Riding herd on billions of federal spending the General Accounting Office — GCO — reports success in cutting down on waste—and it has impressive figures to prove it.

The savings it claims amount to hundreds of millions a year.

The head of the GAO is Joseph Campbell, 63, a lean, leathery man of Scots ancestry who likes his job of saving money for the taxpayers—whether it be millions of dollars in defense contracts or a cent or so on a half pint of milk in a government hospital.

Comptroller

He is comptroller general of the United States.

Campbell talked about the work of his little army of waste battlers in an interview in which he said there was a possibility of improving on the record sum of $247,547,000 accounted as saved in fiscal 1963.

That sum was made up of "refunds, collections, measurable savings and other financial benefits resulting from the work of the GAO" in examining how correctly — or incorrectly —federal agencies spent the money appropriated by Congress.

Actual refunds and collections made by or through the GAO in fiscal 1963 amounted to more than $29,167,000.

The figures are fractional when compared with the $100 billion or so the government spends in a year. But, says the GAO, the savings are considerable and very worthwhile.

"How much waste is there in the government?" Campbell said. "I wish I could tell you. No one really knows.

"With our relatively limited staff we can come upon some of it, and look into it, concentrating as we do on the areas of greater potential savings."

Campbell did say it was quite possible that in fiscal 1964, which ends next June 30, the GAO savings total might reach $275 million to $300 million. That is based on the experience of the last several years, and the motum of annual government spending.

President Johnson has called on all government agencies to exercise the "utmost thrift and frugality." Campbell was among those Johnson consulted.

Being a practical man, Campbell doesn't hope for the impossible—a complete end to waste.

"I doubt we can reach a state of improvement that would prevent all waste, or duplicating, or inaccurate spending, which we have been finding right along," he says.

The General Accounting Office is an agent of Congress. The office of comptroller general is a presidential appointment. He serves for 15 years and is responsible only to Congress and can be removed only by Congress.

Campbell was appointed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1954. He was treasurer of Columbia University when Eisenhower was Columbia's president.

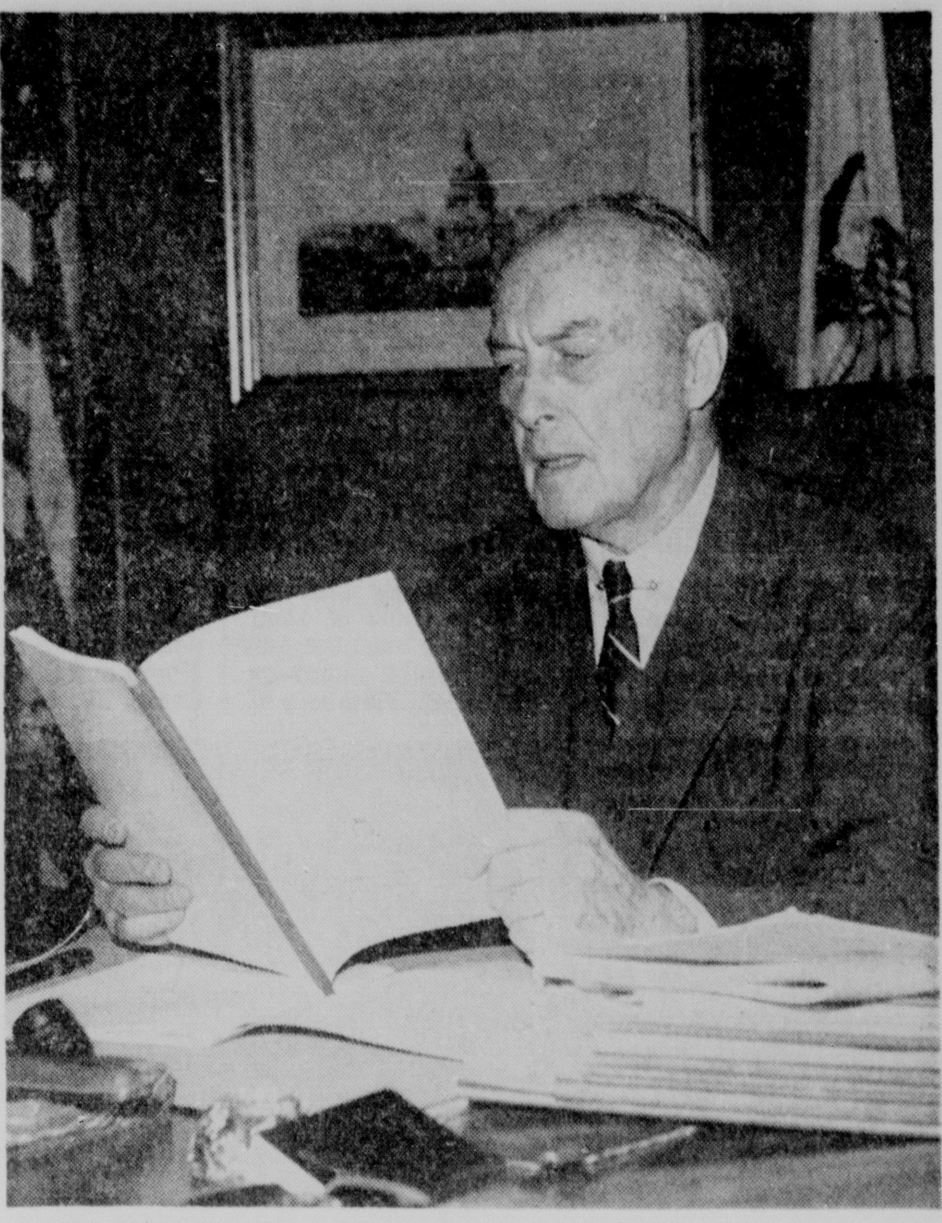
Campbell insists an investigator from the GAO doesn't have to be an ultimate expert in a particular field to know when something has gone wrong there.

"You don't have to be a hen to tell a rotten egg," he says.

What does all the investigation uncover? Plenty.

Here's a rundown on some of the things — big and small — the GAO has reported in recent months:

Competitive buying — The government saved $55,106,000 last year by reducing reliance on sole-source suppliers, largely in military goods, and switching to competitive buying, as GAO had urged.



REDUCING UNCLE SAM'S waste is the job of Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, at work in his Washington office. He heads the General Accounting Office, which figures it saved a record of $247,547,000 in fiscal 1963. The comptroller is appointed by the President but is responsible only to Congress. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Unnecessary buying — A savings of $38,946,000 resulted from cancellation — suggested by the GAO — of plans to buy materials for which there was no pressing need.

Proficiency flying — A $32,600,000 savings was rung up in aircraft operating and maintenance expense last year, resulting from a GAO proposal that certain officers be excused from taking to the air so often.

Spare Parts

Spare parts — "The government has incurred unnecessary costs estimated at $18,700,000 during the years 1959 through 1961 because the Air Force procured spare parts, costing about $50,800,000, under contracts for related equipment although the parts could have been procured generally from other suppliers, for about $32,100,000. Subsequent to our review the Air Force took actions designed to improve its performance in this area."

Milk half pints — "The Veterans Administration central office recognized, as early as 1958, the economies which could be realized by purchasing milk in bulk quantities, usually in five-gallon containers.

We estimate that the lack of aggressive action since fiscal year 1959, the year in which we first reported this matter to the VA, through fiscal year 1963, has resulted in excess costs of about $1,800,000."

Renting computers — "Very substantial amounts of money could be saved if the federal government purchased more of its data processing equipment needs. The detailed cost comparisons indicate potential savings of about $148 million over a five-year period. These significant possible savings apply to only 523 of approximately 1,500 electronic data processing systems."

Government funds in banks — "It seems evident that the government is not being adequately compensated in all cases for the use of its funds on deposit in tax and loan accounts." A review indicated that in one year the largest banks earned $7.6 million in excess of the expenses they incurred in carrying the accounts.

Moon item — "Less than adequate" management in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and in private industry has cost the taxpayers more than $100 million, and has delayed the lunar exploration program two years.

Foreign shipments — "We noted that commodities with an estimated export market value of approximately $100 million had been shipped to Colombia, Turkey and Viet Nam under Title I — of a law providing for sending surplus commodities to friendly nations — during calendar year 1962 but had not been accounted for by required reports on the arrival and disposition of commodities."

Navy shoes — After six years of pressure, the Navy agreed to stop issuing brown shoes and, like the other services, stick to black ones. The GAO estimated the savings at $158,000 a year.

Electric loans—some loans by the Rural Electrication Administration need not have been made, and some others should have been for shorter periods. The GAO said one case cost the taxpayers $3.6 million unnecessarily, and another, $5.4 million.

Pentagon furniture — The Air Force bought $323,000 worth of furniture for Pentagon offices largely because it had that much unspent money on hand.

Nuts and bolts—The Defense Department could save $50 million a year if it bought its minor hardware items from local retail stores instead of stocking them in huge quantities.

Extra Money

Temporary duty—Extra money totalling $203,000 was paid to 40 Navy and Marine Corps military inspectors in Japan for "Temporary duty" whereas some had been there more than four years.

Pharmacy costs — The Veterans Administration wasted $1.6 million last year by letting private pharmacies, rather than VA pharmacies, fill a large number of prescriptions.

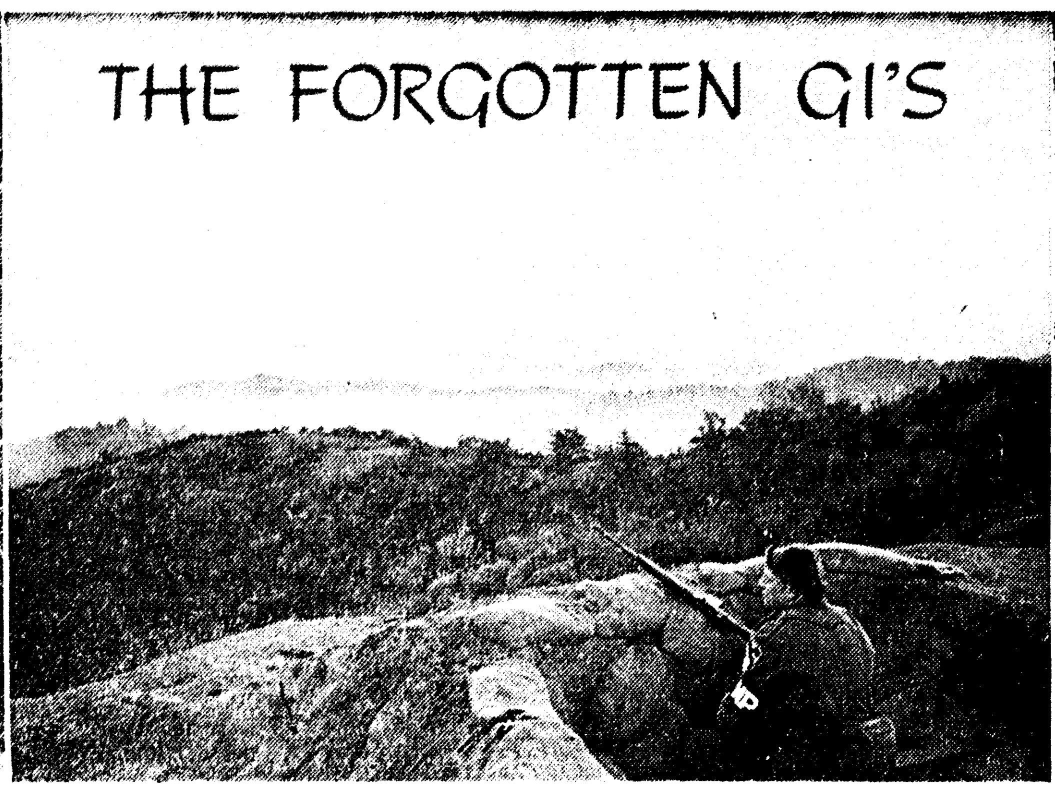
High cost of mowing—Lawns on Detroit properties managed by the Veterans Administration —through default on home loans —were mowed on an average of three times a month, at a cost of $5 per mowing.

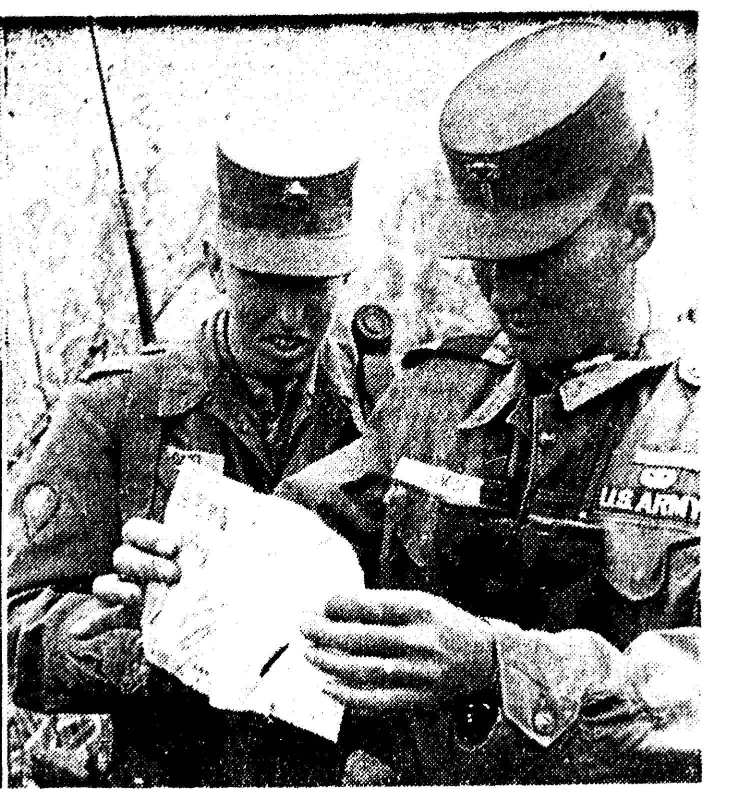
Post offices — A study of 91 small leased post offices showed that leasing costs over a 20-year peroid would be $4.9 million more than the cost of owning them. The government now leases about 9,000 post offices for $51.5 million a year.

Taxi drivers — Four government agencies in the District of Columbia were found to have 1,799 employes who held licenses to drive taxis, and some of them were doing just that while supposedly on the job or on sick leave.

As Campbell sees it, bigness is a primary reason for waste.

THE FORGOTTEN GI'S





THE COLD WAR IN KOREA is a lonely task for American GIs. These pictures show some of their activities. In the shot at the left, their machine gun lies at the ready beside them as soldiers fill sandbags at an outpost machine gunner's position. Members of C Company of the First Battalion of the 8th Regiment are kept busy building defenses south of the demilitarized zone—the no-man's land that separates North and South Korea. In the center is Pvt. William Craig, 20, of Washington, D.C., who sits on guard duty in a foxhole at Johnson guard post, named for a GI killed by a grenade thrown on a guard post. Early morning mist lingers in the valley. Guard duty in the zone is mostly a matter of sitting bored, on the lookout for anything suspicious. At right, a North Korean propaganda leaflet is looked over by 2nd Lt. John Schmidt of Houston, Texas (right), and Sgt. Carl Baker of Marina, Calif. (AP Newsfeatures Photos).

In Lonely Korea

The armistice that turned the Korean incident from hot to cold was signed more than 10 years ago and ever since it has been a living hell for Americans stationed there.

The winters are bleak and on the hill top guard posts the wind adds a numbing that can't be rubbed away. Summer comes on like lava from a volcano stifling as though the land was steaming under a jungle cover. But the worst thing is the dust. Dust by the grain and by the ton. Dust for breakfast, lunch, dinner. Dust for sleeping and dust for rising. It is the constant, dirty companion.

It is here, north of the Imjin River, where the men stand eyeball to eyeball with the enemy. Between them is the buffer — the demilitarized zone (DMZ), its center marked with a tape that fixes the military demarcation line.

These men, members of the 8th and 9th Cavalry Regiments of the First Cavalry Division, man the guard posts along an 18-mile sector. And they patrol the DMZ, keeping a sharp eye for suspicious activity or unauthorized persons.

It's tough, grinding, boring, upsetting duty. Adding to the feeling of constant threat is the thing each man knows without saying anything about it: The 8th and 9th are sacrificial units. If the Reds should come pouring over the zone, if a hot war should flare, these men would take to prepared defenses, mostly as a holding or delaying action.

And the threat of death is not far away. Last July, two men were killed in an ambush. Before then, a soldier was killed by a grenade.

There is a saving grace: No more than 13 months in Korea (except for some men assigned to the Armistice Commission). That's 13 months that are ticked off, if not by the hour, certainly by the day. Ask a man who he is and how long he's been here, and he gives his name and "I've got 219 days to go."

That is the substance of duty in this forbidden place: Surviving cold and heat and dust, just for one day, and another, and finally 13 months of days.

TURNING FROM the scope pointed toward North Korea's sector of the demilitarized zone, Pvt. William Craig of Washington, D.C., gladly greets Lt. Larry Moody, 22, of Dell, Ark., on pay day. In the center picture, GIs on patrol duty tradge along a safe lane in a mine field while coming off the ridge into a valley of the demilitarized zone in Korea. Guard posts in the zone are all on top of high hills. The wire was rolled aside to let in a bulldozer which leveled a mound next to the post for a warmup tent.

NASTY WAR BEING FOUGHT IN BORNEO

By CONRAD FINK

JESSELTON, Malaysia (AP) — Another "nasty little guerrilla war" is brewing in Southeast Asia. If it boils over, it could become a second Viet Nam.

This time the island of Borneo is the setting for jungle ambushes, sudden death and fanatic communism. More than two-thirds of the huge island belongs to Indonesia.

The fighting and diplomatic maneuvering pit infant Malaysia and its British protectors against three foes: Indonesia, a hard-bitten internal Communist underground, and an ostensibly nationalistic "People's Rebellion Front."

President Johnson sent Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to Southeast Asia in January to counsel mediation, and units of the U.S. 7th Fleet have shown the flag in the Indian Ocean, which Indonesia considers home waters.

Weak Point

Further U.S. concern is probable because Malaysia's foes are attacking the federation at its weakest point — the former British Borneo territories now called Sabah and Sarawak. More than 100 guerrillas have been killed or captured in these two states, which make up the northern one-third of the island.

Malaya and Singapore, strongest states in the federation, have not been touched militarily but are suffering from an economic offensive launched by Indonesia.

Britain, already heavily committed around the world, is hard pressed to honor its agreement to defend its former colonies.

Caught in the middle but apparently oblivious to the trouble is the Sultanate of Brunei. This tiny British protectorate, languishing amid rich oilfields on Borneo's northwest coast, survived one revolution in 1962 but appears headed for deeper involvement.

A British colonel illustrated just how nasty the little war is getting.

A guerrilla, his arm severed by British gunfire while leading an attack, was told he was dying. His final words were a snarl: "We'll get you colonial bums yet."

Another guerrilla, trapped by hunter-killer units of Gurkha jungle fighters, refused to surrender and drew his only weapon, a short bayonet, to make a suicide charge at British submachine guns.

Elite Troops

Against these men, the British are deploying elite troops. Alongside the Gurkhas are elements of the commandos, the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, the Royal Air Force and Royal Navy.

Some of Britain's best anti guerrilla strategists, men who fought in the nine-year war against Malaya's Chinese communists, are here.

Helicopters rush troops through the seacoast mist and over green-blanketed mountains chasing the elusive enemy. Other Britons wait out the weeks and months in dusty, sun-baked outposts, standing to at dusk every day to ward off possible attack.

In Tawau, on the east coast of Sabah, formerly North Borneo, bands of 35-40 guerrillas have infiltrated from Indonesian Borneo. Gurkhas, the tough little hired fighters from Nepal, have spent months trying to hunt them down.

Farther south, near Sarawak's capital of Kuching, guerrillas have come in by land and sea, linking up with a Communist underground that the British have been unable to smash.

Guerrilla bases, training grounds and safe havens are in Indonesian Borneo. British officials say some guerrilla cadres killed in Malaysian territory were identified through dog tags and documents as members of Indonesian regular units. Some prisoners claimed they were Indonesian commandos drafted for special guerrilla duty.

Economy

Disruption of Borneo's economy has been a prime mission of many guerrilla bands, especially in the north. Captured documents show their mission was shooting up lumber ports and power stations, and ruining rubber and copra plantations, operated mostly by Britons.

The Communists' mission is spreading dissatisfaction and recruiting party members from the Chinese community, which totals more than 43 per cent of the population. Indoctrination classes have been uncovered in Chinese schools and even at Chinese picnics.

The Indonesian-based guerrillas and Chinese Communists are respected as foes by the British. They are tough, wily and well indoctrinated.

Not so the third foe, the so-called People's Liberation Front. The British term this a ragtag bunch that smelled promise in Brunei's oil fields and has been trying to grab them ever since under leadership of E. Z. Azahari, a local boy on the unemployed lists.

The British stamped on E. Z. and his followers quickly with both feet and they fled to Indonesia. He still issues an occasional proclamation from Jakarta demanding an independent Borneo.

Often all three foes team up. Members of all three groups were captured in one assault boat trying to land guerrillas ashore from the South China Sea near Kuching.

Well-Armed

The guerrillas are amazingly well equipped. Captured equipment includes British and Belgian weapons and, unfortunately for the U.S. image among British troops, a large amount of American field clothing, packs, and the American-made Armalite rifle, a weapon with fabled killing power.

The Armalite, a .223 caliber weapon with high muzzle velocity, is government issue for U.S. troops in South Viet Nam. However, some of Indonesia's elite jungle troops carry it. The American explanation is that President Sukarno got the Armalite through private channels.

American-made B25 two-engine Mitchell bombers and P51 Mustang fighters, both World War II types, are used by the Indonesian air force to roar over Kuching and British outposts in what appears to be a war of nerves.

Other planes in Sukarno's air force include American-built C130 Hercules four-engine transports, and Soviet-built MIG fighters and twin-engine Badger bombers.

With this air force, a population of 100 million, and an estimated armed strength of 240,000 men, Sukarno heavily outguns the British.

Britain's strength in Borneo is classified but probably isn't more than 6,000 troops. Its air force consists of helicopters, transports and observation planes. Malaysia, a nation of 10.6 million, has only green troops.

Some British interpreted Sukarno's willingness to meet Atty. Gen. Kennedy as proof Indonesian spirits are flagging. Some officials said Sukarno hopes the British can be bluffed out, as the Dutch were from west New Guinea in May 1963.

The British are waging a "hearts and minds" campaign of friendship among border tribesmen. Harsh punishment awaits a hungry British soldier who even touches a locally owned chicken running around his tent.

800 Miles Long

The border with Indonesia stretches about 800 miles through incredibly rough and largely unmapped terrain. It's impossible to seal and the British have resorted to hitting the guerrillas as they scoot for home after a raid, rather than preventing them from entering.

2nd Hooky Day Set In Chicago By Mix Groups

CHICAGO (UPI) — Militant civil rights groups which persuaded 224,000 Chicago school children to play hooky from classes last October in a massive Freedom Day demonstration planned to try it again Tuesday.

Lawrence Landry, organizer of the boycott, said it "is definitely on" despite opposition by six Negro aldermen, a federal judge and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Landry, a spokesman for the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO), admitted that the split in Negro and civil rights leaders' ranks "will certainly hurt us."

There was virtually no opposition from Negroes to the one-day boycott last October.

The boycott is one of seven originally scheduled during February by the Temporary National Freedom Day Committee for Chicago, New York, Boston, Atlanta, Wilmington, Del. Chester, Pa., and Cambridge, Md.

Swindle Dream Falls Through

MEMPHIS (UPI)—A University of Mississippi senior whose plan to swindle a Memphis bank came to him in a dream, has been charged with forgery, city police said Saturday.

The student, Frederick Ross Jr., 21, of Jackson, Miss., waived preliminary hearing and was released on $1,500 bond.

Ross, a former Oxford, Miss., bank employe, told police he literally dreamed up a money-raising scheme when he was broke.

Lt. H. J. Beach said Ross opened an account in a Memphis bank and deposited $20 under a false name.

Rockefeller Fixes Fences With Lodge

NEW HAMPSHIRE (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York moved in a transoceanic telephone call to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to dispel any ill will Lodge might hold against him, it was disclosed Saturday.

The development stirred speculation the Rockefeller campaign forces were hoping that Lodge would take steps to discourage New Hampshire residents from voting for him in this state's presidential preference primary March 10.

Rockefeller, a declared candidate in the primary, linked Lodge on Thursday with what the governor described as "a mess" in South Viet Nam, where Lodge is now serving as U.S. ambassador.

Rockefeller told reporters in a sidewalk news conference Saturday that his principal purpose Friday in calling Lodge in Saigon, South Viet Nam, had been to explain that the comments had been made in answer to a specific question and had not been volunteered.

Lodge has said he does not plan to seek the Republican nomination for president. But supporters here have entered a slate of delegates pledged to him in the preferential primary.

Rockefeller's campaign aides believe that Lodge will draw some votes that otherwise would go to the governor and, consequently, that Rockefeller would be the chief beneficiary from any action by Lodge to discourage a vote for himself.

The tangled, behind the scenes developments over the Lodge candidacy came about as Rockefeller moved through 10-degree cold and over mountain roads in search of votes.

Rockefeller, winding up four days of intensive campaigning, continued to visit stores, shake hands and greet practically every voter he spotted.

The call to Lodge Friday night from Franconia College. Rockefeller refused to divulge that political subjects had been discussed.

2nd Hooky Day Set In Chicago By Mix Groups

CHICAGO (UPI) — Militant civil rights groups which persuaded 224,000 Chicago school children to play hooky from classes last October in a massive Freedom Day demonstration planned to try it again Tuesday.

Lawrence Landry, organizer of the boycott, said it "is definitely on" despite opposition by six Negro aldermen, a federal judge and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Landry, a spokesman for the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO), admitted that the split in Negro and civil rights leaders' ranks "will certainly hurt us."

There was virtually no opposition from Negroes to the one-day boycott last October.

The boycott is one of seven originally scheduled during February by the Temporary National Freedom Day Committee for Chicago, New York, Boston, Atlanta, Wilmington, Del. Chester, Pa., and Cambridge, Md.

LEE STUBBS, above, has arrived to assume management of the Gordon Jewelers store in downtown Monroe after about a year with the company in Houston. Before that he was associated with an independent jewelry store in Vicksburg. His wife and three children will join him in the near future to make their home here.

Swindle Dream Falls Through

MEMPHIS (UPI)—A University of Mississippi senior whose plan to swindle a Memphis bank came to him in a dream, has been charged with forgery, city police said Saturday.

The student, Frederick Ross Jr., 21, of Jackson, Miss., waived preliminary hearing and was released on $1,500 bond.

Ross, a former Oxford, Miss., bank employe, told police he literally dreamed up a money-raising scheme when he was broke.

Lt. H. J. Beach said Ross opened an account in a Memphis bank and deposited $20 under a false name.

Rockefeller Fixes Fences With Lodge

NEW HAMPSHIRE (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York moved in a trans-oceanic telephone call to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to dispel any ill will Lodge might hold against him, it was disclosed Saturday.

The development stirred speculation the Rockefeller campaign forces were hoping that Lodge would take steps to discourage New Hampshire residents from voting for him in this state's presidential preference primary March 10.

Rockefeller, a declared candidate in the primary, linked Lodge on Thursday with what the governor described as "a mess" in South Viet Nam, where Lodge is now serving as U.S. ambassador.

Rockefeller told reporters in a sidewalk news conference Saturday that his principal purpose Friday in calling Lodge in Saigon, South Viet Nam, had been to explain that the comments had been made in answer to a specific question and had not been volunteered.

Lodge has said he does not plan to seek the Republican nomination for president. But supporters here have entered a slate of delegates pledged to him in the preferential primary.

Rockefeller's campaign aides believe that Lodge will draw some votes that otherwise would go to the governor and, consequently, that Rockefeller would be the chief beneficiary from any action by Lodge to discourage a vote for himself.

The tangled, behind the scenes developments over the Lodge candidacy came about as Rockefeller moved through 10-degree cold and over mountain roads in search of votes.

Rockefeller, winding up four days of intensive campaigning, continued to visit stores, shake hands and greet practically every voter he spotted.

The call to Lodge Friday night from Franconia College. Rockefeller refused to divulge that political subjects had been discussed.

'64 CHEVROLET—The great highway performer

Feels like somebody put a runway where the road should be!
AG-443

*Foreground: Chevrolet Impala Sport Coupe Background: Chevrolet Impala Station Wagon with roof luggage carrier

With engines up to a 425-hp V8* and its luxurious Jet-smooth ride, you may not notice where air travel leaves off and a Chevrolet Impala begins. Take-offs are smooth and effortless. Hills seem flat as prairies. A big coil spring at each wheel and over 700 sound deadeners throughout the body and chassis make you feel you're hardly on the ground at all. You'll find all kinds of jet-age luxury inside an Impala's big, roomy Body by Fisher, too.

Wide deep-cushioned seats, tailored with rich fabrics and vinyls. Thick wall-to-wall carpeting. Soft background music from an AM-FM radio*, if you like. You can even get an automatic pilot (we call it a "speed and cruise control"*) that lets you log mile after turnpike mile without touching the accelerator. All in all, it's sky-high living at down-to-earth prices. Who but your Chevrolet dealer can offer a way to go quite like that? *Optional at extra cost

REV. DONALD VESEY

Missionary Speaker At Church Meet

A missionary to the Dominican Republic, the Rev. Donald Vesey, will speak 7:30 p.m. Friday at the West Monroe Free Methodist Church, corner of Lincoln and McGuire, it was announced by the Rev. Billy Roark, pastor.

Rev. Vesey, who has observed the influence of Fidel Castro of Cuba on a neighboring country, will report on his impressions.

Serving as a missionary under the General Missionary Board of the Free Methodist Church, he more recently has been in the role of itenerant evangelist, frequently holding services every evening from Tuesday through Sunday.

TRAVELING BOOKSTORE

He recently began operating a traveling bookstore to sell Bibles, Testaments, hymnals and other christian literature to people who never have an opportunity to enter a christian bookstore.

Last year, at the request of the Dominican mission and several churches, he began preparation of a correspondance course for new converts who are unable to attend Bible school. The first course has been completed, and the second in the series is being prepared.

At the meeting in West Monroe, Rev. Vesey will show colored slides and also will display various aritfacts from the Dominican Republic.

REV. J. O. WALLACE

Rev. Wallace Will Appear At Rally Here

The general Sunday School director of the United Pentecostal Church, the Rev. J. O. Wallace, Nashville, Tenn., will be the guest speaker at Section One Sunday School Rally Friday, at the First United Pentecostal Church, 702 Montgomery Street, West Monroe. The service will start at 7:30 p.m.

BACKGROUND

Rev. Wallace for the past several years has devoted his time and services to the General Sunday School Department. As Director, he has traveled to all parts of the country. On several occasions, he has spoken at state meetings in Louisiana. This will be his first trip to north Louisiana.

His wife, who is presently the director of West Nashville Kindegarten Nursery School, Inc., also will be speaking at the rally.

Rev. E. W. Caughron is host pastor.

Cheniere Church Stages Banquet

The Rev. Harold Cook, pastor of Brownville Baptist Church, was guest speaker at the recent annual Sweetheart Banquet of Cheniere Baptist Church.

Church pastor, the Rev. W. C. Bounds, gave the invocation and Sharon Parsons served as announcer for the program at Walt's Restaurant.

Following the program, Miss Jo Ann Gist was crowned queen of the banquet, and Private James Herman Bounds, reigned as king.

A number of church members took part in skits about Valentine stages from youth to old age.

Special Week Of Emphasis On Religion

Religious Emphasis Week will be held at Northeast Louisiana State College Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. E. J. Foster, chairman of the Religious Activities Committee, announced today.

The theme will be "Freedom: Mind, Body, Spirit," he said.

The three-day program, sponsored by the various religious groups on campus, is designed to call attention to the spiritual needs of the college student.

ASSEMBLIES

Assemblies will be held daily from 9:40 to 10:20 a.m. in Brown Hall auditorium. Class schedules will be arranged so that all students may attend.

In addition, faculty seminars will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday at 4 p.m. Student seminars will be held each night at 7 p.m.

Student members of the Religious Activities Committee, which plans and handles REW arrangements, are Grace Cascio, Monroe; Mary Moore, Newellton; Robert C. Payne, Monroe; E. D. Coates, Columbia, and Billie Sue Dixon, Monroe.

Annual Cana Conference Opens Soon

A series of lectures for persons planning marriage in the near future will be given every Sunday from 2 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. during March and April in the College Union Building at Northeast State College.

The weekly lectures in rooms 209 and 210 at the College Union Building will be under the sponsorship of the Newman Club of Northeast State.

Leaders in the Cana Conference for 1964 will be Catholic church leaders, educators and civic and business leaders.

There will be nine weekly sessions in the series.

Pakistan Pastor To Speak Here

A Methodist minister from West Pakistan will be guest speaker at the First Methodist Church Sunday school here at 9:35 a.m. March 1, and at youth division services at 6:15 p.m. on that day.

He is the Rev. John Victor Samuel, who is on a one-year assignment in this country as a staff member of the Department of Field Cultivation of the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation of the Methodist Board of Missions.

DR. C. E. AUTREY

Dr. Autrey Speaker For Church Here

The Evangelism Division director of the Southern Baptist Convention's Home Mission Board, Dr. C. E. Autrey, of Dallas, Texas, will be featured speaker at 10:50 a.m. services, Sunday, March 1 at West Monroe First Baptist Church.

Dr. Autrey's appearance will be a homecoming event, since he was pastor of the West Monroe church from 1941 until 1948.

A native of Mississippi, he came to Louisiana in early childhood, is a graduate of Louisiana College and received a doctor's degree in theology from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

BACKGROUND

After serving in pastorates for 20 years he became evangelism director for the Louisiana area and was assistant secretary of the Home Mission Board. From 1955 to 1960 he was professor of evangelism at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas.

He is author of five books on evangelism. In addition to his administrative duties with the Home Mission Board, he leads conferences with pastors and religious leaders throughout the area covered by the Southern Baptist Convention, including the 50 states, Panama, Cuba and Puerto Rico.

He has been widely acclaimed for revivals which he conducted in many areas. A two week revival which he held in Pickens, South Carolina attracted more than 50,000 persons, and he reported 1,551 decisions to follow Christ in a 15-day evangelistic crusade in Lawton, Okla.

The Rector, Vestry, and Wardens of Grace Episcopal Church
Monroe, Louisiana
Announce the Spring Series of INQUIRER'S CLASSES

For persons interested in learning more about the Episcopal Church, it's Ways, it's Teachings, it's Worship, and its proclamation of the Christian Faith.

Today, as never before in history, people are seeking an answer to the complexities of life. We would like very much for you to hear the positive answers which reason and intelligence, and the long history of the Church make so sensible to modern man.

The public is cordially invited, beginning Thursday, February 27, 1964, to attend the eight weekly informal lecture and discussion meetings. Your interest places you under no obligation whatever to "join" this branch of the Church.

Every Thursday, 7:30 P.M. for 8 Weeks

REV. DONALD VESEY

Missionary Speaker At Church Meet

A missionary to the Dominican Republic, the Rev. Donald Vesey, will speak 7:30 p.m. Friday at the West Monroe Free Methodist Church, corner of Lincoln and McGuire, it was announced by the Rev. Billy Roark, pastor.

Rev. Vesey, who has observed the influence of Fidel Castro of Cuba on a neighboring country, will report on his impressions.

Serving as a missionary under the General Missionary Board of the Free Methodist Church, he more recently has been in the role of itenerant evangelist, frequently holding services every evening from Tuesday through Sunday.

TRAVELING BOOKSTORE

He recently began operating a traveling bookstore to sell Bibles, Testaments, hymnals and other christian literature to people who never have an opportunity to enter a christian bookstore.

Last year, at the request of the Dominican mission and several churches, he began preparation of a correspondance course for new converts who are unable to attend Bible school. The first course has been completed, and the second in the series is being prepared.

At the meeting in West Monroe, Rev. Vesey will show colored slides and also will display various aritfacts from the Dominican Republic.

REV. J. O. WALLACE

Rev. Wallace Will Appear At Rally Here

The general Sunday School director of the United Pentecostal Church, the Rev. J. O. Wallace, Nashville, Tenn., will be the guest speaker at Section One Sunday School Rally Friday, at the First United Pentecostal Church, 702 Montgomery Street, West Monroe. The service will start at 7:30 p.m.

BACKGROUND

Rev. Wallace for the past several years has devoted his time and services to the General Sunday School Department. As Director, he has traveled to all parts of the country. On several occasions, he has spoken at state meetings in Louisiana. This will be his first trip to north Louisiana.

His wife, who is presently the director of West Nashville Kindegarten Nursery School, Inc., also will be speaking at the rally.

Rev. E. W. Caughron is host pastor.

Cheniere Church Stages Banquet

The Rev. Harold Cook, pastor of Brownville Baptist Church, was guest speaker at the recent annual Sweetheart Banquet of Cheniere Baptist Church.

Church pastor, the Rev. W. C. Bounds, gave the invocation and Sharon Parsons served as announcer for the program at Walt's Restaurant.

Following the program, Miss Jo Ann Gist was crowned queen of the banquet, and Private James Herman Bounds, reigned as king.

A number of church members took part in skits about Valentine stages from youth to old age.

Special Week Of Emphasis On Religion

Religious Emphasis Week will be held at Northeast Louisiana State College Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, E. J. Foster, chairman of the Religious Activities Committee, announced today.

The theme will be "Freedom: Mind, Body, Spirit," he said.

The three-day program, sponsored by the various religious groups on campus, is designed to call attention to the spiritual needs of the college student.

ASSEMBLIES

Assemblies will be held daily from 9:40 to 10:20 a.m. in Brown Hall auditorium. Class schedules will be arranged so that all students may attend.

In addition, faculty seminars will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday at 4 p.m. Student seminars will be held each night at 7 p.m.

Student members of the Religious Activities Committee, which plans and handles REW arrangements, are Grace Cascio, Monroe; Mary Moore, Newellton; Robert C. Payne, Monroe; E. D. Coates, Columbia, and Billie Sue Dixon, Monroe.

Annual Cana Conference Opens Soon

A series of lectures for persons planning marriage in the near future will be given every Sunday from 2 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. during March and April in the College Union Building at Northeast State College.

The weekly lectures in rooms 209 and 210 at the College Union Building will be under the sponsorship of the Newman Club of Northeast State.

Leaders in the Cana Conference for 1964 will be Catholic church leaders, educators and civic and business leaders.

There will be nine weekly sessions in the series.

SCHEDULE

The schedule of meetings, topics and lecturers:

March 1, "Looking Forward to Marriage," Fathers David Dabria and William Provostry.

March 8, "The Love of Husband and Wife," Fathers Warren LaRocque and Earl Beaulieu. March 15, "Courtship, Engagement," Father Edward Devey, and "Masculine and Feminine Psychology," NLSC Pro. David MacArthur.

March 22, "Church Law," Msgr. John C. Marsh. "Civil Law and Marriage," attorney Thomas M. Hayes Jr. .

April 5, "A Doctor Speaks to Future Spouses," Dr. G. A. Varino.

April 12, "A Nurse and Psychiatric Social Worker Speaks," Miss Anita Titone, Monroe Guidance Clinic.

April 19, "Moral Problems in Marriage," Father William F. Allen.

April 26, "A Married Couple Advises Future Spouses," Mr. and Mrs. Harold Richter.

May 3, "Economic Aspect of Marriage: Money," John Savage, C. P. A.

Rev. Allen, who is pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, is chaplain of the Newman Club.

Pakistan Pastor To Speak Here

A Methodist minister from West Pakistan will be guest speaker at the First Methodist Church Sunday school here at 9:35 a.m. March 1, and at youth division services at 6:15 p.m. on that day.

He is the Rev. John Victor Samuel, who is on a one-year assignment in this country as a staff member of the Department of Field Cultivation of the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation of the Methodist Board of Missions.

DR. C. E. AUTREY

Dr. Autrey Speaker For Church Here

The Evangelism Division director of the Southern Baptist Convention's Home Mission Board, Dr. C. E. Autrey, of Dallas, Texas, will be featured speaker at 10:50 a.m. services, Sunday, March 1 at West Monroe First Baptist Church.

Dr. Autrey's appearance will be a homecoming event, since he was pastor of the West Monroe church from 1941 until 1948.

A native of Mississippi, he came to Louisiana in early childhood, is a graduate of Louisiana College and received a doctor's degree in theology from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

BACKGROUND

After serving in pastorates for 20 years he became evangelism director for the Louisiana area and was assistant secretary of the Home Mission Board. From 1955 to 1960 he was professor of evangelism at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas.

He is author of five books on evangelism. In addition to his administrative duties with the Home Mission Board, he leads conferences with pastors and religious leaders throughout the area covered by the Southern Baptist Convention, including the 50 states, Panama, Cuba and Puerto Rico.

He has been widely acclaimed for revivals which he conducted in many areas. A two-week revival which he held in Pickens, South Carolina attracted more than 50,000 persons, and he reported 1,351 decisions to follow Christ in a 15-day evangelistic crusade in Lawton, Okla.

BASEBALL TIME AGAIN

Spring Camps Open Sunday

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Spring training officially opens today and not even the Charlie Finley furore or all the hoopla over the heavyweight "fight of the century" can dispel that warm, wonderful spring feeling that it's baseball time again.

Naturally, most of the local people are speculating now long Tuesday night's world title bout between Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay at Nearby Miami Beach will last, but many also are aware the Baltimore Orioles open spring training here today.

The Houston Colts, who did their spring training chores at Apache Junction, Ariz., last year, have switched to Cocoa, Fla., near Cape Kennedy, and will report to Manager Harry Craft here today.

Likewise, the Chicago Cubs, still shocked by the tragic death of second baseman Ken Hubbs, will begin training at Mesa, Ariz., and the San Francisco Giants at Cas Grande, Ariz.

The Los Angeles Angels beat everyone to the punch by beginning their conditioning last Monday at Palm Springs, Calif. and the New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers and New York Mets also have launched advance camps primarily for rookies and farm-hands.

By the end of the week all but three of the 20 major league clubs will be busy at work.

Here are the reporting dates for the first squads:

Monday—Red Sox at Scottsdale, Ariz., and Mets at St. Petersburg.

Tuesday—White Sox at Sarasota and Twins at Orlando.

Wednesday — Pirates at Fort Myers and Indians at Tucson, Ariz.

Thursday—Yankees at Fort Lauderdale; Phillies at Clearwater, and Athletics at Bradenton.

Saturday — Tigers at Lakeland; Dodgers at Vero Beach and Senators at Pompano Beach.

The three remaining clubs, the Reds, Braves and Cardinals, open on March 1 with Cincinnati at Tampa, Milwaukee at West Palm Beach and St. Louis at St. Petersburg.

Most attention on that day will be centered around Tampa's Al Lopez Field where Manager Fred Hutchinson is due to take charge of the Reds. Hutch still is undergoing treatment for cancer but has said he will be there on time.

Among the missing during spring training, however, could be Finley, who spent most of the winter in a wrangle over a ball park lease, first with Kansas City officials and then with his fellow American League owners.

Knudson Gets Caracas Golf Tourney Lead

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — George Knudson of Toronto surged into a five-stroke lead in the third round of the Caracas Open Golf Tournament Saturday, shooting a par 70 for a 54-hole total of 203. The final round will be played Sunday.

Al Besselink of Philadelphia, co-leader with Knudson after two rounds, fell far back with a 78 after knocking two balls out of bounds on the 13th hole at the Valle Arriba Club course. He took a 10 on the hole and blew to a total of 211 for fourth place.

Knudson's round actually was his worst in the tournament. He shot 68 and 65 in the first two rounds.

Spain's Ramon Sota fired a 72 but still moved up from third to second on his over-all total of 208. Jim Ferree of Corona, Calif., also stepped up a spot to third with a 72 for a 210 total.

Defending champion Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., was tied with Besselink after getting a 73.

Adrien Bigras of Montreal sank a hole-in-one on the 170-yard, par three seventh hole. He finished with a 79.

Bolt, Middlecoff In First Round Tournament Tie

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP)—Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla. birdied three of the final four holes and pulled into a tie with Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn. for the opening round lead in the Little Tournament of Champions Saturday.

Bolt shot a 36-33—69 and Middlecoff 33-36—69. Middlecoff, recuperating from back surgery six months ago, returned to the pro circuit with this tourney.

One stroke off the pace were Johnny Pott of Ocean Springs, Miss., the defending champion, with 34-36—70 and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., U.S. Open champion, with 35-35—70.

The $7,500 tournament is being played over the par 36-36—72 6,812-yard Panama Country Club Course.

Louisiana State Wins Gym Meet

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana State scored 112 points to place first in the Pelican State gymastics meet here Saturday night.

The University of Southwestern Louisiana was second with 20 points, followed by Metry 17½, Northeast State 16½, Olympia 10, and Northwestern State 3.

Gene Hufty and Marvin Jordan of Northeast both placed third in all - around competition.

Clark Smashes 3-Mile Standard

NEW YORK (AP)—Ron Clarke, a brutish-looking 26-year-old from Australia, tore the indoor three-mile record apart with a 13:18.4 clocking and bulky Bob Hayes of Florida A&M broke through the six-second barrier with a 5.9-second clocking in the 60-yard dash Saturday at the National AAU indoor track championships.

Clarke, a dark, powerful stylist, ran second to young Gerry Lindgren for the first mile, then pulled even at the halfway point with a time of 6:40.8.

Pete McArdle, New York veteran who had been back in the pack, bolted to the front and hit the two-mile mark in 8:56.8 with Clarke about two yards back.

That was as far as McArdle progressed, and Clarke flashed in front and began to lengthen his lead with every stride.

At the finish, Clarke was about three-quarters of a lap in front of the second-place McArdle and was within 20 yards of lapping third-place Lindgren.

McArdle was timed in 13:32.6 and Lindgren, a 17-year-old high school student from Spokane, was third in 13:37.8.

Clarke's time chopped six full seconds off the old mark of 13:26.4 set by Al Lawrence, another Australian, while he was attending the University of Houston in 1960. The mark was equalled earlier this winter by still another Australian, Albie Thomas, in Toronto.

Lindgren, who finished second in both his previous indoor starts this winter, took the lead at the start and fought off several challenges by Clarke before he finally yielded the lead.

Lindgren's time was only eight-tenths of a second over the American citizen's record of 13:37 set by Bill Dellinger in 1959.

Tom O'Riordan of Ireland was fourth in 13:40.

Hayes, who plays fullback on the Florida A&M football team, got off to an excellent start on his record 60.

The Florida flash, billed as the "World's Fastest Human," pulled away in the final strides and beat Charles Green, Lincoln, Neb., by about two feet.

Two officials caught him in 5.9, the third in 6 flat.

Hayes, who has a time of 9.1 pending recognition for the 100-yard dash outdoors, had equalled the indoor 60 mark of six seconds flat four times this season. He won his semifinal in 6.1 Saturday.

Just moments before his big run, veteran Hayes Jones of Detroit scored his 53rd consecutive indoor hurdles victory, taking the 60-yard highs in 7 seconds flat.

Charlie Mays of New York's Grand Street Boys Club upset Ralph Boston and won the broad jump with a leap of 26 feet, 1½ inches.

Boston, competing for the Southern California Striders, was second at 25-8, well off his American indoor record of 26-6½.

It was the second time Mays has beaten Boston. Mays won it with his only good jump of the night, his third. He fouled on his other five attempts.

Boston was undisturbed at the upset and commented that he was "not going for distance in these meets, just condition."

Tammy Davis of Frederick, Md., equalled the women's indoor record with a time of 6.7 seconds in the women's 50-yard hurdles.

Earlier, big Al Hall of the New York Athletic Club took his third straight weight throw title, getting off a toss of 65 feet, 8 inches.

Bob Backus, also of the NYAC, was upset by Bill McWilliams, a Bowdoin grad, and had to settle for third. McWilliams, competing for the Boston A.A., took second when he tossed the 35 pound weight 65 - ½.

Backus was third with 64-4 and Tom Pagani fourth at 63-10½.

Tall, a 29-year-old poultry specialist for the Massachusetts Farm Bureau, attributed his close call to a slight back sprain suffered in the Boston A. A. competition three weeks ago.

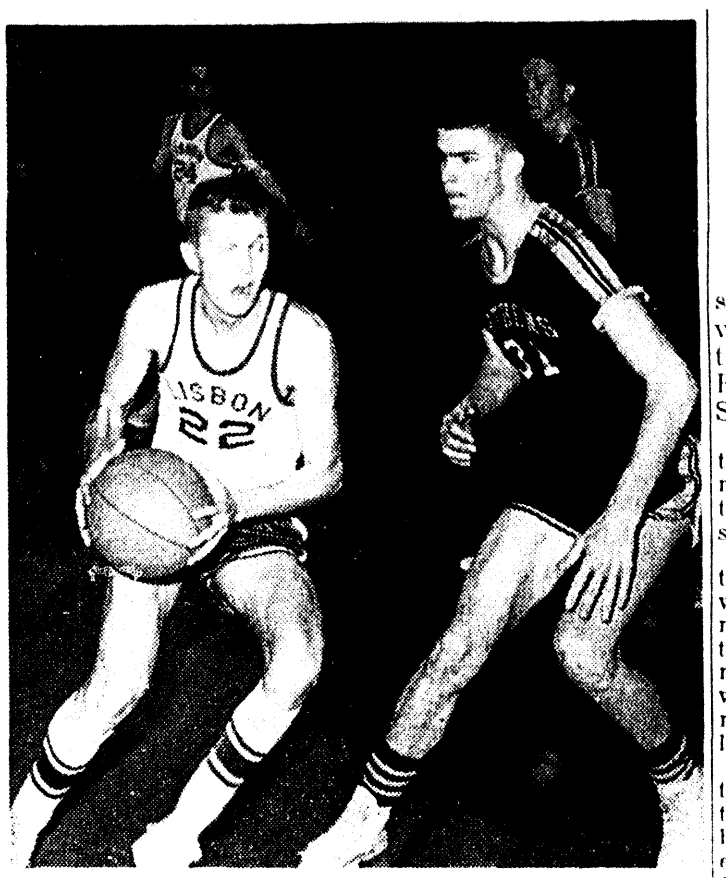
Southern Tops Grambling Five

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Southern topped Grambling, the nation's No. 2 small college team, for the first time in 24 meetings Saturday night, 120-101.

Southern led Grambling, the defending champion in the Southwestern Athletic Conference, from the start.

Southern's Robert Love was top scorer with 35 points. Willis Reed led Grambling with 24.

Grambling is now 11-2 in the conference and 23-2 for the season. Southern is 6-7 in the league and 14-11 overall.



THE FIGHTING got rough as the expression on Larry Saulters' face shows as the Lisbon star tries to get around Athen's Mike Edwards (31) in the first quarter of the championship game in the Class C regional tournament at Northeast's Brown gymnasium Saturday night. The other Lisbon player (24) is Mike Collins, swift backcourt man for the Eagles. Athens survived the battle for a 65-61 victory and the title. (Staff photo by Bob Frazier)

DESPITE RAIN, WIND

Snead Holding Edge In Meet

Fla. (AP)—On a rainy, windy day, with a putter still misbehaving, Sam Snead shot a disappointing one-over-par 73 Saturday but still led by two strokes in the PGA Seniors Golf Tournament.

Slammin' Sam finished the third round with a 208 total, eight under par for the 54 holes, and lost one stroke of his margin as Leland (Duke) Gibson came up with a 72 for 210.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison moved into closer contention with a 69 that left him three strokes off the pace with a 211.

"In three rounds, I have not sunk a putt eight feet long," Snead said as he left the 18th green on which he had just dropped a three-footer for a birdie 3. This was the only cheerful thing that happened to Sam all day.

He bogied the 12th when he was stymied behind a bush with a tree blocking his swing. The ball went for no gain. He also bogied the 14th with his only faulty tee shot of the tournament.

Saturday's play was delayed for an hour by a downpour. The first foursomes finally shoved off in the rain and it continued to come down for two hours.

The rain had stopped when Snead and other leaders started but soggy fairways and greens made the going difficult. In late afternoon, a rising wind became a further handicap.

Charles Pads Philippine Lead Over Yung Yo

MANILA (AP)—Bob Charles of New Zealand moved further ahead Saturday in the third round of the Philippine Open Golf Championship, shooting a one-under-par for a 54 - hole score of 211.

The lanky left-hander, although admittedly discomfited by the oppressive heat, added another stroke to his margin and now leads by four heading into Sunday's closing 18 holes at the Wack Wack Club.

Hsieh Yung Yo of Nationalist Rhina took over as sole runner-up with a 72, while a pair of American pro stars, an Australian ace and a Japanese are bunched close behind.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., and Isao Katsumata of Japan slipped out of their par pattern with 73s, and Aussie Peter Thomson streaked into contention with a 69, making a three-way tie at 217. Gene Littler, former U.S. Open champion from San Diego, is one further back after firing a 70.

Sanders and Katsumata had carded par 72s on each of the first two rounds. Thomson had posted 74s. Frank Phillips of Australia, who had shared second place with Hsieh after two rounds, fell to 220 with a 77.

Charles, the British open champion who now plays out of DeSoto, Fla., made the turn in 34 after missing an eagle by three inches on the fifth green. Then, obviously wilting in the muggy 75-degree heat, went one over on the incomingnine.

"It's the weather that's keeping the scores up," the 27-year-old New Zealander complained after his round. "If this course were in the States, Littler, Sanders and the rest would be shooting 64s and 65s."

Sanders, a popular performer followed by a large gallery, played a steady round but could not gain any ground, mainly because of his trouble with Wack Wack's fast greens. He three-putted the oversized ninth for a 37 at the turn, drew even with par with a birdie on the 15th but bogeyed the 16th when his ball went into a clump of bamboo bushes and cost him a penalty stroke.

Littler—"tired from a lot of golf, but giving it all I have"—fired three birdies on the first nine with putts of 20 feet on the second hole, 15 on the fourth and 12 on the sixth. He bogeyed the 10th after hitting a trap, but got pars the rest of the way for his 70.

National League Champs To Play At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Four of the National Football League's greatest teams, including the world champion Chicago Bears, will appear in 1964 pre-season games in New Orleans.

The Green Bay Packers vs. the St. Louis Cardinals August 8 and the Bears vs. the Dallas Cowboys September 5 this is the 1964 lineup announced today by the New Orleans Professional Football Club, Inc.

Gigantic Tulane-Sugar Bowl Stadium, which seats 81,000 persons, will be the scene of both Saturday night battles in the most ambitious pre - season schedule ever undertaken by a Southern city.

Ogden Champion For Girls Play

By DICK WRIGHT
World Sports Writer

Athens turned to high-powered basketball and the stupendous scoring of Walter Hayes to capture a 65-61 victory from district rival Lisbon and to lay claim to the Class C regional championship before a packed Brown Gymnasium crowd at Northeast State College Saturday night.

In the girls championship contest, Ogden, the team which must love the close ones, battled to the wire for a 30-29 squeaker over Weston.

When it came time to choose the all-regional quintet, Hayes was a natural. Utilizing his mighty height and cool playing, the Trojan poured in 31 points, mostly on close jumpers and was easily the reason Athens moved out front to stay in the last quarters.

Joining Hayes on the all-star team were Ricky Peel of Weston, Chris Rhodes and Otha Sober of Monterey, Larry Saulters, James Rich and Johnny Miller of Lisbon, Bobby Reagan and Bennett Taylor of Marion and Tommy Baker of Athens.

The Trojans sped off to a two point lead over the 5-C champions who beat them out for the league title, but that was only the beginning of the wrangle.

The Eagles tied the score several times in the first period before Athens took a 14-7 lead which shrank to 16-13 by the buzzers.

lead swapping, James Rich tossed a long shot on the buzzer

After another hot stanza of for an Eagle lead of 33-32 at halftime.

It was Rich's accuracy that kept Lisbon apace with the surging opponents as he ran up 28 points.

But the powerful Hayes all but guaranteed delivery of two points when the ball reached his hands. Besides hitting 11 from the field, he was good for nine points at the free throw line.

The Trojans led going into the final quarter by 50-46, and kept at least a one point edge from there on. Lisbon pulled up 52-51 but a streak bad hitting struck the Eagles and the margin began spreading again.

Larry Saulters, who tallied 12 markers, heaved in a long shot to put the count at 58-55 with 2:38 remaining, but Hayes retaliated with two points for Athens to pull the Trojans back to a safer lead.

Lisbon fouls in the last minute netted the Trojans four more points and with the clocking down to seconds, the victory was safely packed away.

Others to reach high figures in scoring were Tommy Baker of Athens with 12 and teammate Murray Greer with 10.

OGDEN VICTORY

Ogden scraped by Marion 42-40 in the first round of the girls action Friday and had to settle for another spine chiller in the march to the trophy.

Coach Milton Linder's girls were tied with Weston, 5-5, at the end of the first period and took a 18-13 lead by intermission.

Trailing by one point, 22-21, going into the fourth quarter, Ogden gained a two point lead, saw it slip away but at 1:49 on the clock, took a 28-27 edge and Pat Pace's fielder upped it to 30-27.

Anne Hurst, however, fired in two points and Ogden was again in danger but managed to keep the ball in safe hands for the final seconds.

Pat accounted for 20 of the winning points with her high accuracy at the nets. Anne tallied 10 for Weston but Yvonne Willis had seven and Lynda Avery had nine to keep the losers abreast.

Both high scorers, Pat and Anne, were chosen for the girls all-regional.

Taking positions with them were Connie Holmes of Georgetown, Sandra Biship and Claudia Thurman of Summerfield, Doujuana Lewis of Enterprise, Yvonne Willis and Diane Stewart of Weston, Carolyn Deblieux of Ogden, Sandra Oliver of Marion, Annette Parker of Weston, and Pat Fortendberry of Ogden.

SEMIFINAL RESULTS

Lisbon defeated Marion, 80-59, in short order in an afternoon semifinal battle of boys champion teams with four Eagles sewing up the victory by the end of the first period.

Ronnie Suggs tallied 24 points, Larry Saulters 18, Mike Collins 12 and Johnny Miller 10 in the whipping. Marion's Bennett Taylor collected 27 points for the losing effort with teammate Bobby Reagan scoring 12.

Athens took an easy win from Monterey, 77-54, in the other boys semifinal outing as Walter Hayes fired in 20 points to pace the winners. Murray Greer popped in 19 and Mike Edwards had 15 to help the Athens cause.

Chris Rhodes produced 29 points for Monterey with the next highest scorer being Homer Morace with 12.

Weston ousted defending girls champion Enterprise, 48-39, in the first game of the day in which Weston stayed ahead or even throughout. Anne Hurst scored 23 to lead the winners. Geraldine McVay was high for Enterprise with 16.

Pat Pace scored 28 and Joy Simon had 23 to lead Ogden past Summerfield, 59-47, in the other girls semifinal. Sandra Bishop stuffed in 27 markers as high scorer for the losers.

BASEBALL TIME AGAIN

Spring Camps Open Sunday

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Spring training officially opens today and not even the Charlie Finley furore or all the hoopla over the heavyweight "fight of the century" can dispel that warm, wonderful spring feeling that it's baseball time again.

Naturally, most of the local people are speculating now long Tuesday night's world title bout between Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay at Nearby Miami Beach will last, but many also are aware the Baltimore Orioles open spring training here today.

The Houston Colts, who did their spring training chores at Apache Junction, Ariz., last year, have switched to Cocoa, Fla., near Cape Kennedy, and will report to Manager Harry Craft here today.

Likewise, the Chicago Cubs, still shocked by the tragic death of second baseman Ken Hubbs, will begin training at Mesa, Ariz., and the San Francisco Giants at Cas Grande, Ariz.

The Los Angeles Angels beat everyone to the punch by beginning their conditioning last Monday at Palm Springs, Calif. and the New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers and New York Mets also have launched advance camps primarily for rookies and farm-hands.

By the end of the week all but three of the 20 major league clubs will be busy at work.

Here are the reporting dates for the first squads:

Monday—Red Sox at Scottsdale, Ariz., and Mets at St. Petersburg.

Tuesday—White Sox at Sarasota and Twins at Orlando.

Wednesday — Pirates at Fort Myers and Indians at Tucson, Ariz.

Thursday—Yankees at Fort Lauderdale; Phillies at Clearwater, and Athletics at Bradenton.

Saturday — Tigers at Lakeland; Dodgers at Vero Beach and Senators at Pompano Beach.

The three remaining clubs, the Reds, Braves and Cardinals, open on March 1 with Cincinnati at Tampa, Milwaukee at West Palm Beach and St. Louis at St. Petersburg.

Most attention on that day will be centered around Tampa's Al Lopez Field where Manager Fred Hutchinson is due to take charge of the Reds. Hutch still is undergoing treatment for cancer but has said he will be there on time.

Among the missing during spring training, however, could be Finley, who spent most of the winter in a wrangle over a ball park lease, first with Kansas City officials and then with his fellow American League owners.

Bolt, Middlecoff In First Round Tournament Tie

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP)—Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla. birdied three of the final four holes and pulled into a tie with Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn. for the opening round lead in the Little Tournament of Champions Saturday.

Bolt shot a 36-33—69 and Middlecoff 33-36—69. Middlecoff, recuperating from back surgery six months ago, returned to the pro circuit with this tourney.

One stroke off the pace were Johnny Pott of Ocean Springs, Miss., the defending champion, with 34-36—70 and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., U.S. Open champion, with 35-35—70.

The $7,500 tournament is being played over the par 36-36—72 6,812-yard Panama Country Club Course.

Knudson Gets Caracas Golf Tourney Lead

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — George Knudson of Toronto surged into a five-stroke lead in the third round of the Caracas Open Golf Tournament Saturday, shooting a par 70 for a 54-hole total of 203. The final round will be played Sunday.

Al Besselink of Philadelphia, co-leader with Knudson after two rounds, fell far back with a 78 after knocking two balls out of bounds on the 13th hole at the Valle Arriba Club course. He took a 10 on the hole and blew to a total of 211 for fourth place.

Knudson's round actually was his worst in the tournament. He shot 68 and 65 in the first two rounds.

Spain's Ramon Sota fired a 72 but still moved up from third to second on his over-all total of 208. Jim Ferree of Corona, Calif., also stepped up a spot to third with a 72 for a 210 total.

Defending champion Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., was tied with Besselink after getting a 73.

Adrien Bigras of Montreal sank a hole-in-one on the 170-yard, par three seventh hole. He finished with a 79.

Louisiana State Wins Gym Meet

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana State scored 112 points to place first in the Pelican State gymastics meet here Saturday night.

The University of Southwestern Louisiana was second with 20 points, followed by Metry 17½, Northeast State 16½, Olympia 10, and Northwestern State 3.

Gene Hufty and Marvin Jordan of Northeast both placed third in all - around competition.

Clark Smashes 3-Mile Standard

NEW YORK (AP)—Ron Clarke, a brutish-looking 26-year-old from Australia, tore the indoor three-mile record apart with a 13:18.4 clocking and bulky Bob Hayes of Florida A&M broke through the six-second barrier with a 5.9-second clocking in the 60-yard dash Saturday at the National AAU indoor track championships.

Clarke, a dark, powerful stylist, ran second to young Gerry Lindgren for the first mile, then pulled even at the halfway point with a time of 6:40.8.

Pete McArdle, New York veteran who had been back in the pack, bolted to the front and hit the two-mile mark in 8:56.8 with Clarke about two yards back.

That was as far as McArdle progressed, and Clarke flashed in front and began to lengthen his lead with every stride.

At the finish, Clarke was about three-quarters of a lap in front of the second-place McArdle and was within 20 yards of lapping third-place Lindgren.

McArdle was timed in 13:32.6 and Lindgren, a 17-year-old high school student from Spokane, was third in 13:37.8.

Clarke's time chopped six full seconds off the old mark of 13:26.4 set by Al Lawrence, another Australian, while he was attending the University of Houston in 1960. The mark was equalled earlier this winter by still another Australian, Albie Thomas, in Toronto.

Lindgren, who finished second in both his previous indoor starts this winter, took the lead at the start and fought off several challenges by Clarke before he finally yielded the lead.

Lindgren's time was only eight-tenths of a second over the American citizen's record of 13:37 set by Bill Dellinger in 1959.

Tom O'Riordan of Ireland was fourth in 13:40.

Hayes, who plays fullback on the Florida A&M football team, got off to an excellent start on his record 60.

The Florida flash, billed as the "World's Fastest Human," pulled away in the final strides and beat Charles Green, Lincoln, Neb., by about two feet.

Two officials caught him in 5.9, the third in 6 flat.

Hayes, who has a time of 9.1 pending recognition for the 100-yard dash outdoors, had equalled the indoor 60 mark of six seconds flat four times this season. He won his semifinal in 6.1 Saturday.

Just moments before his big run, veteran Hayes Jones of Detroit scored his 53rd consecutive indoor hurdles victory, taking the 60-yard highs in 7 seconds flat.

Charlie Mays of New York's Grand Street Boys Club upset Ralph Boston and won the broad jump with a leap of 26 feet, 1½ inches.

Boston, competing for the Southern California Striders, was second at 25-8, well off his American indoor record of 26-6½.

It was the second time Mays has beaten Boston. Mays won it with his only good jump of the night, his third. He fouled on his other five attempts.

Boston was undisturbed at the upset and commented that he was "not going for distance in these meets, just condition."

Tammy Davis of Frederick, Md., equalled the women's indoor record with a time of 6.7 seconds in the women's 50-yard hurdles.

Earlier, big Al Hall of the New York Athletic Club took his third straight weight throw title, getting off a toss of 65 feet, 8 inches.

Bob Backus, also of the NYAC, was upset by Bill McWilliams, a Bowdoin grad, and had to settle for third. McWilliams, competing for the Boston A.A., took second when he tossed the 35 pound weight 65 - ½.

Backus was third with 64-4 and Tom Pagani fourth at 63-10½.

Tall, a 29-year-old poultry specialist for the Massachusetts Farm Bureau, attributed his close call to a slight back sprain suffered in the Boston A. A. competition three weeks ago.

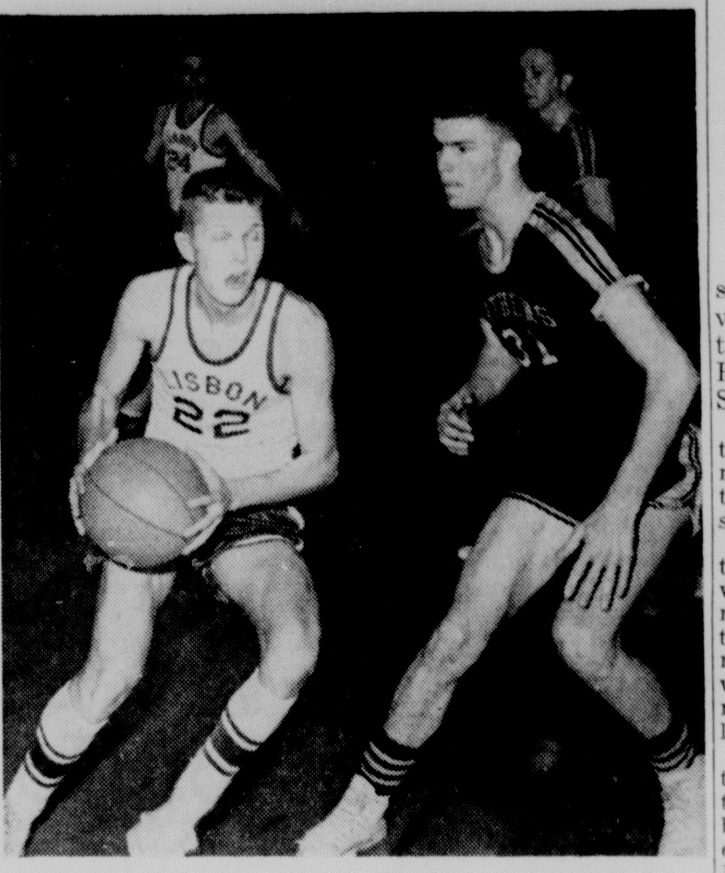
Southern Tops Grambling Five

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Southern topped Grambling, the nation's No. 2 small college team, for the first time in 24 meetings Saturday night, 120-101.

Southern led Grambling, the defending champion in the Southwestern Athletic Conference, from the start.

Southern's Robert Love was top scorer with 35 points. Willis Reed led Grambling with 24.

Grambling is now 11-2 in the conference and 23-2 for the season. Southern is 6-7 in the league and 14-11 overall.



THE FIGHTING got rough as the expression on Larry Saulters' face shows as the Lisbon star tries to get around Athen's Mike Edwards (31) in the first quarter of the championship game in the Class C regional tournament at Northeast's Brown gymnasium Saturday night. The other Lisbon player (24) is Mike Collins, swift backcourt man for the Eagles. Athens survived the battle for a 65-61 victory and the title. (Staff photo by Bob Frazier)

DESPITE RAIN, WIND

Snead Holding Edge In Meet

Fla. (AP)—On a rainy, windy day, with a putter still misbehaving, Sam Snead shot a disappointing one-over-par 73 Saturday but still led by two strokes in the PGA Seniors Golf Tournament.

Slammin' Sam finished the third round with a 208 total, eight under par for the 54 holes, and lost one stroke of his margin as Leland (Duke) Gibson came up with a 72 for 210.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison moved into closer contention with a 69 that left him three strokes off the pace with a 211.

"In three rounds, I have not sunk a putt eight feet long," Snead said as he left the 18th green on which he had just dropped a three-footer for a birdie 3. This was the only cheerful thing that happened to Sam all day.

He bogied the 12th when he was stymied behind a bush with a tree blocking his swing. The ball went for no gain. He also bogied the 14th with his only faulty tee shot of the tournament.

Saturday's play was delayed for an hour by a downpour. The first foursomes finally shoved off in the rain and it continued to come down for two hours.

The rain had stopped when Snead and other leaders started but soggy fairways and greens made the going difficult. In late afternoon, a rising wind became a further handicap.

Charles Pads Philippine Lead Over Yung Yo

MANILA (AP)—Bob Charles of New Zealand moved further ahead Saturday in the third round of the Philippine Open Golf Championship, shooting a one-under-par for a 54 - hole score of 211.

The lanky left-hander, although admittedly discomfited by the oppressive heat, added another stroke to his margin and now leads by four heading into Sunday's closing 18 holes at the Wack Wack Club.

Hsieh Yung Yo of Nationalist Rhina took over as sole runner-up with a 72, while a pair of American pro stars, an Australian ace and a Japanese are bunched close behind.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., and Isao Katsumata of Japan slipped out of their par pattern with 73s, and Aussie Peter Thomson streaked into contention with a 69, making a three-way tie at 317. Gene Littler, former U.S. Open champion from San Diego, is one further back after firing a 70.

Sanders and Katsumata had carded par 72s on each of the first two rounds, Thomson had posted 74s. Frank Phillips of Australia, who had shared second place with Hsieh after two rounds, fell to 220 with a 77.

Charles, the British open champion who now plays out of DeSoto, Fla., made the turn in 34 after missing an eagle by three inches on the fifth green. Then, obviously wilting in the muggy 75-degree heat, went one over on the incomingnine.

"It's the weather that's keeping the scores up," the 27-year-old New Zealander complained after his round. "If this course were in the States, Littler, Sanders and the rest would be shooting 64s and 65s."

Sanders, a popular performer followed by a large gallery, played a steady round but could not gain any ground, mainly because of his trouble with Wack Wack's fast greens. He three-putted the oversized ninth for a 37 at the turn, drew even with par with a birdie on the 15th, but bogeyed the 16th when his ball went into a clump of bamboo bushes and cost him a penalty stroke.

Littler—"tired from a lot of golf, but giving it all I have"—fired three birdies on the first nine with putts of 20 feet on the second hole, 15 on the fourth and 12 on the sixth. He bogeyed the 10th after hitting a trap, but got pars the rest of the way for his 70.

National League Champs To Play At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Four of the National Football League's greatest teams, including the world champion Chicago Bears, will appear in 1964 pre-season games in New Orleans.

The Green Bay Packers vs. the St. Louis Cardinals August 8 and the Bears vs. the Dallas Cowboys September 5—this is the 1964 lineup announced today by the New Orleans Professional Football Club, Inc.

Gigantic Tulane-Sugar Bowl Stadium, which seats 81,000 persons, will be the scene of both Saturday night battles in the most ambitious pre - season schedule ever undertaken by a Southern city.

Ogden Champion For Girls Play

By DICK WRIGHT
World Sports Writer

Athens turned to high-powered basketball and the stupendous scoring of Walter Hayes to capture a 65-61 victory from district rival Lisbon and to lay claim to the Class C regional championship before a packed Brown Gymnasium crowd at Northeast State College Saturday night.

In the girls championship contest, Ogden, the team which must love the close ones, battled to the wire for a 30-29 squeaker over Weston.

When it came time to choose the all-regional quintet, Hayes was a natural. Utilizing his mighty height and cool playing, the Trojan poured in 31 points, mostly on close jumpers and was easily the reason Athens moved out front to stay in the last quarters.

Joining Hayes on the all-star team were Ricky Peel of Weston, Chris Rhodes and Otha Sober of Monterey, Larry Saulters, James Rich and Johnny Miller of Lisbon, Bobby Reagan and Bennett Taylor of Marion and Tommy Baker of Athens.

The Trojans sped off to a two point lead over the 5-C champions who beat them out for the league title, but that was only the beginning of the wrangle.

The Eagles tied the score several times in the first period before Athens took a 14-7 lead which shrank to 16-13 by the buzzers.

lead swapping, James Rich tossed a long shot on the buzzer

After another hot stanza of for an Eagle lead of 33-32 at halftime.

It was Rich's accuracy that kept Lisbon apace with the surging opponents as he ran up 28 points.

But the powerful Hayes all but guaranteed delivery of two points when the ball reached his hands. Besides hitting 11 from the field, he was good for nine points at the free throw line.

The Trojans led going into the final quarter by 50-46, and kept at least a one point edge from there on. Lisbon pulled up 52-51 but a streak bad hitting struck the Eagles and the margin began spreading again.

Larry Saulters, who tallied 12 markers, heaved in a long shot to put the count at 58-55 with 2:38 remaining, but Hayes retaliated with two points for Athens to pull the Trojans back to a safer lead.

Lisbon fouls in the last minute netted the Trojans four more points and with the clocking down to seconds, the victory was safely packed away.

Others to reach high figures in scoring were Tommy Baker of Athens with 12 and teammate Murray Greer with 10.

OGDEN VICTORY

Ogden scraped by Marion 42-40 in the first round of the girls action Friday and had to settle for another spine chiller in the march to the trophy.

Coach Milton Linder's girls were tied with Weston, 5-5, at the end of the first period and took a 18-13 lead by intermission.

Trailing by one point, 22-21, going into the fourth quarter, Ogden gained a two point lead, saw it slip away but at 1:49 on the clock, took a 28-27 edge and Pat Pace's fielder upped it to 30-27.

Anne Hurst, however, fired in two points and Ogden was again in danger but managed to keep the ball in safe hands for the final seconds.

Pat accounted for 20 of the winning points with her high accuracy at the nets. Anne tallied 10 for Weston but Yvonne Willis had seven and Lynda Avery had nine to keep the losers abreast.

Both high scorers, Pat and Anne, were chosen for the girls all-regional.

Taking positions with them were Connie Holmes of Georgetown, Sandra Biship and Claudia Thurman of Summerfield, Doujuana Lewis of Enterprise, Yvonne Willis and Diane Stewart of Weston, Carolyn Deblieux of Ogden, Sandra Oliver of Marion, Annette Parker of Weston, and Pat Fortendberry of Ogden.

SEMIFINAL RESULTS

Lisbon defeated Marion, 80-59, in short order in an afternoon semifinal battle of boys champion teams with four Eagles sewing up the victory by the end of the first period.

Ronnie Suggs tallied 24 points, Larry Saulters 18, Mike Collins 12 and Johnny Miller 10 in the whipping. Marion's Bennett Taylor collected 27 points for the losing effort with teammate Bobby Reagan scoring 12.

Athens took an easy win from Monterey, 77-54, in the other boys semifinal outing as Walter Hayes fired in 20 points to pace the winners. Murray Greer popped in 19 and Mike Edwards had 15 to help the Athens cause.

Chris Rhodes produced 29 points for Monterey with the next highest scorer being Homer Morace with 12.

Weston ousted defending girls champion Enterprise, 48-39, in the first game of the day in which Weston stayed ahead or even throughout. Anne Hurst scored 23 to lead the winners. Geraldine McVay was high for Enterprise with 16.

Pat Pace scored 28 and Joy Simon had 23 to lead Ogden past Summerfield, 59-47, in the other girls semifinal. Sandra Bishop stuffed in 27 markers as high scorer for the losers.

Land Values For Hunters

With Sam Hanna

Swamps On Market

Land!

Apparently the world is running out of it, because values have gone sky high everywhere, including our swamplands in Northeast Louisiana.

With the population expanding so rapidly, investors are buying property a step ahead of the big explosion of people. The dollar's loss of value is a factor also.

Louisiana swamps that have never been farmed are becoming invaluable. Already we are seeing an influx of out-of-state investors buying land in this area.

That's why the hunter is in trouble. His back is to the wall.

And that's why Louisiana needs a land acquisition program, or either we can forget about hunting in a few years in most parts of our state.

Funds permitting, the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission has an opportunity to buy land in this area that would assure the public of a place to hunt for years to come.

Jack's Cookey Co. is offering the state about 50,000 acres of land, most of it in LaSalle Parish, between Catahoula Lake and Larto Lake at a price of $29 per acre.

This is a swampland that offers ideal habitat for wildlife.

The commission will discuss the offer Tuesday in New Orleans.

In 1957, the commission could have bought this same property for about $6 per acre, but didn't because the state administration wouldn't approve. A lack of funds, we understand, was the reason.

Those who think that the increase in the value of this property is unreasonable just don't realize how property values have gone up in our area.

Recent sales prices on farm land have ranged from $250 to $350 per acre. Humble Oil Co. is not having any trouble at all selling cleared-up land in the Boeuf River Swamp of Morehouse Parish.

While the state has another chance to buy the LaSalle swampland, the commission faces the possibility of losing two swamp areas now protected for wildlife.

The Terzia Refuge in Morehouse can be bought. Director L. D. Young Jr. paid a visit to Bastrop on Thursday for talks with local officials. Before his visit, a petition was circulated asking the state to buy the refuge for a game management area, which indicates that the tide of public opinon is changing at last since there has been opposition to converting the area.

Terzia is composed of about 46,000 acres.

Meantime, a source of good authority informs us that Chicago Mills Lumber Co. is becoming interested in selling its property. And that includes the 110,000 - acre Chicago Mills Game Management Area in Madison, Tensas and Franklin parishes.

Those who think that the Tensas Swamp country could not be sold and clearef for farming should pay a visit to what used to be the Boeuf River Swamp in Morehouse. Bulldozers can tear down in a few days what it takes nature years to build.

That's why the Chicago Mills area can be sold for farmland. If it is, deer hunting will become a thing of the past in the Delta.

So, unless the state tackles a land acquisition program, our hunting territory will be lost.

At present the state owns only one game management area in Louisiana — the Russell Sage Wildlife Management areas are under lease — subject to go when their leases expire.

The Russell Sage area, although only 14,000 acres in size, is working to great advantage, since its game population is building everybody. Controlled hunts are producing good kills.

But there may come a day when hunters will draw straws to get on Russell Sage.

We need more Russell Sages — only bigger.

But we are afraid that Louisiana has waited almost too late to save everything that could have been preserved for the future. We have been coasting along under the silly assumption that our swamplands would be open range forever.

We have needed long-range planning to prepare our state for the great pressure ahead on the outdoors. But we haven't had a blueprint for the future.

Land is like time. It waits for no man.

Boat Launching Ramps

With the boating season just around the corner, outdoorsmen will begin appreciating the value of new launching ramps being constructed in Louisiana.

About 60 ramsp will be built under the Accelerated Public Works Act with funds provided by the state and federal governments. The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission is spearheading the program.

Two ramps already have been completed in the Fifth District — one on the Ouachita River in Catahoula Parish, the other on Bayou Macon in Franklin Parish. Both were constructed with the help of the Department of Highways.

With plans already approved, the state, through the Department of Public Works, will construct three more ramps in Catahoula Parish — one on Black River, another on Bayou Falcon and still another on the Tensas River.

In addition, two ramps will be built at Cheniere Lake outside West Monroe while the new Lake D'Arbonne at Farmerville is getting four.

Stocking Lake D'Arbonne

Jim Davis, fisheries biologist with the Wild Life & Fisheries commission, says D'Arbonne will be stocked with millions of fish by the end of the month.

With the lake just five feet from being filled, a fish stocking program has been underway for the past several weeks. Davis says the program is over 50 per cent complete.

And when it is complete, D'Arbonne, the 16,000 - acre lake built by the state in Union and Lincoln parishes, will have 15 million bluegill, 30,000 adult bass, 150,000 crappie and $120,000 channel catfish.

Fishing should be fair this summer while Jim Davis expects it to be really good in another year.

Little Man's Corner

The hunting seasons were closing, but the little men made news afield. A day before the rabbit season closed, a group of Monroe sports bagged 21 cottontails on Bayou Bartholomew. The group included M. D. Tarver, David Malone, Johnny Rowe, Tom Munholand, Bobby Shafto, A. E. Montgomery Jr. and his son Gene.

They were Grayson Guthrie's guests.

Three other local rabbit hunters — Ray Pierce, Richard Whitehead and Jim Steele—got the limit in Madison Parish at Steele's deer camp. They hunted about eight hours to fill the limit with swamp rabbits.

Earlier they killed 23 rabbits.

Black Bayou is still good for fishing, despite the chilly weather. W. P. Slack, a local fisherman, landed a nice string of white perch in the snow Friday.

And the Rev. Everett Johnson is catching bass everyday. He's trolling.

White perch also are biting at Old River and Deer Park in Concordia Parish. Bass are hitting some better in Lake Concordia. Ed Lusk of Ferriday and Brady Fondren of Vidalia landed the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

At Deer Park, Cliff Weeks and Jack Weber of Vidalia got the limit. Ervin Parks of Vidalia and Billy Priester of Natchez and Powell Kaiser of Natchez got the limit at Deer Park.

From the Lake Providence area, Claude Rennicker and Elmer Bearden caught 40 white perch in Old River. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hanna all got nice strings at Old River.

Fishing at the stump Hole, W. P. Rushing and Vacel Razer got 30 white perch. White perch fishing is good at Gassoway.

Bill Shirey and his son Mike bagged six quail around Lake Providence.

White perch also have been biting at Lake Loue and Bayou Louie.

TOO MANY TOUCHDOWNS

Tribe Mentor Not Happy With Ragged Scrimmage

Northeast State climaxed its first week of spring football drills with a two - hour scrimmage Saturday afternoon that Coach Dixie White described as "ragged."

White, who came to Northeast after coaching at Arkansas and LSU - two teams that swear by defense - was mainly concerned about the amount of touchdowns scored.

"I was disappointed the boys were able to move the ball so well," White said. "This early in practice the defense should be ahead of the offense. We've got to get tougher on defense."

Although he thought his running backs looked better than usual in the scrimmage, White was distressed over their inability to hold on to the ball at times. There were several fumbles, prompting the Tribe coach to promise some drills to correct the situation next week.

"We're not satisfied but we were encouraged over the hitting, which continues to be good," White said. "We've just got a lot more work to do."

White and aides Wallace Hargon, George Luffey, Ralph Lane and Leon Manley tried to divide the squad as evenly as possible for the scrimmage and the result was a fairly close match. The red - clad unit outscored the Whites, 22-8, with both teams going for the two - point PAT every time.

Quarterback Dee Faircloth passed 15 yards to halfback Alton Thomas for the first Red touchdown and halfback Robert Payne danced 55 yards for the second. Halfback Ray Prommier dashed 50 yards with an intercepted pass for the final Red score.

Halfback Neal Gunn scored for the Whites on a 40 - yard trip down the sidelines.

The Reds opened with a lineup of Stanley Willson and Red McCrary at the ends, Preston Hollier and Alden Fontenot at the tackles, Joe McClain and Billy Ross Graves at guard, Tommy Beaube at center, Faircloth at quarterback, Thomas and Robert Payne at halfback and Devone Payne at fullback.

The Whites had Charles Rohner and Wendell Drost at end, Wayne Clement and Ronnie Sumter at tackle, Jewel McBroom and James Kirkendall at guard, Jerry Lindsey at center, Bookie Shilleutt at quarterback, Lyn Mitchell and R. F. Wilson at halfback and David Elkin at fullback.

Both sides substituted freely with about 50 players taking part in the scrimmage, the reserves working about as much as the opening elevens.

In addition to the starters, junior college transfers Howard Anderson and Johnny Garrison and veteran Ronnie Myrick operated at quarterback. Myrick was a quarterback for two years but played halfback last season. He was moved back to quarterback in the middle of the week.

The Indians resumed work Monday afternoon, work again Tuesday and Wednesday, take off Thursday and close out with drills Friday and Saturday. A minor scrimmage is slated Wednesday and another big one next Saturday.

Dates Released For Independent Block Tourney

JONESVILLE (Special)—The annual Block Independent Basketball Tournament will be held in Jonesville on March 12, 13 and 14, according to O. D. Jackson, tournament director.

Entries are now being accepted in both mens and womens divisions. The entry deadline is March 8. Teams wishing to enter may contact the tournament director at Block High School, telephone 2241 or phone 7193 after school hours, or mail entry to Block High School, Jonesville, Louisiana. The entry fee is $10.00 per team.

Trophies will be awarded to first, second, and third place teams in both divisions, and 85 individual awards will be presented to individual players.

Games will be scheduled in the late afternoon and at night on Thursday and Friday to accommodate players who are in school or have to work. Semi-finals and finals will be played on Saturday.

Southerners Play Memphis State Twice

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Two of the South's leading football independents — the University of Southern Mississippi and Memphis State — have found a unique way to solve their scheduling difficulties. They will play each other twice next fall.

Southern Athletic Director Reed Green announced the university's 1964 schedule today, showing games with Memphis State at Memphis on Oct. 10 and in Jackson on Nov. 21.

He said the double date with Memphis State was arranged when both schools ran into trouble rounding out a complete schedule.

Memphis State was undefeated last year and tied nationally-ranked Ole Miss. Southern was 5-3-1.

Other major opponents on the Southern schedule are Mississippi State and Auburn of the Southeastern Conference, Florida State and the University of Richmond.

Southern moved into the major college ranks in 1963.

The schedul .

Sept. 26 Southwestern Louisiana, at Hattiesburg.

Oct. 3 Richmond, at Hattiesburg.

Oct. 10 Memphis State, at Memphis.

Oct. 17 Mississippi State, at State College.

Oct. 24 Auburn, at Auburn, Ala.

Oct. 31 Florida State, at Tallahassee

Nov. 7 Chattanooga, at Hattiesburg (homecoming)

Nov. 14 Louisiana Tech, at Hattiesburg.

Nov. 21 Memphis State, at Jackson, Miss.

Center Jim Plankenhorn of Illinois kicked 14 extra points and five field goals in Big Ten games last season.

CROWLEY TO BE HONORED

Tech To Stage 'Night' For Retiring Mentor

RUSTON (Special) — Cecil Crowley, Louisiana Tech basketball mentor for 23 years who is retiring from active coaching after this season, will be honored with a "night" Saturday when Tech closes its campaign against league foe Southeastern Louisiana.

Crowley is relinquishing coaching duties, but will remain in the college's department of health and physical education. He will be succeeded by Scotty Robertson, present assistant coach.

There is a good chance 5,000 fans will be here for Crowley's last appearance as Tech coach and to see his team battle for the Gulf States Conference title. Tech students, staff, alumni and former cage players will pay tribute to Crowley, whose teams have won or tied for the championship seven times in 20 years.

Crowley will be honored during halftime ceremonies. His Tech teams going into the final week of action have won 268 games while losing 220. Crowley missed three seasons when he served as a naval officer during World War II.

After an outstanding football and basketball playing career at Centenary College, Crowley started coaching at Haynesville in 1931. He was an assistant to Joe Aillet, Tech's present athletic director, at Haynesville and the pair have served together in the coaching ranks for 28 years.

Crowley succeed Aillet at Haynesville in 1936 and remained in the post until 1939. He coached at Male High school in Louisville, Ky., in 1939 before accepting the Tech post in January of 1940.

His teams copped Louisiana Intercollegiate Conference crowns in 1942, 1946, 1947, and 1948 and won Gulf States Conference titles in 1953, 1955, and 1959. Crowley was named "coach of the year" in the GSC in 1953 and 1955.

Crowley's most successful club was the 1958-59 outfit that won 21 games and lost four. Several of his clubs have appeared in the post season national tournaments.

Many of the lettermen of Crowley-coached Tech teams are expected to be here Saturday night. Details of the brief halftime ceremonies are presently being worked out, according to Ding Merriott of Ruston, a former Tech cage star.

Four of Crowley's present cagers who have played together four years — Joe Abendroth, Ron McNabb, Butch Miller and David Hruska — will also be winding up Bulldog playing careers Saturday night.

Friday Will Be "Awards Night" For Dixie Youth

"Awards Night" for West Monroe Dixie Youth Baseball participants will be held Friday at 7 p.m. in the West Monroe Junior High gymnasium.

Ed Head, former Dodger pitching star, will be the featured speaker. Head pitched a no hitter for the Dogers when they played at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn Dave Woodman, KNOE-TV sports director, will be master of ceremonies.

Team trophies will be awarded to first place finisher in each league.

Dixie Youths who played their 12 year old season last summer will receive graduating trophies, and awards will be given to players who were selected for the all-star teams.

In addition to these, most valuable player and sportsman trophies will be given.

Every one interested in Dixie Youth Baseball is invited.

Blind Man Has Rating System

BROOKLAWN, N.J. (AP) — Francis Gallimore's interest in sports hasn't diminished since he began losing his sight five years ago. If anything, he's become more sports-minded.

The 55-year-old engineer now listens to parts of as many as 20 basketball games each night the colleges are playing and six or seven baseball and football games a day during those seasons.

He even keeps statistics on the basketball and football games, and currently is keeping records on 165 college basketball teams.

"It's been a lifetime hobby of mine, trying to pick the winners and outguess the experts," Gallimore, known as Lefty, said. "But I never was able to get serious about it until my eyes started going bad

"I lost my sight gradually over the past five years. One eye is completely gone and in the other one I can only see shadows and shapes."

Gallimore, forced to retire when his eyes failed, said he suffered several weeks of depression at that time.

"But the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind came to my rescue," he said. "They taught me braille and how to use a cane. They also built up my morale."

Learning braille wasn't too difficlt for Gallimore, but he was interested in developing a mathematical computing system he could use to keep his statistical records of sports.

The commission told him of a device developed in England called the Taylor Slate, used by blind people interested in mathematics.

Gallimore mastered the Taylor Slate. He now uses it, a powerful radio and a tape recorder to pursue his hobby.

Each night except Sunday, Gallimore tunes in college basketball games across the country, averaging about five hours a night at the radio. He listens into the early hours of the morning to catch the games on the West Coast.

His tape recorder captures the words off the radio, and then later, at his leisure, he records the significant facts on his Taylor Slate. His wife, Esther reads him newspapers each day so he can fill in the details on games he has missed.

Each week, using the information he gathered, Gallimore rates the teams.

"With the mathematical system I devised over the years, I am able to rate the teams," he said. "The system is based on the strengths of the teams' opponents."

Gallimore's rating of the 10 college teams the past week closely coincided with The Associated Press poll, though there were a couple of differences.

The AP's top teams were UCLA, Michigan, Kentucky, Duke, Villanova, Wichita, Oregon State, Davidson, DePaul and Drake.

Gallimore's list goes like this: UCLA, Kentucky, Michigan, Duke, Oregon State, Wichita, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, DePaul and Davidson. He also has Villanova and Drake ranked close, but slightly below Davidson.

Gallimore said most of the polls, at this time of the season, will have just about the same teams in the first 10 because "everybody is playing a lot and the pollsters hear more about the winners.

"But early in the season there are a lot of sleepers and that's when it's fun. I like to name a team with an unknown quantity and then watch it move into the AP's Top Ten later in the season."

He thinks the team to watch until the end of the season is Georgia Tech. "That team really bounces," he says.

LSU Tigers Defeat Ole Miss 86-80

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Louisiana State took advantage of several Mississippi fouls late in their Southeastern Conference game Saturday night to whip the Rebels 86-80.

LSU had control most of the game, holding a 42-41 halftime lead.

Ole Miss moved in front briefly at the start of the second half, but LSU went ahead to stay at 50-49.

Bill Wilson, LSU's 6-foot-8 center, made a big difference, getting 25 points and 21 rebounds.

Mississippi's Donnie Kessinger was top scorer with 33 points. He was the SEC's No. 2 scorer until Friday night when he was held to four points in a victory over Tulane.

LSU hit 33 of 72 from the field for 45.8 per cent and 20 of 24 free throws for 83.3 per cent.

Ole Miss had 34 of 64 from the field for 53.1 per cent and 12 of 16 charity tosses for 75 per cent.

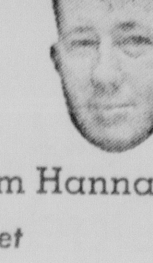
Land Values For Hunters



With Sam Hanna

Swamps On Market

Land!

Apparently the world is running out of it, because values have gone sky high everywhere, including our swamplands in Northeast Louisiana.

With the population expanding so rapidly, investors are buying property a step ahead of the big explosion of people. The dollar's loss of value is a factor also.

Louisiana swamps that have never been farmed are becoming invaluable. Already we are seeing an influx of out-of-state investors buying land in this area.

That's why the hunter is in trouble. His back is to the wall.

And that's why Louisiana needs a land acquisition program, or either we can forget about hunting in a few years in most parts of our state.

Funds permitting, the Louisiand Wild Life & Fisheries Commission has an opportunity to buy land in this area that would assure the public of a place to hunt for years to come.

Jack's Cookey Co. is offering the state about 50,000 acres of land, most of it in LaSalle Parish, between Catahoula Lake and Larto Lake at a price of $29 per acre.

This is a swampland that offers ideal habitat for wildlife.

The commission will discuss the offer Tuesday in New Orleans.

In 1957, the commission could have bought this same property for about $6 per acre, but didn't because the state administration wouldn't approve. A lack of funds, we understand, was the reason.

Those who think that the increase in the value of this property is unreasonable just don't realize how property values have gone up in our area.

Recent sales prices on farm land have ranged from $250 to $350 per acre. Humble Oil Co. is not having any trouble at all selling cleared-up land in the Boeuf River Swamp of Morehouse Parish.

While the state has another chance to buy the LaSalle swampland, the commission faces the possibility of losing two swamp areas now protected for wildlife.

The Terzia Refuge in Morehouse can be bought. Director L. D. Young Jr. paid a visit to Bastrop on Thursday for talks with local officials. Before his visit, a petition was circulated asking the state to buy the refuge for a game management area, which indicates that the tide of public opinion is changing at last since there has been opposition to converting the area.

Terzia is composed of about 46,000 acres.

Meantime, a source of good authority informs us that Chicago Mills Lumber Co. is becoming interested in selling its property. And that includes the 110,000 - acre Chicago Mills Game Management Area in Madison, Tensas and Franklin parishes.

Those who think that the Tensas Swamp country could not be sold and clearef for farming should pay a visit to what used to be the Boeuf River Swamp in Morehouse. Bulldozers can tear down in a few days what it takes nature years to build.

That's why the Chicago Mills area can be sold for farmland. If it is, deer hunting will become a thing of the past in the Delta.

So, unless the state tackles a land acquisition program, our hunting territory will be lost.

At present the state owns only one game management area in Louisiana — the Russell Sage Wildlife Management areas are under lease — subject to go when their leases expire.

The Russell Sage area, although only 14,000 acres in size, is working to great advantage, since its game population is building everybody. Controlled hunts are producing good kills.

But there may come a day when hunters will draw straws to get on Russell Sage.

We need more Russell Sages — only bigger.

But we are afraid that Louisiana has waited almost too late to save everything that could have been preserved for the future. We have been coasting along under the silly assumption that our swamplands would be open range forever.

We have needed long-range planning to prepare our state for the great pressure ahead on the outdoors. But we haven't had a blueprint for the future.

Land is like time. It waits for no man.

Boat Launching Ramps

With the boating season just around the corner, outdoorsmen will begin appreciating the value of new launching ramps being constructed in Louisiana.

About 60 ramsp will be built under the Accelerated Public Works Act with funds provided by the state and federal governments. The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission is spearheading the program.

Two ramps already have been completed in the Fifth District — one on the Ouachita River in Catahoula Parish, the other on Bayou Macon in Franklin Parish. Both were constructed with the help of the Department of Highways.

With plans already approved, the state, through the Department of Public Works, will construct three more ramps in Catahoula Parish — one on Black River, another on Bayou Falcon and still another on the Tensas River.

In addition, two ramps will be built at Cheniere Lake outside West Monroe while the new Lake D'Arbonne at Farmerville is getting four.

Stocking Lake D'Arbonne

Jim Davis, fisheries biologist with the Wild Life & Fisheries commission, says D'Arbonne will be stocked with millions of fish by the end of the month.

With the lake just five feet from being filled, a fish stocking program has been underway for the past several weeks. Davis says the program is over 50 per cent complete.

And when it is complete, D'Arbonne, the 16,000 - acre lake built by the state in Union and Lincoln parishes, will have 15 million bluegill, 30,000 adult bass, 150,000 crappie and $120,000 channel catfish.

Fishing should be fair this summer while Jim Davis expects it to be really good in another year.

Little Man's Corner

The hunting seasons were closing, but the little men made news afield. A day before the rabbit season closed, a group of Monroe sports bagged 21 cottontails on Bayou Bartholomew. The group included M. D. Tarver, David Malone, Johnny Rowe, Tom Munholand, Bobby Shafto, A. E. Montgomery Jr. and his son Gene.

They were Grayson Guthrie's guests.

Three other local rabbit hunters — Ray Pierce, Richard Whitehead and Jim Steele—got the limit in Madison Parish at Steele's deer camp. They hunted about eight hours to fill the limit with swamp rabbits.

Earlier they killed 23 rabbits.

Black Bayou is still good for fishing, despite the chilly weather. W. P. Slack, a local fisherman, landed a nice string of white perch in the snow Friday.

And the Rev. Everett Johnson is catching bass everyday. He's trolling.

White perch also are biting at Old River and Deer Park in Concordia Parish. Bass are hitting some better in Lake Concordia. Ed Lusk of Ferriday and Brady Fondren of Vidalia landed the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

At Deer Park, Cliff Weeks and Jack Weber of Vidalia got the limit. Ervin Parks of Vidalia and Billy Priester of Natchez and Powell Kaiser of Natchez got the limit at Deer Park.

From the Lake Providence area, Claude Rennicker and Elmer Bearden caught 40 white perch in Old River. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hanna all got nice strings at Old River.

Fishing at the stump Hole, W. P. Rushing and Vacel Razer got 30 white perch. White perch fishing is good at Gassoway.

Bill Shirey and his son Mike bagged six quail around Lake Providence.

White perch also have been biting at Lake Louie and Bayou Louie.

TOO MANY TOUCHDOWNS

Tribe Mentor Not Happy With Ragged Scrimmage

Northeast State climaxed its first week of spring football drills with a two - hour scrimmage Saturday afternoon that Coach Dixie White described as "ragged."

White, who came to Northeast after coaching at Arkansas and LSU — two teams that swear by defense—was mainly concerned about the amount of touchdowns scored.

"I was disappointed the boys were able to move the ball so well," White said. "This early in practice the defense should be ahead of the offense. We've got to get tougher on defense."

Although he thought his running backs looked better than usual in the scrimmage, White was distressed over their inability to hold on to the ball at times. There were several fumbles, prompting the Tribe coach to promise some drills to correct the situation next week.

"We're not satisfied but we were encouraged over the hitting, which continues to be good," White said. "We've just got a lot more work to do."

White and aides Wallace Hargon, George Luffey, Ralph Lane and Leon Manley tried to divide the squad as evenly as possible for the scrimmage and the result was a fairly close match. The red - clad unit outscored the Whites, 22-8, with both teams going for the two - point PAT every time.

Quarterback Dee Faircloth passed 15 yards to halfback Alton Thomas for the first Red touchdown and halfback Robert Payne danced 55 yards for the second. Halfback Ray Prommier dashed 50 yards with an intercepted pass for the final Red score.

Halfback Neal Gunn scored for the Whites on a 40 - yard trip down the sidelines.

The Reds opened with a lineup of Stanley Willson and Red McCrary at the ends, Preston Hollier and Alden Fontenot at the tackles, Joe McClain and Billy Ross Graves at guard, Tommy Beaube at center, Faircloth at quarterback, Thomas and Robert Payne at halfback and Devone Payne at fullback.

The Whites had Charles Rohner and Wendell Drost at end, Wayne Clement and Ronnie Sumter at tackle, Jewel McBroom and James Kirkendall at guard, Jerry Lindsey at center, Bookie Shillcutt at quarterback, Lyn Mitchell and R. F. Wilson at halfback and David Elkin at fullback.

Both sides substituted freely with about 50 players taking part in the scrimmage, the reserves working about as much as the opening elevens.

In addition to the starters, junior college transfers Howard Anderson and Johnny Garrison and veteran Ronnie Myrick operated at quarterback. Myrick was a quarterback for two years but played halfback last season. He was moved back to quarterback in the middle of the week.

The Indians resumed work Monday afternoon, work again Tuesday and Wednesday, take off Thursday and close out with drills Friday and Saturday. A minor scrimmage is slated Wednesday and another big one next Saturday.

Dates Released For Independent Block Tourney

JONESVILLE (Special)—The annual Block Independent Basketball Tournament will be held in Jonesville on March 12, 13 and 14, according to O. D. Jackson, tournament director.

Entries are now being accepted in both mens and womens divisions. The entry deadline is March 8. Teams wishing to enter may contact the tournament director at Block High School, telephone 2241 or phone 7193 after school hours, or mail entry to Block High School, Jonesville, Louisiana. The entry fee is $10.00 per team.

Trophies will be awarded to first, second, and third place teams in both divisions, and 85 individual awards will be presented to individual players.

Games will be scheduled in the late afternoon and at night on Thursday and Friday to accommodate players who are in school or have to work. Semifinals and finals will be played on Saturday.

Southerners Play Memphis State Twice

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Two of the South's leading football independents — the University of Southern Mississippi and Memphis State — have found a unique way to solve their scheduling difficulties. They will play each other twice next fall.

Southern Athletic Director Reed Green announced the university's 1964 schedule today, showing games with Memphis State at Memphis on Oct. 10 and in Jackson on Nov. 21.

He said the double date with Memphis State was arranged when both schools ran into trouble rounding out a complete schedule.

Memphis State was undefeated last year and tied nationally-ranked Ole Miss. Southern was 5-3-1.

Other major opponents on the Southern schedule are Mississippi State and Auburn of the Southeastern Conference, Florida State and the University of Richmond.

Southern moved into the major college ranks in 1963.

The schedu' .

Sept. 26 Southwestern Louisiana, at Hattiesburg.

Oct. 3 Richmond, at Hattiesburg.

Oct. 10 Memphis State, at Memphis.

Oct. 17 Mississippi State, at State College.

Oct. 24 Auburn, at Auburn, Ala.

Oct. 31 Florida State, at Tallahassee

Nov. 7 Chattanooga, at Hattiesburg (homecoming)

Nov. 14 Louisiana Tech, at Hattiesburg.

Nov. 21 Memphis State, at Jackson, Miss.

Center Jim Plankenhorn of Illinois kicked 14 extra points and five field goals in Big Ten games last season.

CROWLEY TO BE HONORED

Tech To Stage 'Night' For Retiring Mentor

RUSTON (Special) — Cecil Crowley, Louisiana Tech basketball mentor for 23 years who is retiring from active coaching after this season, will be honored with a "night" Saturday when Tech closes its campaign against league foe Southeastern Louisiana.

Crowley is relinquishing coaching duties, but will remain in the college's department of health and physical education. He will be succeeded by Scotty Robertson, present assistant coach.

There is a good chance 5,000 fans will be here for Crowley's last appearance as Tech coach and to see his team battle for the Gulf States Conference title. Tech students, staff, alumni and former cage players will pay tribute to Crowley, whose teams have won or tied for the championship seven times in 20 years.

Crowley will be honored during halftime ceremonies. His Tech teams going into the final week of action have won 268 games while losing 220. Crowley missed three seasons when he served as a naval officer during World War II.

After an outstanding football and basketball playing career at Centenary College, Crowley started coaching at Haynesville in 1931. He was an assistant to Joe Aillet, Tech's present athletic director, at Haynesville and the pair have served together in the coaching ranks for 28 years.

Crowley succeed Aillet at Haynesville in 1936 and remained in the post until 1939. He coached at Male High school in Louisville, Ky., in 1939 before accepting the Tech post in January of 1940.

His teams copped Louisiana Intercollegiate Conference crowns in 1942, 1946, 1947, and 1948 and won Gulf States Conference titles in 1953, 1955, and 1959. Crowley was named "coach of the year" in the GSC in 1953 and 1955.

Crowley's most successful club was the 1958-59 outfit that won 21 games and lost four. Several of his clubs have appeared in the post season national tournaments.

Many of the lettermen of Crowley-coached Tech teams are expected to be here Saturday night. Details of the brief halftime ceremonies are presently being worked out, according to Ding Merriott of Ruston, a former Tech cage star.

Four of Crowley's present cagers who have played together four years — Joe Abendroth, Ron McNabb, Butch Miller and David Hruska — will also be winding up Bulldog playing careers Saturday night.

Friday Will Be "Awards Night" For Dixie Youth

"Awards Night" for West Monroe Dixie Youth Baseball participants will be held Friday at 7 p.m. in the West Monroe Junior High gymnasium.

Ed Head, former Dodger pitching star, will be the featured speaker. Head pitched a no hitter for the Dogers when they played at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn Dave Woodman, KNOE-TV sports director, will be master of ceremonies.

Team trophies will be awarded to first place finisher in each league.

Dixie Youths who played their 12 year old season last summer will receive graduating trophies, and awards will be given to players who were selected for the all-star teams.

In addition to these, most valuable player and sportsman trophies will be given.

Every one interested in Dixie Youth Baseball is invited.

Clemente Inks With Pittsburgh Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Saturday that outfielder Roberto Clemente has signed his 1964 contract.

Clemente, who batted .320 last season, was the 34th Pirate to sign.

Blind Man Has Rating System

BROOKLAWN, N.J. (AP) — Francis Gallimore's interest in sports hasn't diminished since he began losing his sight five years ago. If anything, he's become more sports-minded.

The 55-year-old engineer now listens to parts of as many as 20 basketball games each night the colleges are playing and six or seven baseball and football games a day during those seasons.

He even keeps statistics on the basketball and football games, and currently is keeping records on 165 college basketball teams.

"It's been a lifetime hobby of mine, trying to pick the winners and outguess the experts," Gallimore, known as Lefty, said. "But I never was able to get serious about it until my eyes started going bad.

"I lost my sight gradually over the past five years. One eye is completely gone and in the other one I can only see shadows and shapes."

Gallimore, forced to retire when his eyes failed, said he suffered several weeks of depression at that time.

"But the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind came to my rescue," he said. "They taught me braille and how to use a cane. They also built up my morale."

Learning braille wasn't too difficlt for Gallimore, but he was interested in developing a mathematical computing system he could use to keep his statistical records of sports.

The commission told him of a device developed in England called the Taylor Slate, used by blind people interested in mathematics.

Gallimore mastered the Taylor Slate. He now uses it, a powerful radio and a tape recorder to pursue his hobby.

Each night except Sunday, Gallimore tunes in college basketball games across the country, averaging about five hours a night at the radio. He listens into the early hours of the morning to catch the games on the West Coast.

His tape recorder captures the words off the radio, and then later, at his leisure, he records the significant facts on his Taylor Slate. His wife, Esther reads him newspapers each day so he can fill in the details on games he has missed.

Each week, using the information he gathered, Gallimore rates the teams.

"With the mathematical system I devised over the years, I am able to rate the teams," he said. "The system is based on the strengths of the teams' opponents."

Gallimore's rating of the 10 college teams the past week closely coincided with The Associated Press poll, though there were a couple of differences.

The AP's top teams were UCLA, Michigan, Kentucky, Duke, Villanova, Wichita, Oregon State, Davidson, DePaul and Drake.

Gallimore's list goes like this: UCLA, Kentucky, Michigan, Duke, Oregon State, Wichita, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, DePaul and Davidson. He also has Villanova and Drake ranked close, but slightly below Davidson.

Gallimore said most of the polls, at this time of the season, will have just about the same teams in the first 10 because "everybody is playing a lot and the pollsters hear more about the winners.

"But early in the season there are a lot of sleepers and that's when it's fun. I like to name a team with an unknown quantity and then watch it move into the AP's Top Ten later in the season."

He thinks the team to watch until the end of the season is Georgia Tech. "That team really bounces," he says.

Vaudeville Has Returned; Boxing Camps Give Show

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Remember the rotogravure pictures in the old days that used to come out of the heavyweight fight training camps?

Tom Heeney tramping up a mountainside with 100 pounds of logs strapped to his back. . . Gene Tunney plodding through the woods on a cross-country hike. . Jack Dempsey, in a Mackinaw, chopping down trees. Isolation, hard work and Spartan living were the theme.

Now Sonny Liston skips rope daintily to the strains of a swingy tune called "Night Train." Cassius Clay, surrounded by a court of balladeers, laughs and sings while his buddies chant: "Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee, rumble rumble young man, rumble."

The training camps have undergone a radical change.

Now it takes a little bit of jazz, a generous portion of old P.T. Barnum and the carnival atmosphere of a state fair to get the principals in physical and mental tune for their head-bashing date here Tuesday night.

It's vaudeville, emerging from its grave.

Liston, the dour, phlegmatic titleholder, works out in an immaculately clean, powder-blue auditorium at the Surfside Civic Center. When the perspiring gladiators don't have it, the room is used by elderly ladies to paint, work on ceramics and watch movies.

The champion, a big bear of a man with cold, unsmiling eyes and seldom a change in expression, goes through his paces like an actor on stage, before some 200 spectators, who paid $1 a head to sit in folding chairs or line the walls.

On the walls are large colored portraits of the heavyweight king, flaunting his fancy gold championship belt. .

As Liston whips through his fixed routine—first the heavy bag, then the light bag, rope-skipping and pushups—a spieler carries on a running commentary like the front man at a circus side show.

He doubles as a comedian.

"Three days, seven hours and five minutes before blastoff," he intones. "The champion announces everything is a-ok. He is ready to send Cassius into orbit."

Announcing that Liston sparred 91 rounds, the announcer adds:

"Based on the length of Sonny's last two fights, that is equivalent to 91 championship fights."

In the back of the room, a concessionaire hawks coffee, soft drinks, sandwiches and crackers.

Liston's 246-pound trainer, Willie Reddish, rams a 12-pound medicine ball into the champion's cast-iron midsection from five feet away. There is a loud thud. The spectators wince and groan. Liston doesn't bat an eyelash.

After the champ finishes each routine, four aides with towels rush up to remove the sweat. Liston just stares ahead.

A record is turned on and the strains of "Night Train."—an instrumental with a Beale Street beat—wafts through the hall. This brings a squeal from scores of teen-agers, refugees from the visit of Britain's mop-haired Beatles.

FORM CORPORATION

Kansas Group Wants Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A group of seven financial and business executives announced plans Saturday to form a corporation and negotiate for the purchase of the Kansas City Athletics.

Their action came less than 24 hours after the American League voted to take steps to expel Athletics owner Charles O. Finley from baseball. If the league expelled Finley, it would put the Athletics franchise up for sale.

The seven Kansas City executives said they were incorporating with the hope of obtaining an option from the league to purchase the club. If they received the option, they then would make a public offer of stock in the franchise.

They said their primary goal was to assure home ownership of the embattled Athletics franchise, which Finley has been threatening to move for the past three years. The Athletics have had two out-of-town owners, both from Chicago, since they were brought here in 1955 from Philadelphia.

"The groundswell of interest by many people in Kansas City and the surrounding area prompted the idea of a public stock sale to insure once and for all local ownership" the incorporators said in a statement announcing their intentions.

They noted that stock also has been sold publicly in the Baltimore Orioles of the American League and the Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

Bernard D. Caaig, attorney and one of the seven incorporators, said the articles of incorporation would be filed early next week with Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes.

"After we receive our charter of corporation," said Craig, "we then will be in a position to begin negotiations with the American League for purchasing the club."

Craig, the legal spokesman for the group, said the corporation would take no further steps after formally notifying the league of its intentions until the league resolved the Finley matter. If the league takes the franchise away from Finley, the corporation then would seek the option to buy.

$5 MILLION POSSIBLE GROSS

Heavyweight Title Bout Could Be Boxing's Richest Promotion Show

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Cassius Clay and heavyweight champion Sonny Liston end their talkathon Tuesday night and settle down to the big business of fighting for the title in a possible $5 million plus promotion.

Although the undefeated, 22-year-ld Louisville Lip is rated a 7-1 underdog in the betting and few experts give him a chance, the promotion could wind up as the richest in boxing history.

Liston, who calls the cocky challenger "my million dollar baby," could earn $1.36 million for a fight that may not last three minutes. Clay's cut could be about $600,000.

Miami sportsmen Bill MacDonald has guaranteed the fighters $625,000 for the live gate in Convention Hall.

MacDonald says he needs $800,000 to break even. The promoter has scaled 16,000 seats at prices from $20 to $250. A sell-out would gross $1.1 million.

But the big money for the cheerless champion from Denver and the brash ballyhoo artist-boxer from Louisville will come from the closed circuit television to some 265 theaters and arenas from coast to coast.

With about 1,100,000 seats available at prices ranging from $4 to $10, a sale of 800,000 at about $5 head could gross $4 million. The radio broadcast by ABC, the movie receipts and other odds and ends could put another $300,000 or so into the pot.

Liston will receive 40 per cent and Clay 22½ per cent of the $625,000 guarantee. They will also get the same percentage of one-half of the gross of the closed circuit television money after Theater Network Television takes out its 15 per cent.

Then Liston cuts into another fat piece. He is president of International Sports, Inc., and will get one-half of ISI's 37½ per cent of the theater-television. Jim and Bob Nilon, brothers of Jack Nillon, Liston's adviser, are the other key officials of the corporation.

It all adds up to a fortune for the pugilists who have been waging a war of words for months. Both predict quick knockout victories, and that is believable.

Depending on his mood, Clay has forecast he'll be the new champion in 8, 5 or 3 rounds. By fight time it wouldn't be any surprise if he cuts it to one-and runs and runs when the bell sounds.

"I'm gonna upset the whole world," said Cassius, who has proven to be an outstanding salesman if still little tested as a fighter. "I'm bigger than he is. This is not going to be a giant fighting any Floyd Patterson. This man is scared to death."

"Three rounds-no more," retorted Liston. "If he's gonna run I'm gonna get him in one of the corners and shut that big mouth of his."

But Liston blesses that "big mouth" daily. For it has been fighter-poet Cassius who has built up a mammoth production of what seems to be a mismatch.

Clay has won all 19 of his fights, 15 by knockouts. He turned pro after winning the 178-pound Olympic title in Rome in 1960.

Despite the perfect record and his No. 1 rating among a talent - this collection of contenders, Clay still is an unknown quantity.

He was dropped by Sonny Banks, a nobody from Detroit in 1962, and by England's Henry Cooper in London last June 18 in his last outing. Left hooks floored him each time. Clay stopped Banks in the fifth.

Billy Daniels, a lanky Brooklyn barber, twice staggered Clay with long rights in another '62 fight. In his closest fight, against Doug Jone on March 13 last year, Cassius was hurt by a right hand in the first round and barely won a disputed decision in a 10-rounder.

Jones didn't "fall in four," as Clay predicted. He never hit the deck.

Clay, a growing lad who probably will pack about 215 pounds on his 6-foot-3 frame, has an excellent jab and fast hands and feet. He can throw punches in bursts of three, four and five at a clip. He has used very little variety in his punching, however. Most of his punches are thrown straight.

He has a bad habit of dropping his hands after he jabs and tries to slip punches by jerking his head back. He has demonstrated no ability to fight inside and very little aptitude tying up an opponent at close quarters. He probably will try to box at long range and hope that Liston will tire chasing him.

Liston, a powerful man with a tremendous wallop in either hand, is at his best at close quarters. He hammered Patterson unmercifully at close range and set him up for the two one-round knockouts with his hot pokes to the body.

For a big man, he has hands that flash like lightning bolts. And he's been nimble enough for anyone he's met in the last nine years.

The hard-rock, 6-1, 220-pounder has a 35-1 record, including 25 knockouts. His only loss was an eight round decision to Marty Marshall on Sept. 7, 1954. Liston's jaw was broken in the fight but he never was dropped and he went the distance. He knocked out and outpointed Marshall in two later fights.

Although he has fought the hardest hitters in the division—the top men that Patterson avoided meeting when he was champion — Liston never has been floored. He was nailed solidly by hard-banging Cleveland Williams and went on to flatten him.

The unknown in his case is whether his skills have been dimmed by idleness. Since Dec. 4 1961, he has fought only three times, scoring first round knockouts in a total time of six minutes, 14 seconds.

The Bear flattened Germany's Albert Westphal in 1:58, took the title from Floyd Patterson in 2:06 at Chicago, Sept. 25, 1962, and rubbed him out in 2:10 of the return bout at Las Vegas, last July 22.

"I may make it four rounds in four years," said Liston.

If it should go the full 15 rounds, the referee and two judges will score it by the 10-point must system. Eight-ounce gloves will be used and the mandatory eight - count for knockdowns will be in force.

The three knockdown rule in one round will not be used. If a fighter is floored at the end of the round, the count will be continued in the rest period. Starting time is 10 p.m. EST.

Fair Park's Loop Leaders Put Three On District Team

By ED SHEARER

Shreveport Times Sports Writer

(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Association)

District champion Fair Park landed three players on the District 1-AAA all-star basketball team selected in a poll of league coaches and endorsed by the North Chapter of the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

The Tribe placed center Andy Fullerton, forward Buddy Nelson, and guard Benny Hunter on the quintet along with Player of the Year Terry Smith of Byrd and Bastrop guard Ricky Head.

Coach Clem Henderson, who directed the Tribe to an unbeaten season in the district, was voted Coach of the Year by his fellow league mentors.

Smith, a talented 6-4 senior who carried the Jackets to second place in the circuit, averaged 20.5 points per outing and polled four of the seven votes for player of the year honors. Smith, Fullerton and Nelson were unanimous slections.

Fullerton, Nelson and Hunter received one vote each for player of the year.

Named on the five-man second unit were seniors Jamie Barrett of West Monroe, Johnny Weaver of Bossier City and George Graham of Byrd along with juniors Ken Liberto of Woodlawn and Rodney McGuire of Byrd.

All members of the first team are seniors as was the case a year ago. Fullerton and Smith were second team members on the all-district club in 1963.

Player of the Year Smith poured through 657 points for a 20.5 average and pulled in 197 rebounds. Nelson was the top point maker for Fair Park with 676 points for a 17.6 mean.

Fullerton led the league in rebounding with 560 for a 14.7 average and scored 476 points for a 12.5 average. Hunter hit for 14.2 points per outing with 537 points and Head, the Ark-La-Tex prep athlete of the year had 353 points for a 14.7 average.

Byrd High's Bob Thompson, one of the finest players in the league, was ineligible for the LSWA sponsored all - district team because he saw action in only six of Byrd's 12 league outings. LSWA rules require a player to participate in 70 per cent of the district games to be eligible for all - district honors. He sat out the six games with a sprained ankle.

Player of the Year: Terry Smith, Byrd.

Honoarble mention: Richard Anderson, West Monroe, 15; Buddy Quinn, Bastrop, 15; Bob Hamlett, Bossier, 15; Trey Prather, Woodlawn, 10; Pat Temple, Byrd, 10; James Rushworth, Fair Park, 10; Dennis Crawley, Ouachita, 5; Doug Howell, Ouachita, 5; Ronnie Bell, Fair Park, 5; Danny Bob Turner, Fair Park, 5.

IN MASTERS

Palmer's Year Is Coming Up

AUGUSTA, GA. (AP)—If the 1964 Masters Golf Tournament follows the pattern set in 1958, it will be another Arnold Palmer victory.

Palmer, the PGA's leading money - winner, has won each even-numbered year from 1958. Art Wall Jr. won in 1959, Gary Player of South Africa became the first foreign entry to win in 1961, and in 1963 Jack Nicklaus became the youngest player to win. He was 23 at the time.

There also will be plenty of competition from Tony Lema, runner-up to Nicklaus last year in his first Masters appearance, and Julius Boros, whose comeback last year was the talk of the golf world. Boros became the second oldest player ever to win the National Open in 1963.

Practice rounds start Sunday, April 5, and the four-round tournament begins Thursday, April 9.

The Masters will be played for the first time without Horton Smith, its first champion and first two-time champion. Smith, who died last Oct. 14, was the only one to have participated as a player every year since the tournament began in 1934.

Palmer will again try to become the first four-time winner of the Masters. Also trying for his fourth victory will be Sam Snead, the 51-year-old all - time tournament winner who gave it a game try last year, finishing in a tie for third with Boros.

Jimmy Demaret, only other three-time winner, finished in a tie for fifth in 1962.

Nicklaus faces strong odds in trying to repeat as champion, which no winner ever has done. Player and Ben Hogan lost their bids to repeat in playoffs, Player in 1962 and Hogan in 1954. Hogan says he will sit out the Masters this year because of putting difficulties.

The par 72 Augusta National Golf Course, where the Masters is played, was tee brainchild of golf's great Bobby Jones who with friends bought a 365-acre plot for a course in 1930. The Scottish architect, Dr. Alister MacKenzie, was hired and construction began in 1931.

The object of Jones and MacKenzie was to design a course that would prove pleasurable to the largest possible percentage of golfers. A great many professionals and others who have played the course believe they succeeded.

The course averages about 6,850 yards for the Masters, which has become so popular that last year it was decided to limit attendance to the club's parking capacity of 10,000 cars.

Clifford Roberts, chairman of the Masters Tournament Committee, said the tournament's oldest players, 82-year-old Freddy McLeod and 80-year-old Jock Hutchison, again are expected to lead off the field on the first day of play.

Barbara White Wins Another Golf Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La., defeated defending champion Mrs. Paul Dye of Indianapolis Saturday 1 up after 19 holes in finals of the Florida East Coast Women's Golf Tournament.

Miss White made the turn 1 down and lost the 10th. But she drew even by the 15th hole. Mrs. Dye won the 16th with a par 3 when Miss White was trapped.

After halving the 17th, Miss White took the 18th to go even when Mrs. Dye was trapped and sank a 15-foot putt on the 19th for the match.

Block Gets Spot In State Playoff

JONESVILLE (Special) — Block High of Jonesville downed Doyline, 53-42, Saturday in girls regional play to win a berth in the Sweet Sixteen Tourney to be held at Pineville Feb. 27-29.

Elva McMillian scored 31 points to take game honors for the winners, followed by teammate Velma Spinks with 15. Betty Chreene was high for the losers with 24.

Tech Defense Pleases Coach In Scrimmage

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech Head Coach Joe Aillet expressed pleasure with his squad's defensive efforts in an hour and a half scrimmage session here Saturday.

"Our pursuit has been very good," said Aillet, who indicated that work had been divided evenly between offense and defense. "We are further along defensively at this stage and this will enable us to concentrate on our offense in the future."

Aillet said he was satisfied with the team's progress so far and added that it was an extremely enthusiastic squad.

Despite the defensive superiority demonstrated in the scrimmage fullback Tommy Linder got off several good gains, while flexed ends Wayne Davis and David Lee each hauled down a touchdown pass.

Nash Scores 33 Points To Set Record

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Cotton Nash set a single season scoring record for Kentucky Saturday night as the third ranked Wildcats walloped Auburn 99-79 in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The victory put Kentucky in first place in the conference after Georgia Tech had lost to Georgia 81-68.

Nash, despite a cold first half, came storming back in the last 20 minutes and left the floor with 33 points to run his total for the season to 586 and an enviable average of 26.6 points per game.

Despite the record performance of the 6-foot-5 Nash, it was Ted Deeken who outscored all other players on the floor with 34 points.

Vaudeville Has Returned; Boxing Camps Give Show

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Remember the rotogravure pictures in the old days that used to come out of the heavyweight fight training camps?

Tom Heeney tramping up a mountainside with 100 pounds of logs strapped to his back. . . Gene Tunney plodding through the woods on a cross-country hike. . .Jack Dempsey, in a Mackinaw, chopping down trees. Isolation, hard work and Spartan living were the theme.

Now Sonny Liston skips rope daintily to the strains of a swingy tune called "Night Train." Cassius Clay, surrounded by a court of balladeers, laughs and sings while his buddies chant: "Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee, rumble rumble young man, rumble."

The training camps have undergone a radical change.

Now it takes a little bit of jazz, a generous portion of old P.T. Barnum and the carnival atmosphere of a state fair to get the principals in physical and mental tune for their head-bashing date here Tuesday night.

It's vaudeville, emerging from its grave.

Liston, the dour, phlegmatic titleholder, works out in an immaculately clean, powder-blue auditorium at the Surfside Civic Center. When the perspiring gladiators don't have it, the room is used by elderly ladies to paint, work on ceramics and watch movies.

The champion, a big bear of a man with cold, unsmiling eyes and seldom a change in expression, goes through his paces like an actor on stage, before some 200 spectators, who paid $1 a head to sit in folding chairs or line the walls.

On the walls are large colored portraits of the heavyweight king, flaunting his fancy gold championship belt.

As Liston whips through his fixed routine—first the heavy bag, then the light bag, rope-skipping and pushups—a spieler carries on a running commentary like the front man at a circus side show.

He doubles as a comedian.

"Three days, seven hours and five minutes before blastoff," he intones. "The champion announces everything is a-ok. He is ready to send Cassius into orbit."

Announcing that Liston sparred 91 rounds, the announcer adds:

"Based on the length of Sonny's last two fights, that is equivalent to 91 championship fights."

In the back of the room, a concessionaire hawks coffee, soft drinks, sandwiches and crackers.

Liston's 246-pound trainer, willie Reddish, rams a 12-pound medicine ball into the champion's cast-iron midsection from five feet away. There is a loud thud. The spectators wince and groan. Liston doesn't bat an eyelash.

After the champ finishes each routine, four aides with towels rush up to remove the sweat. Liston just stares ahead.

A record is turned on and the strains of "Night Train."—an instrumental with a Beale Street beat—wafts through the hall. This brings a squeal from scores of teen-agers, refugees from the visit of Britain's mop-haired Beatles.

FORM CORPORATION

Kansas Group Wants Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A group of seven financial and business executives announced plans Saturday to form a corporation and negotiate for the purchase of the Kansas City Athletics.

Their action came less than 24 hours after the American League voted to take steps to expel Athletics owner Charles O. Finley from baseball. If the league expelled Finley, it would put the Athletics franchise up for sale.

The seven Kansas City executives said they were incorporating with the hope of obtaining an option from the league to purchase the club. If they received the option, they then would make a public offer of stock in the franchise.

They said their primary goal was to assure home ownership of the embattled Athletics franchise, which Finley has been threatening to move for the past three years. The Athletics have had two out-of-town owners, both from Chicago, since they were brought here in 1955 from Philadelphia.

"The groundswell of interest by many people in Kansas City and the surrounding area prompted the idea of a public stock sale to insure once and for all local ownership" the incorporators said in a statement announcing their intentions.

They noted that stock also has been sold publicly in the Baltimore Orioles of the American League and the Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

Bernard D. Caaig, attorney and one of the seven incorporators, said the articles of incorporation would be filed early next week with Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes.

"After we receive our charter of corporation," said Craig, "we then will be in a position to begin negotiations with the American League for purchasing the club."

Craig, the legal spokesman for the group, said the corporation would take no further steps after formally notifying the league of its intentions until the league resolved the Finley matter. If the league takes the franchise away from Finley, the corporation then would seek the option to buy.

All members of the first team are seniors as was the case a year ago. Fullerton and Smith were second team members on the all-district club in 1963.

Player of the Year Smith poured through 657 points for a 20.5 average and pulled in 197 rebounds. Nelson was the top point maker for Fair Park with 676 points for a 17.6 mean.

Fullerton led the league in rebounding with 560 for a 14.7 average and scored 476 points for a 12.5 average. Hunter hit for 14.2 points per outing with 537 points and Head, the Ark-La-Tex prep athlete of the year had 353 points for a 14.7 averages.

Byrd High's Bob Thompson, one of the finest players in the league, was ineligible for the LSWA sponsored all - district team because he saw action in only six of Byrd's 12 league outings. LSWA rules require a player to participate in 70 per cent of the district games to be eligible for all - district honors. He sat out the six games with a sprained ankle.

Player of the Year: Terry Smith, Byrd.

Honoarble mention: Richard Anderson, West Monroe, 15; Buddy Quinn, Bastrop, 15; Bob Hamlett, Bossier, 15; Trey Prather, Woodlawn, 10; Pat Temple, Byrd, 10; James Rushworth, Fair Park, 10; Dennis Crawley, Ouachita, 5; Doug Howell, Ouachita, 5; Ronnie Bell, Fair Park, 5; Danny Bob Turner, Fair Park, 5.

IN MASTERS

Palmer's Year Is Coming Up

AUGUSTA, GA. (AP)—If the 1964 Masters Golf Tournament follows the pattern set in 1958, it will be another Arnold Palmer victory.

Palmer, the PGA's leading money - winner, has won each even-numbered year from 1958. Art Wall Jr. won in 1959, Gary Player of South Africa became the first foreign entry to win in 1961, and in 1963 Jack Nicklaus became the youngest player to win. He was 23 at the time.

There also will be plenty of competition from Tony Lema, runner-up to Nicklaus last year in his first Masters appearance, and Julius Boros, whose comeback last year was the talk of the golf world. Boros became the second oldest player ever to win the National Open in 1963.

Practice rounds start Sunday, April 5, and the four-round tournament begins Thursday, April 9.

The Masters will be played for the first time without Horton Smith, its first champion and first two-time champion. Smith, who died last Oct. 14, was the only one to have participated as a player every year since the tournament began in 1934.

Palmer will again try to become the first four-time winner of the Masters. Also trying for his fourth victory will be Sam Snead, the 51-year-old all - time tournament winner who gave it a game try last year, finishing in a tie for third with Boros.

Jimmy Demaret, only other three-time winner, finished in a tie for fifth in 1962.

Nicklaus faces strong odds in trying to repeat as champion, which no winner ever has done. Player and Ben Hogan lost their bids to repeat in playoffs, Player in 1962 and Hogan in 1954. Hogan says he will sit out the Masters this year because of putting difficulties.

The par 72 Augusta National Golf Course, where the Masters is played, was tee brainchild of golf's great Bobby Jones who with friends bought a 365-acre plot for a course in 1930. The Scottish architect, Dr. Alister MacKenzie, was hired and construction began in 1931.

The object of Jones and MacKenzie was to design a course that would prove pleasurable to the largest possible percentage of golfers. A great many professionals and others who have played the course believe they succeeded.

The course averages about 6,850 yards for the Masters, which has become so popular that last year it was decided to limit attendance to the club's parking capacity of 10,000 cars.

Clifford Roberts, chairman of the Masters Tournament Committee, said the tournament's oldest players, 82-year-old Freddy McLeod and 80-year-old Jock Hutchison, again are expected to lead off the field on the first day of play.

Barbara White Wins Another Golf Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La., defeated defending champion Mrs. Paul Dye of Indianapolis Saturday 1 up after 19 holes in finals of the Florida East Coast Women's Golf Tournament.

Miss White made the turn 1 down and lost the 10th. But she drew even by the 15th hole. Mrs. Dye won the 16th with a par 3 when Miss White was trapped.

After halving the 17th, Miss White took the 18th to go even when Mrs. Dye was trapped and sank a 15-foot putt on the 19th for the match.

Block Gets Spot In State Playoff

JONESVILLE (Special) — Block High of Jonesville downed Doyline, 53-42, Saturday in girls regional play to win a berth in the Sweet Sixteen Tourney to be held at Pineville Feb. 27-29.

Elva McMillian scored 31 points to take game honors for the winners, followed by teammate Velma Spinks with 15. Betty Chreene was high for the losers with 24.

Tech Defense Pleases Coach In Scrimmage

RUSTON (Special) —Louisiana Tech Head Coach Joe Aillet expressed pleasure with his squad's defensive efforts in an hour and a half scrimmage session here Saturday.

"Our pursuit has been very good," said Aillet, who indicated that work had been divided evenly between offense and defense. "We are further along defensively at this stage and this will enable us to concentrate on our offense in the future."

Aillet said he was satisfied with the team's progress so far and added that it was an extremely enthusiastic squad.

Despite the defensive superiority demonstrated in the scrimmage fullback Tommy Linder got off several good gains, while flexed ends Wayne Davis and David Lee each hauled down a touchdown pass.

Nash Scores 33 Points To Set Record

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Cotton Nash set a single season scoring record for Kentucky Saturday night as the third ranked Wildcats walloped Auburn 99-79 in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The victory put Kentucky in first place in the conference after Georgia Tech had lost to Georgia 81-68.

Nash, despite a cold first half, came storming back in the last 20 minutes and left the floor wth 33 points to run his total for the season to 586, and an enviable average of 26.6 points per game.

Despite the record performance of the 6-foot-5 Nash, it was Ted Deeken who outscored all other players on the floor with 34 points.

MANY OF the nations of Southeast Asia find themselves struggling with major crises. Some are purely Asian in content, others are entwined in the worldwide East-West struggle. (AP Wirephoto Map)

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A rash of developments in Southeast Asia has deepened Western pessimism about this area's chances of uniting against threats of Chinese expansion.

American influence, which once helped stitch together key sections of the region, has worn thin.

An open attempt by France to move in where the United States is edging—or being edged—out has complicated the picture.

Amid the confusion, Communists have registered fresh military gains in the Southeast Asian heartland.

Along the outer arc, where Communist aggression is not an immediate factor, the Malaysia crisis has ripped neighbors apart.

"Put your finger on Southeast Asia's map, and you're almost bound to touch a trouble spot," a Western diplomat remarks gloomily.

These developments point up the trend.

In neutralist Cambodia, Prince Norodom Sihanouk has threatened to cut Western ties and form military alliances with Communist China and North Viet Nam unless the West agrees to guarantee his country's neutrality.

In Laos, pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces, bolstered by Vietnamese, have stepped up attacks in the north and north central sectors in a fresh, bold attempt to widen Communist control in that little kingdom.

In South Viet Nam, the Communist Viet Cong has intensified terrorist activity while the country is still rebounding from its second coup d'etat in three months. American troops have become the target of bombs.

On the Southeast Asian rim, the fledgling Malaysia Federation faces the opposition of two of its biggest neighbors, Indonesia and the Philippines.

In Indonesia itself, internal troubles—fanned by a big, Chinese-leaning Communisty party and aggravated by widespread starvation—have given rise to speculation about a Red takeover.

Thailand is trying to act as a mediator in the Malaysia crisis but has the Laos problem to worry about, too. It shares a long border with that troubled country. And Cambodia's latest threats are not helping set Thai minds at rest.

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, headquartered in the Thai capital of Bangkok, is pondering the situation.

France disengaged itself from Southeast Asia after the 1954 Geneva conference cut French Indochina loose. Now it is bidding for a return in a big-brother role.

President Charles de Gaulle has suggested a French-backed policy of neutralization, based on recognition of Communist China.

The immediate effect has been to sharpen the dividing line in a part of the world where no more divisions are needed.

Predictably, the De Gaulle plan has been challenged by staunchly pro-Western Thailand, South Viet Nam and the Philippines.

Malaysia, with a sizable overseas Chinese population that likes to straddle the fence on the Peking vs. Nationalist China issue, has officially reacted with studied silence.

The nonaligned bloc of Indonesia, Laos, Cambodia and Burma has welcomed De Gaulle's recognition of Peking.

A widely shared view is that the only ones who stand to gain from the present chain of crisis developments are Communist China and its North Vietnamese ally.

Bandit Holds Up New Iberia Bank At Noon Hour

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — A casual, unshaven bandit who stuffed wads of bills into every pocket, even up the sleeves of his jacket, robbed a branch of the New Iberia National Bank Saturday.

Bank officials said the money involved in the noon holdup could not be immediately determined.

No customers were in the Center Street Branch when the man walked in with a snub-nosed pistol in hand and demanded money.

Mrs. I. W. Bouillion, a teller, said he stood at her counter as he packed the money away, thrusting one $500 package of $20 bills into his belt.

"He stuffed the bills so loosely I thought he would be leaving a trail of money," she said. "But he didn't. He told the others, 'just go on with your work.'"

When he ran out of pocket and sleeve space the gunman demanded a paper sack. After some searching, manager Leroy Lovas produced one.

Before leaving, the man asked for a light for his cigarette. Lovas handed him a packet of matches but the man demanded that Lovas strike a match and hold the flame.

Then the man walked out the front entrance and strolled around to the back of the building.

Mrs. Bouillon said he disappeared through a gap in the hedge that borders the bank parking lot at the rear of the building.

The gunman was described as having about a week's growth of whiskers.

In the bank with Mrs. Bouillon and Lovas at the time was Mrs. Glenn Gray, another teller.

REDS GREET ENVOY

HONG KONG (UPI) — Claude Chayet, France's first envoy to Communist China, walked across the bridge separating this British crown colony and the Chinese mainland Saturday and was greeted by Red Chinese officials.

Chayet, who will be charge d'affaires in Peking, was proceeding by train to Canton. He was accompanied by three staff secretaries and was escorted to the border by the French consul general in Hong Kong.

The World For WOMEN

February 23, 1964

At left: Mrs. Darryl Lee Heikes, prior to her marriage Saturday, February 15 in Dallas, was Miss Claudia Dell Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur William Moore, 307 Lazarre Avenue, West Monroe. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Heikes, of Salina, Kansas. The wedding was performed at 8 p.m. in Dickerson's Chapel of First Methodist Church, in Dallas, where the couple will be at home following a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark.

Above: Miss Brenda Sue Cobb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Edward Cobb, 1106 North Second, Monroe, became the bride of James Franklin Carney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewel May Carney, Hattiesburg, Mississippi, on Saturday, February 15 in St. John's Christian Church at 4 p.m. Rev. Raymond T. Watson performed the ceremony in the presence of family members and close friends. The couple will establish a home in New Orleans.

St. Andrew's Methodist Church, Sterlington was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Sandra Kay Johnson, 104 Willow, Monroe, and Lieut. Henry Edgar Dubuy Jr., on Monday, February 10. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Harold Johnson, Ulysses, Kans., formerly of Monroe, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edgar Dubuy, Scottsdale, Ariz.

Rev. David Corley of Farmerville, performed the double ring vows at 7 p. m. following a program of nuptial music by Mrs. Vane T. Brazil, organist and Larry Kulcke, soloist.

Vows were exchanged in a setting of white gladioli arrangements and branched candelabra with white tapers, and southern smilax against a background of fern trees and two spiral candelabra. A white prie dieu completed the setting.

Mr. Johnson gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white peau de soie, styled with long tapered sleeves and portrait neckline, etched with seed pearls. Appliques of Alencon lace and pearls embellished the bouffant skirt with back bustle effect, terminating in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion cascaded from a queen's crown of pearls. She carried a family heirloom Swedish Bible, crested with a fuchsia throated white orchid, surrounded by stephanotis and streamers.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. Dan Linzie Phillips of Tampa, Florida, as matron of honor; Miss Mary Constance Green, Ferriday and Mrs. William John Burnett, Monroe, bridesmaids and Miss Cynthia Johnson, cousin of the bride, junior bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of cardinal red peau de soie, fashioned with scoop necklines, elbow sleeves and semi-belled skirts. Matching slippers and circlet veil headpieces completed their ensembles and they carried bouquets of pink traveler gladioli in crescent design.

Candlelighters were Miss Marcia Files of Oak Ridge and Miss Patricia Earley of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who were dressed identically to the other attendants and wore wristlets of small pink chrysanthemums.

John Dubuy of Scottsdale, Ariz., attended his brother as best man and ushers were Charles T. Johnson, cousin of the bride and Sam Rainwater.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor where the bride's table held a central arrangement of pink chrysanthemums and candytuft in a silver bowl flanked by pink tapers in silver candelabra. Miss Anna Johnson and Mrs. Ernie Johnson, aunts of the bride, served the wedding cake and alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Lanny Johnson and Mrs. Julius Haddad. Miss Camilla Herman presided at the guest book and rice bags were presented guests by Cynthia and Dollie Dubuy and Rita Beth Cook.

For travel when the couple left for Salina, Kans., where they will reside, the bride was wearing a pink knit suit with matching hat, bone accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet. Mrs. Dubuy was graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and Northeast Louisiana State College and did graduate work at Texas Technological College and prior to her marriage was employed in the Ouachita Parish school system. She is a member of Phi Mu national fraternity. Lt. Dubuy graduated from Charlotte Valley Central School of Davenport, N. Y., and received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Arizona. A recent graduate of United States Pilot Training School at Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock, Tex., he is presently stationed as a pilot at Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, Kans.

Musical numbers by various club members included "Shubert's Waltz" Teresa Bice; "Let Peace Endure," Franz Schubert, Stephen Bedenbender; "Ridin' On a Mule," John Schaum, Charlotte Bell; "In Church," John Thompson, by John Downs; "Blue Tango," Leroy Anderson, by Terry White; "Hawaiian Love Song," Truax, Beth Long; "Semper Fidelis," John Philip Sousa, Kathy May; "The Elevator," John Schaum, Susan Reighney; "Ballade," Burgmueller, Barbara Kemp; "The Campbells Are Coming," John Schaum, Virginia Reighney.

MISS PAULINE VERONICA VARINO

Pauline Varino To Wed Anthony J. Pendola

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Varino, 1717 South Grand, Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Pauline Vernonica Varino to Anthony Joseph Pendola. He is the son of Mrs. Dominick Pendola and the late Mr. Pendola of Columbia.

The wedding will be solemnized Monday, March 30 at 10 a.m. in St. Matthew's Catholic Church. Monsignor J. C. Marsh will officiate at the ceremony, assisted by Father William Allen.

Miss Varino has chosen her cousin, Miss Rosalie Varino, to serve as maid of honor and matron of honor will be Mrs. Leonard J. Russo. Mrs. Philip P. Lynch Jr. will serve as bridesmaid and flower girls will be Miss Marianne Russo and Miss Janet Ann Lynch, nieces of the bride-elect.

John C. Tropea will attend Mr. Pendola as best man and named to serve as groomsmen are Leonard J. Russo and Andrew Varino, brother of the bride-elect. Chosen as ushers are Michael C. Napoli, Philip P. Lynch Jr., Paul A. Graham and Raymond Varino, cousin of the bride-elect.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Frank C. Varino and the late Mr. Varino and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bruscato, all of Monroe. She was graduated from St. Matthew's high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mr. Pendola is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute where he received a bachelor of science degree and also graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College of Pharmacy. Hs is a member of Kappa Psi fraternity, and is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joe Medica of Jena.

New Members Welcomed Into LSPA Auxiliary

Two new members, Mrs. Julian Fontana and Mrs. Joe Sampongnaro, were welcomed into the Women's Auxiliary of the 5th District Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association at a luncheon meeting held Saturday, February 15 at the Paragon Club.

Mrs. Frank Martin presided over the business session and welcomed the new members. A nominating committee was appointed, composed of Mrs. J. B. Kendall, chairman; Mrs. Perry Miers, Mrs. Joe Maggio, Mrs. Dale Cronk and Mrs. Thomas Kelley. The slate of nominees for offices at the state level was read.

Highlight of the afternoon was a review of the book, "A Time to Remember," by Mrs. Marcus Mapp.

Those attending the luncheon meeting were Mrs. August Danti, Mrs. Paul Hammond, Mrs. John Collens, Mrs. Olan Dawson, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. Ben Davis, Mrs. Roy Colquette, Mrs. E. A. This just past was Follies Week in Monroe, with the Junior Charity League's variety show center of interest around town. Cast and audience alike thoroughly enjoyed themselves at Neville auditorium Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

A jolly group in Wednesday night's crowd was that which came by bus from the home of MARY LEE and DOC MILAM. Friends met there for buffet supper before the show and then motored over together. Mary Lee's dining room looked lovely, decorated entirely with Magnolia flora camellias in silver and crystal containers. Centering the table was a camellia tree, with tapers in silver candlesticks at each side. More of the blooms were used in a footed container placed on the sideboard before the mirror. A second buffet table was set up in the den, this centered with a cherry tree and hachet, suggesting a Washington birthday motif.

Standing buffet, served in both rooms, included smoked ham, corned beef, crab mousse, shrimp remoulade, turkey dip, cheese mold, and tiny hot meat balls. After the show, guests returned to the Milams by bus for dessert and coffee. Choices of dessert offered included vanilla or coffee ice cream balls rolled in coconut; chocolate, rum, or peanut butter sauce; sand tarts, cinnamon sticks, and-or mint cookies.

Another party planned on Follies night was that following Wednesday night's performance at the home of the JOHN CLAYS. Peggy, a past president of the League, soon to become an inactive member, chose this night to invite a group of those with whom she has worked closely in recent years. The meal was served buffet-style from the dining room table, before guests were seated at individual tables. Yellow candles were used in the tall candlesticks, wreathed with spring flowers, which centered the table. Peggy's menu included seafood supreme served in patty shells; spinach rice casserole; baked tomatoes and marinated beans. Desserts were bite size pies served with coffee.

And speaking of delectable meals, two of the best were served last Friday at Valentine's Day parties. At noon, members of Town and Country Garden club held their annual eating meeting at the home of JEAN DICKENHORST on Point Drive. Co-hostesses with Jean were BYRNIE SMITH, LOLLY NEEL and CAROLYN SHELTON; but food was provided by guests themselves. Each club member contributed a covered dish for the groaning board.

Included on the menu were cold roast beef (slices from a marinated eye of round); hot shrimp Creole; cabbage rolls; casseroles featuring spinach in several combinations — with onion rings, with cheese, with rice; other casseroles of hearts of artichokes and asparagus.

Salads were of all types: a ring of beets; tossed salads; congealed fruits; a red heart mold. And of course, dessert, the crowning glory of the meal. Hard to make a choice between pecan pie, frozen strawberry pie, or a superb apricot roll covered with blanched almonds.

Also on Friday, Valentine's Day, the JACK KEELINGS and BEN COBBS were hosts at open house at the Cobb residence on Point drive. This affair was attended by approximately one hundred doctors and their wives. A Valentine theme was noted in decorations placed throughout the Cobb home.

JOY VINES and JANIE SIMS alternated at the silver punch bowl in the den. A heart-shaped float of strawberries was placed in the punch to carry out the theme.

Food served in the den and in the dining room included hot roast beef with small buns; a hot dip of eggplant and shrimp to be eaten with crackers; cold crabmeat in sour cream on melba toast; lobster mold, and cheese balls. A tray of raw vegetables, including carrot sticks, cauliflowerets, celery, and onion rings were served with cheese dip. There was a hot chili conqueso dip, and cold marinated dill carrots.

Wednesday afternoon LEAH EBY celebrated her sixth birthday with a party in the young people's lounge at Bayou DeSiard country club. The table, which was centered with the birthday cake, featured small pots of flowers placed at intervals down the table. At each place were tiny candles in marshmallow candle-holders. Games were played, with DANNY WATTLEY AND JANET OLMSTEAD winning prizes. About sixty children attended the party.

This week we visited the home of the JACK TARVERS at 900 Morgan street. This house is of red brick with white trim, the street facade featuring a "front gallery" and other colonial accents. In the entrance hall begins the terrazzo flooring which continues into the family room ahead and kitchen beyond. Here also begins the blue motif noted in decorating throughout the house. A blue and white print paper covers the walls above blue wainscotting.

To the right of the entrance is the living room, with dining room beyond. Both have blue walls, blue textured carpet, and sheer draperies of white-over-blue. A white sofa sits in the square bay window, with a pair of wing chairs covered with blue and white print. The dining table is Italian provincial in style, cherry with cane back chairs.

Straight ahead from the entrance is the family room, with fireplace wall of old brick and panelling of antique birch. An abstract oil painting on the wall repeats the blue and green tones of the sofa. Ladder-back chairs are used at the square table placed before the window, and a Dutch door opens onto the private patio at the back of the house. The birch panelling continues into the kitchen and the service hall which opens into the hobby room, utility area, bath, and garage.

In four bedrooms to the left of the entrance, blue walls and carpet are used in each. Laura's room has a white bedspread with blue floral border, solid white draperies with a blue cornice. In the master bedroom are a blue and white checked chaise longue, solid blue spread, and white tiered curtains. Cleve and Colette have spreads of blue and white print. At the windows, blue shutters are used with blue-bordered white curtains. Jay's windows also have the shutters, here used with blue and white print. A large closet in the bedroom wing provides space for a stair well to be added later. As the children grow, two bedrooms and a bath are to be finished upstairs.

One of the show-stopping numbers of the Follies was that done by the "Lulus", a group of veteran League supporters. One was overheard to admit that she was in the very first Follies twenty-six years ago. They sang and danced to "Lulu's Back in Town" with great zest and verve. Prior to the performance, the group received a florist box containing artificial roses, some pep pills, beauty lotion, "fountain of youth cream" and this poem:

Oh, dear, what can the matter be?
Six Follies queens got locked in the lava'try.
They were there from Monday till Saturday.
Nobody knew they were there.
The first to come out was Hilda McDonald
She wanted to practice, but the rest didn't wanta. . . .
And nobody knew she was there!
The next to come out was Joy McCue
She wanted to dance, but never on cue.
And nobody knew she was there.
The next to come out were Edna and Vicky
The song was all right, but the dancing too tricky. . . . and nobody knew they were there.
The next to come out was little Sarah Rhymes,
She wasn't on time, but oh how she shines
And nobody knew she was there.
Last to come out — and you should have guessed it . . . .
Was Martha Grant, who nearly bout missed it . . . .
And nobody knew she was there!

Garner-Sanders Vows Read In Home Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony Saturday, February 22, Miss Doyce Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Sanders, 907 Crosley, West Monroe, became the bride of George W. Garner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Garner of Kilbourne.

Rev. T. L. Rhymes performed the vows at 2 p.m. in the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johns, 302 Woodrow, West Monroe. An arrangement of gladioli and greenery banked the mantel, flanked by pedestal candelabra to form an improvised altar for the ceremony.

Miss Linda Pullin, pianist, accompanied the vocalist, Miss Rita Garner, and also played the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short gown of white peau de soie, fashioned on sheath lines with bouffant overskirt attached at the waist with a self-fabric bow. The basque bodice featured a scoop neckline, studded with iridescent sequins and three-quarter length sleeves. A tiny circlet of matching peau de soie held her brief veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white bridal roses with feathered chrysanthemums.

Mrs Gene Rhymes, niece of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gold brocade satin gown, styled with scoop neckline and belled skirt, with a wedding ring headdress and short veil. Her bouquet was of white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Gerald Garner attended his brother as best man and ushers were Gene Rhymes and Elmer Johns.

Mrs. Sanders selected for her daughter's wedding a white dress with black accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige suit with black accessories and white chrysanthemum corsage.

A reception followed in the home where the bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and held a central arrangement of white feathered chrysanthemums in a crystal bowl. Mrs. Charles Sanders presided at the crystal punch bowl and Mrs. Garland Sanders served the tiered wedding cake. Miss Tracey Sanders, Baytown, Texas, niece of the bride, had charge of the bride's book and tea girls were Miss Robin Sanders and Miss Gayle Sanders.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride wore a gold wool dress with brown accessories and a corsage of white roses from her bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home in Bossier City where Mr. Garner is stationed at Barksdale Air Force Base. The bride is a graduate of West Monroe high school and Mr. Garner graduated from Kilbourne high school and attended Northeast Lousiana State College.

Wisteria New Fashion Hue

Woollies this spring will be less bulky, more firmly woven and in new colors, according to Paris reports. Wisteria is a fresh hue to hit the fashion scene. Huge prints will still be splashing around on silk prints in uninhibited ways.

As for linens, they will be in clover, three and four-leafed, lucky signs either way.

Reptiles Seen In Handbags For Spring

Italian handbag craftsmen are busily turning out elegant new handbags to go with Spring fashions. You'll find their fine efforts on display at your favorite stores at the first sign of Spring.

LOOK FOR the new "portable pocket" ... actually a small handbag attached to a long shoulder strap, the strap is so long the bag sits low on the hip, perfect companion to slacks and "the sportive look".

REPTILES find their way into some of the most elegant handbags of all! ... Newcomers will be python and iguana ... dyed black and polished to a high luster, the finely-scaled iguana takes on the gleam of patent leather ... python appears in brilliant colors ... handbag boon to the boutique!

OSTRICH has undergone a new tanning process which permits use of more areas of the skin, hitherto not used ... result: ostrich should be available at more popular prices ... and enjoy more popularity than ever before.

TUSCAN CALF is tanned to the rich matte glow of velvet ... soft, supple yet strong and enduring ... colors are muted ... with a predominance of the pale browns ... honeys ... caramels ... sepia.

BRAID IS BIG ... appearing in handles, trimmings ... braided leather ... braided ribbon ... braided silk cords ... brilliant colors inter laced in braiding brings new brilliance to handbags ...

CENTRAL TRENDS indicate that Spring handbags from Italy will be rounded of line ... showing little metal ... smaller, but with good capacity ... beautifully line, often with doeskin or glace leather in matching or contrasting colors.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Leering Husband Considered Old Fossil

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Ellsworth and I have been married 18 years. Many of our friends have teen-age daughters with adorable little figures. When the girls come downstairs to wait for their dates Ellsworth's eyes practically fall out of his head.

He always manages to get his hands on the girls and pat them in "a fatherly fashion." Last night one of the little girls was dressed up for a formal party. Her hair was piled high and she looked beautiful in her white tulle strapless gown. My husband pulled her close and panted. "Honey, if I were 20 years younger I could really go for you."

The girl's father gave Ellsworth a blistering look and snapped. "Well you're not, Buddy, so forget it."

Everyone likes to have their children admired but I think my old goat goes beyond the bounds of good taste. I've told him so but he says I am jealous. May I hear from you? -- Kansas City Wife

Dear Wife: Tell your husband that a teen-age girl considers a man her father's age a prehistoric fossil. Ellsworth had better keep his hands to himself or he might well catch a klop in the chops.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16 and going steady with a boy in my class. Stan and I are not planning on getting married next week, as most adults seem to think when they hear kids are going steady. We just happen to find the steady arrangement convenient.

The trouble is my 12-year-old sister. I accidentally picked up the downstairs telephone yesterday and heard her talking to my boy friend. She was reading him a letter which I had received that morning from a boy in Asheville.

Now I know how Stan gets all his "inside information." I have not said anything to anyone but I am very disappointed in my sister and shocked that Stan would stoop to tapping the little sneak. What is your advice? — CLARISSA.

Dear Clarissa: Let your sister know you are wise to her rat-fink informing service. And make it clear that such unspeakable behavior is far more damaging to her than it is to you.

Stan doesn't sound as if he deserves much more of your time. Tell him so and send him on his way.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell "Cast Aside" that the waitress her husband is running around with lives next door to me. And I, too, wish the big jerk would go back to his wife where he belongs. I haven't had a good night's sleep in three months on account of these two.

My bedroom window looks straight down into her living room and the view is perfect because they never draw the draperies. Sometimes these two lunatics turn on the phonograph and dance until 2:30 A.M.

I tell myself every night I won't look, but my curiosity always gets the best of me. The sooner this affair is busted up the better. Maybe if you print my letter it will help. — 20-20 VISION

Dear Vision: Your eyes may be in great shape but you have a serious case of nose trouble — the kind for which there is no known cure. My condolences.

Elva Bardin Engaged To Houston K. Huckabay

Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Elva Bardin, daughter of Mrs. George Gaddis Bardin and the late Mr. Bardin, 2315 Racine Drive, to Houston Keller Huckabay, 2310 Amalie, Monroe. He is the son of Mrs. John L. Cordell and William H. Huckabay of Shreveport.

The wedding will be solemnized April 3 at 7 p.m. in St. Paul's Methodist Church, with Rev. Ben R. Oliphint officiating.

Miss Bardin has chosen Mrs. James Pichoff to serve as matron of honor and bridesmaid will be Miss Barbara Rhone.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James H. Waller and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Key Bardin. A graduate of Oak Grove high school, Miss Bardin received her B.A. degree from Louisiana State University and attended Tulane School of Social Work graduate school. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta.

Mr. Huckabay graduated from Fair Park high school in Shreveport, received his B.S. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and his M. S. and Ph.D. degrees from Louisiana State University. His fraternity is Kappa Alpha.

The prospective bridegroom is presently in the research department at Olin Mathieson. Following their marriage the couple will be at home at 2310 Amalie in Monroe.

Female Version Of Tom Jones Look Created

Feminine interpretation of the Tom Jones look is a sexy neckline, ruffles and puffy sleeves. American designers are working it into the casual long dress for patio parties, country or at-home.

Calico and gingham edged with lace are popular. The dresses are high waisted, bosomy. A typical one is calico, with puffed, off-the-shoulder sleeves, empire waist with sash that accentuates the bosom and a double ruffle at the hemline.

FROSTING DIP

Mix a cup of confectioners sugar with a couple of tablespoons of lemon juice and use as a frosting-dip for log-shaped cookies.

Fish-Potato Flakes Next Instant Food?

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — A process for turning out instant fish-potato flakes is being tested and improved by the Federal Department of Fisheries at its experimental plant at Valleyfield, Nfld.

The department says this instant product could become an important ration or emergency food due to its lightness and high protein content. In an emergency the fish-potato flakes could be eaten dry without the addition of water or milk.

The flakes have already been used in a variety of dishes in the department's test kitchens and their versatility suggests they could become a boon to the homemaker. Their ability to absorb moisture quickly makes them suitable for instant fishcakes. By adding water or milk and seasoning, the flakes can be shaped into cakes and browned.

Deep-fried fish croquettes, fish soup or chowder and fish casseroles have also been prepared from the flakes.

The process currently being tested involved dehydration of a mixture of cooked fish and cooked potatoes on a drum dryer. The final product consists of white flakes containing fish and potato, so well blended tnat their individual characteristics cannot be detected.

SANDALS VS BOOTS

If you're on your fashion toes for '64, you'll have some really different styles from which to choose. According to a fashion newsletter the "in look" includes lame and velvet theatre boots and—at the opposite end of the fashion spectrum—bare sandals for evening with just strips and straps.

'My Fair Lady' Is Theme For Cultura Style Show

"My Fair Lady" is the theme chosen for the Cultura Book Club's annual spring style show and luncheon to be staged Saturday, March 7 at the Frances Hotel Roof.

The event, sponsored annually by the club as a benefit of the Cerebral Palsy school, will begin at 12 noon. Spring and summer fashions from The Palace will be shown by models and will depict the "My Fair Lady" theme.

Mrs. Bob Branch is general chairman of this year's affair with Mrs. Donald Logan as co-chairman. Others serving as chairmen of the various committees include Mrs. Keneth Adams, promotion of tickets; Mrs. Ralph Reed, tickets; Mrs. Roland Nix, posters; Mrs. Ralph Whitlock, door prizes; Mrs. Sue Beasley, courtesy; Mrs. James Henderson and Mrs. Walter Silmon, decorations; Mrs. Harry Liner, entertainment; Mrs. Gene Hardin, programs and Mrs. G. L. Shepard, publicity. Mrs. Gene Williams is current president of Cultura Book Club.

Tickets for the luncheon style show may be obtained from any club member or by reservation by telephone with Mrs. Kenneth Adams or Mrs. Bob Branch.

Recreating roles that won him praise at the Stratford, Conn., festival, Carnovsky is enacting Shylock at Oberlin College, King Lear at both Chicago's Goodman Theater and the University of California at Los Angeles — a schedule that will keep him busy until August.

Phi Mu Lists New Slate Of Officers

The Northeast State College chapter of Phi Mu, national social sorority, recently elected a new slate of officers with Eleanor Harmon of Monroe heading the list as president.

Other elected officials included Jane Loker, Monroe, vice president; Linda Mangum, West Monroe, pledge director; Jan Hallmark, Monroe, rush chairman; Jeanne Loftin, Bastrop, recording secretary; Ellen Walker, Monroe, corresponding secretary; Marilyn Cannon, Oak Grove, treasurer; Ann Rinehart, West Monroe, recommendations chairman; Mary Jane Parnell, Gibsland, senior panhellenic delegate, Pam Rudisill, Monroe, junior panehellenic delegate; Cecilia Bland, Sulphur, scholarship chairman; Cheryl Mizell, Lake Charles, standards chairman; and Susan Broomfield, West Monroe, fraternity education chairman.

Appointed officials and chairmen are the following: Sandy Knoblock of Jonesboro, ritual chairman; Jerri Byers, Rayville, parliamentarian; Rosalyn Walker, Columbia, chaplain, Laney Ware, Bastrop, activities chairman; Ann Brandon Cooper, Monroe, assistant rush chairman; Sage Redding, Monroe, historian; Carlene Baker, Pineville, social chairman; Brenda Taliaferro, Harrisonburg, assistant pledge director; Cherie Martin, Pineville, reporter; Diane Bryant, Bastrop, door keeper; and Mary Ann Wendorf, Pineville, registrar.

Advisers of the group are: Mrs. Clarence Ball, alumnae; Miss Winetta Thomas, faculty; Miss Emma Hall, pledge; Mrs. Clifton Flynn, membership, and Miss Frances Flanders, panhellenic.

MISS CHARLOTTE LINDA TASSON'S engagement and approaching marriage to Victor P. Zagone Jr. is announced by her parents, M Sgt. and Mrs. Frank J. Tasson of Clarksville, Tenn. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor P. Zagone Sr., 508 Darbonne, Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized at a nuptial mass on April 4 at 10:30 a.m. in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church in Monroe.

Fashion Arts, Decorating Cross Paths

There's a good deal of crossing boundaries these days between the arts of fashion and the art of interior decorating.

Clothes designers frequently use decorator fabrics, even upholsteries, for suits, dresses and sportswear. One designer team even makes a specialty out of using bedspreads for coats and capes.

The blouses are embroidered on a fabric too coarse for fashion use here, but the shop buys them up, cuts out the embroidery and mounts it as a wall panel.

Elva Bardin Engaged To Houston K. Huckabay

Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Elva Bardin, daughter of Mrs. George Gaddis Bardin and the late Mr. Bardin, 2315 Racine Drive, to Houston Keller Huckabay, 2310 Amalie, Monroe. He is the son of Mrs. John L. Cordell and William H. Huckabay of Shreveport.

The wedding will be solemnized April 3 at 7 p.m. in St. Paul's Methodist Church, with Rev. Ben R. Oliphint officiating.

Miss Bardin has chosen Mrs. James Pichoff to serve as matron of honor and bridesmaid will be Miss Barbara Rhone.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James H. Waller and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Key Bardin. A graduate of Oak Grove high school, Miss Bardin received her B.A. degree from Louisiana State University and attended Tulane School of Social Work graduate school. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta.

Mr. Huckabay graduated from Fair Park high school in Shreveport, received his B.S. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and his M. S. and Ph.D. degrees from Louisiana State University. His fraternity is Kappa Alpha.

The prospective bridegroom is presently in the research department at Olin Mathieson. Following their marriage the couple will be at home at 2310 Amalie in Monroe.

Female Version Of Tom Jones Look Created

Feminine interpretation of the Tom Jones look is a sexy neckline, ruffles and puffy sleeves. American designers are working it into the casual long dress for patio parties, country or at-home.

Calico and gingham edged with lace are popular. The dresses are high waisted, bosomy. A typical one is calico, with puffed, off-the-shoulder sleeves, empire waist with sash that accentuates the bosom and a double ruffle at the hemline.

FROSTING DIP

Mix a cup of confectioners sugar with a couple of tablespoons of lemon juice and use as a frosting dip for log-shaped cookies.

Fish-Potato Flakes Next Instant Food?

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — A process for turning out instant fish - potato flakes is being tested and improved by the Federal Department of Fisheries at its experimental plant at Valleyfield, Nfld.

The department says this instant product could become an important ration or emergency food due to its lightness and high protein content. In an emergency the fish - potato flakes could be eaten dry without the addition of water or milk.

The flakes have already been used in a variety of dishes in the department's test kitchens and their versatility suggests they could become a boon to the homemaker. Their ability to absorb moisture quickly makes them suitable for instant fishcakes. By adding water or milk and seasoning, the flakes can be shaped into cakes and browned.

Deep - fried fish croquettes, fish soup or chowder and fish casseroles have also been prepared from the flakes.

The process currently being tested involved dehydration of a mixture of cooked fish and cooked potatoes on a drum dryer. The final product consists of white flakes containing fish and potato, so well blended tnat their individual characteristics cannot be detected.

SANDALS VS BOOTS

If you're on your fashion toes for '64, you'll have some really different styles from which to choose. According to a fashion newsletter the "in look" includes lame and velvet theatre boots and—at the opposite end of the fashion spectrum—bare sandals for evening with just strips and straps.

'My Fair Lady' Is Theme For Cultura Style Show

"My Fair Lady" is the theme chosen for the Cultura Book Club's annual spring style show and luncheon to be staged Saturday, March 7 at the Frances Hotel Roof.

The event, sponsored annually by the club as a benefit of the Cerebral Palsy school, will begin at 12 noon. Spring and summer fashions from The Palace will be shown by models and will depict the "My Fair Lady" theme.

Mrs. Bob Branch is general chairman of this year's affair with Mrs. Donald Logan as co-chairman. Others serving as chairmen of the various committees include Mrs. Keneth Adams, promotion of tickets; Mrs. Ralph Reed, tickets; Mrs. Roland Nix, posters; Mrs. Ralph Whitlock, door prizes; Mrs. Sue Beasley, courtesy; Mrs. James Henderson and Mrs. Walter Silmon, decorations; Mrs. Harry Liner, entertainment; Mrs. Gene Hardin, programs and Mrs. G. L. Shepard, publicity. Mrs. Gene Williams is current president of Cultura Book Club.

Tickets for the luncheon-style show may be obtained from any club member or by reservation by telephone with Mrs. Keneth Adams or Mrs. Bob Branch.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The importance of exercise is one of the number one medical topics today. However, facial gymnastics can make you or ruin you! Some make you look younger and some age you rapidly in appearance.

In the latter category is the habitual eyebrow lifter. Given time, and not a lot of time, this habit will etch deep lines on the forehead. Then there is the lip purser. Many women indulge in this without realizing that they are doing so. When thinking something over or making a decision this often happens. This will encourage those little lines on the upper lip which women loathe.

There is the woman who pulls the corners of her mouth down, or allows it to happen because of discouragement or tension. This really produces those nose to chin lines in quick time. There is the person who frowns many times a day. Every woman must take care to avoid this. The habit does not indicate that the individual is a dour unhappy person. Many women do this when thinking or reading or sewing.

Then there are the squint lines at the corners of the eyes which may come from eyestrain, the need for eyeglasses, failure to wear dark glasses when in the bright sunlight, or the habit of crinkling the skin about the eyes in a half wink when animated.

All of these are sad rather than glad habits which are easy to slip into and should be avoided if you wish to look as youthful as possible for as long as possible.

Facial exercises are glad habits. Some of the most youthful women I have known, who were middle age and older, had used them for many years. Always apply a lubricating cream before doing facial exercises.

International Problems Topic For Review Club

Mrs. Lester Martin was welcomed into membership of the Review Club when it met Monday, February 17 in the home of Mrs. Claude Smith, 2403 Swiss, West Monroe.

Mrs. James Brown, vice-president, welcomed the new member and Mrs. Smith's mother-in-law as a guest for the afternoon.

Presiding in absence of the president, Mrs. Brown opened the meeting by reading a tribute to George Washington and by calling attention to the meaning and date of Heart Sunday. She led members in repeating the club collect.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Ralph King Jr., home life chairman, reported on the article "Cold War and Children," by Dr. Benjamin Spock, dealing with the emotional development faced by children and parents today.

Mrs. Brown gave a report on information most considered by congressmen when people write concerning current legislation. The Detergent Bill was introduced to the members for consideration and as an inducement to further investigation.

Mrs. George Walker, chairman of the advisory board, introduced the program for the afternoon entitled, "International Problems." The quote "The Surest way to prevent revolution is correction of abuses," by Bacon was used to precede the review of A Shade of Difference by Allen Drury given by Mrs. Calvin Folds. The book is a novel of the conflict between the white and colored races, both in America and around the globe and of the future of the United Nations, possessed of a great potential but increasingly torn by the bitter passions of its member states. In his book the author takes his readers backstage at the United Nations giving them a glimpse of the explosive drama that sometimes lies behind major issues and makes them aware of the secret and open clashes of powerful personalities.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Smith served a dessert course to Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Calvin Folds, Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr., Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Prentice Gray Jr., Mrs. Ralph King Jr., Mrs. John C. Loftin, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. Nathaniel Spencer, Mrs. George Walker and Mrs. Lester Martin.

The next meeting will be March 2 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Folds, 2503 Pargoud Blvd.

Area Wedding Plans Revealed

UPTON-GILLESPIE

Mr. and Mrs. John William Gillespie of Natchez, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann Adell to David Upton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Upton of Delhi.

The wedding will be solemnized on March 14 in Cliff Temple Baptist Church.

Miss Gillespie is a graduate of Natchez high school and is presently employed in Natchez. Mr. Upton is employed in Monroe.

MORGAN-TYSON

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Margaret Jean Tyson to Harvey Morgan is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Tyson of Ferriday. He is the son of Herman Morgan of Marietta, Ohio, and Mrs. Dorothy Davis of Alliance, Ohio.

The wedding will take place February 29 at 7 p.m. in the First Church of God in Ferriday. Rev. Floyd Whitsel will officiate.

Miss Tyson is a graduate of Ferriday high school and attended Northwestern College in Natchitoches and is presently employed by a doctor in Ferriday.

'S' Influence Sets Pace In Spring Fabrics

Signing in for spring is the "S" influence in fabrics. They're smooth, smart, souffled, supple, sporty and striped. And they often stretch—but not out of shape.

When they're smooth, they have crisp, flat surfaces that show off the tailored but feminine look of fashions — linens and linen looks, meltons and men's wear type worsteds, for instance.

Particulary smart and newly important are the slubbed and the slightly or strongly ribbed weaves, such as gabardines, twills, cords, herringbones, shantungs and rustic silks.

Soft and souffled, spongy and lacy fabrics make much of mohair, tweed, bubbly wools and blends of all sorts. Lace itself is a most attractive part of this airy, thoroughly feminine look for spring.

Supple fabrics take to the many gracefully draped and shaped fashions now entering for the new season. Important in this group are crepes and sheers of silk, rayon, whisperweight wools, cotton and blends.

Stripes set the pace for spring styles from soft to sporty—pin, blazer, mattress and free-foam stripes in shades light to bright.

Stretch fabrics acquire new eminence as science brings discoveries in these lines out of the test tube stage into real fashion practicality. Sportswear is still the stronghold for most use, but there is an increasing variety of other styles which take advantage of the active comfort and shape - retaining smartness of stretch fabrics.

CAPED IN COTTON — Cape effects make fashion news for 1964. March & Mendl creates a rain poncho cape cut with original sleeves, and featuring side buttons as well as down the front. The coat reverses from tan to black.

Style Conscious Women Can Look Elegant In Rain

AP NEWSFEATURES

The little old rainmaker is sure to be in demand this spring by fashion-conscious women, considering what stylists have done to beautify once pedestrian raincoats.

Primarily, they haven't stopped with the raincoat. Couturiers used to be content substituting silver linings in storm coats with sables or minks. Today the big, but less expensive, wet weather status symbol is the raincoat with its own rain dress. Several American designers, John Weitz among them, have come up with versions of the slick shift with its own slicker, boots and Sou'wester. The raincoat and dress may match in some cases, and in others the printed coat lining will be duplicated in the dress.

Still another kind of raindress is a fitted coat that, if kept buttoned up, can be worn in place of a dress. Increasingly popular in precipitation is the rain suit. Water repellent, of course, it is meant to be worn by itself with the aplomb of a duck, or covered with a short jacket or baby overcoat.

Rain coats fall into 3 categories: wet-looking, luxurious, and laminated.

The wet look refers to the shiny, shimmery so called licorice coats that look like they are still glistening from the rain. Both wet-looking and luxurious is a weather-treated fabric called cire which sparkles like anthracite coal.

Usually the luxury coats are velvet brocade, or ribbed materials that were not ordinarily exposed to the cruel elements until chemists found out how to coat the piled fibers.

Among the rainy weather coats, the laminated ones are the most practical. These spongy thin-bonded fabrices are cut into a variety of styles—everything from the skinny pin-striped Dandy coat to the double-breasted Little boy fashion—which also serve as lightweight spring coats.

The problem of what to wear over a formal on a drizzly evening is solved by voluminous hooded waterproofed silk capes that are in a stylish sense big, walking tents.

McManus-Testa Vows Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Testa of Waterproof, announce the marriage of their daughter, Lydia Marie to William James McManus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McManus of Pollock.

The wedding ceremony was performed Saturday, February 8 in Tallulah, and the couple is now at home in Waterproof.

Waterproof Bikini Debuts With Splash

MONTE CARLO — (WNS) — The swimsuit manufacturers of the French Riviera have invented "le maillot de bain imperméable," or waterproof bikini.

"What's so new about it is that the suits are made in raincoat fabrics, and are intended for swimming in the rain, enthused designer Marc Luc Caccia.

On the Cote d'Azur, there has been an immediate demand for the glossy rain-suits.

"But, helas! they will not be in full production until 1964," moaned Caccia.

Two hundred samples were shown by 12 French mannequins who paraded stunningly at the fashion show of the swimsuit manufacturers of the Cote d'Azur at the fashionable Hotel de Parish in Monaco.

What American manufacturers attending the show applauded and will very likely copy are Japanese shirts to wear over swimsuits, and pajamas for "terrace and loafing" made with dress-length pajama coats, lightly fitted and slit to the waist at both sides.

Convention Set For Federated Clubs Feb. 29

The Fifth District Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs convention will be held at the Tallulah Elementary School auditorium on Saturday, Feb. 29. Mrs. George Foreman of Monroe, district president, will preside, and Mrs. D. D. Toups, state president, will address the convention.

Mrs. J. E. Neill, president of the Tallulah Book Club and coordinator, announces that registration will begin at 9 a.m. followed by a coffee hour at 9:30, and the opening session at 10 a.m. After greetings from Tallulah by Mayor W. P. Sevier and from the Book Club by Mrs. Neill, Mrs. C. E. Faulk of Ruston will give the response.

Routine business, the election of officers and Mrs. Toup's address will conclude the morning session. There will be a luncheon in the school cafeteria and a tour of the Fine Arts Exhibit. The afternoon session begins at 1:30 when the district president's message will be presented. A large attendance of club women of the fifth district is expected.

Mrs. James Brown, vice-president, welcomed the new member and Mrs. Smith's mother-in-law as a guest for the afternoon.

Presiding in absence of the president, Mrs. Brown opened the meeting by reading a tribute to George Washington and by calling attention to the meaning and date of Heart Sunday. She led members in repeating the club collect.

During the business meeting Mrs. Ralph King Jr., home life chairman, reported on the article "Cold War and Children," by Dr. Benjamin Spock, dealing with the emotional development faced by children and parents today.

Mrs. Brown gave a report on information most considered by congressmen when people write concerning current legislation. The Detergent Bill was introduced to the members for consideration and as an inducement to further investigation.

Mrs. George Walker, chairman of the advisory board, introduced the program for the afternoon entitled, "International Problems." The quote "The Surest way to prevent revolution is correction of abuses," by Bacon was used to precede the review of A Shade of Difference by Allen Drury given by Mrs. Calvin Folds. The book is a novel of the conflict between the white and colored races, both in America and around the globe and of the future of the United Nations, possessed of a great potential but increasingly torn by the bitter passions of its member states. In his book the author takes his readers backstage at the United Nations giving them a glimpse of the explosive drama that sometimes lies behind major issues and makes them aware of the secret and open clashes of powerful personalities.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Smith served a dessert course to Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Calvin Folds, Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr., Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Prentice Gray Jr., Mrs. Ralph King Jr., Mrs. John C. Loftin, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. Nathaniel Spencer, Mrs. George Walker and Mrs. Lester Martin.

The next meeting will be March 2 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Folds, 2503 Pargoud Blvd.

Area Wedding Plans Revealed

UPTON-GILLESPIE

Mr. and Mrs. John William Gillespie of Natchez, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann Adell to David Upton, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Upton of Delhi.

The wedding will be solemnized on March 14 in Cliff Temple Baptist Church.

Miss Gillespie is a graduate of Natchez high school and is presently employed in Natchez. Mr. Upton is employed in Monroe.

MORGAN-TYSON

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Margaret Jean Tyson to Harvey Morgan is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Tyson of Ferriday. He is the son of Herman Morgan of Marietta, Ohio, and Mrs. Dorothy Davis of Alliance, Ohio.

The wedding will take place February 29 at 7 p.m. in the First Church of God in Ferriday. Rev. Floyd Whitsel will officiate.

Miss Tyson is a graduate of Ferriday high school and attended Northwestern College in Natchitoches and is presently employed by a doctor in Ferriday.

'S' Influence Sets Pace In Spring Fabrics

Signing in for spring is the "S" influence in fabrics. They're smooth, smart, souffled, supple, sporty and striped. And they often stretch—but not out of shape.

When they're smooth, they have crisp, flat surfaces that show off the tailored but feminine look of fashions — linens and linen looks, meltons and men's wear type worsteds, for instance.

Particulary smart and newly important are the slubbed and the slightly or strongly ribbed weaves, such as gabardines, twills, cords, herringbones, shantungs and rustic silks.

Soft and souffled, spongy and lacy fabrics make much of mohair, tweed, bubbly wools and blends of all sorts. Lace itself is a most attractive part of this airy, thoroughly feminine look for spring.

Supple fabrics take to the many gracefully draped and shaped fashions now entering for the new season. Important in this group are crepes and sheers of silk, rayon, whisperweight wools, cotton snd blends.

Stripes set the pace for spring styles from soft to sporty—pin, blazer, mattress and free-foam stripes in shades light to bright.

Stretch fabrics acquire new eminence as science brings discoveries in these lines out of the test tube stage into real fashion practicality. Sportswear is still the stronghold for most use, but there is an increasing variety of other styles which take advantage of the active comfort and shape - retaining smartness of stretch fabrics.

CAPED IN COTTON — Cape effects make fashion news for 1964. March & Mendl creates a rain poncho cape cut with original sleeves, and featuring side buttons as well as down the front. The coat reverses from tan to black.

Style Conscious Women Can Look Elegant In Rain

AP NEWSFEATURES

The little old rainmaker is sure to be in demand this spring by fashion-conscious women, considering what stylists have done to beautify once pedestrian raincoats.

Primarily, they haven't stopped with the raincoat. Couturiers used to be content substituting silver linings in stormcoats with sables or minks. Today the big, but less expensive, wet weather status symbol is the raincoat with its own rain dress. Several American designers, John Weitz among them, have come up with versions of the slick shift with its own slicker, boots and Sou'wester. The raincoat and dress may match in some cases, and in others the printed coat lining will be duplicated in the dress.

Still another kind of raindress is a fitted coat that, if kept buttoned up, can be worn in place of a dress. Increasingly popular in precipitation is the rain suit. Water repellent, of course, it is meant to be worn by itself with the aplomb of a duck, or covered with a short jacket or baby overcoat.

Rain coats fall into 3 categories: wet-looking, luxurious, and laminated.

The wet look refers to the shiny, shimmery so called licorice coats that look like they are still glistening from the rain. Both wet-looking and luxurious is a weather-treated fabric called cire which sparkles like anthracite coal.

Usually the luxury coats are velvet brocade, or ribbed materials that were not ordinarily exposed to the cruel elements until chemists found out how to coat the piled fibers.

Among the rainy weather coats, the laminated ones are the most practical. These spongy thin-bonded fabrices are cut into a variety of styles—everything from the skinny pin-striped Dandy coat to the double-breasted Little boy fashion—which also serve as lightweight spring coats.

The problem of what to wear over a formal on a drizzly evening is solved by voluminous hooded waterproofed silk capes that are in a stylish sense big, walking tents.

McManus-Testa Vows Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Testa of Waterproof, announce the marriage of their daughter, Lydia Marie to William James McManus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McManus of Pollock.

The wedding ceremony was performed Saturday, February 8 in Tallulah, and the couple is now at home in Waterproof.

Waterproof Bikini Debuts With Splash

MONTE CARLO — (WNS) — The swimsuit manufacturers of the French Riviera have invented "le maillot de bain imperméable," or waterproof bikini.

"What's so new about it is that the suits are made in raincoat fabrics, and are intended for swimming in the rain, enthused designer Marc Luc Caccia.

On the Cote d'Azur, there has been an immediate demand for the glossy rain-suits.

"But, helas! they will not be in full production until 1964," moaned Caccia.

Two hundred samples were shown by 12 French mannequins who paraded stunningly at the fashion show of the swimsuit manufacturers of the Cote d'Azur at the fashionable Hotel de Parish in Monaco.

What American manufacturers attending the show applauded and will very likely copy are Japanese shirts to wear over swimsuits, and pajamas for "terrace and loafing" made with dress-length pajama coats, lightly fitted and slit to the waist at both sides.

Convention Set For Federated Clubs Feb. 29

The Fifth District Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs convention will be held at the Tallulah Elementary School auditorium on Saturday, Feb. 29. Mrs. George Foreman of Monroe, district president, will preside, and Mrs. D. D. Toups, state president, will address the convention.

Mrs. J. E. Neill, president of the Tallulah Book Club and coordinator, announces that registration will begin at 9 a.m. followed by a coffee hour at 9:30, and the opening session at 10 a.m. After greetings from Tallulah by Mayor W. P. Sevier and from the Book Club by Mrs. Neill, Mrs. C. E. Faulk of Ruston will give the response.

Routine business, the election of officers and Mrs. Toup's address will conclude the morning session. There will be a luncheon in the school cafeteria and a tour of the Fine Arts Exhibit. The afternoon session begins at 1:30 when the district president's message will be presented. A large attendance of club women of the fifth district is expected.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY M. MELTON JR.

Linda Ragland, H. M. Melton Jr. Exchange Vows

Vows uniting Miss Linda M. Ragland of this city and Airman Second Class Henry M. Melton Jr., stationed at Castle Air Force Base, Merced, Calif., were solemnized February 8 in the home of the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Melton, 204 Egan. Rev. N. T. Smith performed the double ring vows at 6 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Rutherland, of Port Arthur, Texas and niece of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Tarver, 1410 South Seventh, Monroe with whom she made her home here. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Melton Sr., 307 Parker.

An arch of pink camellias and magnolia leaves flanked by pink candles in front of the fireplace formed a setting for the exchange of vows. Miss Lynda Callender played traditional wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, R. W. Tarver. She wore an off-white crepe dress, styled with tucked bodice, pleated skirt and tie sash. Her accessories included an off white pillbox, elbow length gloves and bone accessories and a corsage of white carnations accented by love knots and seed pearls.

Miss Jan Price maid of honor, wore a sleeveless jersey print model in brown tones, with elbow length gloves and a corsage of white carnations.

Phillip Ragland, brother of the bride, served as best man.

For the occasion the bride's mother, Mrs. Rutherford wore a blue wool suit with white crepe blouse and white carnation corsage. Mrs. Tarver, her aunt, wore a blue wool sheath and white carnation corsage while the bridegroom's mother chose a three-piece navy silk suit with lace overblouse and corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held in the dining room of the home following the ceremony. Centering the bride's table was a tiered wedding cake, encircled by red camellias and flanked by gold candelabra holding white tapers. Mrs. George Melton and Miss Diane Fife served the cake and Miss Diane Melton presided at the punch bowl.

After a short wedding trip the bride will remain a short while in Monroe where she is a student at Ouachita Parish high school. She will join her husband in Merced, Calif., where they will establish a home. Mr. Melton is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school.

GRATE CELERY

Sometimes it's quick to grate celery for a dish rather than to chop it. Use a coarse shredder and you'll find the "strings" on the celery will remain behind to be discarded.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Rita Pauline Hemphill to James Preston Mayo, of this city, is announced by her parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Hemphill, 120 Shanks Lane. Parents of the future bridegroom are Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Mayo of Harrisonburg. The wedding will take place March 9 at 8 p.m. in West Monroe Apostolic Church with Rev. Hemphill performing the ceremony.

NLSC Women's Club Has Program On Hair Styles

February meeting of the Northeast Louisiana State College Women's Club was held Monday night in the College Union Auditorium, at which time a nominating committee was announced, and two new members welcomed.

Mrs. Daniel Dupree, president, conducted a short business session and welcomed the new members, Mrs. Ralph Lane and Mrs. Dixie White. The nominating committee is composed of Mrs. W. R. Hammond, chairman, Mrs. Edward Whatley and Mrs. Howard Morton.

Mrs. Charles DePoe reported that the NLSC Women's club will participate in the bowling tournament at Lake Charles March 14 and 15.

Mrs. DePoe introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. O. L. Cloyd, who discussed the trends in hair styles. She demonstrated newest styles to be worn during the coming months using Mrs. R. Gandy, Mrs. Woodrow Flanary, Mrs. Eloy Fominaya and Mrs. William Scarborough as models. Mrs. Cloyd also spoke on proper hair care and treatment of problem hair.

At conclusion of the evening refreshments were served from a table covered with a white cloth and complemented by two net topiary trees, bedecked with miniature artifical orchids, placed in a base of milk glass compotes.

Approximately 100 members and guests were present. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Jasper Hammons, chairman; Mrs. Jack Harrington, co-chairman; Mrs. Jimmy Campbell, Miss Emily Blomquist, Mrs. Thomas Culpepper, Miss Kathleen Drude, Mrs. Ferdie Jones, Miss Patricia Lacerna, Mrs. E. W. Lockhart, Mrs. David McArthur, Miss Louise McLawchlin, Mrs. Ronald Marioneaux, Mrs. R. M. Rickett, Mrs. Frederic Smith, Miss Hazel Stanford and Mrs. E. J. Upshaw.

The next meeting of the club will be on Monday, March 16 at the Trend House when a Spring fashion show will be featured as the program for the evening.

CLOSER BODY LINES

The biggest news in what to expect in fashion for the coming season is the prediction that clothes will definitely move closer to the body.

THE WEDDING of Miss Ann Parker, Delhi, daughter of Hardy Parker of Crowville and the late Mrs. Parker, to J. T. Williams, son of Mrs. J. V. Williams of Epps and the late Mr. Williams, will be solemnized Friday, February 28. Vows will be performed by Rev. Basil T. Halbert at 6 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Epps.

Answers Given To Home Decorating Questions

Q: I'm in a "tither" over completing the decorating in our living room. It has white walls, a burnt orange Italian Provincial sofa and a white easy chair. Please tell me what colors I should use for rug, draperies and small occasional chair? Also, what for accessories?

A: Have rug in a muted burnt orange color and try to find an attractive print in a white ground with burnt orange, sunny yellow and lime green for draperies and toss pillow. Cover small chairs in sunny yellow. Have white and lime green accessories.

Q: Please help me with the colors in my living room in a new home. I have a very light beige, almost white sofa, two coral chairs and a wall-to-wall gold carpet. What color for walls, draperies and accessories?

A: Have the walls and the draperies the same color as the sofa. Or, the draperies could be in a print in this color with gold. Pick up coral for accessories.

Q: Walls in my bedroom are yellow and woodwork is a natural pine. Bedroom pieces are Early American. Rug is beige. What color for draperies, dust ruffle, bedspread and lamps?

A: Have yellow cafe curtains and a yellow dust ruffle. Bedspread could be a geometric quilt pattern in yellow, pale green, beige and white. Lamps could be yellow, too.

Q: I need help to make my living room comfortable and warm looking. It is 15 feet by 27 feet with three white walls and one paneled in mahogany which has a white fireplace. My three-piece sectional sofa is medium green, tables are blond. I am thinking of buying a gold colored rug. Is this a good idea? Also, what color for draperies for two picture windows? Should they be sill or floor length? Also, what color for slip covers on two chairs? I shall eventually slip cover the sectional.

A: Gold is a good choice for rug because it is a warm, inviting color. Sofa could eventually be this color. Windows, draperies (sill length is more informal) could be in an off-white ground with gold, and lime green in the design. Slip covers for two chairs could be in the same print. Tables would be better in mahogany. Pick up fresh greens for small accessories.

Coordinated Clashes Win Fashion Honors

Contrast on contrast, solid against stripe, dots against dashes, calico against applique . . . a whole collection of bright clashes styled by Chestnut Hill vie for cruise-resort fashion honors.

Aiming directly at the pert and perky junior: junior in size, figure and thinking, regardless of age, stylists take bright, colorful fabrics playing ingenious games of styling variety.

Take the double breasted coachman shifts in solid colors of new Marina fabric with striped V-neck insert panels. Reversed, we find the striped coachman with the solid panel insert. Marina blends Arnel triacetate and cotton for a textured weave with a crisp cotton feel.

How about dots and dash in a chalk-striped, bat-wing poncho over solid pants and in a sun dress with a peek-a-boo back, both polka-dot lined?

Another version of the contrast story is coindot print used in a shift against a coindot front insert or in a solid coindot print.

Then there's a new weave in Dacron-cotton called Portofino which has a hand or body with an oxford cloth feel. Styled in another complete group with scalloped hems in back interest only.

Another gay, new design is the pert, done in solid Portofino fabric with attached pants revealed only for active sports occasions when two full side slits.

When it comes to shifts, the long, lean, stretched - out look comes up bright and chipper in a particularly pleasing one-of-a kind hootenanny dress in calico topped by a solid applique at the neckline. Other shifts in the stretched out and empire versions are equally important in Chestnut Hill's sportswear concept.

Q: I need help to make my living room comfortable and warm looking. It is 15 feet by 27 feet with three white walls and one paneled in mahogany which has a white fireplace. My three-piece sectional sofa is medium green, tables are blond. I am thinking of buying a gold colored rug. Is this a good idea? Also, what color for draperies for two picture windows? Should they be sill or floor length? Also, what color for slip covers on two chairs? I shall eventually slip cover the sectional.

A: Gold is a good choice for rug because it is a warm, inviting color. Sofa could eventually be this color. Windows, draperies (sill length is more informal) could be in an off-white ground with gold, and lime green in the design. Slip covers for two chairs could be in the same print. Tables would be better in mahogany. Pick up fresh greens for small accessories.

Coordinated Clashes Win Fashion Honors

Contrast on contrast, solid against stripe, dots against dashes, calico against applique . . . a whole collection of bright clashes styled by Chestnut Hill vie for cruise-resort fashion honors.

Aiming directly at the pert and perky junior: junior in size, figure and thinking, regardless of age, stylists take bright, colorful fabrics playing ingenious games of styling variety.

Take the double breasted coachman shifts in solid colors of new Marina fabric with striped V-neck insert panels. Reversed, we find the striped coachman with the solid panel insert. Marina blends Arnel triacetate and cotton for a textured weave with a crisp cotton feel.

How about dots and dash in a chalk-striped, bat-wing poncho over solid pants and in a sun dress with a peek-a-boo back, both polka-dot lined?

Another version of the contrast story is coindot print used in a shift against a coindot front insert or in a solid coindot print.

Then there's a new weave in Dacron-cotton called Portofino which has a hand or body with an oxford cloth feel. Styled in another complete group with scalloped hems in back interest only.

Another gay, new design is the pert, done in solid Portofino fabric with attached pants revealed only for active sports occasions when two full side slits.

When it comes to shifts, the long, lean, stretched - out look comes up bright and chipper in a particularly pleasing one-of-a kind hootenanny dress in calico topped by a solid applique at the neckline. Other shifts in the stretched out and empire versions are equally important in Chestnut Hill's sportswear concept.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Floral Bases Are Designed

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Bases for Floral Designs," was the topic of the program given by Charles Wilson, associate professor of engineering from Louisiana Tech Engineering Department, Ruston, last Wednesday for the Fifth District Garden Center T.V. show.

Professor Wilson said this was a fairly new hobby that he had started because of his wife's request for certain types of bases for her floral designs. He soon discovered that many useful bases could be made from scraps of lumber and cabinet plywood, such as pine, mahogony, oak, holly, and others.

With a minimum amount of working tools including the meider box, small nails, glue, and stains he illustrated just how to begin with the raw wood and end with a lovely finished base that would prove rather expensive if it were bought (ready made). Not only is this a facinating hobby, but, one that would prove to be a money saver.

COLORS MIXED

The different colors of stains were mixed by Professor Wilson before applying them to the finished base. Flat black paint was used on many. This can be bought in small cans. It is a very good finish that is especially nice for the oriental type base. By oriental I mean the footed base. These were cleverly made by attaching wooden molding strips to the under side of the base. Wooden drawer pulls were also used for the foot. These are quite inexpensive. They can be bought for ten cents apiece, unfinished. Also, different shapes were cut from designs drawn by Mr. Wilson. The display of the many finished products was quite interesting, showing the type of vases used on the various types of bases. Many were made in graduating sizes so that they could be used in tiered fashion to give weight or additional height to the designs.

Pleasing contrast can be achieved in our designs by the use of the proper base. Also, the base gives stability and good balance to the design as well as creating unity as a whole when an accessory is used. Some arrangers have remarked that the base to the flower arrangement is like putting on our shoes after we have dressed up. It is that finishing touch that is so necessary to achieve distinction. Also, good common sense tells us that the base will help to protect the table top or surface wherever the design is placed. The time limit kept you from getting a thorough look at the many designs of bases shown on the program, and, I am sure that a lot of you would like to know more about the detail of each. Professor Wilson has very kindly offered his assistance to you, on request if there is a certain one that you would like to know more about — it's construction, etc. We certainly hope to have him come again to tell us more about this facinating and useful hobby. I am sure that you all join in with me in saying, "thanks" for a very wonderful program.

CAMELLIA SPOTLIGHT

This seems to be the Camellia "spotlight" time. Never do we tire of learning more about this magnificent flower. From Dr. John Wright's column "Garden Diggin's," I found something interesting to to pass on to you. Among some camellia growers C. saluenensis and the hybrids between this species and C. japonica are challenging C. japonica. These plants, though relative newcomers to cultivation appear to be as hardy as C. japonica, even more floriferous and have the advantage of shedding their flowers when they are finished.

C. saluenensis is described as a pink and white, medium size, single that blooms profusely, on long, upright, vigorous wood. It is excellent for landscaping and hybridizing.

There is much interest now among the camellia growers in developing the hybrids. Dr. Wright gives a list of some that are a result of saluenensis japonica crosses, from England and Australia. The hybrids include: Citation, Donation, Donation Var., E. G. Waterhouse, Flirtation, J. C. Williams, Lady Gowrie, and Margaret Waterhouse.

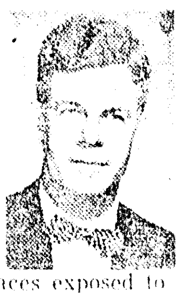
We are told that the finest of all camellias is the C. reticulata, but, because it requires protection in most areas, it has not become well known. But with all the enthusiasts, and quite a number of heated plastic houses in the area, it will be possible to grow this lovely specimen.

Using Dr. Wright's same excuse for bringing up the subject of camellias — his being to mention this just before the show in Ruston Feb. 8th and 9th — I hope many will be reminded to go to the wonderful show being held this weekend at the Central bank in downtown Monroe by the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club. This is their First Annual Camellia Show. There are artistic designs as well as the horticultural division. Plan right now to attend if you didn't get a chance to see it Saturday. The show will be open from 10:00 a.m. to 6 p.m. today.

Wednesday, - the T. V. and Garden Center program will be given by members of the Sun and Sand Garden Club. Mrs. James C. Kelly is the president of this fine club.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Mermaid Fine Rose



By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Southern gardeners frequently ask "What is the one best climbing rose for the South?" This is a common question about any group of plants and is usually a very hard one to answer because some people do not like pink flowers or blue or white flowers, no matter how well the plants which produce them grow.

In the case of roses, however, whether you like yellow roses or not, there is, actually, one very best variety, and that is Mermaid.

VARIETY CROSS

It seems very strange, indeed, that Mermaid is known to so few gardeners. This variety was produced from a cross between the Macartney rose, that brambly big Chinese bush that has gone wild in so many communities from hedges around Southern plantations, and an unknown yellow cultivated rose. The firm of William Paul introduced Mermaid in 1917, and it received the Award of Merit of the Royal Horticultural Society in that year and the Gold Medal of the English National Rose Society. Then, in 1936, the R. H. S. gave it also the Award of Golden Merit which they bestow for good performance as a growing plant in the garden.

Mermaid has beautiful evergreen foliage. The deep green leaves stand up to all but the most extreme winter weather here in the South. In places exposed to the northwest wind, the foliage will be burned in some seasons, for this reason, this climber is best located on the south or east of a house or wall. Winter does not kill the canes, but it may destroy the foliage.

CONTINUOUS BLOOMING

The single yellow roses of Mermaid are produced from early summer until frost in a continuous flow. Draped over a fence or trained over an arch, there is hardly a continuously flowering climbing plant that can compete with this climber. As the new shoots begin to appear, they are tipped with red leaves which contrast nicely with the yellow flowers.

There are some old specimens of Mermaid in Southern gardens — some of these plants now enormous — but, for some reason or other, this rose is not grown very much and few gardeners seem to know about it.

Camellia Showing Underway

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club on the various phases of growing and showing camellias in the Monroe area. This column is principally about the first annual Camellia Show, which is being held in the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., 300 DeSiard St., this weekend.)

A flower show of any nature is just another display of blooms unless it is planned, rehearsed and executed in every detail by all concerned, not just the principals.

And to prevent the first annual Camellia Show from being just "another show" members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club have been working and planning for months, from this time last year, in fact, toward the show.

STILL BUSY

Now the show is going on, but the work is still just as important now as last week. For one thing, members are going around, acting as hosts and hostesses, aiding those who are interested in knowing more about camellias. Aside from looking at the many blossoms, ranging from white through the pinks and variegated to the deepest of reds, persons visiting the show will want to know if this kind or that variety will do well here in Monroe or is it a "hot-house plant."

That is where the club members come in handy, both for the help of the novice and for the discussions among other members. For in comparing notes with other camellia growers in Monroe for the show, club members find out more about the blooms and bushes we now have in our yards and green houses.

And in many cases, the members can aid the novice in buying those bushes that will do better in this area. Some will bloom perfectly out of doors without protection, others need much protection, while still others grow and bloom profusely under trees protecting them from the hot summer sun.

And so those who visited the show Saturday, and are wondering about a specific bloom, why not go back and ask some of the club members. If the particular one you ask doesn't know, there are others.

COOPERATIVE

The show is being held in cooperation with the American Camellia Society, which means that the rules for the national organization determine the entries and procedures. For instance, while the judges, will make the final decisions on the best flowers, they are not permitted to touch a single blossom. They must, in turn, ask a clerk to move the flower, if that is what they want, or to put on the proper ribbon, should the bloom win a ribbon. If a particular judge has a blossom in the group being judged, he must then excuse himself from judging in this category.

The judges' work was over actually before the show started at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, so that the best flowers could be noted.

Also, the A.C.S. demands that all blooms be burned at the close of the show. Even the best blossoms, the winners, must be destroyed. This is done to prevent the possible spread of camellia petal blight.

Ten trophies, all donated by businesses in the Twin Cities, will be presented for blooms.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG

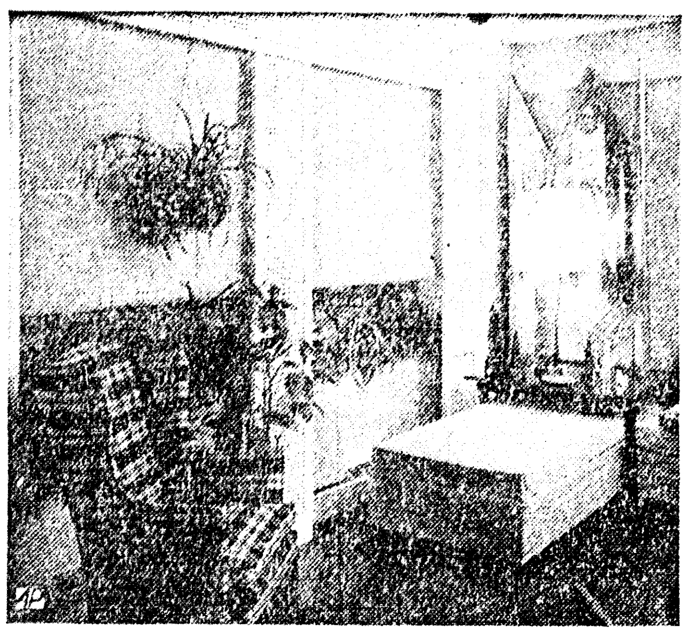
QUESTION: I want to make a wooden stand for a second - hand bandsaw I bought a couple of weeks ago. How high should such a stand be?

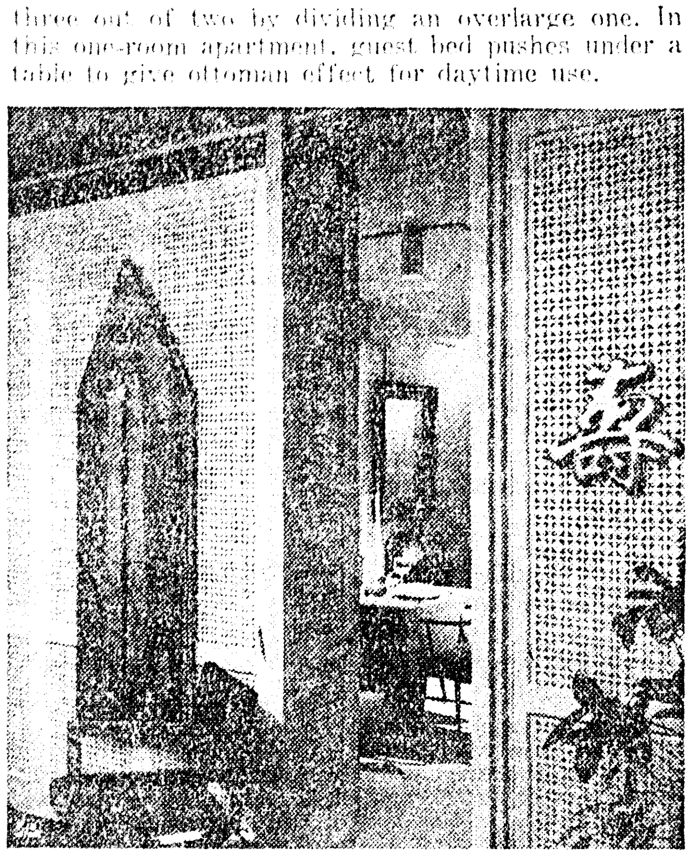
ANSWER: First, one of the disadvantages of homemade stands is that they tend to become loose and wobbly after a time because of the constant vibration from the power machine. In recent years, more and more of these stands are being made of metal.

But if you wish to make your own of wood, greater strength can be obtained by making it with mortised, lapped or joints other than ordinary butt joints. There's one other way to insure a solidly constructed stand for this purpose, use metal rods as braces. These rods must be threaded at both ends, so that after they connect parts of the frame, they can be held tightly in place with washers and nuts. The added rigidity given to the frame by these braces will insure many extra years of life to the stand.

As for the dimensions, while the recommended height for a bandsaw stand is 34 inches, you shouldn't hesitate to make it higher or lower depending on your own height. The main thing is that you should feel comfortable while operating the saw.



GRILLWORK PANELS frame windows and make three out of two by dividing an overlarge one. In this one-room apartment, guest bed pushes under a table to give ottoman effect for daytime use.



DIVIDER OF pierced hardboard creates a dining area in a large one-room apartment. The wall is in two sections, 15 inches apart, creating storage area inside wall.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A garden hose sometimes can be an effective substitute for a paint brush in giving a fresh look to a house with wood siding.

Wood that appears to need painting often needs nothing more than a cleaning. The quickest and easiest way to accomplish this is by rinsing the siding with water from a hose. Aside from the cleaning action of the water, the pressure from the hose helps to push the dirt from the wood. Must you be warned to double check every window to be certain it is tightly closed?

STUBBORN NATURE

Dirt of a more stubborn nature may require a gentle washing with a cloth and warm water. If necessary, soap suds or one of the mild detergents or scouring powders can be used. In all cases, the rubbing action should be done with a fairly light touch. A final rinsing with clear water should be given if a soap, detergent or powder is used.

When ordinary dirt is not the culprit, other measures must be taken. Take the case of a common stain on wood siding: that caused by the use of nails that are not resistant to corrosion. The rust-like coloring of these stains will not come off so easily. The area must be washed with a solution of four ounces of oxalic acid crystals to one gallon water. This calls for careful handling and the use of rubber gloves. A rinsing with cold water is essential. The only way to be certain that stains do not reappear is to remove the nails and replace them with those which resist corrosion.

Mildew is a problem in some areas of the country. When it has occurred only a little, scrubbing with a brush may be sufficient to remove it. Scouring powder can be added for more stubborn cases. But a household cleaner which contains either sodium hypochlorite or trisodium phosphate is the best bet. Here again, this does not insure against a return of the condition. The prevention of mildew involves the elimination of whatever is causing persistent dampness and the application of a mildew-proof paint to the troubled area.

SCOURING

When pitch or resin moves through paint and causes staining, scouring powder should be tried first, but only light pressure should be used in the rubbing. Denatured alcohol also is effective. Excessive moisture in back of the siding is usually responsible for the condition.

Pierced Hardboard Decorative

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You can liven a room with ingenious window treatment and decorative touches to permit more storage space. Interior designer Fred Shrallow did this in his own one-room, L-shaped apartment to achieve just such an effect.

He used pierced hardboard, the material originally made to be used as shutter doors. These panels are available in a number of designs offering various degrees of visibility depending on the pierced pattern.

At windows he used three panels vertically and panels across the top to frame handsome citron yellow shades. One panel ran down a window that was twice as large as the one adjoining it so that the effect was of three windows all the same size.

DIVIDER

In another area of the room, at the "L", he created a room divider-storage unit by making the panels a double width with 15 inches of space between and a panel that opens into a storage area with shelves. The room created by the storage divider is used as an office and dining area. The storage wall was attached to horizontal wooden boards on the floor and at the ceiling. Doors may be put on hinges or hung any other way.

Shrallow's apartment is large so he created other storage areas with the panel board by squaring out corners.

Another interesting space saver is a bed-lounge which is pushed under a table about half - way, permitting it to be used as an ottoman during the day and as a sleeping unit for guests at night.

"This must fit under the table so that only half of it shows," Shrallow advises. "Otherwise it won't look good." The bed is covered in lemon yellow, as is its mate which is used along a wall next to the table.

Another decorative innovation was carried out by adding two oblong pieces of leftover pierced hardboard to the citron yellow shades, front and back, to serve as pulls. Shrallow trimmed down a couple of scraps and glued them to the shade. But he thinks a better idea might be to screw them to the window shade slats.

EXTENSION NEWS

Give Plants Fertilizer

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

March is the month to fertilize rose bushes, shrubs, trees and the lawn. For shrubs our horticulturist, Neil Odenwald, recommends that you use one-half cup of complete fertilizer per square yard. Fertilize roses at the rate of one-fourth of to one-half cup per plant. Distribute the fertilizer evenly around plants extending about 18 inches in every direction from the crown of the plant. Be careful and do not allow the fertilizer to touch the stem of the plants.

If you have trees to fertilize use about two cups of complete fertilizer as 8-8-8 per year of age of tree. Apply in series of holes four to six inches deep beginning approximately four feet from the trunk and extending out beyond the spread of the branches. The holes should be in a series of rings around the tree. Each ring should be about four feet apart with each hole approximately five feet apart.

Neil recommends using one to two pounds of actual nitrogen, one pound of phosphorus and one pound of potassium per 1,000 sq. feet for the established lawn. For example an application of 20 pounds of 8-8-8 per 1,000 square feet will give 1.6 pounds of nitrogen, 1.6 pounds of phosphorus and 1.6 of potassium.

Water the lawn immediately after applying fertilizer. Wash the fertilizer off the leaves to prevent burning. Do not apply when grass leaves are wet.

Fertilize camellia plants with one-half cup of 8-8-8 or equivalent per square yard of surface area covered by spread of plant. Broadcast fertilizer around the plant.

Be sure to mulch the shrubs which you have planted this season. The mulch will conserve moisture and aid in maintaining clean beds. Mulches which may be used include pine straw, leaf mold, or polyethylene plastic covered with pine straw or leaves.

OUT OF TOWN

Your Home Demonstration Agent will be out of the parish Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week visiting the research laboratory in New Orleans. The information which will be given will bring home demonstration agents in this area up to date on what is being done to cotton fibers and fabrics so we can better inform homemakers, with whom we work, especially on the use and care of new cotton finishes.

TRAFFIC SAFETY

Our home management specialist, Mrs. Celia Hissong, recently attended a leadership training course in Traffic Safety held at the University of Georgia. Perhaps you, Mr. and Mrs. Parent, would like to read some of the highlights of the report.

The following report was the result of a study made in 30 high schools and covered 2,000 students. The more evenings a week the car was used, the lower a youngster's grades fell. Good students who go overboard on cars suffer the greatest drop in grades. Youngsters allowed to work and buy their own cars showed a drop in scholarship and many times a failure. The teenager feels that he is on his own when he buys his car. Whatever the scholastic ability of a youngster, ownership of a car tends to drop him down one grade. Other findings in the report were: Thirty-four per cent of the senior boys polled had been in accidents. Teenagers with driver education had fewer accidents than those without training. Sixteen - year - old drivers had more accidents than the older drivers.

It seems very strange, indeed, that Mermaid is known to so few gardeners. This variety was produced from a cross between the Macartney rose, that brambly big Chinese bush that has gone wild in so many communities from hedges around Southern plantations, and an unknown yellow cultivated rose. The firm of William Paul introduced Mermaid in 1917, and it received the Award of Merit of the Royal Horticultural Society in that year and the Gold Medal of the English National Rose Society. Then, in 1936, the R. H. S. gave it also the Award of Golden Merit which they bestow for good performance as a growing plant in the garden.

Mermaid has beautiful evergreen foliage. The deep green leaves stand up to all but the most extreme winter weather here in the South. In places exposed to the northwest wind, the foliage will be burned in some seasons, for this reason, this climber is best located on the south or east of a house or wall. Winter does not kill the canes, but it may destroy the foliage.

CONTINUOUS BLOOMING

The single yellow roses of Mermaid are produced from early summer until frost in a continuous flow. Draped over a fence or trained over an arch, there is hardly a continuously flowering climbing plant that can compete with this climber. As the new shoots begin to appear, they are tipped with red leaves which contrast nicely with the yellow flowers.

There are some old specimens of Mermaid in Southern gardens — some of these plants now enormous — but, for some reason or other, this rose is not grown very much and few gardeners seem to know about it.

Camellia Showing Underway

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club on the various phases of growing and showing camellias in the Monroe area. This column is principally about the first annual Camellia Show, which is being held in the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., 300 DeSiard St., this weekend.)

A flower show of any nature is just another display of blooms unless it is planned, rehearsed and executed in every detail by all concerned, not just the principals.

And to prevent the first annual Camellia Show from being just "another show" members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club have been working and planning for months, from this time last year, in fact, towards this show.

STILL BUSY

Now the show is going on, but the work is still just as important now as last week. For one thing, members are going around, acting as hosts and hostesses, aiding those who are interested in knowing more about camellias. Aside from looking at the many blossoms, ranging from white through the pinks and variegated to the deepest of reds, persons visiting the show will want to know if this kind or that variety will do well here in Monroe, or is it a "hot-house plant."

That is where the club members come in handy, both for the help of the novice and for the discussions among other members. For in comparing notes with other camellia growers in Monroe for the show, club members find out more about the blooms and bushes we now have in our yards and green houses.

And in many cases, the members can aid the novice in buying those bushes that will do better in this area. Some will bloom perfectly out of doors without protection; others need much protection, while still others grow and bloom profusely under trees protecting them from the hot summer sun.

And, so those who visited the show Saturday, and are wondering about a specific bloom, why not go back and ask some of the club members. If the particular one you ask doesn't know, there are others.

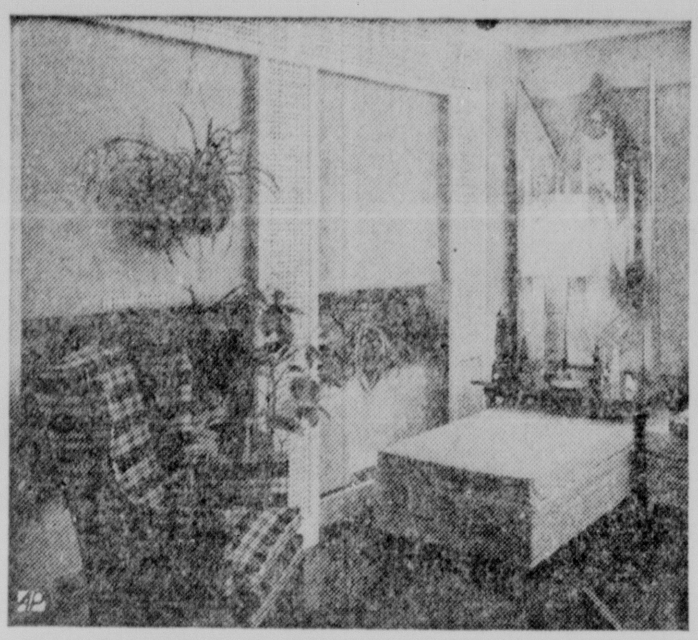
COOPERATIVE

The show is being held in cooperation with the American Camellia Society, which means that the rules for the national organization determine the entries and procedures. For instance, while the judges, will make the final decisions on the best flowers, they are not permitted to touch a single blossom. They must, in turn, ask a clerk to move the flower, if that is what they want, or to put on the proper ribbon, should the bloom win a ribbon. If a particular judge has a blossom in the group being judged, he must then excuse himself from judging in this category.

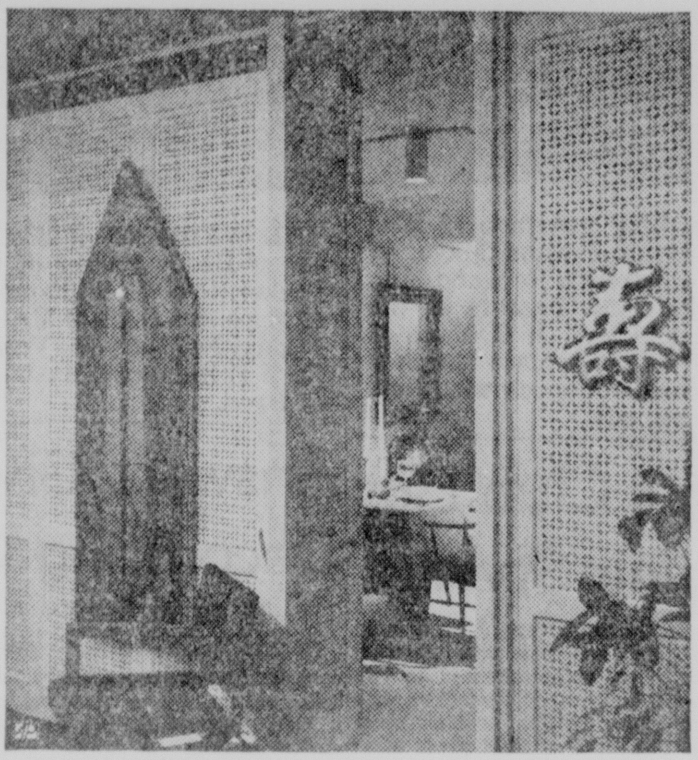
The judges' work was over actually before the show started at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, so that the best flowers could be noted.

Also, the A.C.S. demands that all blooms be burned at the close of the show. Even the best blossoms, the winners, must be destroyed. This is done to prevent the possible spread of camellia petal blight.

Ten trophies, all donated by businesses in the Twin Cities, will be presented for blooms.



GRILLWORK PANELS frame windows and make three out of two by dividing an overlarge one. In this one-room apartment, guest bed pushes under a table to give ottoman effect for daytime use.



DIVIDER OF pierced hardboard creates a dining area in a large one-room apartment. The wall is in two sections, 15 inches apart, creating storage area inside wall.

Pierced Hardboard Decorative

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You can liven a room with ingenious window treatment and decorative touches to permit more storage space. Interior designer Fred Shrallow did this in his own one-room, L-shaped apartment to achieve just such an effect.

He used pierced hardboard, the material originally made to be used as shutter doors. These panels are available in a number of designs offering various degrees of visibility depending on the pierced pattern.

At windows he used three panels vertically and panels across the top to frame handsome citron yellow shades. One panel ran down a window that was twice as large as the one adjoining it so that the effect was of three windows all the same size.

DIVIDER

In another area of the room, at the "L", he created a room divider-storage unit by making the panels a double width with 15 inches of space between and a panel that opens into a storage area with shelves. The room created by the storage divider is used as an office and dining area. The storage wall was attached to horizontal wooden boards on the floor and at the ceiling. Doors may be put on hinges or hung any other way.

Shrallow's apartment is large so he created other storage areas with the panel board by squaring out corners.

Another interesting space saver is a bed-lounge which is pushed under a table about half - way, permitting it to be used as an ottoman during the day and as a sleeping unit for guests at night.

"This must fit under the table so that only half of it shows," Shrallow advises. "Otherwise it won't look good." The bed is covered in lemon yellow, as is its mate which is used along a wall next to the table.

Another decorative innovation was carried out by adding two oblong pieces of leftover pierced hardboard to the citron yellow shades, front and back, to serve as pulls. Shrallow trimmed down a couple of scraps and glued them to the shade. But he thinks a better idea might be to screw them to the window shade slats.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A garden hose sometimes can be an effective substitute for a paint brush in giving a fresh look to a house with wood siding.

Wood that appears to need painting often needs nothing more than a cleaning. The quickest and easiest way to accomplish this is by rinsing the siding with water from a hose. Aside from the cleaning action of the water, the pressure from the hose helps to push the dirt from the wood. Must you be warned to double check every window to be certain it is tightly closed?

STUBBORN NATURE

Dirt of a more stubborn nature may require a gentle washing with a cloth and warm water. If necessary, soap suds or one of the mild detergents or scouring powders can be used. In all cases, the rubbing action should be done with a fairly light touch. A final rinsing with clear water should be given if a soap, detergent or powder is used.

When ordinary dirt is not the culprit, other measures must be taken. Take the case of a common stain on wood siding: that caused by the use of nails that are not resistant to corrosion. The rust-like coloring of these stains will not come off so easily. The area must be washed with a solution of four ounces of oxalic acid crystals to one gallon water. This calls for careful handling and the use of rubber gloves. A rinsing with cold water is essential. The only way to be certain that stains do not reappear is to remove the nails and replace them with those which resist corrosion.

Mildew is a problem in some areas of the country. When it has occurred only a little, scrubbing with a brush may be sufficient to remove it. Scouring powder can be added for more stubborn cases. But a household cleaner which contains either sodium hypochlorite or trisodium phosphate is the best bet. Here again, this does not insure against a return of the condition. The prevention of mildew involves the elimination of whatever is causing persistent dampness and the application of a mildew-proof paint to the troubled area.

SCOURING

When pitch or resin moves through paint and causes staining, scouring powder should be tried first, but only light pressure should be used in the rubbing. Denatured alcohol also is effective. Excessive moisture in back of the siding is usually responsible for the condition.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: I want to make a wooden stand for a second - hand bandsaw I bought a couple of weeks ago. How high should such a stand be?

ANSWER: First, one of the disadvantages of homemade stands is that they tend to become loose and wobbly after a time because of the constant vibration from the power machine. In recent years, more and more of these stands are being made of metal.

But if you wish to make your own of wood, greater strength can be obtained by making it with mortised, lapped or joints other than ordinary butt joints. There's one other way to insure a solidly constructed stand for this purpose. use metal rods as braces. These rods must be threaded at both ends, so that after they connect parts of the frame, they can be held tightly in place with washers and nuts. The added rigidity given to the frame by these braces will insure many extra years of life to the stand.

As for the dimensions, while the recommended height for a bandsaw stand is 34 inches, you shouldn't hesitate to make it higher or lower depending on your own height. The main thing is that you should feel comfortable while operating the saw.

Give Plants Fertilizer

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

March is the month to fertilize rose bushes, shrubs, trees and the lawn. For shrubs our horticulturist, Neil Odenwald, recommends that you use one-half cup of complete fertilizer per square yard. Fertilize roses at the rate of one-fourth of to one-half cup per plant. Distribute the fertilizer evenly around plants extending about 18 inches in every direction from the crown of the plant. Be careful and do not allow the fertilizer to touch the stem of the plants.

If you have trees to fertilize use about two cups of complete fertilizer as 8-8-8 per year of age of tree. Apply in series of holes four to six inches deep beginning approximately four feet from the trunk and extending out beyond the spread of the branches. The holes should be in a series of rings around the tree. Each ring should be about four feet apart with each hole approximately five feet apart.

Neil recommends using one to two pounds of actual nitrogen, one pound of phosphorus and one pound of potassium per 1,000 sq. feet for the established lawn. For example an application of 20 pounds of 8-8-8 per 1,000 square feet will give 1.6 pounds of nitrogen, 1.6 pounds of phosphorus and 1.6 of potassium.

Water the lawn immediately after applying fertilizer. Wash the fertilizer off the leaves to prevent burning. Do not apply when grass leaves are wet.

Fertilize camellia plants with one-half cup of 8-8-8 or equivalent per square yard of surface area covered by spread of plant. Broadcast fertilizer around the plant.

Be sure to mulch the shrubs which you have planted this season. The mulch will conserve moisture and aid in maintaining clean beds. Mulches which may be used include pine straw, leaf mold, or polyethylene plastic covered with pine straw or leaves.

OUT OF TOWN

Your Home Demonstration Agent will be out of the parish Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week visiting the research laboratory in New Orleans. The information which will be given will bring home demonstration agents in this area up to date on what is being done to cotton fibers and fabrics so we can better inform homemakers, with whom we work, especially on the use and care of new cotton finishes.

TRAFFIC SAFETY

Our home management specialist, Mrs. Celia Hissong, recently attended a leadership training course in Traffic Safety held at the University of Georgia. Perhaps you, Mr. and Mrs. Parent, would like to read some of the highlights of the report.

The following report was the result of a study made in 30 high schools and covered 2,000 students. The more evenings a week the car was used, the lower a youngster's grades fell. Good students who go overboard on cars suffer the greatest drop in grades. Youngsters allowed to work and buy their own cars showed a drop in scholarship and many times a failure. The teenager feels that he is on his own when he buys his car. Whatever the scholastic ability of a youngster, ownership of a car tends to drop him down one grade. Other findings in the report were: Thirty-four per cent of the senior boys polled had been in accidents. Teenagers with driver education had fewer accidents than those without training. Sixteen - year - old drivers had more accidents than the older drivers.

Many Areas May Need Some Repair

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Do - it - yourselvers looking for cold weather indoor projects might consider improving beat-up walls in neglected areas — stairway, stair landings, foyers.

Walls with their cracks, bumps and gouges are often rejected as projects when they are not in the living areas of the house. But these walls can be made an asset to the entire house and easily rejuvenated with a minimum of time and money.

Tearing out the entire wall is a big nuisance to the household, a dirty task for the do-it-yourselfer who must breathe in old plaster and a headache to the homemaker who must live with the mess. It is an expense no matter what course is pursued when a wall is torn out and replaced. New lathe and even additional new studs often are required, insulation, plaster or plasterboard and taping, and then the finish — paint or wallcovering — can chew up several hundred dollars.

ALTERNATIVE

An alternative that can be less expensive and eliminate the mess involves putting up either a finished plywood — walnut, teak, birch etc. — or an ordinary plywood and covering it with one of the marvelous new wall coverings.

Furring strips may be put up, plywood and then a finished decorative material to bring the cost down considerably. In addition, the handsome covering used can set a charm theme for the entire house.

An idea used by one well-known antiques buyer is a covering of deep gold burlap along the staircase wall of his little saltbox home and above the wainscoting of an attractive beamed living room.

The gold color is exactly right for his English antiques, paintings and other treasures and the cost of the material used was negligible.

The burlap was put up with a special adhesive and attached with staples at sides to establish evenness. This burlap is laminated to a backing which is then coated with the adhesive before application.

Deep red is another effective staircase wall covering, with either contemporary or modern furnishings.

There are narrow and wide-striped tickings, and more elegant fabric coverings — linens, brocades, grass cloth and moires. There are vinyl laminated and coated burlaps that defy grubby hands. They are scrubable and scuff resistant. These permit the use of light colors and white on walls and stairways.

Wall paneling can upgrade old bumpy living room walls. A good rich finish can be achieved, too, by using a rich color above a wainscoting of warm-tone paneled wood.

Dark colors can flatter a small living room. If the proper balance is used — dark wood along with a rich color and light, bright accents, results can be truly amazing.

Annual Concert By Neville Band Will Be Monday

The 78 - piece Neville High School Symphonic Band will present its annual winter concert Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Neville auditorium.

Neville Band Director Herbert Gathright said the featured soloist for this concert will be Jim Mathis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mathis and a senior who has been a member of the Louisiana High School All - State band for four consecutive years.

The youth will play the tuba solo in Catozzi's "Beelzebub" selection. Gathright has selected a variety of numbers for the concert including original works for wind band, orchestral transcriptions, Japanese theme, stage show and movie theme music. Proceeds from the concert will help defray expenses for the band's planned trip to the State Band Festival in Lafayette May 1-2.

The program will include Alfred Reed's "Greensleeves;" "Fanfare and Allegro", by Clifton Williams; "The Tsar's Bride" by Rimsky - Korsakov; "Dawn Breaks at a Shinto Shrine," by Urato Watanabe; Lerner and Lowe's "Gigi"; Lawrence of Arabia," Jarre-Reed; and other selections.

PHOTOGRAPHING A DEDUCTION. Take a baby — in this case, six-month-old Lynda Pelham of Miami — surround her with income tax forms and you have a picture of a genuine $600 deduction, no questions asked.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Camera fans, like other working members of the country, must soon file their annual financial accounting with Uncle Sam. But camera fans, unlike some other hobbyists, may be able to deduct some of their photographic expenses in figuring out their income tax.

"Although photography may be primarily your hobby, costs of any work you do intending to earn a profit are deductible," according to Ken Kirkpatrick in "Income Tax Tips for Photographers" in the current March issue of Popular Photography magazine. "Your intention is the crucial point on which all deductions hang. Costs incurred in an effort to earn a profit are deductible. Costs of hobby activities, in which your purpose is personal pleasure rather than profit, are not deductible."

OVERSIGHT

It is quite likely that many nonprofessional photographers overlook quite a few expenditures that our tax laws permit them to deduct from any photographic income in determining how much taxable income they earned. One must know business tax regulations thoroughly to be aware of all the proper deductions. Some items are fully deductible if used for photographic business purposes or partially deductible according to the percentage of use for business as compared to personal use.

Most major equipment, like a camera, darkroom equipment, light meter, flash equipment, etc., can not be claimed as a full expense but must be depreciated over its equipment life in proportion to its percentage of business use.

The important thing in filing income tax claims is keeping full and accurate records. If you haven't kept an account of all your photo expenditures in the past, start now for next year's tax return. Get a permanent, bound record book and label it "Photography." Set aside one section for "Income" and a larger section for "Expenses."

You'll need separate itemized sections for materials and supplies, major equipment and their depreciation values, repairs, travel expenses in making photos for possible sale and miscellaneous business expenses such as camera insurance, postage and stationery costs in mailing photos, etc.

Get receipts for money spent wherever possible. If it is a cash sales record, list the items purchased and the date. These receipts plus your cash record book will be required if you wish to consult an income tax agent for help in making out your return or if a question comes up later.

By keeping careful records, you can determine how much of your photography is for personal use as compared with business use. For instance, if you use 100 rolls of film during the year of which 60 rolls are for personal pictures, then you can deduct only the balance or 40 per cent of your photo expenses for business purposes

If you try to make a profit from photography at home, then you are permitted to deduct a proportion of your home expenses such as rent and utilities. The amount deductible depends on the space taken up by your photo work and the percentage edvoted to business use.

If you set aside, for example, one room in a six-room house as your darkroom and studio, then one-sixth of all home expenses such as rent, light, heat, telephone, insurance, would be considered as pertaining to photography. If you devoted 40 per cent of your photography to business use, then you are allowed to deduct 40 per cent of that amount (i.e one-sixth of the home expenses) on your income tax return.

Summing it up, there are two key points for a photographer to consider for income tax purposes: 1. Did he try to make a profit from his photography? 2. Does he have complete records of his earnings and expenses? If the answers are "yes" then he can start filling in the long forms and probably save some money.

Wertenbaker Novel Gives Us Mata Hari

THE EYE OF THE LION. By Lael Tucker Wertenbaker. Little, Brown. $5.95.

For some years after World War I the name Mata Hari was used to denote a type, a sexy female who seduced — or "vamped" as they said in those days — high military and diplomatic figures and sold their war secrets to the enemy.

There actually was a Mata Hari, and she was executed by the French in 1917 on a charge of being a spy for the Germans. Her name was a stage tag, for she was once quite a glamorous dancer, specializing in a vaguely Oriental repertory. There were plenty of legends about her, but few facts.

Mrs. Wertenbaker has contrived a highly spiced novel around this figure. She weaves a complex story from the first person stories of the dancer herself; the Frenchman Louis Lasbogue, who managed her stage career, and the half - Dutch, half - German Franz van Weel, a sadistic Dutch diplomat of minor rank, who spied for the Germans.

As the author imagines the story, the heroine began life in Holland as Gerschy Zelle, married a colonial officer, suffered a traumatic shock in the death of her small son and left her husband. Becoming a dancer, she was promoted by Lasbogue into a fashionable sensation for a brief time.

Mata Hari appears in this novel as a not-too-bright, but sometimes cunning, female who manages to be faithful to one man at a time — including a married Englishman whom she really loved — until she hit the skids into wartime promiscuity.

Stamp News

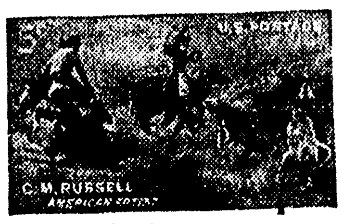
The John F. Kennedy memorial stamp will be issued on May 29, the 47th anniversary of his birthday, announced Postmaster General John A. Gronouski. The date of issuance was chosen by Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Shortly after President Kennedy's death, President Johnson requested the postmaster general to issue such a stamp and consult with Mrs. Kennedy as to the date and the design.

The new stamp will be of 5-cent denomination and of commemorative size. As soon as Mrs. Kennedy approves the design, it will be released to the press.

This year's 5-cent commemorative stamp in the "fine art" series will feature a Charles M. Russell painting of cowboys in action at roundup time. It will be issued March 19 at Great Falls, Mont., home of the celebrated artist and will coincide with the 100th anniversary of Russell's birth. The stamp colors are brown blue, yellow and white.

The illustration on the stamp is entitled "Jerked Down." The term applies to a hazard of the cowboy roundup. A cowboy has thrown his lariat over a cow, but a second cow has become entangled in the rope, causing the rider to be "jerked down." As the cowboy struggles to retain his seat in the saddle, a fellow cowboy rides to his aid. This oil painting now hangs in the Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art, Tulsa, Okla.



Collectors desiring first-day cancellations of the Russell stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Great Falls, Mont., prior to March 19. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Russell Stamp."

Finland has issued a new 35-markka stamp honoring the centenary of the Finnish Society of Arts. The design shows the sculptured head of an elk made of soapstone approximately 2000 B. C. Another 35-markka stamp soon will be issued by Finland to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Emile Nestor Setala, professor and statesman.

THREE FOR 'LUV'

NEW YORK (AP) — A successful off-Broadway combination is hoping for a repeat next on the Great White Way. The project: "Luv" by Murray Schisgal.

Involved with Schisgal in the undertaking are producer Claire Nichtern, who produced the author's two short plays, "The Tiger" and "The Typists" last season. Pledged to perform are the pair who appeared in that previous venture, Eli Wallach and Anne Jackson, his wife.

Yet to be added to the combination is another actor for the play's third role.

CURTAIN CALL

Excitement has risen to fever pitch at Strauss Playhouse as "Once Upon A Mattress" starts its last week of rehearsal. On top of costume and technical rehearsals, the next few days will see the first joint practice sessions of cast and orchestra under the baton of Dick Steff. Then comes dress rehearsal and at last the culmination of many weeks of hard work when the curtain rises on Friday, February 28, before the opening night audience.

"Once Upon A Mattress" is a treat for eye and ear. Some 50 authentic costumes have been created for this show in the colorful and exotic Gothic court style. Most of the ladies wear houppelandes with long, flowing sleeves and the conical steeple hats known as hennins. The queen wears a horned hat with her dress and surcote, while Lady Larken is dressed in a more elaborate houppelande and heart-shaped hat.

LAVISH COSTUMES

The men are garbed in pourpoint and hose, except the king who wears a fur-trimmed pelicon or pelisse. The minstrel, wizard and jester have distinctive costumes appropriate to their rank. Little Theatre has never given a show as lavishly costumed as this one.

The striking sets provide a fitting background for the mythical court ruled over by Queen Aggravain and her hen-pecked king 500 years ago. And the more we listen to the Mary Rodgers score, the more impressed we are by the inventive quality of her tunes. They do not fit the standard pattern of juke box hits, but weave themselves closly into the story with delightful variety and originality.

Despite the misleading title, "Once Upon A Mattress" is simply a satirical version of the legend of the princess and the pea. Not really wanting Prince Dauntless to marry, the queen sets impossible tests for every candidate. She decrees that no one at court may wed until the prince finds a wife, which is particularly frustrating to Lady Larken and Sir Harry, the young lovers of the play.

SET FOR SHOWDOWN

Thus when Princess Winnifred arrives on the scene, the stage is set for a showdown between the queen and her rebellious subjects. The outcome depends on a sensitivity test in which Winnifred is put to bed on 20 mattresses over a solitary pea. The musical version is vastly funnier than the one we heard as a child, as proven by its fabulous success on Broadway, off Boadway and in summer stock.

"Once Upon A Mattress" will run from February 28 through March 8, with performances every night at 8:15 and a single matinee on Sunday, March 1, at 2:30 p.m. The box office will be open from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. starting this coming Wednesday through the run of the show. Members may make reservations by calling FAirfax 3-1235 during those hours, and others may apply for the limited number of unsold memberships that remain. Mail orders may still be sent to Box 868 using the reservation form that was circulated to members last week.

LOBBY DISPLAY

The lobby display for "Once Upon A Mattress" will consist of recent paintings by members of the Art Center, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Chiquita Squires, Mrs. John B. McKinley, Miss Mary Anita Lennon and Ed Schutz.

Board member Barbara Easterling must have been a soft touch for the youngsters who sold Girl Scout cookies. She had enough to treat the cast and you may be sure this takes a few boxes. Rehearsal pianist Velma Willey brought a handsomely decorated cake another night.

Scherck Bogen's trip abroad overlooked no theatrical opportunities. In London he saw "Oh What A Lovely War," and "Hobson's Choice;" in Paris the show at the Casino de Paris; in Florence a most beautiful "Madame Butterfly," in Rome the ballet and "Die Meistersinger;" in Madrid "Kiss Me Kate;" and back in New York "Hello, Dolly," "Dylan," "Barefoot In The Park," "The Chinese Prime Minister," "Nobody Loves An Albatross," "The Private Ear," with "The Public Eye," and a preview of "What Makes Sammy Run."

SHORT OFF, LONG ON

NEW YORK (AP) — Composer Richard Rodgers has abandoned plans to write score and lyrics for a twin-bill of short musicals intended for Broadway next season. One was to be called "Forever," the other an adaptation of "The Seven Year Itch."

Many Areas May Need Some Repair

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Do-it-yourselvers looking for cold weather indoor projects might consider improving beat-up walls in neglected areas — stairway, stair landings, foyers.

Walls with their cracks, bumps and gouges are often rejected as projects when they are not in the living areas of the house. But these walls can be made an asset to the entire house and easily rejuvenated with a minimum of time and money.

Tearing out the entire wall is a big nuisance to the household, a dirty task for the do-it-yourselfer who must breathe in old plaster and a headache to the homemaker who must live with the mess. It is an expense no matter what course is pursued when a wall is torn out and replaced. New lathe and even additional new studs often are required, insulation, plaster or plasterboard and taping, and then the finish — paint or wallcovering — can chew up several hundred dollars.

ALTERNATIVE

An alternative that can be less expensive and eliminate the mess involves putting up either a finished plywood — walnut, teak, birch etc. — or an ordinary plywood and covering it with one of the marvelous new wall coverings.

Furring strips may be put up, plywood and then a finished decorative material to bring the cost down considerably. In addition, the handsome covering used can set a charm theme for the entire house.

An idea used by one well-known antiques buyer is a covering of deep gold burlap along the staircase wall of his little saltbox home and above the wainscoting of an attractive beamed living room.

The gold color is exactly right for his English antiques, paintings and other treasures and the cost of the material used was negligible.

The burlap was put up with a special adhesive and attached with staples at sides to establish evenness. This burlap is laminated to a backing which is then coated with the adhesive before application.

Deep red is another effective staircase wall covering, with either contemporary or modern furnishings.

There are narrow and wide-striped tickings, and more elegant fabric coverings — linens, brocades, grass cloth and moires. There are vinyl laminated and coated burlaps that defy grubby hands. They are scrubable and scuff resistant. These permit the use of light colors and white on walls and stairways.

Wall paneling can upgrade old bumpy living room walls. A good rich finish can be achieved, too, by using a rich color above a wainscoting of warm-tone paneled wood.

Dark colors can flatter a small living room. If the proper balance is used — dark wood along with a rich color and light, bright accents, results can be truly amazing.

Board member Barbara Easterling must have been a soft touch for the youngsters who sold Girl Scout cookies. She had enough to treat the cast and you may be sure this takes a few boxes. Rehearsal pianist Velma Willey brought a handsomely decorated cake another night.

Scherck Bogen's trip abroad overlooked no theatrical opportunities. In London he saw "Oh What A Lovely War," and "Hobson's Choice;" in Paris the show at the Casino de Paris; in Florence a most beautiful "Madame Butterfly." in Rome the ballet and "Die Meistersinger;" in Madrid "Kiss Me Kate;" and back in New York "Hello, Dolly," "Dylan," "Barefoot In The Park," "The Chinese Prime Minister," "Nobody Loves An Albatross," "The Private Ear," with "The Public Eye," and a preview of "What Makes Sammy Run."

SHORT OFF, LONG ON

NEW YORK (AP) — Composer Richard Rodgers has abandoned plans to write score and lyrics for a twin-bill of short musicals intended for Broadway next season. One was to be called "Forever," the other an adaptation of "The Seven Year Itch."

24th Annual Stock Show Opens Monday

Eleven 4-H'ers From Catahoula In Stock Show

JONESVILLE (Special) — Eleven 4-H members from Catahoula Parish will exhibit 24 animals at the 24th Annual Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show in Delhi, states Rodney D. Ewing, Associate county agent of Catahoula parish.

The show opens Monday at 2 p.m. with a parade and will close Thursday night, with a Quarterhorse show.

4-H members from Catahoula parish exhibiting fat lambs are Janell Terry, Greg Terry, Malcolm Terry and Hal McMillin, all of Harrisonburg; those exhibiting swine are Carroll Barron, Sicily Island; Joe McGuffee and Stevie McGuffie, Enterprise; Jerry Stewart, Kerry Kirby and Sharon Ewing, Harrisonburg. Exhibiting dairy animals will be York Sheppard of Enterprise.

Soviet Premier To Take Vacation

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev is going to the Caucasus for a month of rest beginning about March 1, he told an Italian publisher in an interview Friday.

The publisher, Julio Einaudi, said Saturday Khrushchev told him he likes it either very hot or very cold and Moscow is neither right now.

AT DELHI

Stock Show Opens Monday

DELHI (Special) -- The 24th annual Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show opens here Monday and will continue through Thursday, with scores of farm youths competing for prizes and honors.

In addition to junior events, for 4-H and FFA youngsters, there will be an adult division and a horse show.

Junior events will be held Monday and Tuesday, with adult division competition scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

Also on Thursday, junior division sheep, swine, and steers will be sold.

The quarter horse show will be held Wednesday and Thursday.

In his annual statement, included in the Livestock Show's 1964 catalog and premium list, the president of the show, E. W. Sehon of Delhi, said:

"It is extremely gratifying to see the Northeast Show continuing to afford exhibitors, both adult and junior alike, a place to display to many thousands the fruits of their labors.

"This show, which is the outgrowth of an idea fostered by the Delhi Lions Club in 1940, has served a vital need throughout the years, since through shows like this one the livestock industry has been thrust into a place of national prominence.

"To all the exhibitors, advertisers, supporters and the thousands of people who will visit this years exhibition, we say thanks, keep up your support, and welcome to the 24th annual Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show."

Events connected with the livestock show began Saturday night with a queen's contest.

A "grand parade" is scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday, following the junior judging contest for 4-H and FFA students, which will be held at 10 a.m.

Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded. Competition will be in commercial entries, adult clubs and organizations, schools, bands and riding clubs.

Tuesday will be the big day for the junior division entrants. Scheduled is judging of sheep, dairy animals and beef animals.

In the junior division, showmanship awards will be offered for beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine and horses.

Awards will come from Baton Rouge after all judging has been completed by all the district and state shows.

A modification of the grading system of the past will be used for the show this year.

There will be four ribbon groups. All calves will be graded into a purple ribbon group, blue ribbon group, red ribbon group and white ribbon group.

Calves below the white ribbon group will be placed in the unclassified group and will not receive any premium money.

All white ribbon calves, red ribbon hogs, white ribbon hogs, red ribbon lambs and white ribbon lambs, will be sold in commercial sale Wednesday. They will not be allowed to be sold in the junior sale at the show.

Stock Officials Hope For Repeat Of 1963 Sale

DELHI (Special) — Officials of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show here are hoping that this year's sale of animals exhibited by junior showmen is as successful as the one held last year.

Junior superintendent Basil Doles said the sale last year was "the best sale we have had here in 10 years."

Two bus-loads of Monroe and West Monroe businessmen augmented a bid-concious audience of buyers from this area.

The top per-pound price paid for an animal was laid down by KNOE Enterprises of Monroe. It went for the champion lamb exhibited by Jane Ware of Ouachita Parish.

The champion pig, shown by Mary Beth Roberts of Union Parish, went for $1.40 per pound to Delhi Implement Co.

The champion steer, shown by Georgia Gilfoil of Madison Parish, was sold for $1 per pound to the Tallulah Loan Association

Girls Winners Often As Not At Area Show

DELHI (Special) — Girls put up quite a fight when it comes to competing in the junior division of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show.

And, as often as not they come out as winners.

Last year, the grand champion of the fat calf show, a Hereford, was exhibited by Georgia Gilfoil of Madision Parish.

A boy followed in second place. He was Dick Shepherd of East Carroll, who showed the reserve grand champion, a calf that had taken championship honors in the Angus division.

A Ouachita Parish girl, Jane Ware, exhibited a fat lamb that took grand championship honors after winning the championship in the Southdown division.

Reserve grand champion was shown by Malcolm Terry of Catahoula Parish.

For the third consecutive year, Mary Beth Roberts of Union Parish exhibited the champion fat barrow of the show. The reserve championship was won by an animal shown by Brenda McGough of Morehouse Parish.

MARY BETH ROBERTS exhibited the champion fat barrow for the third consecutive year in the junior division at the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show at Delhi last year.

Growth Signs Are Noted At Delhi Show

DELHI (Special) — Despite lack of aid from the state, the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show here will show some signs of growth this year when compared to last year.

President E. W. Sehon said the adult show has more "entries than in the past two shows."

Sehon also said there will be no admission charge at the gate this year.

"By cutting corners," he said, "we have accumulated enough funds and think we can operate without the gate receipts."

The superintendent of the junior division, Basil Doles of Rayville, said the junior show is shaping up fine.

He listed these entries:

Junior steers, 115; beef breeding animals, 89; dairy animals, 70; market hogs, 309; fat lambs, 109; junior breeding sheep, 29; junior quarter horses, 36; Appaloosas, two (this is a new division).

Doles said Ouachita Parish leads in number of entrants, with Morehouse in second place.

Sehon said the parade looks like "one of the best parades scheduled."

He said Commissioner of Agriculture Dave Pearce will attend the parade, and that Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, Democratic gubernatorial nominee John J. McKeithen and many legislators have been invited.

Sehon said rides, local concessions and other divisions would be offered at the show.

Youths Borrow Funds To Get Good Livestock

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Many of the Louisiana rural youths who have borrowed capital for livestock from banks and loan associations in the state-backed loan program will be featured in the 29th annual L.S.U. Livestock Show this year, according to Joe M. Coco, state supervisor of the Junior Livestock Program.

The show will be held in the coliseum on L.S.U.'s Baton Rouge campus February 28-March 8. Top competition of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show will appear here.

Coco said over 1,000 farm boys and girls 10 years old and older have participated in the loan program since it was begun 10 years ago. About $1½ million have been loaned to the youngsters, with the state guaranteeing 25 per cent of each loan.

"So far, the state has not lost a dime in the program," Coco said.

Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce, whose department administers the Junior Livestock Loan Program, said recently that interest has become widespread in the livestock exhibited by the youths and put on sale at the annual L.S.U. show.

"I urge business men, organizations and individuals to attend the show this year," Pearce said, "and to bid on the livestock these boys and girls offer for sale.

"This gives the youngsters more incentive to produce the best animals possible. Besides, the buyers will be getting champion products of top quality."

The livestock sale begins at 10 a.m. Thursday, March 5 in the coliseum.

Concordia Farm Meeting Monday

FERRIDAY (Special) — Concordia Parish Farm Bureau members will meet 7 p.m. Monday at Ferriday High School cafeteria for the annual banquet and election of the board of directors, according to Sara Calvert, secretary.

Farm Bureaeu president Cecil Brooking will make a business report of last year's activities. Resolutions from the floor will be encouraged.

Mrs. Ben Breen Sr. is in charge of prepartion of food for the supper which will be free to members and their wives.

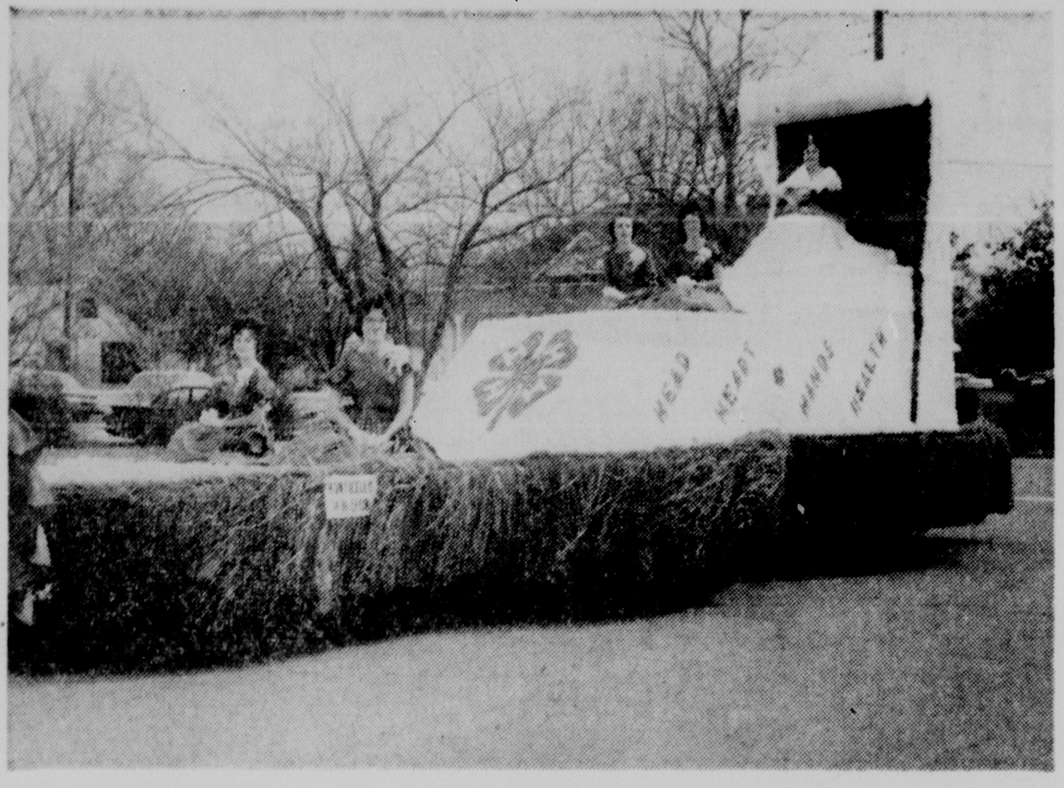
MARY BETH ROBERTS exhibited the champion fat barrow for the third consecutive year in the junior division at the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show at Delhi last year.



THIS IS THE WAY the winning float in the school division of Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show parade looked last year. The float was entered by the Monticello 4-H Club.

Event Schedule For Stock Show Is Announced

DELHI (Special) — Here is the schedule of events for the 24th annual Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show:

Monday — 10 a.m., junior judging contest, 4-H., FFA.; 2 p.m., grand parade; 3 p.m., steer mouthing; 3 p.m., judging junior swine showmanship; 3:30 p.m., judge junior quarterhorses.

Tuesday — 8 a.m., judging junior dairy (all breeds) showmanship; 10 a.m., judging junior sheep (market); 11 a.m., judging junior breeding sheep-showmanship, 1:15 p.m., judging junior fat steers; 3:30 p.m., judging junior beef breeding — showmanship (all breeds).

Wednesday — 9 a.m., judging adult Hereford cattle; 9 a.m., judging adult Shorthorn cattle; 1 p.m., judging adult Aberdeen Angus cattle; 1 p.m., judging adult Santa Gertrudis cattle; 6:30 p.m., horse show.

Thursday — 9 a.m., judging adult Brahman cattle; 10 a.m., junior sale, sheep, swine, steers, sales arena; 12:30 p.m., junior awards in sales arena; 1 p.m., halter judging — horse show; 7 p.m., horse show.

Growth Signs Are Noted At Delhi Show

DELHI (Special) — Despite lack of aid from the state, the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show here will show some signs of growth this year when compared to last year.

President E. W. Sehon said the adult show has more "entries than in the past two shows."

Sehon also said there will be no admission charge at the gate this year.

"By cutting corners," he said, "we have accumulated enough funds and think we can operate without the gate receipts."

The superintendent of the junior division, Basil Doles of Rayville, said the junior show is shaping up fine.

He listed these entries:

Junior steers, 113; beef breeding animals, 89; dairy animals, 70; market hogs, 309; fat lambs, 109; junior breeding sheep, 20; junior quarter horses, 36; Appaloosas, two (this is a new division).

Doles said Ouachita Parish leads in number of entrants, with Morehouse in second place.

Sehon said the parade looks like "one of the best parades scheduled."

He said Commissioner of Agriculture Dave Pearce will attend the parade, and that Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, Democratic gubernatorial nominee John J. McKeithen and many legislators have been invited.

Sehon said rides, local concessions and other divisions would be offered at the show.

Youths Borrow Funds To Get Good Livestock

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Many of the Louisiana rural youths who have borrowed capital for livestock from banks and loan associations in the state-backed loan program will be featured in the 29th annual L.S.U. Livestock Show this year, according to Joe M. Coco, state supervisor of the Junior Livestock Program.

The show will be held in the coliseum on L.S.U.'s Baton Rouge campus February 28-March 8. Top competition of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show will appear here.

Coco said over 1,000 farm boys and girls 10 years old and older have participated in the loan program since it was begun 10 years ago. About $1½ million have been loaned to the youngsters, with the state guaranteeing 25 per cent of each loan.

"So far, the state has not lost a dime in the program," Coco said.

Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce, whose department administers the Junior Livestock Loan Program, said recently that interest has become widespread in the livestock exhibited by the youths and put on sale at the annual L.S.U. show.

"I urge business men, organizations and individuals to attend the show this year," Pearce said, "and to bid on the livestock these boys and girls offer for sale.

"This gives the youngsters more incentive to produce the best animals possible. Besides, the buyers will be getting champion products of top quality."

The livestock sale begins at 10 a.m. Thursday, March 5 in the coliseum.

Concordia Farm Meeting Monday

FERRIDAY (Special) — Concordia Parish Farm Bureau members will meet 7 p.m. Monday at Ferriday High School cafeteria for the annual banquet and election of the board of directors, according to Sam Calvert, secretary.

Farm Bureaeu president Cecil Brooking will make a business report of last year's activities. Resolutions from the floor will be encouraged.

Mrs. Ben Breen Sr. is in charge of prepartion of food for the supper which will be free to members and their wives.

TO HEAD DELEGATION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Evans will head the U.S. delegation to the meeting of parties to the international trade conference starting Monday in Geneva, the State Department announced Saturday.

Evans is minister for economic affairs at the standing American mission in Geneva.

Weather Watch Is Annual Event At Stock Show

DELHI (Special) — The weatherman and the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show have been at odds for many years.

And it looks like this year will be no exception. A five-day forecast released Friday even called for the possibility of a little snow and maybe rain.

But officials have managed to keep things in line despite rain, sleet or snow, which has been frequent at past shows here.

Usually, however, there is also some good weather along the show runs for four days. At any rate, the exhibitors, their families and friends show up no matter what the weather. Not to mention people not connected with the show.

It offers for many the first outside activity of the spring. And they make the most of it.

Quarter Horse Show Feature Of Delhi Event

DELHI (Special) — The quarter horse show is an annual attraction of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show.

Captain Joker, owned by A. D. Day of Jackson, Miss., won first place in junior, senior and open horse divisions last year to be acclaimed overall quarterhorse.

The steed was ridden by J. D. Tadlock of Haslet, Tex.

Co-Op Awards Being Offered At Stock Show

DELHI (Special)—The Northeast Louisiana Power Cooperative again this year is offering prizes to FFA and 4-H youths at the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show.

According to the cooperative:

"A prize of $15 to the most deserving 4-H club member and $15 to the most deserving FFA member in each of the parishes in which the cooperative operates," will be given.

The parishes are Morehouse, East Carroll, West Carroll, Tensas, Madison, Richland and Franklin.

According to the co-op announcement, "It was recommended by the board of directors that this money be offered for any of the activities the club members participate in and that the county agents select the 4-H club winners in their respective parishes.

"The vocational agriculture teachers will select the FFA winners."

The awards will be made at the show on Thursday.

Two nights of scores were totaled to determine winners of the cutting divisions.

First place in junior cutting went to Cleotas, owned by Jimmy Long of Farmerville, and ridden by W. I. Brian.

In the senior cutting class, first place went to Nelly King, owned by J. D. Madden of Minden and ridden by G. W. Sanford.

First place winner of the jackpot class went to Captain Joker.

Spain Counters U.S. Aid Cutoff By Base Eviction

MADRID (UPI) — Any decision to cut off aid to Spain as reprisal for its trading with Cuba would threaten U.S. plans to establish a Polaris submarine base in Spain, informed sources said Saturday.

Spain said Saturday it had no intention of halting its Cuban trade.

The sources said the threat was implicit in the Spanish government warning that it would regard the halting of aid as a violation of the Spanish-American defense accords which were renewed last Sept. 26 for another five years.

A U.S. military spokesman confirmed only Friday that the U.S. Navy plans to establish a base for Polaris submarines at the Rota naval base in southwest Spain. The only other such base in Europe is at Holy Loch, Scotland.

Rota is one of five large U.S. naval and Air Force bases whose position would come under review if the United States went through with its threat to cut off aid, Spanish sources said.

The situation took a dramatic new turn Saturday when Information Minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne announced after a cabinet meeting that Spain has told the United States it intends to continue trading with Cuba. Generalissimo Francisco Franco presided over the cabinet meeting.

"The Spanish government has always emphasized and emphasizes once again its special situation regarding the Spanish-speaking American nations. . . considering that political regimes should not impede economic and other relations with countries of the same world," he said.

At the same time, Fraga Iribarne warned that the cancellation of military aid to Spain would be taken as a violation of the Spanish-American defense accords.

Spain Counters U.S. Aid Cutoff By Base Eviction

MADRID (UPI) — Any decision to cut off aid to Spain as reprisal for its trading with Cuba would threaten U.S. plans to establish a Polaris submarine base in Spain, informed sources said Saturday.

Spain said Saturday it had no intention of halting its Cuban trade.

The sources said the threat was implicit in the Spanish government warning that it would regard the halting of aid as a violation of the Spanish-American defense accords which were renewed last Sept. 26 for another five years.

A U.S. military spokesman confirmed only Friday that the U.S. Navy plans to establish a base for Polaris submarines at the Rota naval base in southwest Spain. The only other such base in Europe is at Holy Loch, Scotland.

Rota is one of five large U.S. naval and Air Force bases whose position would come under review if the United States went through with its threat to cut off aid, Spanish sources said.

The situation took a dramatic new turn Saturday when Information Minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne announced after a cabinet meeting that Spain has told the United States it intends to continue trading with Cuba. Generalissimo Francisco Franco presided over the cabinet meeting.

"The Spanish government has always emphasized and emphasizes once again its special situation regarding the Spanish-speaking American nations... considering that political regimes should not impede economic and other relations with countries of the same world," he said.

At the same time, Fraga Iribarne warned that the cancellation of military aid to Spain would be taken as a violation of the Spanish-American defense accords.

OIL, GAS DRILLING

District Activity Continues Down; Four Completed

Drilling activity in the Monroe Oil & Gas District continued to taper slightly last week, with manager Duncan S. Cook reporting but four completions in four of the district's 15 northeast Louisiana parishes.

The completions were recorded in Avoyelles, Concordia, La Salle and Rapides Parishes. Two recompletions during the week were in Catahoula and Tensas.

The weekly report released by Cook's Monroe office listed 24 rigs actively drilling or testing in nine parishes — one each in Avoyelles, Caldwell, Concordia, Grant, Madison, Morehouse and Rapides, eight in La Salle and nine in Tensas.

Thirteen new locations were staked during the week, spotted in seven parishes — four in Concordia, two each in Catahoula, Union and Tensas, and one each in Morehouse, LaSalle and Ouachita.

In Catahoula Parish the Larto Lake Field, Murphy Oil Company's Farmer No. 1 was recompleted at 6667 feet in section 19-5-6E, while Cenard Oil & Gas' Buck SU 23; Anderson No. 36-11 was recompleted at 8651 feet in section 36-12-11E of Tensas Parish's Buckhorn Field.

Four wells were plugged and abandoned during the week, leaving the district's total of inactive sites at 77.

Cook's report included this further information on completion, active rigs and new location:

New Lime Wildcat Test Is Scheduled

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new Smackover Lime wildcat test is scheduled to get underway in Scott County with Austral Oil Co. clearing location for its Eichelberger No. 1, Sec. 19-5N-9E, six miles northwest of the Bienville Forest Field of Smith County. Contract depth is 14,400 feet.

In the Bienville Forest Field, Austral has resumed drilling below 14,113 feet in its federal lease No. 2, Sec. 14-4N-9E, after freeing stuck drill pipe.

The venture is an east offset to the discovery well of the field which was completed as Mississippi's first commercial oil well producing from the Smackover Lime Formation. The well was about 40 feet from the top of the sand that produces in the discovery well when the drill pipe stuck.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. drilled below 12,650 feet in its Smith County wildcat, the Shelby No. 1, Sec. 31-10N-16w two miles northeast of Mt. Olive. Operators released little information on the well with reports that several shows of oil and gas have been logged below 12,000 feet. Contract depth is 13,500 feet with the reported shows touching off a royalty and lease buying play in the area. The nearest producing area is the Magee Field six miles north.

In the Hardrock Country of Northeast Mississippi, the second well in the recently found Thorn Gas Field of Chickasaw County has been completed. Pan American Petroleum Corporation's No. 1, Black Sec. 22-13S-2E, is flowing at the rate of 1,400,000 cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 3,460-73 feet. The Thorn Field was discovered last year and was granted 640 acre spacing by the state oil and gas board. The states' deepest drilling operation continues to core below 16,450 feet. The venture is Humble Oil and Refining Company's No. 1, Seston Lumber Co., Sec. 6-9S-15W, three miles north of the Ansley Field in Hancock County. Operators released little information on the well with a number of gas shows of undetermined commercial worth logged below 14,000 feet. Humble's second Hancock County wildcat, the Baldwin No. 1, sec. 1-10s-16W, two miles southwest of the Ansley Field is drilling below 11,650 feet after cementing casing at 11,502 feet.

In Amite County, two wildcats in the recently found Pumpkin Patch area are nearing contract depth. Biglane, Alford and Thornhill are below 10,950 feet in his Peterson No. 1, Sec. 1-4N-5E, with both ventures scheduled to be drilled to 11,200 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw two new oilers completed.

In the Magee Field of Simpson County, Larue-Smith Production Co. completed its Womack No. 1, Sec. 14-10N-17W, flowing 163 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 12,370-74 feet.

At South Center Ridge in Smith County, Triad Oil & Gas Co. finaled its White No. 1, Sec. 28-1N-8E, flowing 235 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 12,670-84 feet.

Cotton Futures Trading Covers Large Ranges

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices of cotton futures on the domestic market, especially those for the new crop, covered a relatively wide trading range this week but closed with mixed net changes.

At the close of trading Thursday, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were up $1.60 to off 75 cents.

The Exchange was closed Friday in observance of Washington's birthday.

During most of the week the market was sustained by March pre-notice day covering and by price fixing in the remaining two old crop deliveries, while the new crop months had firmed on buying by those in the trade who were doubtful of any new crop legislation being enacted.

During the week ended Monday, 101,000 bales were exported, compared with 140,000 a week earlier and 114,000 a year earlier. For the season through Feb. 17 exports totaled 2,907,000 bales against 1,609,000 at the same time last year.

Mart Nudges Averages To New Records

NEW YORK (AP) — A cautious stock market last week nudged the averages to record highs again and ran its series of weekly gains to three straight.

The market had the advantage of continued good news from business and the economic front as a whole. While the record highs in the averages prompted some analysts to say that a "correction" was at hand, others said that the averages were deceptive — that a great many issues were far below their peaks.

Agreement of House and Senate conferees on a final draft of the long-anticipated tax cut bill was seen in Wall Street as both encouraging and the reverse. While it will pour extra dollars into the pockets of the stock-buying public, the tax cut bill has been long anticipated, some analysts note. These think it likely that stocks will "sell off on the news." Others think this theory may be too pat.

In the four-day trading week just ended shortened by a market holiday on Friday in advance of Washington's birthday stocks put on a dawdling performance much of the time. But underneath the surface, interest rotated from group to group while the averages did little.

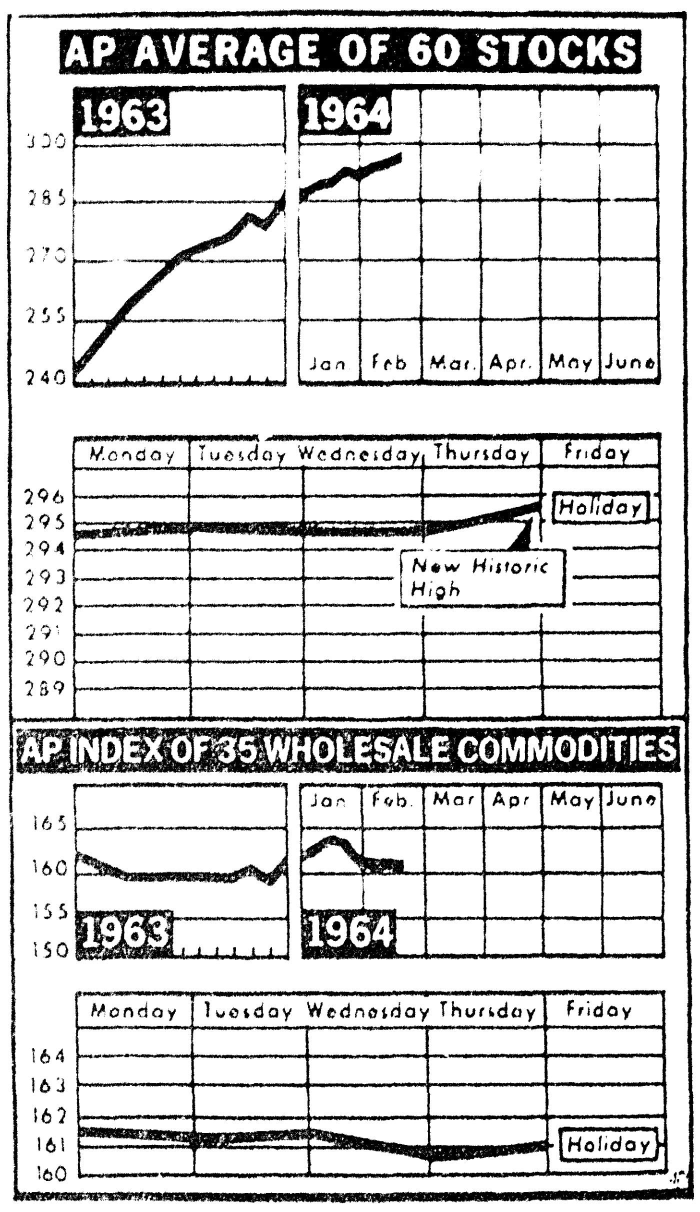
The Dow Jones industrial average made a small gain of 2.43 to close at an historic high of 796.99 — still shy of the significant 800 level which it has been approaching very gingerly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks made a trifling rise of .9 to 295.6, also a record peak.

For the week as a whole, advances outnumbered declines by 745 to 556 of the 1,492 issues traded.

Steels, motors, rubbers, airlines, and the tobacco stocks were favored as the week progressed.

Volume for the shortened week totaled 18,454,540 shares compared with 22,696,010 for the previous week, of five trading days.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks reached a new historic high when it closed this week at 295.6, up from 294.7 a week ago. This was the third straight weekly gain in the barometer. The commodity index, led by livestock, moved lower to 161.0 from 161.5 last week. (AP Wirephoto)

Business Briefs

IN TOP 24

Joseph F. Renwick, manager of the Monroe Agency of the American General Life Insurance Company has been named to his company's Top Two Dozen Club on the basis of his outstanding and exemplary production achievements during the months of January.

The Top Two Dozen Club is one of American General Life's highest, continuing monthly honors available to its field personnel.

Renwick's qualification marked the second time he has been named to the club; he became manager of the Monroe agency just last July. Renwick resides at 207 Clark St.

TAKING COURSE

Ralph Miley of 2364 Spencer Ave. in Monroe, with the International Hod Carriers Building and Common Laborers Union of America, AFL-CIO, has been selected to attend the 35th Session of the Harvard University Trade Union Program held at the Harvard Gaduate School of Business Administration. This session of the program runs from Feb. 19 through May 15, 1964.

The 13-week course deals with actual policy questions and decisions which confront the union leader and is designed to extend to the trade unions the same basic training long offered to men entering business administration.

EARNS HONORS

John C. McNamee, a Multigraph representative in the Monroe area has achieved national prominence in the business machines field and is being honored by membership in the Addressograph-Multigraph Corporation's Hundred Club.

McNamee will attend the 50th Golden Jubilee meeting of the club at the Greenbrier in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Feb. 24 through Feb. 28. He resides at 413 Lincoln Road, Monroe.

ROUND TABLE

Two Monroe insurance executives, James H. Boone and Wesley S. Shafto, have earned membership in the 1964 Million Dollar Round Table.

This is an elite group taken from among the life insurance industry's 3500-member international organization, reserved for million-dollar-a-year sales producers.

Boone is a member of the board of directors, as well as public relations chairman, of the Monroe Association of Life Underwriter. Shafto gained his first annual membership on the round table in 1945.

Independents Revise Policy Of Operation

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The nation's independent oil operators have overhauled a policy statement adopted 17 years ago.

The new document outlines a national oil and gas policy as endorsed by the 7,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America.

The independents have outlined what they consider the basic objectives, considerations, elements and principles of a national oil and gas policy designed to permit the United States to maintain its position of energy supremacy.

Incorporated in the document are recent policy decisions made by the association on such matters as natural gas regulation, taxation, oil imports, public lands use, conservation, and end use controls.

The independents call for government and industry cooperation in investigating the availability of alternative domestic sources of fuels, such as oil shales, but emphasizes that the nation's energy requirements for the foreseeable future will be supplied primarily by petroleum fuels.

"Government policies as to petroleum are, in effect, the controlling determinant of oil and gas supply," says a preface to the 12-page booklet.

"Adequate supplies can be made available from domestic resources, present and potential, as long as national policy so wills."

The independents say national petroleum policies must have three basic goals—assurance to consumers of the adequacy of oil and gas supplies at reasonable prices, assurances to consumers of the accessibility of oil and gas supplies, and assurance to the nation of capabilities and capacities, over and above peacetime requirements, for security and defense needs in times of emergency.

Also included are four basic principles the independents say are founded on a democratic form of government and the benefits to society from individual initiative in a free economy.

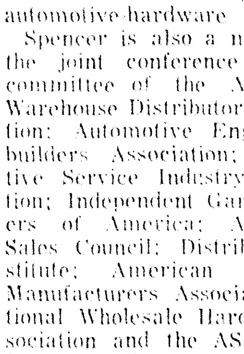
The principles which the oilman consider fundamental are private ownership and the free enterprise system, competition and prevention of monopolistic practices, proper division of responsibilities between state and federal governments, and freedom from unnecessary, impractical and restrictive controls by government.

"Adherence to these principles is essential to the assurance of adequate supplies of oil and gas at reasonable prices," says the concluding paragraph of the document.

Charles Spencer Is Director Of Business Group

Charles R. Spencer, formerly of Spencer, has just been appointed to the board of directors of the Motor Equipment Manufacturers Association.

Spencer attended Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe before going to Denver University in Denver, Colo., where he received a B.A. degree in speech and business in 1950, and a Master's degree in 1952.



SPENCER

For the past thirteen years he has been employed by the Gates Rubber Co., where he is a member of the board of management and sales manager of the automotive hardware division.

Spencer is also a member of the joint conference planning committee of the Automotive Warehouse Distributors Association; Automotive Engeine Rebuilders Association; Automotive Service Industry Association; Independent Garage Owners of America; Automotive Sales Council; Distributors Institute; American Hardware Manufacturers Association, National Wholesale Hardware Association and the ASIA-MEMA joint operating committee.

One of Spencer's projects while in Gates' sales rsearch and market extension department was an extensive three-year study of jobber management problems which culminated in the development of the "Customer Profitability Concept," a study which received national attention.

Spencer is married to the former Patricia Harmer of Salt Lake City, Utah, and the couple has two boys and two girls, 5, 7, 9 and 11.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer of Spencer.

Grain Futures Mostly Bearish, Prices Weaker

CHICAGO (AP) — Influences in the grain futures market were mostly bearish last week and prices were generally weak on the Board of Trade.

New crop wheat contracts sold lower on all the four trading days with losses running to six cents a bushel, the sharpest decline for any comparable period in months. Rye also was down six cents at the extreme and soybeans almost three cents. The feed grains were little changed in dull transactions.

The strongest bearish consideration was the action of a dockworkers' union in refusing to load wheat on certain foreign vessels destined for Russia. Speculators concluded that if the union stood firm on the order from its president the expected massive business with the Soviets could be scuttled after only a cargo or two had cleared port.

At the end of the week, wheat was 4 to 6 cents a bushel lower, March $2.19⅜-¼; soybeans 1⅞-2¾ lower, March $2.64⅛-¼; corn ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, March $1.17⅞-18; oats unchanged to ⅜ higher, March 66 cents; rye 3⅝-6 cents lower, March $1.40¼.

Medicine Provides Securities

NEW YORK (UPI)—Modern medicine and surgery, and their needs for complex and sometimes massive machinery and equipment for laboratory, clinic and hospital, provide a marketing field for a number of the industries whose securities are traded in this financial center.

The research, development and testing divisions of many others engage in long-term projects which bring results in improved techniques or broader applications of knowledge in treatment centers.

It has not yet reached the point where the well-equipped doctor must carry a drawing board, nor where the engineer needs a textbook on anatomy; yet in some areas, close and constant cooperation is demanded between the doctor and the engineer to ensure both the dependability of the finished product and the avoidance of wasted time and effort by the engineer or the production facility.

Dr. Jack Van Elk, head of the hyperbaric oxygen research team at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, Ill., emphasized the importance of this close relationship recently in a discussion with engineers of Borg-Warner Corporation of designing equipment. It was installed this month at the John A. Hartford Hyperbaric Oxygen Research Center, in a hospital addition known as the A. D. Johnson Pavilion .

COOPERATION NECESSARY

"Physicians and engineers have to learn to work together," Van Elk said in telling of many months of planning which went into this experimental project. "It was a feather in Borg-Warner's cap that it was able to work with doctors so closely."

Hyperbaric (high - pressure) oxygen treatment requires that the patient be placed in a pressure chamber and, through air compression, submitted to pressure two or more times normal. The patient then is given pure oxygen to breathe through a mask; the patient's blood under these circumstances can absorb up to 15 times the normal amount of oxygen.

Van Elk explained the high-oxygen treatment can be used in treating carbon monoxide poisoning; such infections as occlusion: all ailments which result when a portion of the body is deprived of its normal oxygen content.

The research center at Lutheran General, Van Elk said, is the largest of its kind, although other high-pressure oxygenation facilities are in use elsewhere in the nation, and Borg-Warner's Roy C. Ingersoll research center at Des Plaines, Ill., is designing others that will be installed this year.

Lutheran General has been engaged in research on high-pressure oxygen use for the past 2½ years. A research committee, preparing for construction of the center, worked closely with engineers and designers at the Roy C. Ingersoll Research Center, named for the man who was former president and chairman of Borg-Warner, and now honorary chairman of the board.

CONTAINS THREE UNITS

Because air pressure, air control and humidity control all were involved in use of the equipment, its design and manufacture was turned over to Borg-Warner's York (Pa.) division, builder of heating, air conditioning and refrigeration equipment. This division also builds smaller hyperbaric oxygen chambers suitable for laboratory and experimental use.

It was decided that the center would contain three hyperbaric oxygen chambers. When finished, the three cylinders, resting horizontally, constituted this:

—A medical research center, 41½ feet long, 10 feet in diameter, weighing 57,200 pounds, designed for six bed patients.

—A surgical center 37 feet, 7 inches long, 12 feet in diameter, weighing 70,400 pounds, large enough for two standard operating attendants and their crews.

World's Fair Bus Plans Revealed By Trailways

Continental Trailways Tours, Inc., has announced bus tour plans for the 1964 World's Fair which will include 236 escorted and semi-conducted tours to New York City, operating throughout the summer. The program will also offer a variety of preplanned packaged tours for individual travel to the World's Fair from 36 states.

D. A. Scott, tour sales director for the firm, a subsidiary of Continental Trainways bus system, made the announcement at a New York City meeting of Continental Trailways tour sales managers from 39 major cities, during which final details of the program were discussed.

"This is the largest tour program we have ever offered, and one of the largest ever programmed by any United States transportation firm," Scott said. "Beside these domestic tours, we will also operate 89 escorted tour departures from New York with multi-lingual escorts, to accommodate tourists from overseas during the peak travel season."

MARCH 3 ELECTION

Winn Voters Hard To Pin On Choices

By RAY P. EAGLES
Correspondent

WINNFIELD (Special) — Will unpredictable Winn Parish remain in the Democratic column, or will it go Republican in the March 3 general election?

Local veteran political experts and election prognosticators appear at a loss in making any concrete predictions.

Ever since Winn Parish was created in 1852, its voting pattern has been unusual and erractic — every election bringing unexpected surprises and upsets.

From its founding, how its voters would vote and for whom, has been unpredictable.

In 1861 Winn voters voted against seccession. After the Civil War and Reconstruction, until the 1880's and early 1900's, they voted Democratic for local, state and national candidates. Then Populism swept over the parish, and in 1896 only one elected parish official was a Democrat — all others were Populist.

After 1900, Populism died out, but along about 1910 the Socialists elected several ward candidates.

From 1892 through 1896, J. Matt McCain was the elected Democratic assessor; the sheriff, clerk of court and representative were all Populists. J. H. Crawford served as sheriff from 1892 through 1900, elected by the Populists, but in 1900 ran for and was elected assessor on the Democratic ticket, serving through 1904.

In 1900, B. W. Bailey was elected sheriff on the Populist ticket and served through 1904. In 1892, R. L. Tannehill was the Populist candidate for governor. He had served from 1872 through 1880 as Democratic sheriff of Winn Parish.

From World War I, until 1940, Winn Parish voters had voted consistently for all Democratic candidates from the local level to the national level.

Beech Creek precinct in 1940 went for Wilkie, the Republican candidate for president. This was the first Winn Parish precinct to vote Republican since the Civil War.

Then in 1944, Tom Dewey, the Republican candidate for president, almost beat Roosevelt in Winn. At the Shady Grove precinct, Dewey beat Roosevelt 47 to 1 — the largest percentage Dewey got in any precinct in the United States.

No Democratic candidate for President has carried Winn Parish since 1944. In 1948, Winn Parish voters went for Strom Thurman, the States Rights presidential candidate. In the past three presidential elections, Winn Parish voters have given majorities in two elections.

In the 1960 presidential election, the late President Kennedy received 1107 votes, while the States Right Party, with no candidate, received 1183 votes, and Republican candidate Nixon, received 1839 votes.

The race for Congressman in the 1962 general election proved another political upset in Winn. Gillis Long, a native of Winn, carried 21 of Winn's 31 precincts, with a total vote of 1757, while Jack Lewis, a Republican candidate from Alexandria, carried 10 precincts. Lewis carried four of the five ward one precincts in the city of Winnfield, while Long only carried one, the Pinecrest Precinct No. 3, all-Negro precinct. Lewis received a total of 1235 votes in the parish.

Democratic nominees in the Winn Parish first and second primaries, who have Republican nominee opposition, are not "safely in" until after the March 3 general election.

Ward one's three Democratic nominees for the three Police Jury post are: Lloyd J. Trawick, Garland H. Sanders and Colvin R. (Cotton) Long. They will be opposed by three Republican candidates who are J. D. Holmes Jr., Floyd L. Main and Dudley Shell.

Winn Parish voters will have two choices for State Senator. W. L. Rambo of Georgetown, the Democratic nominee for the 31st Senatorial District, composed of Caldwell, Grant, LaSalle and Winn, will be opposed by a Winnfield man, retired Army Lt. Col. William S. Walker.

Republican candidate for governor, Charlton Lyons, is well-known throughout Winn Parish, having resided in Winnfield and practiced law during 1919-1920 and 1921.

The unusual and erratic voting pattern of Winn and adjoining North Central Louisiana parishes for the past 100 years, is attracting interest from political writers, social science professors and graduate students of LSU and state colleges. One LSU graduate is now working on a thesis for a doctor's degree, based on the 100-year voting pattern of Winn and nearby parishes.

Progress Made On Cyprus War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said Saturday night he and other negotiators had "made some progress, but not enough" in trying to thrash out a Cyprus peace plan with Secretary-General U Thant.

Stevenson and Sir Patrick Dean of Britain—whose country has almost 7,000 troops on the Mediterranean island trying to curb blood - letting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots—saw Thant on Saturday evening.

Dean told reporters he was encouraged and optimistic, but that nothing had been settled.

"Everybody wants an agreement," he said, "it's just a question of getting it."

OIL, GAS DRILLING

District Activity Continues Down; Four Completed

Drilling activity in the Monroe Oil & Gas District continued to taper slightly last week, with manager Duncan S. Cook reporting but four completions in four of the district's 15 northeast Louisiana parishes.

The completions were recorded in Avoyelles, Concordia, LaSalle and Rapides Parishes. Two recompletions during the week were in Catahoula and Tensas.

The weekly report, released by Cook's Monroe office, listed 24 rigs actively drilling or testing in nine parishes — one each in Avoyelles, Caldwell, Concordia, Grant, Madison, Morehouse and Rapides, eight in La Salle and nine in Tensas.

Thirteen new locations were staked during the week, spotted in seven parishes — four in Concordia, two each in Catahoula, Union and Tensas, and one each in Morehouse, LaSalle and Ouachita.

In Catahoula Parish, the Larto Lake Field, Murphy Oil Company's Farrier No. 1 was recompleted at 6007 feet in section 19-5-6E, while Cenard Oil & Gas's Buck SU 234; Anderson No. 36-14 was recompleted at 8951 feet in section 36-12-11E of Tensas Parish's Buckhorn Field.

Four wells were plugged and abandoned during the week, leaving the district's total of inactive sites at 72.

New Lime Wildcat Test Is Scheduled

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new Smackover Lime wildcat test is scheduled to get underway in Scott County with Austral Oil Co. clearing location for its Eichelberger No. 1, Sec. 19-5N-9E, six miles northwest of the Bienville Forest Field of Smith County. Contract depth is 14,400 feet.

In the Bienville Forest Field, Austral has resumed drilling below 14,113 feet in its federal lease No. 2, Sec 14-4N-9E, after freeing stuck drill pipe.

The venture is an east offset to the discovery well of the field which was completed as Mississippi's first commercial oil well producing from the Smackover Lime Formation. The well was about 40 feet from the top of the sand that produces in the discovery well when the drill pipe stuck.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. drilled below 12,650 feet in its Smith County wildcat, the Shelby No. 1, Sec. 31-10N-16w two miles northeast of Mt. Olive. Operators released little information on the well with reports that several shows of oil and gas have been logged below 12,000 feet. Contract depth is 13,500 feet with the reported shows touching off a royalty and lease buying play in the area. The nearest producing area is the Magee Field six miles north.

In the Hardrock Country of Northeast Mississippi, the second well in the recently-found Thorn Gas Field of Chickasaw County has been completed. Pan American Petroleum Corporation's No. 1, Black Sec. 22-13S-2E, is flowing at the rate of 1,400,000 cubic feet of gas per day from perforations at 3,460-73 feet. The Thorn Field was discovered last year and was granted 640 acre spacing by the state oil and gas board. The states' deepest drilling operation continues to core below 16,450 feet. The venture is Humble Oil and Refining Company's No. 1, Seston Lumber Co., Sec. 6-9S-15W, three miles north of the Ansley Field in Hancock County. Operators released little information on the well with a number of gas shows of undetermined commercial worth logged below 14,000 feet. Humble's second Hancock County wildcat, the Baldwin No. 1, sec. 1-10s-16W, two miles southwest of the Ansley Field is drilling below 11,650 feet after cementing casing at 11,502 feet.

In Amite County, two wildcats in the recently found Pumpkin Patch area are nearing contract depth. Biglane, Alford and Thornhill are below 10,950 feet in his Peterson No. 1, Sec. 1-4N-5E, with both ventures scheduled to be drilled to 11,200 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw two new oilers completed.

In the Magee Field of Simpson County, Larue-Smith Production Co. completed its Womack No. 1, Sec. 1-1-10N-17W, flowing 163 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 12,370-74 feet.

At South Center Ridge in Smith County, Triad Oil & Gas Co. finaled its White No. 1, Sec. 28-1N-8E, flowing 235 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 12,670-84 feet.

Cotton Futures Trading Covers Large Ranges

NEW YORK (AP) —Prices of cotton futures on the domestic market, especially those for the new crop, covered a relatively wide trading range this week but closed with mixed net changes.

At the close of trading Thursday, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were up $1.60 to off 75 cents.

The Exchange was closed Friday in observance of Washington's birthday.

During most of the week the market was sustained by March pre-notice day covering and by price fixing in the remaining two old crop deliveries, while the new crop months had firmed on buying by those in the trade who were doubtful of any new crop legislation being enacted.

During the week ended Monday, 101,000 bales were exported, compared with 140,000 a week earlier and 114,000 a year earlier. For the season through Feb. 17 exports totaled 2,907,000 bales against 1,609,000 at the same time last year.

Mart Nudges Averages To New Records

NEW YORK (AP) — A cautious stock market last week nudged the averages to record highs again and ran its series of weekly gains to three straight.

The market had the advantage of continued good news from business and the economic front as a whole. While the record highs in the averages prompted some analysts to say that a "correction" was at hand, others said that the averages were deceptive — that a great many issues were far below their peaks.

Agreement of House and Senate conferees on a final draft of the long-anticipated tax cut bill was seen in Wall Street as both encouraging and the reverse. While it will pour extra dollars into the pockets of the stock-buying public, the tax-cut bill has been long-anticipated, some analysts note. These think it likely that stocks will "sell off on the news." Others think this theory may be too pat.

In the four-day trading week just ended—shortened by a market holiday on Friday in advance of Washington's birthday—stocks put on a dawdling performance much of the time. But underneath the surface, interest rotated from group to group while the averages did little.

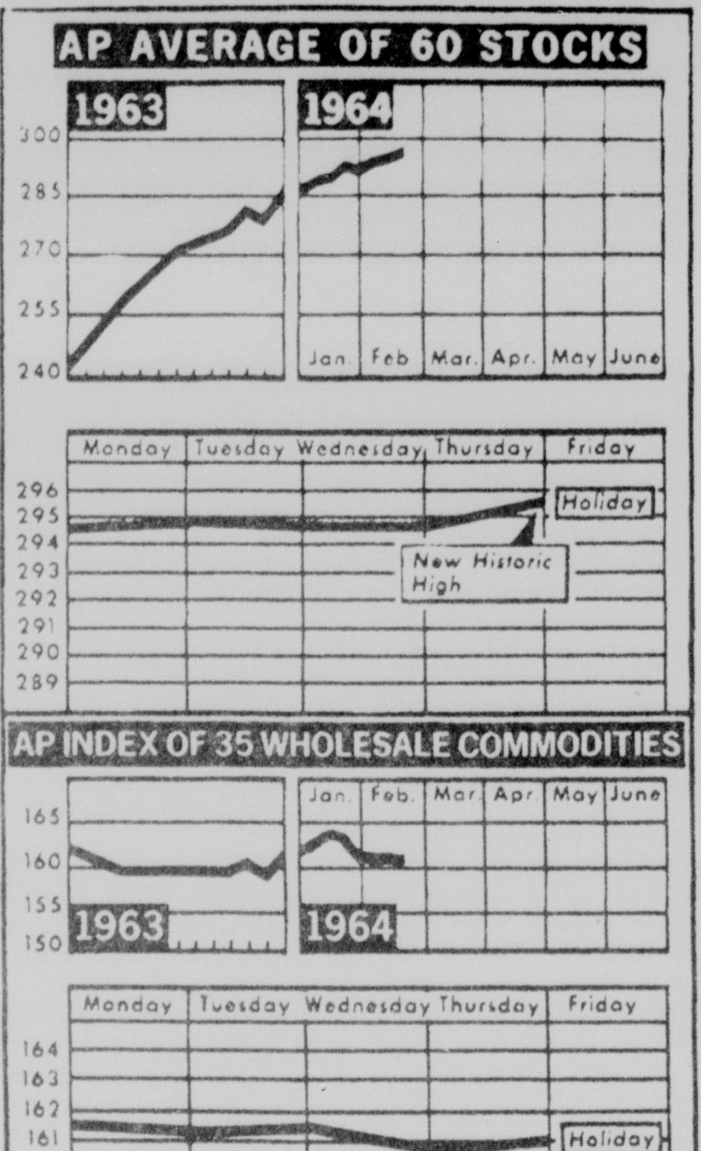
The Dow Jones industrial average made a small gain of 2.43 to close at an historic high of 796.99—still shy of the significant 800 level which it has been approaching very gingerly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks made a trifling rise of .9 to 295.6, also a record peak.

For the week as a whole, advances outnumbered declines by 745 to 556 of the 1,492 issues traded.

Steels, motors, rubbers, airlines, and the tobacco stocks were favored as the week progressed.

Volume for the shortened week totaled 18,454,510 shares compared with 22,026,010 for the previous week, of five trading days.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks reached a new historic high when it closed this week at 295.6, up from 204.7 a week ago. This was the third straight weekly gain in the barometer. The commodity index, led by livestock, moved lower to 161.0 from 161.5 last week. (AP Wirephoto)

Boone is a member of the board of directors, as well as public relations chairman, of the Monroe Association of Life Underwriter. Shafto gained his first annual membership on the round table in 1945.

Independents Revise Policy Of Operation

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The nation's independent oil operators have overhauled a policy statement adopted 17 years ago.

The new document outlines a national oil and gas policy as endorsed by the 7,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America.

The independents have outlined what they consider the basic objectives, considerations, elements and principles of a national oil and gas policy designed to permit the United States to maintain its position of energy supremacy.

Incorporated in the document are recent policy decisions made by the association on such matters as natural gas regulation, taxation, oil imports, public lands use, conservation, and end use controls.

The independents call for government and industry cooperation in investigating the availability of alternative domestic sources of fuels, such as oil shales, but emphasizes that the nation's energy requirements for the foreseeable future will be supplied primarily by petroleum fuels.

"Government policies as to petroleum are, in effect, the controlling determinant of oil and gas supply," says a preface to the 12-page booklet.

"Adequate supplies can be made available from domestic resources, present and potential, as long as national policy so wills."

The independents say national petroleum policies must have three basic goals—assurance to consumers of the adequacy of oil and gas supplies at reasonable prices, assurances to consumers of the accessibility of oil and gas supplies, and assurance to the nation of capabilities and capacities, over and above peacetime requirements, for security and defense needs in times of emergency.

Also included are four basic principles the independents say are founded on a democratic form of government and the benefits to society from individual initiative in a free economy.

The principles which the oilman consider fundamental are private ownership and the free enterprise system, competition and prevention of monopolistic practices, proper division of responsibilities between state and federal governments, and freedom from unnecessary, impractical and restrictive controls by government.

"Adherence to these principles is essential to the assurance of adequate supplies of oil and gas at reasonable prices," says the concluding paragraph of the document.

Charles Spencer Is Director Of Business Group

Charles R. Spencer, formerly of Spencer, has just been appointed to the board of directors of the Motor Equipment Manufacturers Association.

SPENCER

Spencer attended Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe before going to Denver University in Denver, Colo., where he received a B.A. degree in speech and business in 1950, and a Master's degree in 1952.

For the past thirteen years he has been employed by the Gates Rubber Co., where he is a member of the board of management and sales manager of the automotive-hardware division.

Spencer is also a member of the joint conference planning committee of the Automotive Warehouse Distributors Association; Automotive Engeine Rebuilders Association; Automotive Service Industry Association; Independent Garage Owners of America; Automotive Sales Council; Distributors Institute; American Hardware Manufacturers Association, National Wholesale Hardware Association and the ASIA-MEMA joint operating committee.

One of Spencer's projects while in Gates' sales rsearch and market extension department was an extensive three-year study of jobber management problems which culminated in the development of the "Customer Profitability Concept," a study which received national attention.

Spencer is married to the former Patricia Harmer of Salt Lake City, Utah, and the couple has two boys and two girls, 5, 7, 9 and 11.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer of Spencer.

Grain Futures Mostly Bearish, Prices Weaker

CHICAGO (AP) — Influences in the grain futures market were mostly bearish last week and prices were generally weak on the Board of Trade.

New crop wheat contracts sold lower on all the four trading days with losses running to six cents a bushel, the sharpest decline for any comparable period in months. Rye also was down six cents at the extreme and soybeans almost three cnts. The feed grains were little changed in dull transactions.

The strongest bearish consideration was the action of a dockworkers' union in refusing to load wheat on certain foreign vessels destined for Russia. Speculators concluded that if the union stood firm on the order from its president the expected massive business with the Soviets could be scuttled after only a cargo or two had cleared port.

At the end of the week, wheat was 4 to 6 cents a bushel lower, March $2.19⅜-¼; soybeans 1⅞-2¾ lower, March $2.64⅛-¼; corn ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, March $1.17⅞-18; oats unchanged to ⅜ higher, March 66 cents; rye 3⅜-6 cents lower, March $1.40¼.

Medicine Provides Securities

NEW YORK (UPI)—Modern medicine and surgery, and their needs for complex and sometimes massive machinery and equipment for laboratory, clinic and hospital, provide a marketing field for a number of the industries whose securities are traded in this financial center.

The research, development and testing divisions of many others engage in long-term projects which bring results in improved techniques or broader applications of knowledge in treatment centers.

It has not yet reached the point where the well-equipped doctor must carry a drawing board, nor where the engineer needs a textbook on anatomy; yet in some areas, close and constant cooperation is demanded between the doctor and the engineer to ensure both the dependability of the finished product and the avoidance of wasted time and effort by the engineer or the production facility.

Dr. Jack Van Elk, head of the hyperbaric oxygen research team at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, Ill., emphasized the importance of this close relationship recently in a discussion with engineers of Borg-Warner Corporation of designing equipment. It was installed this month at the John A. Hartford Hyperbaric Oxygen Research Center, in a hospital addition known as the A. D. Johnson Pavilion .

COOPERATION NECESSARY

"Physicians and engineers have to learn to work together," Van Elk said in telling of many months of planning which went into this experimental project. "It was a feather in Borg-Warner's cap that it was able to work with doctors so closely."

Hyperbaric (high - pressure) oxygen treatment requires that the patient be placed in a pressure chamber and, through air compression, submitted to pressure two or more times normal. The patient then is given pure oxygen to breathe through a mask; the patient's blood under these circumstances can absorb up to 15 times the normal amount of oxygen.

Van Elk explained the high-oxygen treatment can be used in treating carbon monoxide poisoning; such infections as occlusion; all ailments which result when a portion of the body is deprived of its normal oxygen content.

The research center at Lutheran General, Van Elk said, is the largest of its kind, although other high-pressure oxygenation facilities are in use elsewhere in the nation, and Borg-Warner's Roy C. Ingersoll research center at Des Plaines, Ill., is designing others that will be installed this year.

Lutheran General has been engaged in research on high-pressure oxygen use for the past 2½ years. A research committee, preparing for construction of the center, worked closely with engineers and designers at the Roy C. Ingersoll Research Center, named for the man who was former president and chairman of Borg-Warner, and now honorary chairman of the board.

CONTAINS THREE UNITS

Because air pressure, air control and humidity control all were involved in use of the equipment, its design and manufacture was turned over to Borg-Warner's York (Pa.) division, builder of heating, air conditioning and refrigeration equipment. This division also builds smaller hyperbaric oxygen chambers suitable for laboratory and experimental use.

It was decided that the center would contain three hyperbaric oxygen chambers. When finished, the three cylinders, resting horizontally, constituted this:

—A medical research center, 41½ feet long, 10 feet in diameter, weighing 57,200 pounds, designed for six bed patients.

—A surgical center 37 feet, 7 inches long, 12 feet in diameter, weighing 70,400 pounds, large enough for two standard operating attendants and their crews.

World's Fair Bus Plans Revealed By Trailways

Continental Trailways Tours, Inc., has announced bus tour plans for the 1964 World's Fair which will include 236 escorted and semi-conducted tours to New York City, operating throughout the summer. The program will also offer a variety of preplanned packaged tours for individual travel to the World's Fair from 36 states.

D. A. Scott, tour sales director for the firm, a subsidiary of Continental Trainways bus system, made the announcement at a New York City meeting of Continental Trailways tour sales managers from 39 major cities, during which final details of the program were discussed.

"This is the largest tour program we have ever offered, and one of the largest ever programmed by any United States transportation firm," Scott said. "Beside these domestic tours, we will also operate 89 escorted tour departures from New York with multi-lingual escorts, to accommodate tourists from overseas during the peak travel season."

MARCH 3 ELECTION

Winn Voters Hard To Pin On Choices

By RAY P. EAGLES
Correspondent

WINNFIELD (Special) — Will unpredictable Winn Parish remain in the Democratic column, or will it go Republican in the March 3 general election?

Local veteran political experts and election prognosticators appear at a loss in making any concrete predictions.

Ever since Winn Parish was created in 1852, its voting pattern has been unusual and erractic — every election bringing unexpected surprises and upsets.

From its founding, how its voters would vote and for whom, has been unpredictable.

In 1861 Winn voters voted against seccession. After the Civil War and Reconstruction, until the 1880's and early 1900's, they voted Democratic for local, state and national candidates. Then Populism swept over the parish, and in 1896 only one elected parish official was a Democrat — all others were Populist.

After 1900, Populism died out, but along about 1910 the Socialists elected several ward candidates.

From 1892 through 1896, J. Matt McCain was the elected Democratic assessor; the sheriff, clerk of court and representative were all Populists. J. H. Crawford served as sheriff from 1892 through 1900, elected by the Populists, but in 1900 ran for and was elected assessor on the Democratic ticket, serving through 1904.

In 1900, B. W. Bailey was elected sheriff on the Populist ticket and served thrugh 1904. In 1892, R. L. Tannehill was the Populist candidate for governor. He had served from 1872 through 1880 as Democratic sheriff of Winn Parish.

From World War I, until 1940, Winn Parish voters had voted consistently for all Democratic candidates from the local level to the national level.

Beech Creek precinct in 1940 went for Wilkie, the Republican candidate for president. This was the first Winn Parish precinct to vote Republican since the Civil War.

Then in 1944, Tom Dewey, the Republican candidate for president, almost beat Roosevelt in Winn. At the Shady Grove precinct, Dewey beat Roosevelt 47 to 1 — the largest percentage Dewey got in any precinct in the United States.

No Democratic candidate for President has carried Winn Parish since 1944. In 1948, Winn Parish voters went for Strom Thurman, the States Rights presidential candidate. In the past three presidential elections, Winn Parish voters have given majorities in two elections.

In the 1960 presidential election, the late President Kennedy received 1107 votes, while the States Right Party, with no candidate, received 1183 votes, and Republican candidate Nixon. received 1839 votes.

The race for Congressman in the 1962 general election proved another political upset in Winn. Gillis Long, a native of Winn, carried 21 of Winn's 31 precincts, with a total vote of 1757, while Jack Lewis, a Republican candidate from Alexandria, carried 10 precincts. Lewis carried four of the five ward one precincts in the city of Winnfield, while Long only carried one, the Pinecrest Precinct No. 3, all-Negro precinct. Lewis received a total of 1235 votes in the parish.

Democratic nominees in the Winn Parish first and second primaries, who have Republican nominee opposition, are not "safely in" until after the March 3 general election.

Ward one's three Democratic nominees for the three Police Jury post are: Lloyd J. Trawick, Garland H. Sanders and Colvin R. (Cotton) Long. They will be opposed by three Republican candidates who are J. D. Holmes Jr., Floyd L. Main and Dudley Shell.

Winn Parish voters will have two choices for State Senator. W. L. Rambo of Georgetown, the Democratic nominee for the 31st Senatorial District, composed of Caldwell, Grant, LaSalle and Winn, will be opposed by a Winnfield man, retired Army Lt. Col. William S. Walker.

Republican candidate for governor, Charlton Lyons, is well-known throughout Winn Parish, having resided in Winnfield and practiced law during 1919-1920 and 1921.

The unusual and erratic voting pattern of Winn and adjoining North Central Louisiana parishes for the past 100 years, is attracting interest from political writers, social science professors and graduate students of LSU and state colleges. One LSU graduate is now working on a thesis for a doctor's degree, based on the 100-year voting pattern of Winn and nearby parishes.

Police Activity Reported Light In Twin Cities

Monroe Police Saturday reported a 37-year-old man, James N. Jackson, of 202 Tennessee St., has been booked on charges of driving while intoxicated. Jackson was arrested at 11:15 p. m. Friday at the DeSiard Street and Powell Avenue intersection.

West Monroe Police booked three persons early Saturday on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Melvin Lyons, 39, Negro, of 126 Short Lee St., West Monroe, was arrested at 12 a. m. on Cypress Street in West Monroe. Arrested at 12:20 a. m. on Herman Street in West Monroe, was Myrties H. Wilson, 48, Negro, of General Delivery, Farmerville. Also charged with driving while intoxicated was Lindon Stone, 38, Negro, of General Delivery, Monroe. He was arrested at 12:55 a. m. Saturday on N. 7th. St., West Monroe.

Progress Made On Cyprus War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said Saturday night he and other negotiators had "made some progress, but not enough" in trying to thrash out a Cyprus peace plan with Secretary-General U Thant.

Stevenson and Sir Patrick Dean of Britain—whose country has almost 7,000 troops on the Mediterranean island trying to curb blood - letting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots—saw Thant on Saturday evening.

Dean told reporters he was encouraged and optimistic, but that nothing had been settled.

"Everybody wants an agreement," he said, "it's just a question of getting it."

Dupont Honored By Century Club

Marion Dupont, National Deputy Chief of Staff of Veterans of World War 1, and member of Leo Terzia Barracks 3279 of Monroe, has been made a member of the National Century Club of the organization.

Dupont was given the honor for signing up 144 new members for the organization. The award was sent to him by W. Ed Hudson, national adjutant of the organization.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Rembrandt Made Tricky Use of Want Ads

During a period when he was desperate for money, famous painter Rembrandt placed a Classified notice of his death . . . and another ad offering his paintings for sale.

Crowds flocked to the sale, paying as much for a sketch as he formerly got for paintings!

$5 to first sender of each true newspaper Classified Advertising result story we accept. Howard Parish Associates, 1345 East 10th Ave., Hialeah, Fla.

FOR SALE
NEW LISTING
20 ACRES
BETWEEN Highway 15 and Highway 80, W.M. Gas and lights. 3 sides fenced. All minerals. $4000.
NEW LISTING
1340 ACRES
ALL black alluvial delta soil. 244 acre cotton allotment, 131 acres rice, 800 acres alluvial bean and potato land. Cotton gin at edge of property, easily accessible. 150 acres in lake, used for irrigation. No main house, but several good tenant houses. Owner will assist in financing. This land made 700 pounds of cotton per acre last year without irrigation.
1170 ACRES
BARGAIN priced! 290 acres adjoining. Rolling hills, creek bottom meadows in Bermuda. Ideal for a large cattle ranch. Consists of 2 modern homes, 3 sets of large hay barns, electrically pressured water to all buildings and corrals. This is top grazing land, no rocks, just rolling hills and valleys. Located on main and heavily traveled blacktop highway. Water from 11 deep wells, 3 large spring-fed creeks. Good cattle fencing. Includes equipment, cattle, and only $130 an acre, 1-3 down, balance easy terms.
155 ACRES
ALL in grass, on gravel road 2 miles from state blacktop highway. Lovely home with wood-burning fireplace. A delightful view of the valley surrounding this place. Pressured water to all buildings. Located in community of above-average dairy farms, 30 miles from big city. 2 barns, 2 stock ponds, partly fenced. Very reasonable price. $8000 down, balance on easy terms.
1150 ACRES
CITY conveniences harmonized with rural charm unites gracious living with pride of ownership in this 5 bedroom, 2-story home of colonnades and artistic construction. Looking out upon a beautiful 3 acre lake and a heavily traveled blacktop highway, this beautiful homesite is encircled by a green valley of lush grass meadows. The main stock barn at this homesite is very large. Many hay storage barns scattered over the acreage. Pressured water to the home, barns and corrals. 4 large stock ponds never dry. Active creek flows through grazing areas. This property is tops as a cattle range. Fenced and cross fenced. Controlled grazing for 400 to 500 head of beef cattle. This is a showplace that you've been dreaming about and we can afford to offer it to you at $200 an acre. 1-3 down, balance on very satisfactory terms.
420 ACRES
DAIRY farm. Not now operated as dairy farm. Owner's retired. 10 room ranch type brick home, 2 years old. Sits far back to avoid highway dust, but yet retains an interesting view of the heavily traveled blacktop highway. Over 200 acres of improved and cultivated grass and hay, lush creek bottom meadow. Grade A equipment dairy barn, large enough for implement used. Many large hay barns, 8,000 bale capacity. Fenced and cross-fenced. Pressured water to all buildings and corrals. Large creek through grazing area. Everlasting water supply. Mineral rights go with the land. All of this and many other additional features. Call us for price and terms.
600 ACRES
A new beautiful home on the cattle range. This acreage connects with another farm we have of 1170 acres, or approximately 3000 acres available here. The 600 acres is practically all cleared with the exception of necessary shade for the herd. Just slightly rolling hills. Fenced and cross-fenced, with good cattle wire. 3 tenant homes, modern. 3 sets large stock barns, 8 open faced hay sheds, large stock ponds fed by large springs and creeks. 215 head cattle included. 150 of these cattle are registered Black Angus. Located on blacktop. 10 miles from a big town. This good and heavy grass land will support 300 head of cattle. Call us for price.

FOR SALE
1400 ACRES
1000 OPEN acres in cultivation and grass. 2 modern family homes, 2 semi-modern tenant houses, 2 large hay barns. Fenced and cross-fenced. Now supplies grass for over 300 mother cows. Large never-dry creek crosses the grazing area. In addition, there are 4 large stock ponds. Only 3 miles to a gravel U. S. highway. One of the best buys — you can't tie this bargain. Only $100 an acre for this highly improved stock and crop farm. 1-3 down, balance on easy terms.
12,474 ACRES
With large ranch house. Fenced and cross-fenced. Included is the town house in Saltillo, Old Mexico.
ONLY $10 PER ACRE
LOCATED on a double highway, 265 miles south of the U. S. border. ABUNDANT WATER SUPPLY — in Mexico, this alone is worth the price asked for this entire property. 35 ft. depth to the water. THE PRESENT 2 WELLS supply to 300 acres of irrigated alfalfa. Would return first year 5 cuttings, producing 1 ton per acre. Total 5 tons per acre. Alfalfa in Mexico average market price $50 per ton. A return of $250 per acre annually. This alone is intriguing for only 300 acres of this vast ranch. ADDITIONAL 5 WELLS would irrigate a seeded 1500 acres, fenced and cross-fenced, to total cattle grazing. 1000 lean cattle purchased in Mexico at an average of $14.50 per hundred wt., sold in Mexico when fattened, at an average of $25.50 per hundred wt. This is a spread of $11 in addition to the weight gained. First year turnover expected to net for 1000 head, $47,000. WINTER WHEAT for winter grazing. Stock removed at early spring, then harvest at an average of $2.20 per bushel. This is hard mountain wheat. UNLIMITED POTENTIAL CHICKEN BROILER BUSINESS. Chicks purchased from Mexico's government hatcheries at 4 cents each, marketed when mature at 51 cents per pound average. LABOR — daily common labor 80 cents per day. Superintendent status, $2 a day. Maids are paid 25 cents to 50 cents a day. American vision and hustle under this ownership would permit purchaser to begin immediately to bale his operation profits. For further information, call us.
791 ACRES
COTTON-BEAN land. A distress sale. Severe heart attack prompts the owner to sell this 791 acre tract of good cotton-bean land at only $225 per acre. This has produced 2 bales per acre. Already cleared for the 1964 crop. Only Johnson grass to be plowed under. The 791 acres have 2 tracts separated by about 2 miles, one on main highway. Improvements are good. ½ mineral rights. All land tillable except 30 acres. 150 acre cotton allotment and more can be had that is in soil bank. Includes 3 bedroom and bath residence. Plumbing and pressured water from 600 ft. deep well to the dwelling and corrals, electricity. All weather road with all pickups including school bus. This is dark alluvial soil like BLACK GOLD! This is really a bargain at only $225 an acre. For all cash, probably could be bought cheaper.

FOR SALE
NEW LISTING
20 ACRES
BETWEEN Highway 15 and Highway 80, W.M. Gas and lights. 3 sides fenced. All minerals. $4000.
NEW LISTING
1340 ACRES
ALL black alluvial delta soil. 244 acre cotton allotment, 131 acres rice, 800 acres alluvial bean and potato land. Cotton gin at edge of property, easily accessible. 150 acres in lake, used for irrigation. No main house, but several good tenant houses. Owner will assist in financing. This land made 700 pounds of cotton per acre last year without irrigation.
1170 ACRES
BARGAIN priced! 290 acres adjoining. Rolling hills, creek bottom meadows in Bermuda. Ideal for a large cattle ranch. Consists of 2 modern homes, 3 sets of large hay barns, electrically pressured water to all buildings and corrals. This is top grazing land, no rocks, just rolling hills and valleys. Located on main and heavily traveled blacktop highway. Water from 11 deep wells, 3 large spring-fed creeks. Good cattle fencing. Includes equipment, cattle, and only $130 an acre. 1-3 down, balance easy terms.
155 ACRES
ALL in grass, on gravel road 2 miles from state blacktop highway. Lovely home with wood-burning fireplace. A delightful view of the valley surrounding this place. Pressured water to all buildings. Located in community of above-average dairy farms, 30 miles from big city. 2 barns, 2 stock ponds, partly fenced. Very reasonable price. $8000 down, balance on easy terms.
1150 ACRES
CITY conveniences harmonized with rural charm unites gracious living with pride of ownership in this 5 bedroom, 2-story home of colonnades and artistic construction. Looking out upon a beautiful 3 acre lake and a heavily traveled blacktop highway, this beautiful homesite is encircled by a green valley of lush grass meadows. The main stock barn at this homesite is very large. Many hay storage barns scattered over the acreage. Pressured water to the home, barns, and corrals. 4 large stock ponds—never dry. Active creek flows through grazing areas. This property is tops as a cattle range. Fenced and cross fenced. Controlled grazing for 400 to 500 head of beef cattle. This is a showplace that you've been dreaming about and we can afford to offer it to you at $200 an acre. 1-3 down, balance on very satisfactory terms.
420 ACRES
DAIRY farm. Not now operated as dairy farm. Owner's retired. 10 room ranch type brick home, 2 years old. Sits far back to avoid highway dust, but yet retains an interesting view of the heavily traveled blacktop highway. Over 200 acres of improved and cultivated grass and hay, lush creek bottom meadow. Grade A equipment dairy barn, large enough for implement shed. Many large hay barns, 8,000 bale capacity. Fenced and cross-fenced. Pressured water to all buildings and corrals. Large creek through grazing area. Everlasting water supply. Mineral rights go with the land. All of this and many other additional features. Call us for price and terms.
600 ACRES
A new beautiful home on the cattle range. This acreage connects with another farm we have of 1170 acres, or approximately 3000 acres available here. The 600 acres is practically all cleared with the exception of necessary shade for the herd. Just slightly rolling hills. Fenced and cross-fenced, with good cattle wire. 3 tenant homes, modern. 3 sets large stock barns, 8 open faced hay sheds, large stock ponds fed by large springs and creeks. 215 head cattle included. 150 of these cattle are registered Black Angus. Located on blacktop, 40 miles from a big town. This good and heavy grass land will support 300 head of cattle. Call us for price.

1400 ACRES
1000 OPEN acres in cultivation and grass. 2 modern family homes, 2 semi-modern tenant houses, 2 large hay barns. Fenced and cross-fenced. Now supplies grass for over 300 mother cows. Large never-dry creek crosses the grazing area. In addition, there are 4 large stock ponds. Only 3 miles to a gravel U. S. highway. One of the best buys — you can't tie this bargain. Only $100 an acre for this highly improved stock and crop farm. 1-3 down, balance on easy terms.
12,474 ACRES
With large ranch house. Fenced and cross-fenced. Included is the town house in Saltillo, Old Mexico.
ONLY $10 PER ACRE
LOCATED on a double highway, 265 miles south of the U. S. border. ABUNDANT WATER SUPPLY — in Mexico, this alone is worth the price asked for this entire property. 35 ft. depth to the water. THE PRESENT 2 WELLS supply to 300 acres of irrigated alfalfa. Would return first year 5 cuttings, producing 1 ton per acre. Total 5 tons per acre. Alfalfa in Mexico average market price $50 per ton. A return of $250 per acre annually. This alone is intriguing for only 300 acres of this vast ranch. ADDITIONAL 5 WELLS would irrigate a seeded 1500 acres, fenced and cross-fenced, to total cattle grazing. 1000 lean cattle purchased in Mexico at an average of $14.50 per hundred wt., sold in Mexico when fattened, at an average of $25.50 per hundred wt. This is a spread of $11 in addition to the weight gained. First year turnover expected to net for 1000 head, $47,000. WINTER WHEAT for winter grazing. Stock removed at early spring, then harvest at an average of $2.20 per bushel. This is hard mountain wheat. UNLIMITED POTENTIAL CHICKEN BROILER BUSINESS. Chicks purchased from Mexico's government hatcheries at 4 cents each, marketed when mature at 51 cents per pound average. LABOR—daily common labor 80 cents per day. Superintendent status, $2 a day. Maids are paid 25 cents to 50 cents a day. American vision and hustle under this ownership would permit purchaser to begin immediately to bale his operation profits. For further information, call us.
791 ACRES
COTTON-BEAN land. A distress sale. Severe heart attack prompts the owner to sell this 791 acre tract of good cotton-bean land at only $225 per acre. This has produced 2 bales per acre. Already cleared for the 1964 crop. Only Johnson grass to be plowed under. The 791 acres have 2 tracts separated by about 2 miles, one on main highway. Improvements are good. ½ mineral rights. All land tillable except 30 acres. 150 acre cotton allotment and more can be had that is in soil bank. Includes 3 bedroom and bath residence. Plumbing and pressured water from 600 ft. deep well to the dwelling and corrals, electricity. All weather road with all pickups including school bus. This is dark alluvial soil like BLACK GOLD! This is really a bargain at only $225 an acre. For all cash, probably could be bought cheaper.

LOOK, DEAR-- I PICKED UP A GENUINE GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK AT AN AUCTION
WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO PUT IT?
IT'S A REAL HEIRLOOM--WE'LL PUT IT IN THE LIVING ROOM
OH, NO, YOU DON'T! THERE'S NO ROOM FOR IT
OKAY--THEN WE'LL PUT IT IN THE BEDROOM
I'LL WIND IT AND SET IT BEFORE I GET IN BED
TICK TOCK

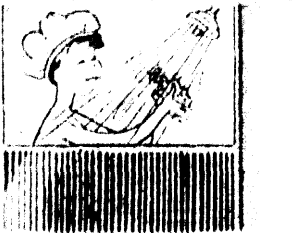
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

The handiest things in our home are some little sacks my mother made from two terry cloth washrags. She put a draw string on the open end.

We put all the slivers of leftover soap in the bags. They are fabulous to bathe with! The draw string may be used to hang the little soap bags over the faucet or shower nozzle.

The soap always dries out, so there is no waste. Nor can anyone slip on a bar of soap that has been dropped in the shower. (Ever try to stoop over and pick up a bar of soap while the shower is going full blast?)



This method of soap saving has become so popular in our home that we often cut up bars of soap just for this purpose!

Jane and Harry

A HINT OF LAVENDER

DEAR HELOISE:

I always sprinkle a few drops of oil of lavender in my bookcases and on the baseboard of my closets. This sure takes away that moldy odor in closed places.

A Reader

ICE TRAY BROILER

DEAR HELOISE:

Don't throw away your old ice cube trays.

They are excellent to use when broiling wieners, sausage or bacon, etc.

I just line the tray with crumpled foil, put the meat in . . . broil, remove the foil and its contents from the tray, and serve. Makes a nice compact broiling pan.

Also, a pancake turner may be used to lift the cooked meat out in a jiffy as it is a perfect shape for this broiling pan. Real easy.

Margaret Jefferson

GAINING GROUNDS

DEAR HELOISE:

To fill a canister from a coffee can without spilling it all over the counter. . . . I use a beer can opener and make an opening on the edge of the can. The coffee pours out of the can as though it had a spout!

June Stegina

HIDDEN INVENTORY

DEAR HELOISE:

When I buy bedspreads, curtains, mattress pads, drapes—or similar items that are used in the bedroom—I slip the washing instructions between the mattress and the box spring. This way I never have to hunt for them.

I also write on the instruction sheet the price I paid for the item, the date and place I purchased it.

This way I always know where to go for my next purchase and what brand to ask for.

Reader

TIP OF THE HAT

DEAR HELOISE:

We recently bought a chrome-leg dinette set with rubber tips on each leg. These tips made marks on my floor.

I cut up my husband's old felt hat (a woman's felt hat would do the same thing) and glued a little piece of felt on the bottom of each rubber tip. No more marks!

Millie S.

Have you ever tried moleskin sheets or plasters? You buy them in the drugstore for corns. Just take your scissors, cut off a little piece and apply it to the bottom, with the felt side down.

Heloise

BLACKBOARD FUN

DEAR HELOISE:

I painted an old window shade with several coats of blackboard paint and then mounted it on the wall in our children's room. This makes an excellent scribble board and can be rolled up out of the way when not in use.

Tahaka

LINEN CLOSET

DEAR HELOISE:

When putting away the bedding for sets of twin beds, I fold the contour sheet a little smaller than the top sheet and slip it inside the last fold of my top sheet. This saves fumbling for "companion" sheets on bed-changing days.

Lois Jones

GIVE IT THE BRUSH

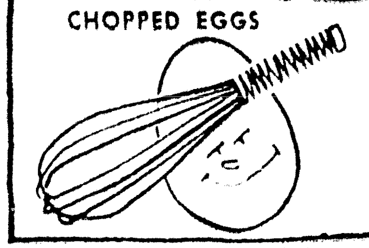
DEAR HELOISE:

Perhaps you and everyone else has already thought of this hint, but it took me thirty years to discover it!

When I grate lemon or orange rind, I use a pastry brush to remove every last particle from the grater. I grate the rind over a piece of wax paper, and when I have brushed it off the grater, I use the same pastry brush to scoop the amount needed into my measuring spoon.

Marian

CHOPPED EGGS



DEAR HELOISE:

Chopping eggs for egg salad was such a job until I finally learned to use my pastry blender. Now a few "chops," and both white and yolk are in fine pieces.

S.H.V.

OVER THE LINE

DEAR HELOISE:

When hanging up clothes in the basement (I don't have a dryer) I don't even use clothespins!

I just hang the clothes over the line as straight as possible. Saves time, clothespin marks, and makes ironing go faster, too.

Eve

EYEBROW SHARPENER

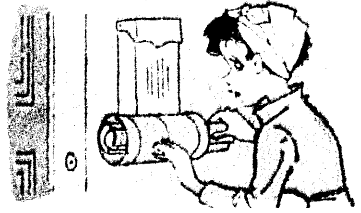
DEAR HELOISE:

Losing half an eyebrow pencil in a pencil sharpener can be frustrating and expensive. . . .

I find that putting the eyebrow pencil in the freezer compartment of my refrigerator before sharpening it does the trick!

Anna Criscuolo

FOR THE MAILMAN



DEAR HELOISE:

For those who have lots of mail, magazines and papers. . . .

Take a large (one quart) fruit juice can and cut off both ends. Remove the label, and either leave as is or paint it to match your mailbox.

Nail this below your mailbox and it will hold all your papers and magazines.

For those who don't have too much mail, use smaller-size cans. My postman loves it. All he has to do now is roll the big items and put them in the can so they don't jam up the mailbox. Too . . . it eliminates crushed and folded reading material when you open it.

Louie

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.

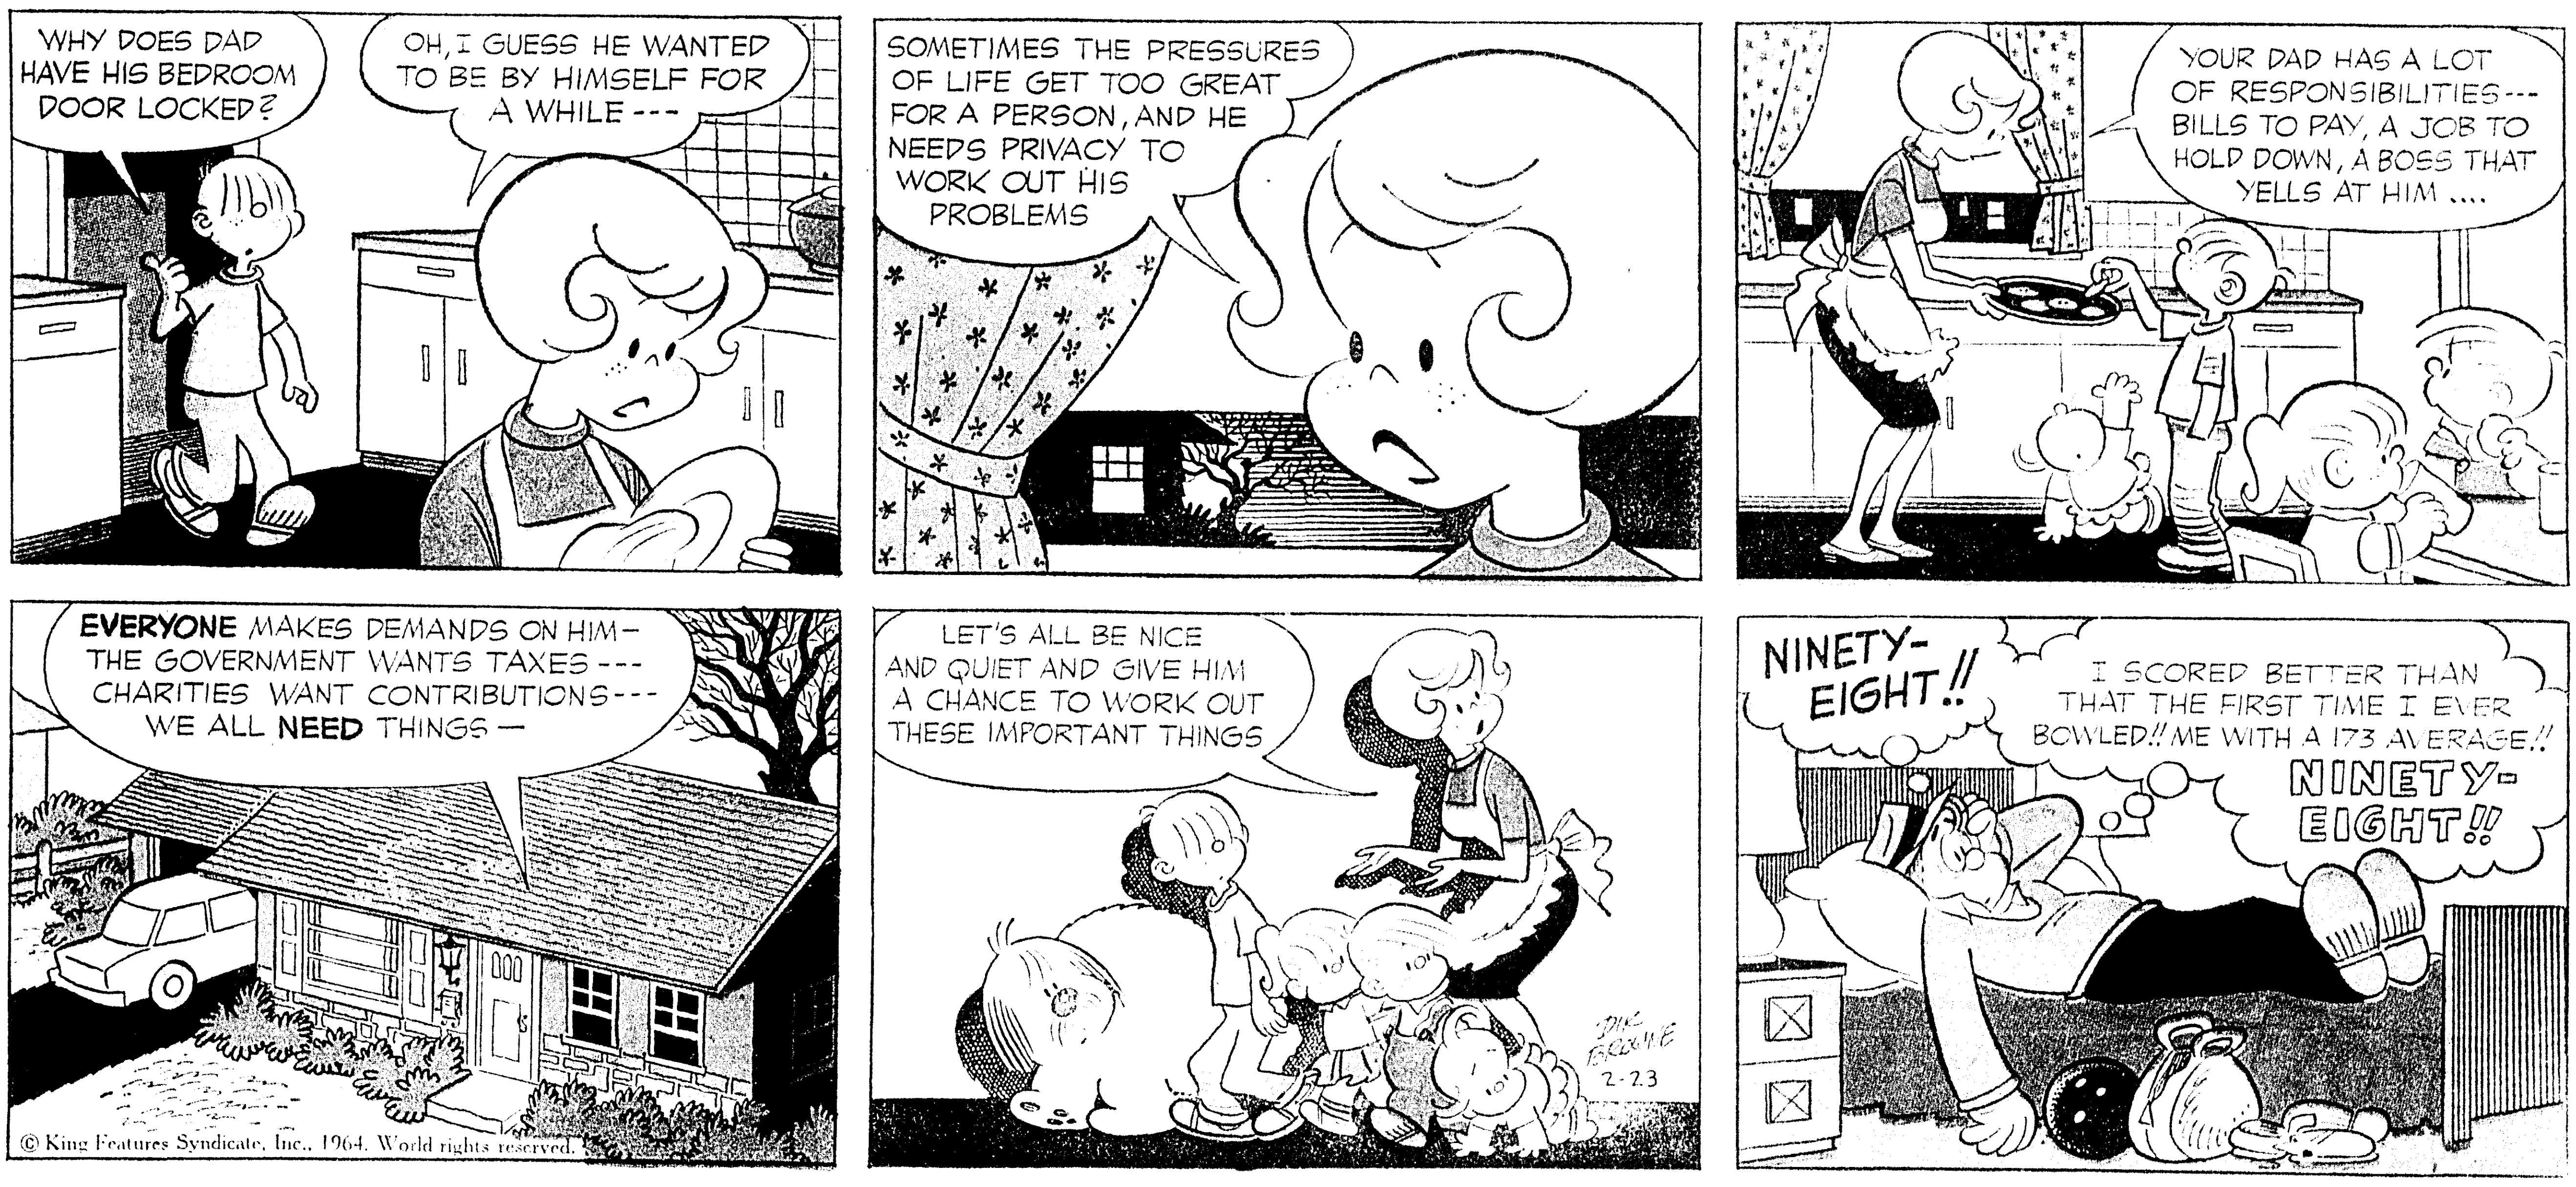
Hi and Lois

by MORT WALKER and DIK BROWNE



WHY DOES DAD HAVE HIS BEDROOM DOOR LOCKED?
OH, I GUESS HE WANTED TO BE BY HIMSELF FOR A WHILE---
SOMETIMES THE PRESSURES OF LIFE GET TOO GREAT FOR A PERSON, AND HE NEEDS PRIVACY TO WORK OUT HIS PROBLEMS
YOUR DAD HAS A LOT OF RESPONSIBILITIES---BILLS TO PAY, A JOB TO HOLD DOWN, A BOSS THAT YELLS AT HIM....
EVERYONE MAKES DEMANDS ON HIM-THE GOVERNMENT WANTS TAXES---CHARITIES WANT CONTRIBUTIONS---WE ALL NEED THINGS—
LET'S ALL BE NICE AND QUIET AND GIVE HIM A CHANCE TO WORK OUT THESE IMPORTANT THINGS

Little Orphan Annie
"NO PAST IS DEAD FOR US, BUT ONLY SLEEPING."-HELEN HUNT JACKSON - "UNDERNEATH THE SURFACE OF TODAY, LIES YESTERDAY, AND WHAT WE CALL THE PAST." -EUGENE LEE-HAMILTON.
OH, ASP! THEY DIDN'T GET YOU ON THAT ISLAND AFTER ALL!
ANNIE! IT IS GOOD YOU REMEMBER ME!
REMEMBER YOU? HOW COULD I EVER FORGET SUCH A FRIEND AS YOU?
SHE DOES REMEMBER! AT LAST HER MEMORY IS RESTORED!
HOW KUM, YOU'VE DONE IT! "HOW COME," I CANNOT SAY! A MIRACLE, PERHAPS!
PERHAPS, BUT NOT OF MY CREATION!
I'VE FELT FOR YEARS THAT, IN MANY ARTS OF HEALING, MORE KNOWLEDGE HAS BEEN LOST THROUGH THE AGES THAN HAS BEEN GAINED!
WAIT TILL ALL THOSE BRAIN SPECIALISTS WE HAD HERE, WHO GAVE UP ON ANNIE, HEAR WHAT YOU'VE JUST DONE!
TO SPEAK OF THIS WOULD SERVE NO USEFUL PURPOSE!
THE SPECIALISTS YOU CALLED ARE SKILLED AND DEDICATED MEN! THEY, AS ONE, WOULD SAY ANNIE HAD A SMALL BRAIN CLOT THAT, OF ITSELF, DISSOLVED ......
...OR, THAT A SMALL NERVE WAS SLIGHTLY DAMAGED AND REGAINED IT'S FUNCTION, UNAIDED! PERHAPS THEY'D BE RIGHT. ALL THAT MATTERS IS THAT ANNIE'S MIND IS WHOLE AGAIN!
I CLAIM NO SPECIAL POWER ... ONLY LUCK ... THAT I COULD BE PRESENT TO WITNESS ANNIE'S RECOVERY! SO ... NOW I LEAVE!
OH, UNCLE HOW KUM! DO Y'HAFTA GO? YOU KNOW SO MANY WONDERFUL STORIES! YOU'LL COME BACK AGAIN SOON, WON'T YOU, UNCLE?
WHO CAN SAY, MY CHILD? BUT WE WILL EVER BE NEAR IN OUR MEMORIES!
"IN OUR MEMORIES"! I B'LIEVE HE SURE GAVE ME BACK MY MEMORY!
A HUMBLE MAN, AS ARE ALL THE TRULY WISE ONES!

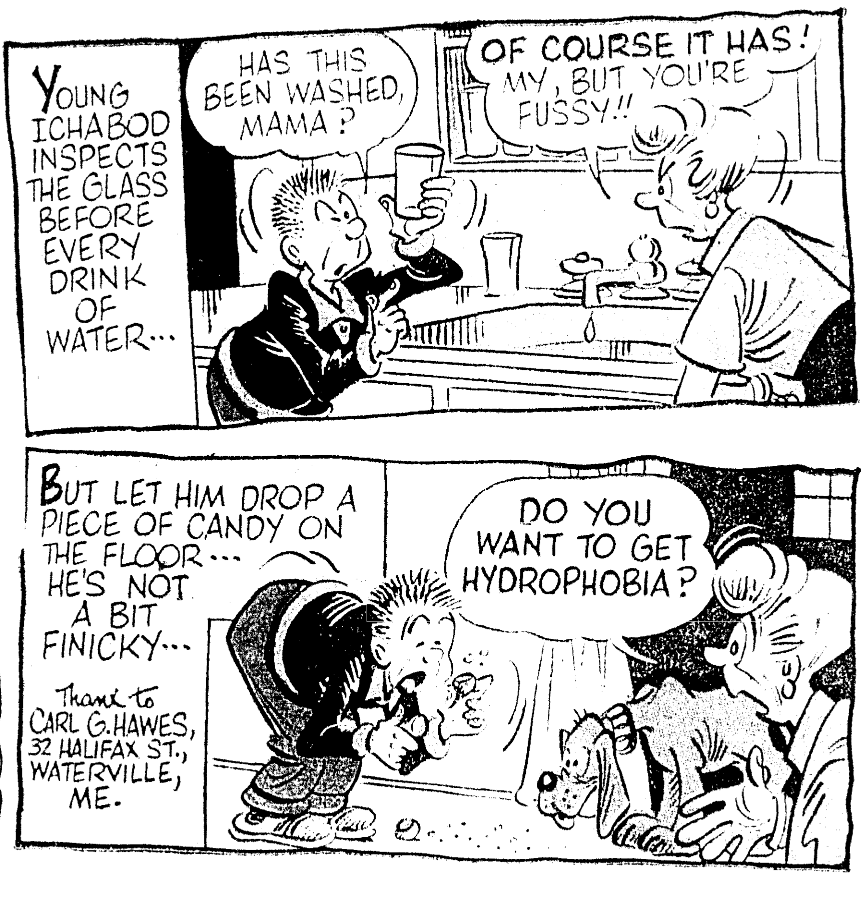
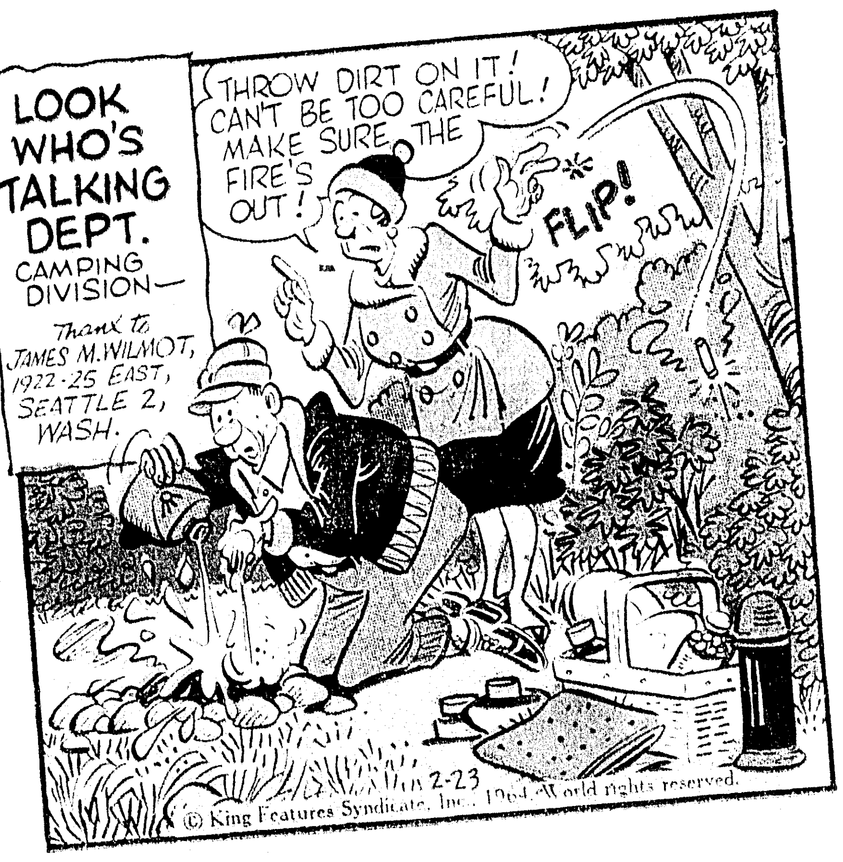
THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME® By JIMMY HATLO
HATLO'S HISTORY
THE PEOPLE OF JAMESTOWN, VA. (SETTLED IN 1607) GET WORD THAT MORE SETTLERS HAVE LANDED ON PLYMOUTH ROCK, 1620 ...
SAIL BIG CANOE.. MANY PEOPLE LIKE US...CROSS OCEAN...LAND IN MASSASOIT TERRITORY.. THAT'S UP NORTH... THAT MUST BE THE PLYMOUTH COMPANY...
DID YOU HEAR THAT? WE GET THINGS GOING REAL NICE IN THIS NEW LAND, AND NOW EVERYBODY WANTS TO HORN IN!
I SUPPOSE THEY'LL EXPECT US TO DRIVE UP TO SEE THEM IN A WELCOME WAGON... THEY SHOULD LIVE SO LONG! GIVE THAT TYPE AN INCH AND THEY'LL TAKE AN ACRE!!
THIS PLACE IS OVERCROWDED NOW! WHY DON'T THOSE PLYMOUTH SOCIAL CLIMBERS STAY WHERE THEY BELONG?!
IF CAPT. SMITH WAS ON HIS TOES INSTEAD OF LOLLYGAGGIN' WITH THAT POCAHONTAS, HE WOULDN'T HAVE LET 'EM LAND AT ALL...
WHAT'S HE TRYING TO TELL US?
Thanx to JOHN MELVILLE JENNINGS, P.O. BOX 7287, RICHMOND 21, VA.
JIMMY HATLO



YOUNG ICHABOD INSPECTS THE GLASS BEFORE EVERY DRINK OF WATER...
HAS THIS BEEN WASHED, MAMA?
OF COURSE IT HAS! MY, BUT YOU'RE FUSSY!!
BUT LET HIM DROP A PIECE OF CANDY ON THE FLOOR... HE'S NOT A BIT FINICKY...
DO YOU WANT TO GET HYDROPHOBIA?
Thanx to CARL G. HAWES, 32 HALIFAX ST., WATERVILLE, ME.



LOOK WHO'S TALKING DEPT.
